Two Newark lightweights staged a lively battle in the opening preliminary of four rounds, Red Needham gained the popular verdict over Harry Prahl, who took counts in the third and fourth rounds. Needham weighed 128 and Prahl 130.

In the second preliminary, a six-round bout, Joe Burton, of Paterson, N. J., decisively outpointed Jack Ritchie, of Newark, according to the ringside verdict. Ritchie weighed 141 and Burton 142.

The third preliminary was over before the crowd had settled back into its seats, Lew Chester, of Brooklyn, knocking out "Happy" Bankart, of Newark after only a minute and 14 seconds of the first round had elapsed. A short right uppercut sent Bankart down for the final count. Chester weighed 144 and his opponent 141 1-2 pounds.

Paul Berlenbach, New York middleweight sensation whose knockout streak was stopped recently by Jack Delaney, staged a comeback when he knocked out Harry Krohn, of Akron, Ohio, in the fourth round of a ten-round match, semi-final to the Stribling-McTigue title contest.

Berlenbach had Krohn groggy under a bombardment from the start but was wild and missed chances to put over a finishing blow. Krohn, bleeding from the mouth and from cuts about his face, finally went down after 1 minute and 45 seconds of the fourth round after making a futile attempt to rally. Berlenbach weighed 165 and Krohn 171.

SANCROFT'S PROBLEM WITH BRAVES NOT EASY

By Stoney McLinn

St Petersburg, Fla., March 29. — David John Bancroft, at odd times rated the National League's leading shortstop, may be wondering whether J. J. McGraw and fate combined to play a trick on him. That thought suggests itself to the person who watches the Braves at practice at their spring camp in the Sunshine City.

Danny is the manager of the Boston Braves—a big league boss at the age of 32. He has two employers who are among the finest in the game—Christy Mathewson, former pitching great, and Judge Emil Fuchs, prince of good fellows.

Boston starts the season with two experienced infielders who will perform their labors in the big league style—Stuffy McInnis on first and Bancroft himself at shortstop.

For the outfield he has four veterans—Stengel and Cunningham, the former Giants, and Cruise and Nixon, players with years of experience who have had their day. A couple of youngsters of uncertain ability are available.

Two pitchers from way back, Richard Marquard and Jesse Barnes, former McGraw stars, are the veteran chuckers. The others, with possibly one exception, have much to learn about big league mound habits.

The catching staff possibly will cause the new manager less worry than any other department of his club. Mickey O'Neill and Earl Smith have served their apprenticeship and rank fairly high among backstoppers. Frank Gibson, with the Braves last season, is learning the answers and Cousineau, former Fordham star, is a good prospect.

Fortunately, the Boston management and fans appear to realize that the Braves' young manager has material which is scarcely first-division, even were a John Joseph McGraw at the helm. They want Danny to do the best he can this year, show that he has a managerial head on his shoulders, and build for the future.

The infield that will start the season probably will be McInnis on first Cotton Tierney on second, Bancroft at short and Johnny Kelleher on third base. All have had major league experience—Kelleher is the only player under thirty—and he is twenty-nine years old.

Tierney divided his efforts between the Pittsburgh and Philadelphia clubs season. He is a first-rate hitter—his average last campaign was .311. But he does not cover much ground defensively and his arm is on the wane.

Kelleher is one of the diamond "Handy Andys" who for two seasons played any position to which he was assigned by Bill Killefer, manager of the Cubs. Boston purchased Kelleher from Chicago.

The Braves miss Broekel, who was a good ball player and a fine chap to have on a team. But they claim that Kelleher is a better hitter—batted .305 last season as compared with Boeckel's .297—and that Johnny will stop 'em at the hot corner equally as well as Tony did.

Anyhow, the infield will likely be made up of the four veterans mentioned. It will smash the apple, if the quartet lives up to past performances. In 1923 McInnis hit .315, Tierney .311, Kelleher .305 and Bancroft .304.

Maybe Danny will carry six outfielders and plan to use three left-handed hitters when a right-arm pitcher is opposing the Braves, and three right-hand club swingers when a southpaw is checking the apple for the enemy. He has the combinations.

Stengel, Bagwell and Cruise are batters who stand on the off-side of the plate. Casey hit .339 for the Giants last year, not to mention two sensational homers in the World Series.

Cruise was almost worthless last season—his crash percentage was .311. But a surgical operation which he endured last fall may have provided him with old-time vim and vigor. Bagwell is an awkward lad who can slam the b. b. he hit .358 for Worcester last season—but he's not much against southpaws and is an ordinary fielder.

Cunningham, perhaps, is the better of the trio of right-hand hitting outfielders. He batted .270 for the Giants. He is a good fielder. Felix and Nixon, both with the Braves last season and both a few above .270 in the basehit section, would complete the outfield which stood on the third-base side of the home plate.

There is a half-pint of baseball talent in the Sunshine City practice park in the person of Robert G. Emmerich. He is about the size of the thumb on the hand of Lutzke. Cleveland's third-sacker. He stands 5:03 1-2 weights about half as much as Babe Ruth.

But the kid is a ball hawk and in 148 Eastern Lague games last season, he batted .325. If he sticks on the Boston payroll, he may be sent in when a base on balls is needed, even if he doesn't play the outfield. He bats the right way.

The pitching staff, coached by Dick Rudolph is rather promising for the future. Marquard, southpaw, and Jess Barnes, right-hander, won eleven and thirteen games respectively last year—the Rube lost fourteen; Jess was licked fifteen times. Not an impressive record for either vet.

Cooney, a very rare bird in the pitching profession—a southpaw with control—also gets plenty boosting in the training base. He was a member of the Braves' corps last season—won three and lost five—but has improved.

Tim McNamara, former Fordham College star, employs the right arm. He stood on the hill in a few big league battles last year. His official record was three victories and thirteen defeats. But Rudolph declares that Tim has learned some lessons and will go better this year.

Larry Benton, another youth who throws the right way and who received a semi-monthly pay check from Boston throughout the '23 season, had a sore arm and was credited with only five wins, while he was charged with nine losses. His work in St. Pete has been good.

Sterling Stryker, a knuckle ball chucker who won 26 and lost 11 throwing for Worcester; Jimmy Yearin, the boy who remained in Greenville last summer because that is his home, though he might have been with the Braves—he won 18 and lost nine in the South Atlantic—and Fral Lucas, left-hand pitcher, outfielder and toppy batsman, are throwers who exercised at the spring camp of the Braves.

SPORT WORLD BRIEFS

Pitcher Sylvester Niles has been sold by Spartanburg of the South Atlantic League to Indianapolis.

Jack Hendricks, manager of the Cincinnati Reds, has released Joe Auback, the Louisville semi-pro pitcher.

The Texas Association season will begin April 23 and close August 24, according to the schedule just adopted by the directors.

Clude Dar. Bement, Ill., and Jimmy Watts, Panora, Ill., pitchers, have signed with the Dubuque Mississippi Valley League club.

Karl Black, left-handed pitcher, who has been a Tulsa holdout, has come to terms and reported at the Marin camp of the Oilers.

Emil Huhn, manager of the Mobile Club, has been confined to a hospital with tonsilitis. During his absence Emmet Mulvey is in charge of the team.

Thirty-five minor leagues will be in operation this year, according to the records of Secretary John H. Farrell of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues.

Jack Wakefield, a young infielder, who was a star athlete at Vanderbilt University last year, was lost to the St. Louis Cardinals when he fractured his left leg in practice.

Roxey Middleton, an outfielder, has accepted terms with the Albany Club of the Eastern League. Middleton played with Columbia and Gastonia in the South Atlantic League last year.

The names of Arthur Nordquist, a pitcher from Rockford and Dick Wages, an infielder from Omaha, have been added to the roster of the Dubuque Club of the Mississippi Valley League.

President Leopold of the Galveston Club has turned John Miljus back to Brooklyn. He says Miljus wanted more money than he received last year with the Rochester Club of the International League.

Discussion of the proposed trip of the Giants and White Sox to Europe after the close of the 1924 pennant races, has been postponed until the arrival of the clubs in Chicago for exhibition games, April 13 and 14.

Fort Smith of the Western Association may become a farm for the St. Paul Club of the American Association. It is said Fort Smith is dissatisfied with the working agreement with the St. Louis Cardinals.

Neal Brady has obtained his release from the Birmingham Club of the Southern League and has signed to pitch for the Ludlow team of the Kentucky, Indiana and Ohio League. Brady, who lives in Ludlow, has had several flings at the major league game and for a number of years was with Toledo of the American Association.

PALACE THEATRE

Did you see "East is West" at the Palace last night, No? Well you missed a treat as the season. Never has there been a better play produced here, and when you stop to think that it was given at popular prices you wonder how Mr. Champlin could afford to present such a magnificent production at those prices. But that is the secret of Charles K. Champlin's success. He has always been a great popular favorite in Norwich and his popularity is lasting. Why? Because Charlie never fools the public. He more than lives up to what he advertises and he always gives his patrons the best plays obtainable and puts them on equally as good if not better than most of the "so-called" $2.00 attractions that tour the country. The house was crowded to the doors to say the play was good would be putting it mildly. It was simply short of masterly, and every scene from round after round of applause. "East is West" is no secret to hundreds of those attending last evening. In a prologue and three acts, the company developed the plot in brilliant fashion. Scenic effects proved lavish and those of the production showed ability almost beyond comparison. Mr. Champlin knows this business. The "love boat" in China, the purchase of the "Sing Song Girl" her year in America, her transfer to Billy Benson's home, her beautiful love for the American, his rescue from the tong man's knife and finally the surprise of the play—the knowledge that the girl is white, not Oriental, and may wed the American, fearing none. All these and the many other anti-climaxes were pictured in true fashion. Supporting this producer of Broadway successes at popular prices this year is a company of performers the peer of any on the stage and more Mr. Champlin has introduced here in his twenty-odd years of visiting. Needless to say Mr. Champlin heads his own company, while the feminine leads in his midst are exceptional vehicles are entrusted to Jessie Hazel Baker. Behold the last evening her a young woman who knew whereof she spoke and when she remarked to her friend that Miss Baker, as "Ming Toy," is "cute" we knew in a twinkling that she had summed up the whole situation in a word. Her every movement, her every expression, her every syllable, her every motion, is laden with meaning of that calibre which only a true star of the stage can portray. Seldom has it been our privilege to witness a portrayal of so difficult a role as that of "Ming Toy," with such ease, grace, charm and true ability. We shall eagerly await her appearance this evening in "The Love Child." This is the play that ran all last season at the George M. Cohan Theatre in New York. Mr. Champlin in his announcement from the stage said that tonight's play was one of the very highest undertakings his company had ever handled. Mr. Champlin said he would give his personal guarantee that he would give his patrons a $9.50 production of this wonderful play.

MAKERS OF FINE CANDIES

Schrafft's is not a new name in New Englanders. As far back as 1861, Schrafft's candies were being made, with an old-time, thoroughgoing attention to quality that has been a distinguishing mark of Schrafft's ever since.

Today, the quality of Schrafft's chocolates is a matter of household knowledge throughout New England while every year sees new chocolate creations—new packages—new assortments, from Schrafft's.

One of the most popular of Schrafft's recent packages is the Luxury Chest, a rich, distinctive gift-box containing an assortment of Schrafft's finest achievements in chocolate making. This is the package featured in current advertising.

Throughout this year's big newspaper advertising campaign, is reflected the long-established prestige the name of Schrafft has enjoyed in New England. Every advertisement carries the legend, "Makers of Fine Candies since the Days of Lincoln"—reminding old friends that this is the same Schrafft's whose candies have been well and favorably known to the last three generations of New Englanders—and making new friends for Schrafft's special goodness and flavor.

Exceptional Show at the Broadway

What proved to be the finest show of the year was presented at the Broadway theatre yesterday to a capacity audience and will continue through Wednesday.

The Keith vaudeville scheduled opened with Annie and Eddie Pritchard, America's foremost juvenile dancers. It is the best kiddie act seen here in some time.

Alexander and Peggy in the skit African Chop Suey by Eugene J. W. Conrad, followed. These blackface comedians scored a decided hit.

The Musketeers in a singing novelty with comedy by George Botsford. This quartette cannot be compared to any singing combination ever presented in this city. They stand head and shoulders above them all. They ate headlines without doubt. Several encores were given due to the persistant applause.

Arthur Hill and Marie Quinnel in Fun in a Park made a very fine closing number that pleased them all.

A genuine treat was enjoyed by a large audience at the Strand theatre when Yesterday's Wife, the screen version of Evelyn Campbell's s

NEW LONDON CITY MANAGER NAMES CAVANAUGH TO SUCCEED HAMMOND

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, March 31.—Contrary to expectations, City Manager William A. Holt today appointed Patrolman John J. Cavanaugh street sergeant, to take the place made vacant by the recent demotion of Sergeant Charles Hammond, who was charged by Lieutenant Benjamin Beebe with having been guilty of drinking while on duty on the night of the 16th inst. The appointment came as a big surprise to members of the department, who were aware that Captain Charles A. Finney favored the appointment of Patrolman William Babcock, who was appointed acting sergeant following the suspension of Hammond by Captain Finney the night that the charges were made against the sergeant. Cavanaugh will begin his duties tomorrow afternoon going on duty at 3 o'clock and concluding his work at 11 o'clock. Acting Sergeant Babcock will go back to his patrol of the beat on the north side of State street, while Hammond has been assigned to duty from 7 o'clock in the evening until 3 o'clock in the morning. He will do traffic duty at the corner of State and Bank streets from 7 until 9 o'clock and the balance of the night he will patrol Bank street from State to Sparyard street.

It is known that Babcock's appointment was recommended by Captain Finney, on the ground that the acting sergeant was the best qualified of members of the force for the job. However, the city manager evidently believed that Cavanaugh was the best man for the position, therefore making the appointment. Cavanaugh has been on the force about eight years, while Babcock has been doing police duty since 1919. Both officers have performed motorcycle duty during the summer season when not assigned to regular patrol duty.

Captain Finney late today issued instruction for Patrolmen William Babcock and George Laboue to begin motorcycle duty Tuesday. It was anticipated that Babcock would receive the appointment of sergeant and Laboue was put through a course of instruction for the purpose of taking Babcocks place as a motorcycle officer. With Babcock failing to land the promotion, he will continue as motorcycle officer and Laboue will take the place of Patrolman Cavanaugh, who received the promotion today. A third supernumerary will also be assigned to duty tomorrow, the officer being John Sheridan. He will be assigned to the Howard street beat together with intersecting streets, to Montauk avenue as far as Bank street.

Tomorrow two supernumerary officers, Jeremiah Murphy and Thomas Lyden will be assigned to duty, until such time as the vacations of the officers terminate. Murphy will be assigned to Vauxhall and Broad streets and intermediate streets while Lyden will be assigned to the beat on the north end of Pequot avenue and the Fort Neck district.

Patrick McKelligatt, who claims to reside in Amherst, Mass., and who came to New London in an effort to locate his father, was committed to the Norwich State Hospital for the insane this afternoon by City Physician George F. Cheney. McKelligatt, who is about 27, visited the office of the physician on Montauk avenue shortly after 1 o'clock and his actions were such that the physician decided the young man should be placed under observation at once at the Norwich institution. McKelligatt was accompanied to the hospital by Captain of Police Charles A. Finney and Patrolman Augustus Ray.

Miss Marjorie McBride of Truman street, Mrs. Robert Goodfellow of Farnsworth street, Mrs. George Strickland and infant son of Colver street, Mrs. William Montigny of Willetts avenue, Mrs. John Maiona of Waterford, Mrs. Samuel Rogers and infant daughter of Ashcraft road, Mrs. William Burgess and infant son of Groton, John Thomas of Westerly and Chester Johnson of Jefferson avenue, patients at Lawrence hospital, were discharged today.

Mrs. Ellen Beatrice Enright Touchette, wife of John H. Touchette, died Sunday night at her home, 71 Pequot avenue, death being caused by a weakened condition of the vital organs produced by paralysis with which she had been afflicted for four years. Mrs. Touchette was the daughter of the late Morris and Ellen Nellan Enright and was a native of New London, in which city she had resided the greater part of her life. Besides her husband, Mrs. Touchette is survived by two daughters, Misses Ruth and Helen Touchette and by two sisters, Mrs. Mary Coleman and Miss Elizabeth Enright, all of New London.

Two New London autoists lost their right to operate machines today when Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel suspended the licenses of John Rydel 603 Main street, and George J. Keenan, 141 Winthrop street. Rydel a fortnight ago operated his machine at Norwich. The car contained occupants who were in attendance at a christening. The machine crashed against a telephone pole with the result that one of the occupants died from injuries. Rydel is being held for trial on a charge of manslaughter.

Barney Harrahan, the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad section road hand, who was struck and instantly killed in the Midway yard Saturday night by a fast passenger [illegible] in Providence. The body has been forwarded to that [illegible] Harrahan's sister, Mrs. Delaney resides at 53 John street.

Thomas R. Powers of 153 Shaw street, died Saturday night at the residence of William J. Borden of 147 Bank street, where Mr. Powers had resided several weeks, since his health became impaired. Mr. Powers was of advanced years and was employed here many years as a coachman. He is survived by a sister, Mrs. Ellen Cronin of Worcester, Mass.

William H. Wemore was fined $10 for intoxication and for creating a disturbance at the Learned Mission, the execution of judgment being suspended for five months.

Annie Cuddy, formerly of Montville, forfeited a bond of $30 which she deposited when she was arrested Sunday evening for intoxication.

Stephen Crouch, a Ledyard farmer, offered a new excuse in the police court this morning for not having obtained a license to operate an automobile though he persisted in running his car from his home here to carry on his farm business of selling produce. Crouch said to the court that he would have secured a license if he had the money to do so, "but," he continued, "you know is hard to get any money back in the country, so I held off application for the license." Crouch's license had expired he realized it, but like many others, he took a chance and lost out. He was fined $5; the amount prescribed for failing to have the license in his possession. [illegible] offense of not having secured a license the story would have been a different one.

Stephen J. Morris of New Haven was fined $25 for heedlessness that was regarded by the law as reckless-ness in operating his car to the bridge at East New London. He did not have any mishap, but that was not because he was careful. A state policeman held up Morris and ordered him to court. He was defended by a New Haven attorney.

The automobile owned and operated by Jeremiah Twomey, 57 Garfield avenue, and a machine owned and driven by L. O. Hawkins of 49 Franklin street, Norwich, were in collision late this afternoon at the corner of Main and Federal street. Both automobiles were damaged slightly.

Clarence Merrill, colored, aged about 25, was arrested tonight by Deputy Sheriff J. H. Tubbs, charged with bastardy, the warrant being issued by the authorities of New Haven. Merrill is at the police station and will be given a hearing tomorrow. The complainant in the case is now a resident of New Haven and alleges that Merrill is the father of a child born to her. Merrill has since married and is residing with his wife in New London, according to his assertion.

Mrs. Elisha M. Risley, 23 Shapley street, reported to the police late this afternoon that her son, Herbert, 17, was missing from home, having disappeared Sunday afternoon. While the police were instituting a search for the young man and endeavoring to ascertain where he had gone to, Mrs. Risley informed the authorities that her son had returned home.

Lieut. Benjamin Beebe returned to his desk at the police station tonight, his return being made possible because of a decided improvement in the condition of his wife, who suffered a sinking spell at her home on School street Friday night.

An automobile owned by John MacArthur, while parked in front of the owner's place of business, 107 Bank street this afternoon, was damaged by being run into by an automobile, the owner of which has not been determined. The colliding car caused a bent mudguard to the MacArthur machine besides causing a blow-out of the left rear tire. MacArthur obtained the marker number, which was L-30 and has lodged complaint with the police alleging evasion of responsibility against the driver.

One of the large tank trucks of the Standard Oil company in rounding the corner of State and Washington streets this afternoon struck and slightly damaged a traffic beacon, the signal also being forced out of position.

Reuben Lubchansky of Richards street, a carpenter, was arrested late last night upon complaint of Martin Sullivan of Mountain avenue and Stephen Stublik of Potter street, who charged Lubchansky with assault. Lubchanskys wife, Ida, became surety on the accused's bond of $100 for his appearance in the police court this morning. When presented, the case against Lubchansky was continued until next Monday.

During Sunday afternoon a youth named Richmann went to Lubchansky's garage and took possession of the latter's automobile and without permission of the owner. Richman then, according to the complainants, invited the two young men to accompany him for a ride, Sullivan and Stublik declaring that they did not know who owned the car. The trio went to Norwich and other places, returning to New London about 11 o'clock. When the car reached the garage Lubchansky was waiting. On the three youths alighting, Richmann fled, but Sullivan and Stublik remained. Lubchansky is then alleged to have beaten both and to have struck Stublik with a stone. Richmann was later taken into custody, but when he admitted taking the automobile Lubchansky refused to enter a complaint against him and he was released. Sullivan and Stublik, however, refused to withdraw their complaint and insisted that Lubchansky be prosecuted as they declare they were ignorant that the automobile was used without the knowledge and consent of the owner.

Madison Ayers, the 13 year old youth, reported to the police Saturday night as missing from his home at 11 Tenth street by Mrs. Golden, with whom he resided, was located last night aboard a boat moored in Winthrop's Cove where he had gone to stay with his grandfather. The youth's mother is dead and the grandparents informed the police that it was optional with the youth whether the boy made his home aboard the boat or returned to the Golden home.

An automobile owned and driven by M. J. Mullin of New London was in collision with a machine, owned and operated by George P. White, of Milford, Conn., a member of the board of fire commissioners of that place, Saturday night at Milford. White and his passengers, Benjamin S. Snyder of the Benjamin S. Snyder company of Milford, were injured, both sustaining lacerations and wounds about the head and face. Both cars crashed through the highway fence alongside the road and were badly damaged. Mullins escaped injury.

Mrs. E. J. Haskell of 31 Bellevue place, Mrs. Daniel Shea of Westerly, James Lawrence of 34 Waller street and Mrs. Richard Roberts of Groton, patients at Home Memorial hospital, were dismissed today.

The will of Charles E. Rice has been filed in the probate court. The document, which was drawn Sept. 30, 1918, provides for Mr. Rice's entire estate to be converted to cash and the money divided between the testator's widow and two children, Walter C. and Herriet E. Rice, excepting $500, which is bequeathed to the testator's sister. The will was witnessed by Warren C. Burrows, Thomas C. Dillon and Alice Mitchell. Mr. Rice's widow is named executrix of the estate without bonds. The amount of the estate it is believed, will be close to $25,000.

Joseph, the six months old son of Mr. and Mrs. Toufie Fakourey, died at the home of his parents, 75 Blinman street, Saturday. The funeral was this afternoon, with burial in St. Mary's cemetery.

Arthur H. Gager, treasurer of the firm of Gager-Crawford company, is confined to his home at Best View, Waterford, ill with pneumonia.

Miss Viola Mowry has returned home after spending the week end with Providence friends.

John Mitchell, formerly of New London, now residing at Cambridge, Mass, is being entertained by Mr and Mrs. Charles B. Gardner at the Golden Spur.

Mr. and Mrs. James Bartley have returned to their home in Lancaster, Ohio, concluding a visit with Mrs. Bartleys mother, Mrs. Julia Sheehan.

Perkins-Colburn Engagement

Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Colburn of Mansfield Center announce the engagement of their daughter, Marjorie Louise to Howard Emory Perkins of Hartford.

HOPKINTON

A caucus of the republican electors of the town of Hopkinton was held at the town hall Wednesday evening, March 26th, for the purpose of electing delegates to the state and second congressional district convention to be held in Providence April 7th to elect delegates to the national convention in Cleveland, Ohio. Although the evening was very stormy eleven electors were present, three of them women, from Hope Valley. Henry J. Wheeler, of the republican town committee, read the call for the caucus. Everett P. Mathewson was elected chairman and John J. Greene, secretary. Samuel R. Avery, representative; Everett P. Mathewson, Mrs. Julia F. Bailey and Henry J. Wheeler were chosen delegates to both conventions.

The many friends of Dr. James N. Lewis, of East Greenwich, formerly a practicing physician in Ashaway, were pleased to meet him as a visitor in town last week.

In the blinding snowstorm Wednesday afternoon, the bus used to transport the Hopkinton City school children to Ashaway school and driven by Halsey C. Kenyon, collided with the Ford coach of Clifford Palmer of Rockville, near Wellstown bridge. No one was injured. A front wheel crushed and an axle bent on the Ford car and scratched fender on the bus resulted from the accident.

The eighty-second birthday of Mrs. Hannah Brown was celebrated at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gardner Arganarski, Sunday afternoon, March 23.

John Arnold ran over and killed a deer Sunday, March 23. The deer jumped over a wall near the residence of M. Herbert Kenyon in front of Mr. Arnold's automobile.

Thomas A. Grieve and family of Norwich, spent Sunday at the home of Daniel E. Blake. Master Allan Grieve spent his school vacation last week at the home of his grandfather, Mr. Blake.

Deacon Roger W. Lewis is reported as doing as well as could be expected after a second critical operation at a Providence hospital.

William Weber and Elwood Eccleston were returning home from Westerly Saturday evening when their automobile ran into a ditch and struck a telephone pole near Dewey park. The machine overturned and pinned them under it, but both escaped with cuts and bruises.

COLUMBIA

Cleveland Collins and his sister, Miss Leora Collins of East Hartford, spent the week end with their mother, Mrs. Warren A. Collins, at her home on Columbia Green.

Mrs. Juna Belle Squier is taking a few days' vacation from her duties at the Mansfield Training School and hospital and is at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James A. Utley.

As eggs are plentiful and cheap at present, the prudent housewife is preserving a supply for use next winter, when they will be scarce.

With the passing of winter some of the roads in town, one in need of repairs, which is being promptly and ably attended to by First Selectman J. N. Clarke, and his assistants.

A short but sharp electrical storm, the first of the season visited Columbia Saturday at midnight, terminating a day of very disagreeable weather.

Rev. Charles C. Haun preached on Sunday morning an able Palm Sunday sermon, on the text "Crowds", referring to the crowd which accompanied Christ in his triumphal entry into Jerusalem, proclaiming him taeir king, and crucifying him the following week.

MOHEGAN PARK ANIMALS SUFFERED DURING WINTER

The roads and paths in Mohegan Park are rapidly becoming better for travel and with a few more days of sunshine the roadbed should become hardened sufficient to stand the increased traffic which comes with the arrival of spring.

The animals at the park have survived the winter remarkably well but there has been some loss by killings. The two monkeys, Jennie and Mary, are alive and happy and the peacock is ready to show his adornments to the public. The pheasants suffered a loss in numbers due to inroads made by a mink which also killed a number of chickens. The ducks, rabbits, geese and guinea hens have also suffered, a number of fowl being carried off during the winter by hawks.

Superintendent Peter Ver Steeg is ill with an attack of grip and is at present at the Backus hospital recovering rapidly. During his illness the work at the park has been ably taken care of by his assistant, Louis Trip.

Men and women have more faith in each other than they have in their own sex.

POETRY

Response.

I.

Like Crusoe with the hoofless gold on strand
Upon the desert verges of death, and say
What shall avail the woes of yesterday
To buy tomorrow's wisdom, is the sad
Woman currency in strange lands used and banned?
In life's small market they had rarely to pay
Some late-found rapture could we but delay
Till Time hath matched our means to our demand.
But otherwise Fate wills it, for, behold!
Our gathered strength of individual pain
When Time's long alchemy hath made it gold,
Dies with unhoarded all those years to gain
Since them that might be heir to it the mould
Returns, and coin themselves new griefs again.

II.

O Death, we come full-handed to thy gate,
Rich with despair beaten of the mingled fight,
Calms and renunciation, mirth and hate
And love's oblivion, and remember late
Nor know we what compulsion held each tight
Upon our souls—and shall our hopes and fears
Buy nothing at thine high Death? Behold we grasp
And sell on the one joy for which to wait.
Had we lived longer, life had such for sale,
With the last coin of sorrow purchased cheap.
But now we stand before thy shadowy pale,
And all our longings lie within thy keep—
Death, can it be the years shall naught avail?
"Not so," Death answered, "they shall purchase sleep."

—Edith Wharton.

An April Girl

The girl that is born on an April day
Has a right to be merry, lighteome and gay;
And this is the reason I dance and play
And frisk like a mote in a sunny ray—
Wouldn't you
Do it too
If you had been born on an April day?

The girls of March love notes and frags
And sweet as blossoms are girls of May;
But I belong to the time mid-way,
And so I rejoice in a sunny spray
Of smiles and tears and hap-aday—
Wouldn't you
Do it too
If you had been born on an April day?

Heighe! and hurrah! for an April day,
Its cloud, its sparkle, its skip and stay!
I mean to be happy whenever I may,
And cry when I must—for that's my way
Wouldn't you
Do it too
If you had been born on an April day?

Stenographer—It's not wasted. I've only been here six months and I'm already engaged to the junior partner.—Legion Weekly.

Small Edna was out driving with her parents one afternoon. She was much interested in watching the road. After a while, as they began driving faster, she exclaimed: "Oh, look out, mother, the road is coming!"—Chicago News.

Mrs. Brown (to new maid)—Well, Nora, I hope we shall get along very nicely; I'm not at all difficult to please.

Nora—No, mum. That's what I thought the very minute I set eyes on the master.—London Humorist.

Just mark that letter "confidential," said Senator Sorghum to his secretary.

But the person to whom you are writing is a leaky proposition.

I know that. I'd like publicity for this letter, and I want it to seem as interesting and important as possible.—Washington Star.

My Gift to You

The white facial clay I use
By Edna Wallace Hopper

After 40 years as a famous beauty, I still look like a girl. Thousands who see me daily, on the stage and elsewhere, marvel at my youthful bloom and contours.

But mine was largely a cultivated beauty. French beauty experts, many years ago, taught me how to do it. And my girlish looks at my grand old age are due to the help French scientists created.

I have supplied those helps to countless women, and they secured like results. Plain women became beauties. Women old in years have warded off every sign of age. So I know these helps can bring to millions what they crave. And I have decided to supply those helps to all who wish to use them.

First, new-type clay

Many years ago French experts taught me to use clay. They said that famous beauties of all ages had employed it.

They then used crude and muddy clays, like many use today. But they have since perfected clay by 30 years of scientific study.

By countless tests they have found the supreme clay, a rare mineral-laden clay. They have learned how to refine it, to remove the useless mud. My clay today is white and clean and dainty. They have found added factors which bring new and manifold results.

The clay I now use—my White Youth Clay—is nothing like the old-time clays. I have used clays for many years, but no other clay has ever brought comparable results. So now I am having this new-type clay made for all who wish to use it.

You must use clay

Clay is essential to beauty at its best. It brings new beauty, and at once. Many women, in 30 minutes, seem to drop ten years. I have seen it make plain women almost raving beauties. Clay users stand out everywhere for their beautiful complexions.

How it restores and maintains one's youthful bloom and contour is shown by my girlish face.

Youth Clay purges the skin of all that clogs and mars it. It acts to remove the cause of sallowness, blackheads and blemishes.

It brings the blood to the skin to nourish and revive it. That brings the rosy afterglow, so amazing when you see it.

It firms the skin, combats all lines and wrinkles, reduces enlarged pores. Thus it gives my skin, even at my age, the smoothness and bloom of a girl.

No matter what your age, the greatest kindness I can do you is to urge you to employ it. If young, do it for added beauty. If older, do it to renew your youth.

Edna Wallace Hopper's Youth Clay is now supplied by all druggists and toilet counters. Price, 50c and $1 per tube. Also my Youth Cream, which should follow the clay. Also my Facial Youth, my famous liquid cleanser. Also my Hair Youth, to which I owe my heavy, lustrous hair. My Beauty Book comes with each.

I guarantee that any will delight you. If the first package fails to, your dealer will return its price.

MARKET WAS DULL.

New York, March 31.—Stock prices showed marked improvement in today's dull session. For several weeks in succession, speculators for the decline have staged a Monday reaction, apparently for the effect it would have on price movements the rest of the week, but today they encountered stronger resistance and finally abandoned their attempt, the subsequent short covering indicating an oversold condition in many parts of the list.

Bullish sentiment was encouraged by Washington reports that the end of the senate oil inquiry was in sight and that the senate finance committee would complete its tax revision work this week. Apparently little attention was paid to the stiffer call money rate which opened at 5 per cent. and soon advanced to 5 1-2.

Early selling pressure was concentrated on the independent steels, new 1924 lows being established by Bethlehem, Crucible, Republic, Gulf States and Sloss Sheffield. All these stocks recovered their losses, however, Crucible showing a net gain of almost 2 points at the close.

New low records also were made by nearly two score additional stocks, including Hayes Wheel, Fisk Rubber, common and first preferred, Cluett Peabody, Anaconda Copper, Western Union, Brooklyn Edison, Western Maryland, common and second preferred, Lima Locomotive and International Combustion Engineering.

Widespread comment was aroused by the temporary weakness of American Telephone, which dropped 8 1-2 points to 118, the lowest this year, on rumors of new financing. The stock, which is the most widely held on the "big board" rallied nearly 2 points on official denials of the rumors.

Fresh buying of General Electric, apparently based on the showing made in the 1923 earnings report published today, where it was up 3 1-4 on the day. Corn products, another recent weak spot, also showed good recuperative powers, selling as high as 173 3-4, or nearly 12 points above last week's low.

U. S. Steel common, Baldwin and American Can all closed a point or so higher. Active short covering again took place in the leather issues, being particularly pronounced in Central Leather preferred, which touched 42 3-8 and then eased to 41 5-8 for a net gain of 2 5-8. A six point jump in Woolworth featured the specialty list.

Trading in the rails was somewhat irregular although most of the important price movements were upward. Norfolk and Western was again active at rising prices, touching 125 3-4 and then slipping back to 124 3-8, up 1 1-2. St. Paul preferred touched a new high at 22 3-8. Reading and New York Central each moved up about a point.

The time money market continued firm, with 4 1-2 per cent. bid for all loans up to 90 days and comparatively little money available below 4 3-4. Prime commercial paper rate was unchanged at 4 1-4.

The foreign exchange market showed a strong undertone. Demand sterling eased slightly to just below $4.30, but French francs were firm above 5.50 cents. Other European rates also improved

BOND MARKET.

New York, March 31.—Bond prices wavered in today's dull trading, with activity restricted to some extent by the renewal of call funds at 5 per cent and a subsequent advance to 5 1-2 per cent. Price movements were mixed in the railroad and industrial lists, with a few individual rail liens showing conspicuous strength and chemical issues yielding to selling pressure.

The first important foreign financing since the sale of the Japanese loan will be the offering tomorrow of $30,000,000 Swiss government 22 year 5 1-2 per cent. bonds at 97 1-2 to yield approximately 5.73 per cent. J. P. Morgan and company head the offering syndicate.

Speculative buying of the Belgian government 7 1-2 per cent bonds, based on hopes of drawing lucky numbers for redemption at 110 on June 1, was halted today with the announcement that the drawing had been completed. The obligations moved about a point below Saturday's high level.

Norfolk and Western convertible 6s, St. Paul, Denver and Rio Grande and Interborough issues advanced fractionally today but their gains were offset by weakness of American Agricultural 7 1-2s, which touched a new low at 91, Cuba Cane Sugar 8s, Virginia-Carolina 7 1-2s with warrants and U. S. Rubber 5s.

CURB MARKET.

New York, March 31.—Efforts of bear traders to unsettle today's curb market by offering down high priced shares in the early dealings met with little success and the list moved irregularly higher in the later trading but business was in relatively small volume.

Prairie Oil and Gas rallied from 230 1-2 to 237 and then dropped back to 234, where it was up 1 1-2 on the day.

Prairie Pipe, Swan and Finch, Standard Oil of Kansas and Cumberland Pipe also closed 1 to 2 points higher. Standard Oil of Indiana closed unchanged at 60 1-8. Vacuum was in moderate supply following publication of its annual report showing earnings of $5.45 a share, but it closed only 1-4 lower at 62. Revival of interest in New Mexican lond sent that stock above 9.

Changes in the industrial group were rather narrow, Dubilier Radio, Durant Motors, Lehigh Power securities and most of the other active issues moving to higher ground.

In the bond list, Swiss government 5s of 1926 yielded slightly, apparently in anticipation of the new financing which was announced after the market closed.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

Chicago, March 31.—All grain scored a material advance in price today after some uncertainty due to recent charges that the corn market had been subject to manipulation. Decrease of the visible supply both of corn and oats, and of wheat as well aided the upturn of values. Wheat closed strong, 7-8c to 1 3-8c net higher, May 1.02 1-4 to 1.02 3-8 and July 1.03 5-8 to 1.03 3-4, with corn 7-8c to 1 1-8c up and oats showing 5-8 to 7-8c rise. In provisions the outcome ranged from 2c decline to an equal gain.

Right from the start wheat displayed an upward tendency, but for quite a while failed to overcome the handicap resulting from nervousness in the corn market. However, belief gradually spread that price declines had about run their course and this belief received emphasis from reports that Italy had bought six million bushels of Canadian wheat in the last ten days. Then came announcement of 1,075,000 bushels falling off in the United States visible supply total, and with offerings light the wheat market readily ascended as the day neared the finish.

Rallies in the corn market were based largely on improved shipping demand from the east in addition to 904,000 bushels shrinkage of the visible supply. Besides, the movement of corn and in fact of all grain was expected to be small hereafter for at least several weeks, notably during the big rush of field work on farms.

The oats market was chiefly affected by reports of further delay to seeding. Indiana seeding was said to be two weeks behind, and as yet hardly begun.

Provisions, although dull, were upheld by firmness of hog values.

Three times a week for three weeks, brew a cup of Celery King, a purely vegetable laxative tea, and drink it just before retiring. Gently, yet effectively, it will drive out all impurities and not only make you feel better, but look better, giving you a sweet breath, clear skin and a healthy appetite—children like it.

Everyone needs a spring tonic.

WITH a few dollars' worth of Effecto Auto Enamel you can paint up the old bus and give friend wife a bigger thrill than she gets out of a new hat! Just brush it on the best you can and forget it. It will flow out and level up without brush marks. Twenty-four hours later you can drive out your car, resplendent in a full, beautiful finish that stays there longer than the paint on most new cars. Often, one coat will do the job. Come in, see the eight snappy colors and compare them for beauty and luster with any other auto enamel you have seen.

Presents the Play that set all Boston talking. The Greatest Story of a Woman's Sacrifice Ever Written

The LOVE CHILD

THE STORY OF "THE LOVE CHILD"

When a woman loves her boy even if he is an illegitimate son, to what depths will she go to defend him? Laura Thorne had kept secret the birth of her son for eighteen years because the man who had promised to marry her died when little Eugene was three years old, without keeping his promise. Laura is still a young woman when later she meets Paul Brander, whom she loves devotedly, and Paul idolizes Laura. Because of her great love for Paul she tells him the truth about Eugene. Paul in return confesses that he has a living wife, an inmate of an asylum for sixteen years, whom everyone, even his own daughter Helen, believes dead, for it was through the birth of Helen that his wife had become crazed. So Laura and Paul formed a compact to live together as man and wife. When Helen meets Eugene she falls in love with him, but Eugene does not love her. Laura Thorne has been waiting 17 years for her lover, Paul Brander, to get his release and wed her. Brander's insane wife dies, but he refuses to make Laura his wife. Laura's "love child" Eugene, prevents his mother from committing suicide. He entices Brander's daughter to his room, drugs her, then goes to Brander and demands that he do the square thing by Laura. Eugene says he will ruin the girl if Brander refuses. Then comes one of the greatest scenes ever written into any modern drama—a thunder climax! The language is simply beautiful and is handled in such a refined manner that it does not offend even the most prosaic.

ADMIRAL LANMAN PAPERS— PETER LANMAN'S LETTERS

Following are two of the interesting leters which the father of Admiral Joseph Lanman wrote to his son:

(Written by Peter Lanman to his Son .... Joseph Lanman.)

Norwich, Tuesday, September 19, 1854.

My dear Son:

I have great pleasure in the receipt of your favor of the 16th. and can assure you that although we find that old age blunts some of the sensibility of early life it does not remove even the feather edge of our desire to be remembered with kindness by those we love in Washington, and all others of our friends wherever scattered abroad into this Mundane Sphere. We all of us here wish to see you your dear ones of your family, but we have no desire to see you at the expense of your duty to your Government—We regret to hear that your old enemy continues his persecutions and we cannot but hope that, as in the case of your Aunt Huntington that time will afford you great alleviation. Your great Uncle Jonathan Trumbull said to one of his friends that "if we will live we must grow old"—it is very true & if there be any one benefit in the increase of years it is right to record it—"there are many ills which we suffer in the body unaccounted for & it is impossible for us to give a reasonable account for the difference in the palpitation of the heart with a man at the age of eighty-three and a young man of eighteen—the one oppressively painful and the other rather pleasurable.

I notice in your letter the increase of men in the Navy Yard which must of course increase your own care and duty—I have thought much of you & had my fears that the sending the National Intelligencer might take time which you might require for something of more importance—If so—please discontinue it & as regards the Evening Star—when the time expires of the term for which you paid the postage, be pleased to stop it. I have not the time to read the very well written articles it usually contains. You mention my Grand Nephew, Mr. Charles Lanman—I presume that he is now at Georgetown. He left here the morning after the great omnibus party at Sunny Side and I was disappointed in not seeing him & his Dear Wife before they left Norwich—they went to Poughkepsy to see his sister who is said to be very pleasantly situated in that city.

You may say to Charles that I was disappointed in not seeing him before he left.

Be pleased to give my respects & kind regards to Captain & Mrs. Williams & much love to Dear Nelly & Dear Bell, taking to yourself the love & best affections of the heart of your father.

P. LANMAN.

Your Dear Mother & Sister are gone up Town to a Minister's meeting—the; left much love for you & for all the Dear ones in Washington.

(Written by Peter Lanman to his Son Joseph Lanman.)

Norwich Conn., August 27, 1854.

My dear Son:

Your letter of last Monday came duly to hand and would have been answered before this date but for my health which has been rather more feeble on account of the state of the weather—some of our nights have been exceedingly oppressive. We have thought much of you & especially since your wonderful prostration at the foundry. Dear Bell's aphoriam struck me with great force and I hope the dear girl may never forget it. One invitation for life to a foundry is quite sufficient.

I regret with you the disaster to the San Jacinto for it is a bad thing to have a bad name more especially is it bad when the Government finds itself embarrassed to find seamen for the Naval Services—there must be a screw loose somewhere. The accident at the foundry where so many loved ones beenowing to the instant death have beenowing to the inexcusable neglect of duty on the part of the chief engineer but we will lift our hears with a thankoffering to our Father in heaven for His kindness with His own right and Holy hand, in protecting you so wonderfully.

We are now for the last twenty-four hours enjoying a moderate rain and the Children in Town and Bean Hill seem to enjoy the blessings. They are generally well with the exception of Margaret's youngest son who still complains. David returned from the city yesterday & brings to us the pleasant news that Mrs. Lennip is cleverly and that your sister Mary is a Grandma.

I cannot but hope that your claim on account of survey at California will be favorably adjusted by the present secretary for it is very apt to be the case that when accounts go into new hands assumed objections are made in consequence of delay.

We are gratified to hear by your letter that the health of Captain Williams is so much improved & that you have at your station as many things to make it pleasant for you all. Bell must not open her new term with any extra effort—it is better for her to delay a little than to over do. All the children here reciprocate love & kindest affection to all the Dear ones at Washington who have so kindly remembered them. You must miss the congress when you visit Washington.

We hope for a visit from you this autumn—we all love you and though your duty calls you to its strict observance to the government—in Peace we think the government might allow you a short term to visit your friends—especially to a parent who is now bending under the iron arm of time—an arm which receives no apology and is ever extending.

Affectionately Yours,
P. LANMAN.

Died March 31, 1923.

We have lost our darling mother,
She has hid us all adieu,
She has gone to live in Heaven,
And her form is lost to view.
Oh! that dear one, how we loved her!
Oh, how hard to give her up!
But an angel came down for her
And removed her from our flock.

TAFTVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Donovan and family of Norwich were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Daley and family of Providence street.

Edward P. Dunn of New London was a caller on friends in town Monday afternoon.

Miss Mary Taggart was the soloist at the morning service of the Taftville Congregational church, Sunday. At this service, an offering was taken for the suffering children of Germany.

Troop 4, Boy Scouts met Monday evening in their rooms in the basement of the Sacred Heart school building.

Miss Edna Wrodel was the leader of the Young Peoples Society of Christian Endeavor meeting at the Taftville Congregational church, Sunday evening.

Today (Tuesday) being the first day of the trout season, many of the local enthusiasts will be out bright and early, whipping the streams on the outskirts of the village.

Miss Celia Benac of Pratts Avenue is enjoying a short vacation.

Guerin Forget of South Second avenue has resigned his position with the Ponemah company.

The O. J. S. meets this week with Miss Irene Stitch at her home on Masonnerchor avenue.

A number of small brush and grass fires were reported about the town, Sunday. A small area was burned over near the rogue grounds on Ponemah Heights. This is a bad season of the year for wood fires, and extra precautions should be taken against accidents which might start them.

Miss Barnadette Dugas and Miss Eva Dugas have returned to their home on South A street after spending the past two months with relatives in Canada.

Miss Ruth Pollard, R. N. has returned from New Bedford, Mass., where she has been spending the past several weeks.

TWO MEN TERRIBLY INJURED BY EXPLOSION ON BOSWELL AVE. LOT

Constable Gustave Lamber, 51, of 21 Cliff street had the lower part of his face blown off and Paul Miller, 36, of Water street lost the sight of one eye and may lose the other, Monday afternoon about 2.30, when a delayed blast suddenly went off while they were inspecting it. Both men are patients at the Backus hospital where it is recognized that Lambert's condition is serious.

The accident took place at Mr. Lambert's lot at No. 285 Boswell avenue, near the junction of Boswell avenue and North Main street. He had been blasting rocks on the lot for the past week, clearing up the ground preparatory to erecting a house there.

After setting the blast Monday afternoon, Mr. Lambert lighted the fuse and he and Mr. Miller, who was assisting him in the work ran some distance away for safety. The blast failed to go off as soon as expected and Mr. Lambert thinking the fuse had gone out started back with Mr. Miller to inspect the cause of the delay. Just as they reached the rock under which the blast was set it exploded. The lower part of Mr. Lambert's face, chin and part of his mouth were practically blown off. Mr. Miller was also hit in the face and he lost the sight of one eye and may lose the sight of the other.

Two of Mr. Lambert's sons were in their garage a short distance from the scene of the blasting and hearing his cries for help rushed to his assistance. They took the injured man to the W. W. Backus hospital where their injuries were dressed by Dr. R. R. Agnew. Dr. LaPierre was called to attend Mr. Miller's injured eye.

Mr. Miller had just entered Mr. Lambert's employ. The latter is the well known old time wrestler and boxer and weight lifter having engaged in those sports successfully for a number of years. He was born in Canada and lived in Occum for a number of years before moving to this city.

MUNICIPAL G. & E. PLANT MADE $162,532.61 in Year

Net income of $162,532.61 for 1923 from the operation of the Norwich gas and electric department which is $32,375 more than in 1922 is shown by the annual report for 1923 which has been filed with the public utilities commission through General Manager Charles W. Taggart. Adding this to the balance and surplus at the beginning of the year of $474,467.55, gives a balance and surplus at the end of the year of $636,996.16.

The total operating revenue is $302,-932.44, of which $24,400.26 is from the gas department and $277,532.18 from the electric department. Miscellaneous revenue is $5,530.57, making a total corporate revenue of $307,963.01. Deducting the interest of $45,680 on bonded debt from this leaves the net income of $162,532.61 for 1923.

Cash has been laid aside to take care of the installation of the White Way during the year, $25,000 has been added to the general sinking fund and $5,000 to the special sinking fund to be applied to the bond issue maturing in 1951.

The following is the balance sheet at Dec. 31, 1923.

BISHOP ACHESON SPOKE AT Y. M. C. A. MEETING

The meeting at the local Y. M. C. A. Sunday afternoon was one of great interest. Beautiful vocal solos were rendered by Frederick Weld, who was ably accompanied by Henry LaFontaine in an able manner. Rev. R. R. Graham read the scripture and offered prayer.

Bishop E. C. Acheson delivered a most impressive address, the central thought being "peace on earth, good will toward men." The speaker said that when he was overseas during the world war, he was displeased to hear quite often the remark that the church had failed to prevent war; that religion had lost out. It is not at all true that religion has failed; other efforts have failed to keep the world at peace, but the church or religion has not yet had a chance. While we must all do everything in our power to prevent war, if it is necessary we must fight with all our powers. One of the great denominations is said to be thinking of taking the stand that under no circumstances will they take part in warfare; this position is silly; suppose an enemy should land on our shores, what would we do? Let them plunder and kill while we stood passively by? No, when necessary the men of the churched must stand shoulder to shoulder in opposing all enemies of our America.

The ministers today must speak out against all phases of evil that threatens our safety. The recent spectacle in Washington when Mr. Bok was summoned before a committee of our government as to what he had up his sleeve in offering a liberal prize in money for the best suggestion as to how to obtain peace; the idea is an insult to all of us; we should simply laugh at their foolish action. Then regarding the eighteenth amendment, so many are saying to us that it is a failure, and it should be amended. Take it from me, this law will never be taken from the statute book: it is there to stay. It is now a question as to whether we will stand by the law or disregard it. The church, especially through its ministers must constantly demand that the law be upheld. This cry that you can't enforce this law against liquor is not true; while here in New England the law is probably not as well enforced as it should be, through the west the sentiment is very strong for the maintenance of the law. No man running for an important office in these days would dare announce that he favors the doing away with the eighteenth amendment or the weakening of the law; if he so announced, his doom would at once be sealed. I fear that we do not recognize the fact that Christ comes to us in all the great beneficent movements; He came when this amendment was written into our constitution. We as Christian men, representatives of Jesus Christ must stand true to all the things that make for righteousness and peace whether people like it or not. People need Jesus Christ: they need His forgiveness; they need to see Him as Redeemer. It is not enough to see Christ as simply a consoler or a friend, but we need to see Him as a great Redeemer, a Savior from sin.

JESUS THE LEADER FOR LIFE AND IMMORTALITY

Jesus, The Leader was the subject that Rev. Charles H. Rickaby spoke upon at the Richmond Radiator noon meeting Monday under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A.

The subject was one suggested by the commission on Evangelism to be presented in the various pulpits for Sunday, March 30. The speaker dwelt upon the four outstanding phases in the leadership of Jesus:

1. His method of leadership was most amazing. He had just passed through forty days in which his higher and lower natures had been in fierce conflict. The higher had been victorious. Soon after his temptation he had been baptised and immediately enters upon the work of his ministry. We find him in the north country walking by the sea of Galilee where he stumbles upon Peter and Andrew casting their nets into the sea. He gives them a passing glance—a glance that looks through them and beyond them—a glance that sees them raised to the heights of immortality. The parties were complete strangers, yet Christ with the sublime audacity of one sure of his position says to them, "follow me," and if anything could have been stranger than this it was that they "straightway left their nets and followed him." Only the superman could have gotten away with this.

2. His methods of leadership were mild and gentle. He did not threaten these two fishermen with future tortures if they did not leave their nets and follow Him. He had little use for a gospel that needed fear to make it effective. He built up his following through the sheer force of his amazing personality. It is only weak men who try to frighten their fellows into the Kingdom of God.

3. Jesus possessed all the qualities of leadership. The speaker then enumerated the following and applied them to Jesus: The successful leader must possess physical courage; he must have rare mental power; he must have an established moral character; he must be the master of the position he holds.

4. His leadership was a success because he was able to set other men to work. "I will make you fishers of men." Jesus is able to make a man's life calling the stepping stone to his immortality. He glorifies the material already in their hands. He makes the very tools with which men are familiar with the means of magnifying Him and His work.

MODERNIST SERMON BY UNIVERSALIST PASTOR

In his Sunday morning sermon at the Church of the Good Shepherd, Universalist, the pastor, Rev. A. N. Foster, spoke upon the theme, The Old Creeds and the New Spirit of Our Day, in which he spoke of the Apostles Creed and the Virgin Birth and declared that the new spirit of our day insists on the value of character and conduct rather than creed and dogma.

He spoke from the text, Matt. 7.21: Not every one that saith unto me Lord, Lord, but he that doeth my will. In part he spoke as follows:

The "Apostles Creed" is, perhaps, the most widely used of the medieval creeds of the Christian church and in estimating its value we need to guard against injecting our 20th century ideas into terms formulated in the 5th century.

"The Virgin birth of Jesus is not mentioned in the oldest or in the latest gospel records; nor by Paul nor Peter nor John nor James nor Mary nor Jesus himself. In the accounts of the Matthew and the Luke gospels, a story is given beautiful poetic expression which may be construed to teach the Virgin birth although not necessarily so. The medieval emphasis on sin and human depravity demanded a sinless redeemer and hence came the postulate that Jesus must have been born in some extraordinary way and later came the dogma of the immaculate conception of Mary, thus pushing the purification back another generation. Nothing in the gospels warrants making such a belief a test of discipleship.

"In the cosmogony of the early Christian era, the statements 'he descended into hell and he ascended into heaven' did not have the meaning which we impute to them.

Sheol or hades or hell was not a place of continued torment; it was simply the underworld to which all the dead went for later judgment.

"Heaven was the arching firmament above marked by the inserted luminaries of the sun, moon and stars to light the earth and above the firmament as below sheol, was the sea. Heaven was not the abode of the people who had died. Only God and the angels and Enoch and Elijah were in heaven. In this conception, the whole known world was comprised within the Mediterranean basin and all west of Gibraltar was absolutely unknown. Belief in this toy-like conception of the world should not be the test of discipleship of a teacher whose message was universal. The ancient creed further pledges unto a belief in the resurrection of the body. What effective man believes that today for himself? If the reference be to the resurrection of Jesus, that again reverts to the question of sufficient evidence to warrant belief in the extraordinary. Paul is the only direct witness to testify that he saw Jesus after death and it is not at all sure that Paul means to refer to the physical body of his Lord. Should these creeds embodying medieval conceptions of geography and science be retained for use in religious instruction in the 20th century? Their liturgical value may be approved but their intellectual value is discounted by modern attainments. They call the enthusiasm for truth and tempt us to say we believe things at the altar which we deny elsewhere. Pious pretense takes the genuineness out of religion.

"The new spirit of our day insists on the value of character and conduct rather than creed and dogma and claims great fellowship with him who said, "Seek ye first the kingdom and, its righteousness" and also "not every one that saith unto me, Lord, Lord, but he that doeth the will." Such is the basis of the fellowship needed to combat the giant evils of our day."

MISS LANE TO MARRY, GIVEN FAREWELL RECITAL

The fourth annual concert of the Wheeler school orchestra, North Stonington, was given in Library hall on Saturday evening. The orchestra has been under the direction of Miss Elisabeth A. Lane of Norwich. The thirteen players are members of the student body and faculty of Wheeler school. Following the concert there was music for dancing.

Miss Lane, for the past three years the popular instructor in violin and mandolin and director of the Wheeler school orchestra, is to be married in Norwich Wednesday evening, April 2 to G. Kenneth Miller of Montreal, Canada, and will make her home in that city.

Monday evening, as a farewell to Miss Lane, the Norwich String quartet, Miss Isabel H. Mitchell, Miss Lane, Frederick W. Lester and Charles D. Gallup gave a recital at Wheeler school. The recital was the last public appearance of the quartet. A reception at Jenny Wheeler hall followed the concert.

Miss Lane received several wedding gifts from the faculty, orchestra and individual friends at the school.

SNOW, RAIN AND ELECTRICAL STORM COVERED WIDE AREA

Fireman Was Killed and Fifteen Persons Were Injured When Elevated Trains Collided at a Long Island City Station in the Blinding Storm—Suburbs of Baltimore Were Blanketed With Nine Inches of Snow—In Wheeling, W. Va., Voters, Because of Floods, Were Obliged to Use Skiffs to Get to the Polls.

New York, April 1.—A jazz snowstorm, in which winter staged a rough dance with spring to a thunder obbligato and lightning novelty effects, and finally tired out its trailer partner, swept the Atlantic states today.

The freak storm was said to have set an April record in New York and in most of the country it visited. Winter sifted down a fluffy snow to a depth varying from four and a half inches in Connecticut to 11 inches in Baltimore's suburbs.

In all instances, the snow turned to a slush directly it struck the ground, it carried down telephone and telegraph wires about New York, interfered with harbor shipping, delayed commuters' trains and was responsible for a rear-end collision of elevated trains resulting in the death of one man and injuries to fifteen others. Several thousand street cleaners, with an augmented battery of snow clearing machinery, fought the storm throughout the night in the five boroughs.

Thunder and lightning provided the spring touch for nearly three hours in New York.

ELEVATED TRAINS COLLIDED IN LONG ISLAND CITY

New York, April 1—Fireman John Quinn was killed and fifteen persons were injured when an elevated train crashed into another at a Long Island City station during a blinding snowstorm late today.

Quinn, a member of the city fire department, was a passenger on a stalled train, and was seated directly behind the motorman's cab on the car.

The accident occurred on a stretch of suburban elevated line used by trains of both the Brooklyn Manhattan Transit company and the Interborough Rapid Transit company. A train of the latter company smashed its way into the rear of the B. M. T. train, which had stopped at the station to take on and discharge passengers. Both trains were made up of wooden cars, and Manhattan bound.

NINE INCHES OF SNOW IN SUBURBS OF BALTIMORE

Baltimor, Md., April 1.—Sweeping up-coast from the Gulf States, the heaviest snow of the season and the heaviest ever recorded in Baltimore in April was registered today when downtown Baltimore lay under a nine-inch blanket. In the suburbs this depth was exceeded by two inches.

The snow was light and fluffy, however, and little delay to traffic or lines of communication was occasioned. Arriving steamers were running slightly behind schedule, and no sailing craft cleared port because of the driving storm.

Electrical disturbances accompanied by sleet and hail were reported from several parts of the state.

WHEELING VOTERS WENT TO THE POLLS IN SKIFFS

Wheeling, W. Va., April 1.—About one-fourth of the voters, of Benwood, a mill town south of here, went to the polls today in skiffs. Six of the eight voting precincts are located in the center of the town and when the Ohio river left its banks last night, that area was flooded. But the municipal election campaign was one of the hardest fought on record, and the voters, undaunted by the flood waters, either rented, borrowed or made skiffs in which they paddled to the polls.

WEATHER BUREAU WARNS OF NORTHEAST STORM

Washington, April 1.—The weather bureau this afternoon issued the following storm warning:

"Advisory: northeast storm warning extended northward to Eastport, Me., and changed northwest south of Delaware breakwater to Cape Hatteras. Disturbance central 2 p. m., between Cape Hatteras and Cape Henry, increasing rapidly in intensity and moving northeastward."

HEAVIEST SNOWFALL OF WINTER IN WATERBURY

Waterbury, April 1.—The heaviest snow fall of the winter occurred here today when four and a half inches fell between 4.30 o'clock this afternoon and 9 o'clock tonight when it had practically ceased.

No serious accidents came to the attention of the police.

To make the storm appropriate for April fool's day, "the weather man" provided an accompaniment of thunder and lightning.

REPORTS OF THE STORM THROUGHOUT CONNECTICUT

New Haven, April 1—A combination of rain, snow, thunder and lightning played April fool today in giving Connecticut an assortment of weather rarely experienced at this time of the year and which, according to the weather bureau, promises to be one of the heaviest April snowfalls since 1873-74. At 3 o'clock today four and one half inches of snow had fallen, most of this since 1 o'clock when the storm took on large proportions, and indications pointed to continuance of the snow throughout the night. The temperature early in the morning registered 18 degrees at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon 36 degrees and tonight 32 degrees.

Shortly after 7 o'clock tonight thunder was heard and several long flashes of lightning showed through the heavy screen of falling snow. Meriden, Norwich and other towns in the state reported similar occurrences. In the upper part of the state the snowfall was reported less than along the coast.

High winds blowing the snow into drifts made both city and state highway traffic difficult. The telephone company stated that the storm had not affected their wiring in the state in local land toll exchanges and expected no damage from the storm. Trains ran on their customary schedules.

The heaviest April snows available are as follows: 1873-74, ten inches; 1916, eight inches, and 1917 four and two tenths inches. These figures are for the entire month.

The flash of lightning early in the evening struck the flagpole on the Hotel Taft, snapping the pole about midway and hurling the ball some distance away. No other damage was done.

EIGHT INCHES OF SNOW IMPEDED DANBURY TRAFFIC

Danbury, Conn., April 1—Approximately eight inches of snow had fallen here up to 11 o'clock tonight and indications are that the storm will continue heavily throughout the night. In the suburbs the drifts hampered trolley and automobile travel and a number of machines were stalled. The storm is the heaviest of the winter.

STRONG WIND ACCOMPANIED THE STORM IN HARTFORD

Hartford, April 1.—Snow began falling here shortly after four o'clock this afternoon and an hour later the ground was covered with over an inch of snow. By six o'clock the storm had increased in intensity. Trolley service was unaffected although during the rush hour tonight, cars were reported running slightly off schedule. The storm had subsided slightly at ten o'clock but weather bureau reports forecast a continuance throughout the night. The storm was accompanied by a strong wind that give it the aspect of a blizzard.

BLIZZARD IN FAIRFIELD COUNTY TURNED TO RAIN

Bridgeport, April 1.—Fairfield county was in the grip of a blizzard which was gradually turning to rain tonight. State highway department and municipal plows were at work clearing the highways and city streets.

MANY MINERS IDLE, BUT OTHERS ARE TO STRIKE

Kansas City, April 1.—With no announcement tonight of a wage agreement between coal operators and union miners of Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma and Arkansas indications are that forty thousand miners of these states will be idle tomorrow. Negotiations between representatives of the Southern Coal Operators' association and union officials have been deadlocked since Thursday. The present wage contract expired last night at midnight. The miners were on vacation today in celebration of the eight-hour day.

Reports from Muskogee, Okla., were that the 12,000 miners in the Oklahoma Arkansas district were prepared for the shut down of the mines.

Of the 40,000 miners in the four states affected by the cessations of work, many are already idle, due to a slump in coal operations.

BURNED HIS BARN TO GET MONEY FOR WOMAN

New Haven, April 1—Confessing to having burned his barn and horse to secure money for another woman, Louis Levine, 65, a vegetable peddler, of Meriden, was sentenced in the superior court today to not less than one year nor more than one year and nine months in state's prison.

Levine, in pleading guilty to statutory arson, told the court that he became infatuated wit ha 32-years-old woman living near his home, and, to satisfy her demands for money, borrowed on a note. The note came due and Levine said the woman asked him for more funds. Levine last December took out an insurance policy for $650 on his horse, an animal much cherished by the peddler, and the contents of the barn and, according to Levine, at the instigation of the woman, had two threatening letters written to him by a friend. These, Levine said, he showed to the police and firemen before the fire which occurred January 7.

PLEADED GUILTY OF SLAYING BOARDING HOUSE MISTRESS

New Haven, April 1—Adam Bien, charged with murder of Mrs. Mary Kortsep, his boarding house mistress, last November, today, in court pleaded guilty to manslaughter, and sentence was deferred by Judge Allyn L. Brown. At the time of the homicide it was claimed that Bien, who had been ordered from the house and had his grip packed to leave, had been drinking "moonshine" and was in a state bordering on insanity. He is thought to have crept into the woman's bedroom at night and choked her with his hands, returning to his room and falling asleep. He claimed he recalled nothing of that night. Countrymen raised a fund to defend him in belief that he was sincere in claiming that owing to delirium he recalled nothing of his acts. After being sent to jail Bian had to be restrained so violent were his actions.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

Prince of Wales Out

London, April 1—The Prince of Wales was out Sunday for the first time since his recent fall while racing. He looked fit and well and will probably fulfill some engagements this week, but his physicians are said to have forbidden him to follow the Oxford-Cambridge boat race in a launch, owing to the prevalent cold weather.

NATIONAL TROPHIES TO BE GIVEN TO ESSAYISTS

Washington, April 1.—National trophies will be given by Mrs. Calvin Coolidge at the White House on June 14, Flag day, to girl and young women essayists who best describe the reason why young men they know should attend the citizens' military training camps conducted each summer by the war department. The contest is sponsored by the Women's Overseas Service League, has been approved by the secretary of war, and today was given formal approbation by the first lady of the land.

Miss Louise Wells, president of the service league, was informed by Mrs. Coolidge that she would award the trophies and approved the patriotic action of the league in sponsoring the contest. Mrs. Coolidge reminded her callers at the White House, including a delegation of league officials that her two sons would attend military training camps in New England this summer.

The national trophies will be awarded the three essayists, not less than 13 nor more than 19 years of age, whose answers to the question: 'Why a young man I know should attend a citizens' military training camp,' are adjudged the best of those submitted.

The essay is restricted to 300 words and will be judged on its originality, expression and sincerity." The contest will close May 5, and winners, in addition to receiving the trophies from Mrs. Coolidge, also will be given railroad tickets from their homes to Washington and return and a "liberal amount" of spending money. State and municip prizes also will be awarded.

In explaining the purposes of the contest, a statement issued by the service league today said "the members feel that a development of the youth of the land—the building of better bodies and broader and cleaner minds, the awakening of civic responsibilities —is one of the greatest and most deserving patriotic endeavors attempted by the nation. "Even today the benefits of the camp are not fully realized."

DETAILS OF REVENUE BUREAU NEGOTIATIONS

Washington, April 1—Details of internal revenue bureau negotiations with the Berwind-White Coal company of Philadelphia, by which the company was allowed $373,401 as a war plant amortization deduction against taxes for 1918 and 1919, were presented today to the senate special committee investigating the bureau.

The plant involved was a war-built power plant to operate the company's mines, the cost of which was placed at $826,732. The company first claimed $334,624 on amortization later raising this claim on revised returns to $878,591. At first the claims were disallowed, but on protest and re-survey, the allowance was raised to $373,401 on the theory that the average mine operation was three days a week.

Senator Couzens, republican, Michigan, conducting the inquiry, insisted that the bureau's power under the law in fixing such allowances is too wide and left opportunity for criticism and "graft." He added, however, that he was not charging that there had been grafting.

$8,000 SHORTAGE IN FUNDS DUE NEW YORK STATE

Albany, N. Y., April 1.—Alleged misappropriations of approximately $6,000 due New York state incorporation fees and taxes, disclosed today after a check-up had been made of records in the secretary of state's office, caused Secretary of State James O. Hamilton to ask District Attorney Charles J. Herrick, of Albany county to conduct a thorough investigation into the activities of certain department employes whose conduct is believed to have brought about such a shortage.

Herman Doctor, of the Bronx, who on March 17, resigned as second deputy secretary of state, is directly charged by Mr. Hamilton with having been responsible for the shortage. In a statement given out late today, Mr. Hamilton said that Doctor admitted his guilt when confronted with the facts on March 17, but his offer to make restitution was not accepted, and he was discharged at once from the state service.

Hartford Elects Republican Mayor

Norman C. Stevens Was Elected by a Majority of About 200.

Hartford, April 1—Norman C. Stevens, republican, was today elected mayor over Richard J. Kinsella, democratic incumbent, by a majority of 181 votes, according to complete returns. The mayor-elect is serving his second term as alderman.

The mayor-elect is an official of the Aetna Life Insurance company. The republicans carried four wards of the city and will have a majority in the board of aldermen. The democrats succeeded in re-electing Colonel Edwin E. Lamb, controller. He is a World War veteran. The republicans also retain control of the board of education. William P. Sickles, democrat, also a World war veteran, was re-elected city marshal. Kinsella is serving his second term as mayor.

PROCEDURE AGAINST BOOTLEGGERS IS UPHELD

Bridgeoprt, April 1—The procedure of Judge William M. Maltbie and State's Attorney Hugh M. Alcorn in the Hartford County Superior Court in the trial on two "society bootleggers", was upheld by Chief Justice Wheeler, of the Supreme Court today in a formal state ment issued here. Justice Wheeler further urged that enforcement of all laws, including the prohibition law should begin if possible at the top and go down rather than at the bottom of the social scale." His statement follows:

"I have read the story in the Journal Courier of this morning and aside from the vote it recites as passed at the judges' meeting yesterday, it is pure fiction. Nothing was said at our meeting concerning Judge Maltbie's judicial action nor that of State's Attorney Alcorn's in the cases against Bliss and Siegel for violation of the liquor law. The subject of Judge Maltbie's statement from the bench to and of the patrons of these bootlegger criminals was not mentioned at our meeting. Judge Maltbie's course was sound in law, sound in morals, fearless and courageous and must prove a helpful influence in aid of law enforcement. If his example were emulated by every trail judge in our land we would have a country where law and order were better supported and respected than we have today. I wrote Judge Maltbie immediately upon learning of his action, commending and thanking him for his great service to the cause of law enforcement.

"One thing more, I believe that enforcement of the prohibition law and of all laws should begin, if possible at the top of the social scale and go dow nrather than at the bottom and go up. Obedience to law should be required of high and low, rich and poor, educated and illiterate alike, without respect to person, creed, race or color. This is the principle which under lies Judge Maltbie and Mr. Alcorn's action and American institutions will be stronger if this principle is universally upheld by public officials."

DAUGHERTY COMMITTEE HEARS OF OKLAHOMA LANDS

Washington, April 1—Allegations of delay by the department of justic in seeking recovery of land fradulently taken from Oklahoma Indians were heard by the senate Daugherty committee when it resumed its public hearings today.

The committee then paused for a moment to hear Wayne Wilson, a New York insurance man, deny that he had solicited $35,000 from J. Van Vechten Olcott, a former New York congressman, for his appointment to a federal judgeship. Wilson said that he had merely suggested to Olcott, on the word of others, that "a campaign for the post," might cost $10,000 or $30,000.

Testimony concerning the land question was given by H. M. Peck, former United State attorney for Western Oklahoma, who declared that former Attorney General Daugherty had aided a delay and failure to bring civil action for recovery of holdings in the "101 ranch," of Miller Brothers.

DISORDERS IN BRITISH BUILDING TRADES STRIKE

London, April 1.—(By The A. P.)—Disorders broke out today in connection with the strike begun yesterday among the thousands of workmen preparing the British Empire exhibition at Wembley for an increase of two pence per hour in their pay. The members of the building trades and allied unions who first went out were joined during the day by other exhibition workers, and a bare thousand out of the total of 15,000 who have been employed are at work now.

The seven thousand building operatives who began the strike marched around thhe exhibition grounds demanding that the others lay down their tools. Those reluctant to do so were roughly handled and some stones were thrown. Girls doing interior decoration work were forced by threats of violence to descend from the scaffoldings.

WOMEN BENT ON SAVING LIFE OF WALTER MUIR

Montreal, April 1. — Led by the Duchess of Richelieu, a delegation of socially and officially prominent Americans arrived in Montreal today, bent on saving the life of Walter Muir, a New York youth, who awaits hanging Friday for murder.

They visited the condemned lad at Bordeaux prison, where he awaits execution, and urged him to "be of good cheer." The petition to the Dominion governor general at Ottawa for a commutation of his sentence to life imprisonment probably would be granted, they assured the prisoner.

Muir, 20 years old, and a former student of Classon Point Military Academy of New York city, was sentenced for shooting Henri Lavollette to death in the Hotel Windsor at Valley Field last September.

With Edward Carroll, son of a New York police officer, Muir had motored to Canada on a vacation trip. While at the Windsor hotel they became spectators to an altercation and Muir, according to his defence attorney trial, fired his pistol at the floor to frighten off a man who was bullying a cripple. The bullet struck Lavollette.

Muir was tried and convicted for murder. Carroll was sentenced to 18 months imprisonment as an accomplice and Joseph Plante, of Valley Field, arrested with the two boys, was acquitted.

SINCLAIR ENTERED PLEA OF NOT GUILTY FOR CONTEMPT

Washington, April 1.—As the oil committee got back today to the trail of an alleged conspiracy at the republican national convention in 1920 for the exploitation of the public domain, Harry F. Sinclair, lessee of Teapot Dome, appeared in the District of Columbia supreme court and entered a plea of not guilty of an indictment charging contempt of the United States senate. He furnished bond in the sum of $5,000.

At the same time Chief Justice McCoy in the district supreme court ordered the impanneling of a special grand jury here in April 16, before which will be presented evidence in the criminal charges growing out of the investigation of the naval oil leases. The evidence is now being put in shape for presentation by special government counsel in the oil cases.

Sinclair, who is charged with contempt on ten counts for his refusal to answer that number of questions put to him by the oil committee, was allowed ten days by Justice Hoehling to withdraw his plea and enter a demurrer to the indictment if he should so desire. The oil magnate came here from New York today after being advised of the return of the indictment against him yesterday.

FRANCE OFFERS PRIZE FOR AIRPLANE SPEED RECORD

Paris, April 1—The French government has offered a prize of 200,000 francs for the purpose of bringing back to France the world's airplane record for speed, now held by Lieutenant A. J. Williams, U. S. N., with his mark of 266.59 miles per hour, achieved at Mitchell field, near New York, last November. The prize is divided, 140,000 francs to the builder of the airplane and 60,000 to the manufacturer of the motor.

Several other prizes were offered 150,000 francs for the hydro-airplane speed record, 100,000 francs for a new distance flight to which 50,000 francs will be added if the duration record is briken simultaneously, and 25,000 francs for the altitude record. All the prizes are to be divided between the builder of the plane and the manufacturer of the motor in the same ratio as for the airplane speed prizes, 70 per cent and 30 per cent respectively. The offer will stand until January 1, 1925.

TAX BILL MAY BE READY FOR THE SENATE BY SATURDAY

Senator Smoot Gives Assurance That the Bill Will Be Passed This Session—Also Predicts That the Soldier Bonus Bill Will Be Enacted Into Law Before Congress Adjourns—President Coolidge Believes Immediate Passage of Bill Along the Mellon Lines Will Give Impetus to Business.

Washington, April 1.—Assurance that the tax reduction bill would be passed this session and prediction that the soldier bonus bill would be enacted to law before congress adjourns was made today by Chairman Smoot, of the senate finance committee as leaders of both parties and President Coolidge centered attention on the legislative program. Senator Smoot told the senate the tax bill probably would be ready for a report to the floor by Saturday.

A drawn out discussion with Secretary Mellon today on the tax bill forced over until tomorrow conclusion of the hearing of the treasury secretary before the finance committee.

Mr. Mellon was asked particularly to present his views on the estate tax which was increased by the house and which is opposed by many senators in favor of an inheritance tax. He read only a small part of a prepared statement on this question however.

President Coolidge took a hand during the day in the senate legislative situation, discussing programs with several senators at individual conferences. He was said to favor immediate action on the revenue bill, passage of which he believes will give impetus to business modeled along the lines of the Mellon plan.

MAN SHOT BY NEW YORK'S BOBBED HAIR BANDIT

New York, April 1—Brooklyn's blonde bobbed hair bandit, who has smiled through a score of daring hold-ups in the past ten weeks, shot to kill today when capture seemed imminent after a frustrated attempt to hold up seventeen employes of the Brooklyn plant of the National Biscuit company.

Her victim, Nathan Mazzio, lies dangerously wounded in a hospital. Attending physicians declared he has but a slim chance to recover. He has two bullets in the chest and a third in the thigh.

Today's attempt was by far the most daring and danger-defying in the girl's meteoric career of banditry.

Accompanied by the inevitable male, she sauntered into the retail department of the plant shortly before noon today and asked for a dime's worth of confections. The clerk turned from the shelves to face a small automatic pistol in her hand and one in each hand of the man. He back into a rear room at their orders.

There they were confronted by fifteen girl employes and the cashier, Mazzio, who had just come in with a payroll sack. The girl did the bossing; her companion worked under her direction. They started herding the seventeen into a smaller room, that they might work at the office safe uninterrupted.

Mazzio suddenly seized her wrist in one hand and tore at her heavy impressionable bell with the other. As suddenly as a gunshot she threw him off, sent him stumbling into the prison room, and slammed the door. Then she fired three shots through the door, all of them hitting Mazzio, who had fallen to the floor from the fury of her push.

The two fled to a waiting taxicab and the woman, still leading, took the wheel. They abandoned the car seven blocks away, and the police later, found a chauffeur in it, neatly trussed up with strong picture wire, and gagged. The two had called him to a hotel, he said and directed him to drive to a lonely spot near the biscuit corncern's plant. When he halted the car, the man seized him, he said, and bound and gagged him while the slim girl stood over him with her pistol.

BANK EMPLOYE AND BANDIT WERE KILLED IN MONTREAL

Montreal, April 1.—A bank employe and a bandit were killed this afternoon and another bank employe was slightly wounded when eight masked men opened fire on a motor car and stole funds which were being transferred to the central office of the Bank of Hochelaga.

Bank officials said they believed the car was carrying $300,000. How much the bandits obtained had not been learned late today, but the police subsequently recovered $40,000 from the wreck of the men's machine which in its flight from the scene of the holdup struck a telephone pole and overturned. In the car also was the body of one of the bandits. He had been shot through the head.

The bank's machine was proceeding along Ontario street, one of the busiest shopping thoroughfares in the city, when without warning a hail of rifle bullets fatally wounded the driver, Henri Cleroux. Roland Fortier, a bank teller, returned the fire until he was wounded and the bandits then seized the money bags and made their escape in another car which was waiting nearby with the motor running.

A constable fired several shots at the fleeing automobile and it crashed later into a pole in another section of the city.

In the car were found the dead bandit, several rifles and a number of empty cartridges.

The Bank of Hochelaga offers a reward of $5,000 for information leading to the capture of the bandits.

W. J. CORCORAN FOUND GUILTY OF BLACKMAIL

Cambridge, Mass., April 1—William J. Corcoran, former district attorney of Middlesex county, was found guilty of blackmail by a jury in the superior criminal court here today. The jury was out four and one half hours.

Mrs. Theresa Duggan and J. Warren Kane, indicted with Corcoran, as accessories, were also found guilty, while Theodore C. Bearse, a third co-defendant, was found not guilty.

After the jury had made its report Judge Winfred H. Whiting fixed Corcoran's bail at $10,000 and that of Kane and Mrs. Duggan at $3,000 each. District Attorney Robert T. Bushnell moved for immediate sentence, but Joseph P. Walsh, counsel for the defendants, pleaded for more time and Judge Whiting set the date for sentence at two weeks from today, exceptions to be filed within that time.

Corcoran was charged specifically with verbally threatening to accuse Kenneth Merrill, of Newton, of a serious offense with intent to extort money from him. The others, the indictment alleged, aided in enticing Merrill to a Cambridge apartment, where he was placed in a compromising situation and caught in a prearranged raid. Mrs. Lillian Hardy Deese was included in the indictment but pleaded guilty at the opening of the trial.

SHARP RALLY IN FRENCH AND BELGIAN FRANCS

New York, April 1—Rushing to buy French francs for settlement of shoe contracts executed in March, speculators trapped by the currency's sensational recovery today forced the rate up 30 points to a new record high for the year at 5.80 cents, having delayed covering their requirements as the upward swing, which followed the establishment of an extrema low price of 5.46 cents on March 8, short interests today were forced into the market to avoid the heavy penalties attached to deferred payments.

The sharp advance of the franc took place in one of the most active foreign exchange markets of the year in which Belgian, Swiss, Italian and Scandinavian currencies attained new high levels for 1924.

Reports that Belgium shortly would obtain a credit similar to the $100,000,000 loan to France to combat bear raids on its currency caused a violent upturn in the Belgian franc, that soared more than 75 points and crossed 5 cents for the first time this year. Late in the day it was selling around 5.10 cents.

Active covering by short interests having no desire to be caught a second time, was responsible for the scramble to buy the exchange. There were also numerous settlements to be made on short contracts in the Belgian as well as the French franc.

Flotation of a $30,000,000 loan for Switzerland and reports of a new commodity loan for Denmark brought about sharp upward movements in the currencies of these countries. The swiss franc, at 17.57 cents sold at a new high for the year, and Danish exchange rose 38 points to 16.62 cents. The Swedish rate, advancing 9 points to 26.47, was also highest of the year, and the Norwegian krones mounted 28 points to 13.82.

In establishing a new high rate for the year, the French franc eclipsed a previous high record of 5.63 cents reached on March 24. Interests close to the bank of France, admitting that offerings of francs had been made freely to prevent too rapid an advance on covering operations, said they had found the short interest unexpectedly large.

Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the democratic leader, disclaimed any disposition by senate democrats to prolong unduly the present round of investigations.

The senate committee investigating alleged Texas land frauds received over protest of counsel for R. B. Creager correspondence in postoffice department files relating to complaints.

Harry F. Sinclair pleaded not guilty of contempt of the senate and the oil committee took further testimony relating to the political activities of the late Jake Hamon, republican national committeeman for Oklahoma.

HELD FOR VIOLATING MASS. BANKING LAWS

Worcester, Mass., April 1.—Alec Christopher, 34 years old, proprietor of the Christopher Bros. Co. store here was arrested at noon today by state detectives charged with the larceny of $3,200 from Philip Tochy of this city and with the violating the state banking laws. Bail was set at $10 000 for his appearance in district court tomorrow. The arest followed a two weeks' investigation by bank examiners and the district attorney's office of a report that the Christopher Bros. Co. has been conducting an illegal banking business among Greek-speaking residents of this city.

GOLDMAN UNABLE TO PROCURE $25,000 BOND

Worcester, Mass., April 1.—Upon noon today Abrahasn Goldman of Chicago, brought to Worcester county jail yesterday and held in bonds of $25,000 for his appearance before the superior criminal court at the May sitting, has not obtained bail.

Goldman is alleged to have been involved in the wrecking of the First National bank of Warren in February 1923, in connection with James Marcino and Frank L. Tassi, of whom are now serving time

In a raid on the home of Mary Kapino, in one of the tenements of the Stone Row, the owner and two men companions were placed under arrest, late in the afternoon Monday. Chief of Police Allen MacArthur received a complaint that occupants of the Kapino flat were having a roughhouse party and with Captain Grady chartered an automobile and entered the Kapino home, unannounced. Mary Kapino was found lying, partly clothed on a bed and beside her was Cullen Potter of South Coventry, fully clothed. Joseph Conety of this city was found sleeping in another room. Conety was brought back to his senses with some difficulty and the trio were assisted into the machine and locked up at police headquarters. All were drunk, according to Chief MacArthur. The chief pointed out that Mrs. Kapino had a long police court record and that Conety had been presented before the court on several previous occasions.

The tenement occupied by Mrs. Kapino has long since had a bad reputation and has been a constant source of complaints from that section of the city. The frequenters of the house were of low character and disorderly conduct.

Conety and Potter were charged with intoxication and frequenting a disorderly house. Potter lost no time in pleading guilty but Conety was quite sure that someone had made a mistake. When he was aroused from his nap he walked to the car without causing any trouble and in his own opinion was positive that he showed no signs of intoxication.

Mary Kapino was charged with intoxication and keeping a disorderly house. She began her story by making references to "those two bums," Conety and Potter. She said that they came to her flat and just made themselves to home. Potter climbed into her bed with his clothes and shoes on. She would not admit that she was to blame and the court entered a plea of not guilty for her.

Deputy Judge Curtis Dean found all three guilty. On a charge of intoxication, he sentenced Mrs. Kapino to spend thirty days in Brooklyn jail and imposed an additional 60-day jail sentence for keeping a house of ill fame. Conety was fined $10 and costs amounting to $18.15 for intoxication and a 30-day jail sentence was imposed, for frequenting the place. Potter was severely reprimanded by the court. Potter has a good job as a blacksmith and comes from a good family. His presence before the tribunal was a surprise to the court. Potter felt the pangs of remorse for his actions. He said that he got drunk and did not realize what he was doing. Judge Dean imposed a fine of $10 and costs for intoxication and $25 for frequenting. The total assessment of $42.15 was paid.

While the police were looking for an automobile to take the Stone Row trio to the station they met an inebriate who said that he was Albert Bocunty. The man said that he came to Willimantic last week-end to look for work in the cotton mills. The lady was coming to him but was not ready Monday and while walking about the town he was treated to a few drinks of moonshine. He was fined $10 and costs and as he could not raise that amount he was also given a ride to Brooklyn jail, in company with Mrs. Kapino and Conety.

The case of Martin Shea, charged with non-support, was again continued until Saturday morning next.

Just half a dozen marriages took place in the town of Windham during February, according to the records filed at the office of Town Clerk Frank P. Fenton. One marriage of local interest was performed in Hartford. Rev. A. Stanley Muirhead officiated at two of the ceremonies: Justice of the Peace William C. Oliver, Rev. F. Yaworksy, Rev. F. F. Voorhees, Rev. John E. Clark and Rev. Arthur Routhier, one each. The list:

2, Frederick Wahlberg (Hartford) and Marjorie Hall, by Rev. A. S. Muirhead.

7, Arthur L. Balcom (Hampton) and Thelma Harris (North Windham) by Justice of the Peace W. C. Oliver.

3, Peter Vargo (Forestville) and Mary Mindek (South Willington) by Rev. F. Yaworksy.

9, Joseph Sochor (Putnam Heights) and Marie Thurber (Putnam) by Rev. A. Stanley Muirhead.

18, John L. Moriarty (230 Newbury street, Hartford) and Oril A. Snow, by Rev. F. F. Voorhees of Hartford.

21, James G. McNally (Norwich Town) and Marcella Kegler, by Rev. John E. Clark.

23, Roderick G. Dion and Loretta Routhier Gaucher, by Rev. W. Arthur Routhier of Putnam.

George C. Mathewson, 50, died suddenly at his home, 227 Ash street, on Tuesday morning. For several years he was shipping clerk at Harrington's wholesale establishment on Main street. Mr. Mathewson was born in Ashford, Oct. 7, 1873, a son of John and Ellen Carpenter Mathewson. Besides his wife he is survived by a son, Claude Mathewson of Warrenville and two sisters, Mrs. Bernice Case of this city and Mrs. Dora Ornsby of North Grosvenordale. He had a wide acquaintance and was highly respected by all who knew him.

Kenneth R. Brown, son of Joseph and Mary Taylor Brown, died at St. Joseph's hospital Monday night after a short illness. He was born in this city, Oct. 31, 1923. Besides his parents he leaves four sisters, Mrs W Timmins, Mrs. R. Moseley, Miss Gertrude L. Brown and Miss Bernice E Brown; two brothers, William B. Brown and Joseph C. Brown, all of this city.

At Andover, two weeks ago, the town was aroused over three successive breaks. During the past week there were three more, all within a radius of a quarter of a mile of the railroad station. The home of Grand Juror George Platt was entered and a wrist watch and a pint of milk were taken. A $1 bill that was hidden under a vase on a mantel was stolen from the home of Guy Bartlett and at the schoolhouse the desks were opened and the contents were strewn about the place. A quantity of candy was found and apparently eaten right on the spot. Sunday night, the old Samuel French place, half a mile west of the station, was broken into. The house has not been occupied since the death of Mrs. French a few weeks ago. The furniture and all household effects had been packed up in readiness for an auction. All compartments on the furniture pieces, which might contain anything, were opened wide, but as far as could be determined nothing of value was stolen.

Deputy Sheriff Addison Frink and State Policeman Henry Heinold of the Stafford Springs barracks are investigating. It is thought that the same person or persons responsible for the breaks in the cottages at Lake Wangumbaug are the same who figured in the several burglaries in Andover.

The main business of the regular meeting and luncheon of Willimantic Rotary Club, Tuesday noon, was to elect a new board of directors. Raymond A. Parker and J. E Sullivan were appointed tellers for the balloting, which resulted as follows: Harry W. Standish, James P. Bath, John F. Ahern, Alma J. Martineau and Louis A. Kingsbury. The new directorate will announce its choice of officers at the meeting next week.

The attendance record dropped low Tuesday, seven members being absent. Daniel V. Medbury of Detroit, Mich., was a guest of the club. "Dan" boasts the honor of not having missed a weekly meeting for three consecutive years. William Doran of California was another visitor. He gave an interesting talk on one of the new radical improvements in the automobile industry, the balloon tire.

The festivities of the meeting opened with a quintet "warbulation" of Darling, I'm Growing Old, by Raymond A. Parker, John F. Ahern, Henry M. Congdon, Harry W. Standish and Ellison S. Smith.

President James P. Mustard read a communication from the boys' week committee of Rotary International in which announcement was made that President Calvin Coolidge had accepted the honorary chairmanship of the Rotary Boys' Week. On motion of Fred D. Jordan, Richard E. Dodge was selected chairman and James P. Bath secretary of the local committee of arrangements for boys' week.

'Herb" Huber was caught in the act Tuesday, in consequence of which Vice President Harry W. Standish moved that the classifications of some of the members be changed. He asked that "Banker" Huber be known as Laundryman Huber in the future and that "Jim" Bath's classification be changed to that of Minister.

Adjournment was taken at 1.30 o'clock.

Jubilee Circle No. 2 held a very successful whist party at St. Joseph's hall, Monday evening. Some thirty tables were in play. First prizes went to Mrs. George Hanks and Thomas O'Rourke, and second awards were given Miss Katherine Connaughton and Rev. John E. Clark. Mrs. Winfred Rushford and Jeremiah Murphy were given the consolation awards. The hostesses were Mrs. Arthur M. Hurley, Mrs. Ida Loughlin, Mrs. Minnie Flynn, Mrs. M. P. Cronin and the Misses Helen Hinchey and Marion Bernard.

Half a dozen handsome trout were being displayed here Tuesday afternoon, by George V. Vanderman, who with James Farrell whipped the brooks of Chaplin Tuesday.

Thirty pupils were in attendance at the reopening of The Ridges grammar school Monday. Those who have not been absent nor tardy during the winter season are: Nellie Cravira, seventh grade; Cecil Killourey, fifth grade; John and Michael Cravira, fourth grade, and Edna Mott, second grade.

Announcement has been made here of the engagement of Miss Dorothy Wilson, daughter of Mrs. Frank M Wilson, formerly of this city, to Robert G. Campbell of New York. Both Miss Wilson and Mr. Campbell are now employed in Dayton, Ohio. Mrs. Wilcon is spending the winter there "Something doing every minute" was the slogan carried out by Willimantic lodge of Elks, No. 1311, B. P. O. E., Monday evening, at its tenth anniversary celebration, held in the drill shed at the state armory on Pleasant street. Following an hour's concert by B. P. O. E. band given on Main street for the benefit of the public, the Elks, with visiting Elks, from practically every part of the state, in procession of 550, marched to the state armory where all sat at a supper served on a handsomely decorated table. The hall decorations were of white and lavender with national colors. A roast turkey dinner was served by a group of pretty young waitresses.

The banquet got under way to the melody of Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here, by the orchestra. After several other orchestra selections a receptive audience listened to quartet singing by visiting Elks, led by George Downes of Wauregan. Charles W. Hill, exalted ruler, was toastmaster. George A. Bartlett of the entertainment committee presented the artists who kept the audience interested with singing, dancing and instrumental numbers, all of which received a great deal of applause.

A general feeling of brotherhood and friendship pervaded the hall. As Past Grand Exalted Ruler James R. Nicholson entered, accompanied by Past Exalted Ruler Charles A. Gates, they were given a rising ovation by the gathering.

Following the repast, the entertainment acts were halted for a few minutes while Exalted Ruler C. W. Hill introduced Past Grand Exalted Ruler James R. Nicholson of Springfield lodge, No. 51. Referring to the growth of the lodge of Elks from 50 to 500 members within a decade, Exalted Ruler Hill led up to his introduction in eloquent words. The address as given by Mr. Nicholson was interesting, inspiring and enlightening. He concluded with the declaration: "The spirit of America is the spirit of the Elks. Elks stand for brotherhood and the love of their country."

Past District Deputy Martin J. Cunningham of Danbury lodge, No. 136, was given a royal reception as the father of Willimantic lodge, No. 1311. While his speech was on the whole in a jocular vein, his reference to the additional work which the Elks should do toward the welfare of boys in their community and in speaking of the death of Daniel P. Dunn, past exalted ruler, he was sincere and earnest.

Additional entertainment numbers followed the speechmaking. The committee in charge of the highly successful affair comprised Joseph M. Berard, Valentine L. Murphy, F. D. Donohue, Charles A. Gates, Maurice S. Leonard, Charles W. Alpaugh, J. Francis Keon, George A. Bartlett, Louis J. Flynn, Michael E. Sullivan and R. Ernest Melody.

Due to a difference of opinion of the debaters as to the definition of the subject, "Resolved, that a practical training and experience are preferable to a college education to cater upon a business or industrial career," the debate was called a draw, the opponents being given equally the benefit of their versions, by a rising vote of thanks, extended by over 150 Chamber of Commerce members, who had gathered for the April meeting, Tuesday night. Henry T. Burr of New Britain, formerly principal of Willimantic State Normal school upheld the affirmative and Principal Egbert A. Case of Windham High school spoke for the negative. Mr. Burr made the point that practical experience was the making of more business men than a college education. He cited instances where the business needs of large industrial firms also of smaller retail houses were simply men of purpose, who had fitted themselves for their position by experience and the application of a determination to succeed. For a successful business life Mr. Burr said that there were three outstanding qualifications, willingness for constant dogged hard work, determination and ability to handle men. Too high an education was a handicap to this type of man.

Mr. Case based his assertions on a question between a business and industrial career. A career is something more than an ordinary business life, according to the negative speaker. A career consists of putting into life the largest human surface of which one is capable and of drawing out of life the most satisfaction that could be gained. "Business belongs to business", said Mr. Case and a career belongs to the man." This view-point established a disruption between the speakers as far as the subject of debate was concerned. Both men brought out strong points with regard to their contention. George Rimman then arose and as the speakers appeared to be debating on different subjects the verbal contest was called a draw.

Following the excellent supper, a short business session was held in charge of President Valin L. Murphy. Candidates John W. Wright, R. L. Hahn of Mansfield and Harold L. Starrs were voted to membership. Secretary Channing Morrill read the minutes of the previous meeting of the chamber and of the board of directors. Ladies' night is to be held in May. A resolution was adopted expressing appreciation of the services rendered by ex-Postmaster John O'Rourke. Mr. O'Rourke was given the good wishes of the chamber in his future undertaking.

Adjournment was taken at 2.45 o'clock.

Members of Willimantic Chamber of Commerce felt as surprised as modern Rip Van Winkles, upon leaving their rooms on Main street Tuesday evening. Either the calendar had been turned back a few months of advanced a few seasons, as the streets and automobiles were covered with several inches of snow. The man with the shovel again became conspicuous after an absence of several weeks.

STAFFORD SPRINGS

William Tuthill, 37, an employe of the Rockville-Willimantic Lighting Company shot and killed himself at the company's plant in Stafford Springs Sunday morning. Tuthills' body was found on the floor by Raymond Jones who had gone to the plant to go to work. Tuthill had been working nights and it is thought that the act was committed about eight o'clock which is the time Tuthill usually left the plant to go home. The local medical examiner returned a verdict of suicide by shooting, the shot having pierced the heart. Tuthill had many friends in town and there was much surprise when it was learned that he was dead. He had apparently been in good health and was in the best of spirit all day Saturday. A note found near the body, however, leads to the belief that he may have had a love affair. The note, which was picked up by Dr. G. F. Bard read as follows. "Just one fool: Trust a man—dog—but not a woman."—King Tut. The boys called him King Tut. Who the woman is that was referred to in the note is not known.

There was a larger attendance at the concert given by the Tempo Male Quartette of Hartford at the Warren Memorial town hall Monday evening. The proceeds were larger and will be used to help defray the expenses of the public health center.

The Warren Woolen Company has plans ready for enlarging its plant on Furnace avenue. A three-story brick building to fill practically the entire space between the present office and the tower will be erected this spring.

Stafford Springs has decided not to join the proposed baseball league but will put a strong independent team in the field.

William R. Preble, first selectman is again at Johnson Memorial hospital for treatment.

Mr. and Mrs. John Gondren were in Norwich Monday attending the funeral of Mrs. Marcia Morgan, a former resident of this place.

Edward A. Mitchell of Salem was here Monday.

E. A. Carrier of North Westchester was in town Monday.

A private social given by the Ransom Eighth grade, February 4th aroused so much enthusiasm that it was decided to hold another one on Thursday, March 27. A committee, comprised Miss Gillette, Mary Shedriff and Caire Back, had been appointed by the president of the C. of G. club two or three weeks before. As Carol Back had been taken ill Beckie Gaulick was appointed to take her place. This committee did remarkable work in preparing refreshments and a social evening for all. Cakes were brought by different pupils and punch was made by the mother of one of the girls.

The social opened with a new game, "Lady of the Lake", which later in the evening proved to be the children's favorite. Several other games, such as "Spin the Battle," "Tucker" and "Seven in, Seven out" were played.

The end of the evening came after singing the Boola song. A committee was appointed to collect funds from the pupils to buy fruit for some of their classmates who are ill.

During the first part of the school year the eighth grade started an imaginary trip, around the world. They are now on their way from Cape Town to Tokio. The athletic club formed by the boys of the seventh and eighth grades has recently received its baseball equipment.

The eighth grade students are at present working on their essays to be given at the graduating exercises and on selection to be given at the speaking contest.

Mr. Merrill is giving lessons on hand instruments Saturday afternoons at the Ransom school. Several are taking advantage of this opportunity and more are planning to a little later.

WINDHAM

Fifteen women braved the snow storm last Wednesday afternoon and attended the bi-monthly meeting of the Woman's Missionary society held with Miss Clara Johnson. The president, Mrs. F. E. Guild, led the devotional exercises and the lecturer and treasurer's reports were read by Miss Dorothy Brown and Miss Johnson. The chapter from the study book, The Child in America's Future, was omitted because of the absence of Mrs. Clifford. The time was pleasantly spent in social intercourse and sewing on sheets and pillow cases for Tougaloo college. The roll call was responded to by some current event.

Mrs. John F. Woods has gone to New York to spend a few days with Mr. Woods.

Mrs. Homer Wood and children were recent guests of Mrs. Wood's niece, Mrs. Harry Koski of Norwich.

The Woman's guild of St. Paul's church held a food sale which netted $20.40 at the home of Miss Emma Neale Thursday. Hot pancakes and coffee were served in the dining room.

A beanf and salad supper followed by a musical program is planned at the chapel this week.

A community vesper service is to be held in St. Pauls church, Saturday at 5 p. m. Rev. F. C. Williams will speak on Men Who Crucified Jesus.

The annual meeting of the Center district was held in the schoolhouse Saturday evening. The treasurer's report showed receipts of $1086.82, expenditures $881.74, balance $205.08. The tax collector's report gave a 2-mill tax on assessment of $230,700, amounting to $461.40, of which $25.62 remains unpaid. The largest expense of the year was the purchase of a chemical engine and tools for $258.75. This is kept in the basement of the Congregational church where $60 was paid for installing a suitable door with concrete entrance. The old hand engine has also been repaired. A 2-mill tax was voted due June 1st. This will permit of permanent repairs to sidewalks and a section of bad road on the south and west side of the green. The following officers were elected: district committee, Charles Larrabee, Guy Richmond, Josephine W. Bingham; clerk and treasurer, Mrs. Lena F. Potter; tax collector, Paul Hopkins; auditors, Dr. Guild, H. C. Lathrop; assessors, Charles Larrabee, Paul Hopkins; board of relief, W. F. Maine, Arthur S. Potter, Attorney H. E. Parry.

One Ride a Revelation!

IT is largely the power and pep of the new Cleveland Six motor that influences so many persons to buy this new 5-passenger sedan.

The plain truth is that not one motorist out of ten knows the Cleveland Six is one of the finest performance cars being built.

Until they drive it, they do not dream that the Cleveland Six gives exactly the performance qualities that are the basis of owning high priced and heavy cars.

It takes hills with a smooth, masterful, irresistible rush—takes them faster and easier—and with an absence of effort that is a revelation.

It sweeps along at high speeds with Pullman car smoothness—without swaying, rocking, or weaving.

In traffic, it is nimble, alert, easy to handle, and impressively swift on pick-up.

Like all Cleveland Six closed cars, it has a Fisher body, notable for the fine coachwork, the spaciousness and comfort-giving qualities that Fisher craftsmanship creates.

Like all Clevelands, it comes with an established reputation for unfailing dependability.

At its present price, $1295, it stands out as a really remarkable value—unquestionably the soundest buy of the day for those who want the very maximum of closed car comfort at the very minimum expenditure.

Hair Like Mine

Has come to thousands in this easy way
By Edna Wallace Hopper

I found in France, many years ago, the greatest hair help science has discovered. My mother used it, and at 57 she had hair like mine today.

I have used it. My hair is the marvel of millions. It grows finer every year. I have never had falling hair or dandruff, never a touch of gray. And now, at a grandmother's age, it is hair that most girls envy.

I have supplied this help to countless friends, and it brought them like results. So I am convinced that it means to millions such hair as cannot come without it. And I am going to help those millions get it.

What experts say

This formula, perfected by French experts, is based on lifetimes of hair study. They gave me these reasons for its amazing results.

It combats the hardened oil and dandruff which stifle the hair roots. They check the hair growth and destroy the hair. They choke the pigment which gives color to the hair.

Thus it cleans the scalp, then it stimulates and fertilizes. Hair thrives under these conditions, just as flowers thrive in a well-kept garden.

It cannot harm the hair. It does not affect hair color, natural or artificial. It deals only with the scalp—the soil of the hair. And all the results come through reviving the roots.

Quick and easy

I call this formula my Hair Youth. I apply it with an eye dropper directly to the scalp. This takes but a minute a day, and it does not muss the hair.

One feels at once its cleaning, stimulating action. And my own hair shows what it does for hair health and hair beauty.

Every dealer sells my Hair Youth under guarantee. If one bottle fails to delight you, he will return your money. I want every woman, without a penny of risk, to learn what my Hair Youth does.

Edna Wallace Hopper's Hair Youth is supplied by all druggists and toilet counters. Price, 90c and $1 with eye dropper. Also my Youth Cream, based on fruits. Also my Facial Youth — my famous liquid cleanser. Also my White Youth Clay—the last word in facial clay. My Beauty Book comes with each.

Try my Hair Youth at my risk. Do it now. The results are too fine to miss. Then I think you will want the other helps which did so much for me. And all of them are now at your command. Edna Wallace Hopper, 936 Lake Shore Drive, Chicago.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Speaking of hardships—some men who live in this town spent months in the trenches overseas during the world war and others spent a few hours along the trout brooks Tuesday morning. Either of these groups might rightfully contend today that they would be up against a tough proposition, and the man who denied any one of them would be in line for a mass assault from both parties.

This may establish for disinterested persons the fact that going fishing Tuesday, at the opening of the trout fishing season, involved taking a risking as to physical effects on the part of the enthusiasts.

It was cold early in the morning—and grew colder later. The trout seemed equally frigid. They did not respond in any great numbers to all the inducements intended to attract them out of their winter quarters. Getting a bit was like getting Daugherty out of office—a long, tough job.

Some fish were brought in for display before the noon hour, and some tired and hungry fishermen brought in others during the course of the afternoon, but such displays of trout as were made here during the first day of this fishing season did not startle the community and did not break any records, so those who were content to await for better weather may feel assured that some of the fish still remain in the brooks, and that there is reason in their thinking that trout will be caught after the season is a few days older.

James Kent, Elmville, veteran coon hunter, thrice illustrious fishermap, shamed all the other wielders of rod and reel on the first day of the season by bringing in a trout that weighed one pound, 15 ounces, and was 15 inches in length. Trout of such size are rarely caught at any time during the open season in this section of New England, & hats are off to Mr. Kent. And all those who know him would rather hame him catch such a big one than get one like it themsleves providing they are good sports and true disciples of Isaac Walton. James Kent ranks among the veterans of the sportsman's brigade in this territory. The novices will cheer because he came through with a fine catch, the first day of the open season.

There were many disappointed fishermen Tuesday. But this trout season, like many that have preceded it, is at least 90 days long. Most fishermen get weary of the sport or fish themselves out in that time. In the meantime some fish that match up with the one James Kent brought in Tuesday may be caught.

Up to Tuesday night, the snow storm of March 11-12 had been overadvertised. Out of New London county cars continued to arrive in this neck of the woods with snow shovels strapped on the running boards. That wasnt necessary here any more. Like other sections of southern New England, this part of Connecticut had emerged from the snow blankets of the late winter season.

A snow shovel seemed about as necessary hereabouts as ear muffs in Bermuda. However, Tuesday evening three or four inches of snow fell.

A day ahead of time, Meesup experienced an April fool joke. A great hue and cry went up when some one thought he had found a human skull, back of a wall in the Goshen section of that community. States police were called. Town officials pricked up their ears in interest. Apparently, here was a mystery, flaunting its unknown facts in the face of spring.

Many a good yarn has been built upon far less than the Meesup proposition seemed to offer—or seems to offer. This particular affair falls flat, however. The skull found is not that of a human being. It might be that of a hair dresser's nor hardly that either—better may it be said that it was a skull that appeared to be of wax, presently like some of the politicians!

Not a soul is missing from Meesup, where a careful checkup of the inhabitants is said to be made every night. Town officials hemmed and hawed when asked about it Tuesday afternoon. Didn't care for any publicity, it would appear, though no one was blaming them because someone said "Taspot" done.

The Meesup sensation had at least one redeeming feature. It vexed the big news from that ridiculous stuff about bootleggers, et al.

Dayville and Elmville people are very much interested in the prospect of having gas furnished through a high pressure system of the Eastern Connecticut Power company, through the Putnam Light and Power company.

Save for the rainy day, and when you are depositing in the national bank guaranteed by the strength of the federal reserve system. The Windham County National bank.—adv.

Delegates from all the towns hereabouts will be at Hartford tomorrow attending the republican state convention that will nominate Connecticuts delegation to the national republican convention to be held in Cleveland in June.

John A. Howard of Haverhill was a visitor with friends in Danielson Tuesday.

Tuesday afternoon at Attawaugan, funeral services were held for Mrs. Mary Adams. Rev. J. E. Carter of the Attawaugan Methodist church was in charge of the services. Mrs. L. V. Brown, with harp accompaniment, sang at the service. The bearers were relatives and friends. Burial was in Grove street cemetery at Putnam. L. E. Kennedy had charge of the funeral arrangements.

Unless it is not generally manifested yet, there is very little interest in the coming annual borough election. That, however, is no warrant for the average citizen to be complacent. Sometimes things political happen to a complacent community, and there is no redress in belated regrets.

Now there is another proposition about better street lighting arrangements for the borough. This plan considers replacing the present light throughout the business section with lights of 600 candle power and putting lights of higher power than those in present use on all streets to the borough at only a slightly advanced total cost over present lighting charges.

Miss Ruth Franklin under went a surgical operation Tuesday at a hospital in Boston where she has been a student nurse.

Not a high class April fool joke was pulled off in Danielson Tuesday. Old time stuff was the best the youngsters had to offer—another evidence that the world is almost devoid of new ideas.

Nothing that has occurred recently would tend to establish that the nature dancers who have found publicity a handicap in Massachusetts are to follow out their investigations of the late winter by coming into this territory to buy a farm.

A lecture in the interest of poultry raisers was given Tuesday evening in connection with a showing of motion pictures at the Orpheum theatre.

James Monohan and daughter, Miss Alice Monohan, were in Providence to attend the funeral of a relative.

Bowling fans from various sections of Eastern Connecticut will be here to watch the championship contests, tomorrow (Thursday) evening.

Miss Mary Cauden has been a visitor with friends in Providence.

Donald A. Stephens, aged one year, died at the home of his parents, Mr and Mrs. John Stephens on Mechanic street.

PUTNAM

Newell W. Banks of Detroit, champion American checker player, and the foremost blindfolded chess player in this country, has accepted an invitation of the Putnam Checker club to appear in this city Wednesday evening, April 9th. Mr. Banks will play both checkers and chess and give exhibitions of blindfolded playing, also of simultaneous playing. The exhibition will be in the high school gymnasium. Interest in checkers has had a considerable stimulus in Putnam and the surrounding towns and the appearance of the American champion will draw enthusiasts from as far north as Webster to as far south as Meesup.

As far as can be learned, no further action is being taken toward revising the Putnam city charter. The matter, agitated for years, came up in a meeting of the chamber of commerce and for a time it looked as if the proposition was to be carried to effect. The matter was put up to the common council with the request that an appropriation be put in the annual budget to be voted on at the annual meeting in March. No such item appeared and no money was appropriated. A committee was appointed to see what arrangements could be made for getting the work done. That is the last heard of the matter and from present appearances the revision is again to go by the boards.

A number of men who have made a close study of the charter and ordinances are of the opinion that Putnam has a good working charter but the deficiency appears in the city ordinances, many of which are believed to be unconstitutional, while others are obsolete. The matter of city ordinances is not as complicated. In revising or changing the charter it is necessary to get an act passed by the legislature, but city ordinances may be enacted by the common council. Therefore it seems to some who have been studying conditions that a revision of the city ordinances, which can be made by acts of the common council, will go far toward remedying a situation that those interested in the matter are seeking to change.

Hyde Smith of Worcester, formerly of Putnam, head of the S-A Amusement company of this city, is driving his automobile again. The car, which was stolen in Webster, was recovered on a lonely road in the town of Dudley across the river from Webster. The car was found stuck in the mud and it took three horses to pull it out.

The machine was evidently abandoned by the thieves when it got stuck, as it was impossible to drive it out of the deep ruts under its own power. Footprints were covered up by the soft mud and it was impossible to tell in this way how many men were in the car.

A farmer who lived near the place where the car was stuck saw it there and notified the Webster police. The car was not damaged and the gas tank was nearly full. Mr. Smith was notified that his car had been recovered, went to Webster and claimed it.

The car was stolen from in front of the Steinberg theatre, Webster, last Saturday evening. Mr. Smith was on his way to Putnam from Worcester and stopped in Webster. He locked the car and was only gone ten minutes but when he returned to where he left the machine it had disappeared.

At a meeting of the ecclesiastical society of the Congregational church to consider the resignation of the pastor, Rev. Simon E. Cozad, sent to the church secretary some days ago, it was unanimously voted not to accept the resignation. It is understood that when Mr. Cozad was appraised of the action of the society he was not prepared to make a definite answer as to whether he would reconsider his resignation.

Speculation continues and interest is manifested every day, as to the probability of the resumption of operations at the mill of the Manhasset Manufacturing company. No definite information is available but it is stated by a few employes recently released that they were requested not to seek employment elsewhere, for two or three weeks. This leads these men to believe that their services will again be required at an early date.

The sale has not yet been approved by the superior court but this is believed to be but a formal matter. If this mill resumes operations it will be the most hopeful sign of a revival of business conditions that the city could have.

There is a persistent rumor that the Morse mill on Church street, now idle, has been sold, but this continues only a rumor.

Although the weather Tuesday was at freezing point, a few of the city's most enthusiastic fishermen were out of bed before sun-up and on their way to their favorite trout streams. No reports of what luck had followed the anglers had been made when darkness had fallen. Old timers, whose enthusiasm for the first day of the open season has waned with advancing years and who prefer to wait until the weather is warmer and the brooks are lower, were predicting Tuesday that the youngsters would not fare very well on the cold, raw April first. There will be plenty of opportunity to whip the streams before the season closes, July 1st.

The second clinic in the well baby campaign is to be held in the high school auditorium this (Wednesday) afternoon. At the first clinic parents brought so many babies that it was impossible to examine all of them before 5 p. m. The campaign is held under the auspices of the state board of health cooperating with the doctors of the state. Doctors and nurses give their services without charge and there is no charge to the parent who brings a baby. It is not a clinic for sickly babies, but for well babies who do not come under the observation of a physician, the purpose being to discover latent abnormal conditions such as impaired vision, tonsils, adnoids, etc.

Members of the Hook & Ladder Truck company of the Putnam fire department answered two fire alarms within 14 hours and incidentally two property owners had their chimneys cleaned at the expense of the city. The four-stroke alarm rang at 7.57 Monday night and the company made a run to the corner of Woodstock avenue and Marshal street; the same call rang again Tuesday morning at 10.57 o'clock and the department extinguished a chimney fire on Main street near May street. No damage resulted in either case.

Every time the company answers an alarm for a chimney fire they are called the "chimney cleaners." Every time they answer a call of this kind certain citizens are heard to say that those who do not clean their own chimneys should be made to pay the city when the chimneys are cleaned by the department—but nothing is done about it.

Funeral services for Isadora Cloutier, 71, were held at his home on Church street, Tuesday morning. A solemn high mass of requiem was offered at St. Mary's church at nine o'clock. Mr. Cloutier died Saturday night after a short illness with pneumonia. Besides his wife he leaves two sons, Arthur and Fred, and a daughter, Mrs. Fred Bibeault, all of Putnam.

Mrs. Helen Willey, house manager of the House in the Pines, Norton, Mass., has returned, after a visit with her mother, Mrs. A. W. Macdonald, Oak Hill. Her son, Malcolm M. Willey, and Mrs. Willey, left for New York after spending the week-end in Putnam.

JEWETT CITY

The fire company responded to six calls during March:

March 10—District 34, Aspinook house chimney fire. 50 gallons chemical. Still alarm.

12—Outside call to R. R. Barber's house in Lisbon, 19 gallons chemical, still alarm.

16—District 24, Slater avenue, 55 gallons chemical, whistle alarm.

17—District 52, Burleson tenement, 50 gallons chemical, still and whistle alarms.

23—District 14, A. R. Young's barn, 50 gallons chemical, 400 feet hose and two streams water. Whistle alarm.

28—Outside call to Versailles. Two tenements to let. Inquire F. H. Gilbert.—adv.

Ashland Club is planning one of the biggest times, for club members only, Thursday night. There is to be a varied programme by out of town vocalists, monologue entertainers and toe dancers. There will be four boxing bouts by some of the local men, with outside help.

Mrs. Edmond Jodoin and daughter Catherine are spending the week with Mrs. Jodoin's father, in Brooklyn, N. Y.

Mrs. John McBroome, who will be ninety-six this month has fallen and broken her hip.

Francis Y. Brown and a classmate William F. Oatman of Dundee, Ill., both of Dartmouth College are at Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Brown's.

Joseph Gauthier is ill in a Hartford hospital.

The conference of churches is to be held at the Jewett City Congregational church April 16.

Miss Bessie and Marion Colineau of Pawtucket are visiting at Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Davis. They were former Jewett City residents.

Barn for sale. Best offer takes it. F. H. P. Clement.—adv.

Local fishermen found trout biting now Tuesday, with the water reported very cold. No creels of any size were brought in. The usual crop of local trout stories is not affected by either high water or cold weather. Some are true and altogether interesting, even if they do savor of the bent pin and crooked pole variety. A small bridge crosses one of the fine trout brooks in the east part of Griswold, which the narrator calls Whitelook. It is generally believed here that this brook is situated in a sort of mythical locality. On this bridge one afternoon in early spring sat a small member of the Hazard family, formerly of Hopeville. Charcoal would have made a white mark on the diminutive angler, he had his bait loose in his pocket and was fishing with a black alder pole, cut from the nearby fringe of bushes that bordered the stream.

One of Griswold's town officials with a friend were fishing in a pool a few hundred feet below the bridge, and with not much luck. Presently a big automobile with Rhode Island registration numbers drove up to the bridge. Three men alighted, glanced casually at the small colored gentleman and proceeded to limber up their tackle. Probably the poles of choicest split bamboo and expensive braided lines, cost little less than $50. Every now and then the small gent would "slot" one out, and put it in a bag which he had in a basket. The Rhode Island experts fished all around above and below the bridge and didn't get a fish.

Finally the prowess of the lad attracted their attention and soon they bought his pocket full of worms, for which fifty cents was paid. With no bait, he proceeded to make ready to depart, but he was not allowed to go, until for $2 he had sold his twelve trout. No captain of a trawler, after getting a fancy price for a successful fare, ever had anything on the satisfaction evidenced by the small dark party, as he trudged off down the dusty road.

PLAINFIELD

An enjoyable party was held at the home of Miss Marjorie Winsor Monday evening, for Miss Marion Simonds of La Salle Academy, Auburndale, Mass., who is spending a few days with Miss Winsor. The evening was made pleasant by games and other forms of amusement. Refreshments were served. Miss Simonds is granddaughter of Rev. Abram J. Quick, pastor of the First Congregational church from 1883 to 1887.

The executive board of the Lincoln club, met Monday evening with the secretary, William F. Hall. Plans were made for the next meeting to be held April 14. An out of town speaker is to be procured for the meeting. The next meeting will be ladies' night, an annual institution of this club.

Leo Barr, a former resident of this town, is spending a few days with relatives here.

A meeting of the committee of the Ecclesiastical society is to be held tonight (Wednesday) with the chairman of the committee, Charles F. Heap.

Lyman Isneau, chief mechanic at a local garage, has moved his family from Central Village to the Stead cottage owned by Samuel Wibberly.

Vernon Royle has moved into the house owned by Mrs. Eva Pike, which was vacated recently by William Veit. Mr. Royle is to occupy the lower floor.

HANOVER

Rev. Roderick MacLeod spoke Sunday morning of the home as Christ's workshop. He also spoke of Christ's obedience to his father and our need of obedience.

The picture, Sherlock Holmes, with John Barrymore, was shown in the parish house Wednesday evening.

Several girls from Hanover hiked to Fort Ned Wednesday night. They enjoyed a marshmallow and frankfurt roast there.

Thursday night a daffodil dinner was given for Allen House by his sisters. A half dozen fellows greatly enjoyed the dinner. Mr. House left on Saturday for Flint, Michigan, where he will attend an automobile school. Flora House has returned home from Connecticut Agricultural College.

A fruit tree pruning demonstration by Mr. Darrow of Connecticut Agricultural College was given in W. S. Lee's orchards Monday. Walter T. Clark of Norwich, the county farm agent, assisted Mr. Darrow. Both women and men from this part of New London county attended the demonstration.

OCCUM AND VERSAILLES

The members of the Ladies' Aid society of the Versailles M. E. church were royally entertained by Mrs. John C. Stevens Thursday afternoon, at her home in Baltic.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Bird and children of Mumsey, N. Y., were weekend visitors with Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Boyce, motoring from New York.

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Tebo of Woonsocket, R. I., were guests of Mr. and Mrs P. J. Kelly Sunday.

A. R. Pilligar has recently installed a radio receiving set at his home.

Gustave Lambert has the sympathy of a large circle of friends in his serious injury received Monday afternoon. Mr. Lambert is well known in this vicinity where so many years of his life have been spent.

SOUTH WOODSTOCK

G. W. Ericson of Lakeside was at home over Sunday a short time ago.

Mrs. Ericson's mother, Mrs. Nelson, died at the home of her brother in Wallingford, March 11.

Miss Mary L. Sayles of South Woodstock and Lester Rockwell of the Center district, were married on March 14th. The neighbors gave them a surprise Saturday evening and presented a Morris chair. Refreshments were served and a pleasant evening was spent.

Hazen Calhoun, who has been very ill with scarlet fever, is recovering slowly.

Rev. H. A. Calhoun has conducted services in the church the last three Sundays.

The Ladies' Aid society is to meet with Mrs. Henry Young April 9.

The refreshment committee are planning to serve a supper soon.

Fred Williams, who has worked for Albert Williams several years, began work for Hamilton Holt the first of April.

C. W. Bowen is improving his tenement houses in South Woodstock with a new coat of paint.

County Agent F. L. Davis is to give a talk at the meeting of Sequest grange tonight, April 3.

THE MELLON ATTACK.

As if in fulfilment of the claim that should the removal of Daugherty be effected attacks would at once be directed against other members of the cabinet, the resolution dealing with Secretary Mellon was brought forward.

Whatever may be said of the other inquiries politics stand out clearly in the move against the secretary of the treasury. Immediately the question bobbed up as to why the resolution had been delayed to this late date after the cabinet member had been in office for three years and he was subject to the same attack before confirmation as he is today.

How unwarranted was the resolution and how unjustified the attack was clearly disclosed in the statement that was made to the senate by Senator Reed of Pennsylvania who showed that all possible precaution had been taken before the acceptance of the cabinet position to make sure that the requirements of the office were being met. Efforts which have been or are being made to the contrary fall of their own weight. They are trumped up for the purpose of creating political opposition to the man who has rendered such a remarkable service to the country as the head of the treasury department.

It can be appreciated that Secretary Mellon has not pleased those who have been making their plans for raiding the national treasury. He has stood consistently for a sound financial administration, for curtailment of expense, reduction of debts and the cutting of taxes. He has had the temerity to show that the country is entitled to a reduction in federal taxation, even though that statement ran counter to the efforts underway for disposing of billions in the form of gratuities.

The attacks upon Secretary Mellon have amounted to nothing because there is no ground for them. The tabling of the resolution was the proper disposition except for the killing of it. Such attacks, however, hurt those who make them far more than they do those aimed at.

FIREARMS BY MAIL.

Whenever the question has been raised concerning the placing of restrictions on the sale of firearms, it has been invariably pointed out that the desired results would never be obtained as long as it was possible to cross into another state and obtain the forbidden weapons or to secure them through the mail. It reflected the experience of certain states in their effort to place a curb upon small arms.

As if appreciating the situation that exists and recognizing the need of contributing to its relief, the action of a large concern in Chicago in announcing that it will henceforth sell no more revolvers indicates that it is anxious to place a check upon this line of trade before it is actually forced to do so by law. Such a decision on the part of one concern is not sufficient to greatly reduce the sale or distribution of small arms, but it indicates the beginning of action that will have a beneficial effect.

It isn't to be expected that the manufacture and sale of firearms will be forbidden. There are requirements which make them desirable. There are times when they are required. The effort for the placing of restrictions upon the sale of small arms is based upon the desire to overcome the part which they play in the commission of crime, to reduce the number of homicides and to overcome the many needless accidents in all of which the revolver too frequently figures.

State regulations had been expected to accomplish such an end. It might be that all states had uniform laws dealing with the subject, and did all business houses decline to sell such goods through the mail. The time may come when the use of the mail for such purposes will be prohibited when crooks can be prevented from getting firearms and when desirable safeguards will be thrown about public safety but there will have to be concerted action before anything in the way of effective results can be anticipated or obtained. The Chicago concern has taken an interesting stand and it remains to be seen whether any others will be influenced thereby.

UNFAVORABLE COMPARISONS.

When Dr. F. L. Hoffman of the Saving Life league presents figures concerning the homicides in this country in comparison with other civilized nations he furnishes rather startling information, for he says "We have the highest murder rate of any civilized country in the world" and proceeds to give statistics to prove it.

Last year according to his figures there were 10,000 murders and 13,100 suicides and strange as it may seem the city with the highest murder rate has a small foreign population, and one is disposed to agree with him when he says "something must be fundamentally wrong with this country, which on one side of the Canadian border presents 73 deaths from homicides to every 1,000,000 of population on this side of the border to every five deaths in Canada."

The proportion of homicides in this country compared with other countries is equally startling for where we had 73 England had not quite 2, Ireland 9; Australia, 19; New Zealan, 9; South Africa, 15; Spain, 9; Italy, 3; Holland, 5; Swedee, 13; Norway, 5; Switzerland, 3; Scotland, 4. We had twice as many as Italy's worst record, and in spite of the attention which Dr. Hoffman has been calling for years to the condition "We get worse. Our murder trials are largely a farce. Prohibition has not brought us a lower murder rate. Our murder rate today is higher than ever," is the way in which he pictures the situation.

Dr. Hoffman deals with homicides and suicides. He might also have told of the similar position we occupy in regard to deaths and great losses from fires, many accidents and fatalities that are needless and the waste that is tolerated.

It is well that there is someone who takes such an interest in crime statistics as to keep the situation before us annually, if not more often. It seems unfortunate that greater attention is not paid to the deplorable picture and more effective remedial action taken. Can we be proud of the comparisons shown?

PROTECTING HIGHWAY USERS.

Within the past few weeks the motor vehicle registrar of Massachusetts has had occasion to direct attention to the manner in which the courts of that state have been disregarding what he considers to be the menace to life in the public highways. He has deplored the failure to punish those who have been guilty of driving automobiles while under the influence of liquor, the many continuances of cases and the leniency which invited disrespect for the law.

Since then he has had called to his attention the case of a judge who was arrested for driving his automobile while under the influence of liquor and two continuances of his case in court. "Not knowing how long these continuances would be allowed" the registrar has proceeded to take away the license of the judge to drive an automobile and a hearing has been set for a revocation of the registration.

It is apparently the purpose of the registrar to act within his authority for the protection of the users of the highways even though there seems to be an effort on the part of the courts to dodge that responsibility. If the registrar feels that there is additional ground for the course that he has taken in this instance because the accused is a judge, it will have to be admitted that he uses good reasoning. The users of the highways are entitled to proper protection and if they cannot get it in any other way in Massachusetts they are fortunate that they have a motor vehicles registrar who is alive to his duty. It is to be hoped he will succeed without shortening his official life.

SEEING IT THROUGH.

In the state of Oregon the effort was made to require all children to receive a public school education. It was held to be unconstitutional but on being submitted to a referendum it was carried by a majority of about 12,000 in a total vote of over 218,000. It was clearly a matter that was destined for the courts and that is where it found its way.

The appeal has been heard and it is the unanimous opinion of the three judges that the law is unconstitutional and its enforcement has been stopped. It was held by the court to be destructive of the rights of citizens and as such could not be sustained.

Announcement that the case will be carried to the United States supreme court is only what might be expected. It is well to have the highest court in the land pass upon it, if that court considers it proper. As long as the question is up a final decision is desirable, quite the same as it was that the appeal from the referendum should be taken at once instead of waiting for some other complication to develop before going to the bottom of the matter.

While Oregon was striving for compulsory education it appears to have gone farther than it was justified in doing in spite of the fact that it represented the will of a majority of those who voted thereon. There are limits to which a majority is restricted. The Oregon judges have decided against the law and unless their decision is upset by the higher court their finding will govern the situation in that and other states. Now of course is the time to see it through.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

What is the best story you've heard about spring mud?

It will soon be possible to tell how delightful or weepy April is going to be.

The man on the corner says: Winter persists in lingering in the lap of spring.

The air is "the inalienable possession of the people" but Doheny may go out after it yet.

Did you fall for the alluring bait that frequently punctuates the sidewalks on the first of April?

Did Al Jennings become a reformer before or after he had his famous conversation with Jake Hamon?

Johnson's talk cannot be regarded as satisfying even to those who have been steadfastly supporting him.

Some of the best fish stories are not available on the first day. It is necessary to hear one or two for the proper inspiration.

Is it expected that all other stations will remain silent while the proposed broadcasting of the doings in congress is underway?

Explorer MacMillan has been educated by radio. Perhaps Mrs. de la Huerta would be successful if she adopted it in search for her husband.

Now there is a chance for the old timers to tell us when the combination of a blinding snow storm and a thunder shower was experienced before.

Every instance where the overloading of trucks is prosecuted means just that much more respect for the highways and a corresponding decrease in the abuses.

REDUCED HANDICAP

Vernon did not like children. At least, he sometimes said he did not and since the death of his own baby Dora, he had carefully avoided the society of all the little neighbors in the suburb where he and Mrs. Vernon lived. If Mrs. Vernon happened to be having a porch tea party for small girls and their dollies when Vernon came home on a summer afternoon, he would merely nod and pass on into the house. And in the winter, if he discovered Mrs. Vernon reading aloud to a group of youngsters gathered around the open fire, he would chirt himself up in his own room, there to study until he heard the last childish treble saying good by at the hall door.

"Well, what's this?" he asked one evening when he came in late to dinner and saw a very little boy sitting at the table in Dora's high chair.

"This is LaVerne, dear. They are having a scarlet fever scare over at the orphanage and I brought LaVerne home to stay with us until it is safe over there. Many of the little folks are making visits in the neighborhood." Mrs. Vernon smiled at her husband, and as he did not respond, she transferred the smile to LaVerne, with a wide grin.

"Wike wisit," he remarked, cheerfully, and Vernon, in spite of himself, also smiled ever so slightly. "Wike 'tatoes."

"Well, he's an appreciative guest," said Vernon.

"Yes, he seems just to love everything in the house. He's been playing with the Teddy bear."

"The Teddy bear! How could you let him touch Dora's things? I can't understand, how—"

"Wike ted bear. No 'fwaid bear 'tal."

"But, dear, you know Dora always liked to share her things and I think—"

"Don't, don't," begged Vernon, and the rest of the meal was eaten in silence, except for LaVerne's frequent commendation of the food.

"Wike pud. Wike ev'rysing," he said at last as the highchair was drawn from the table and Mrs. Vernon lifted him down to the floor.

"Why, he's—" began Vernon, but his wife quickly put her finger to her lips, as the child limped across the floor toward a pile of toys in the bay window.

"Infantile paralysis," whispered Mrs. Vernon, after she had started a block house which LaVerne went on building carefully.

"Poor little beggar," muttered Vernon, and in a few minutes when Mrs. Vernon took the child in her arms to carry him off to bed he said gruffly: "He's too heavy for you. I'll take him upstairs."

SCHWAB RECEIVED $1 A DAY

Charles M. Schwab wanted a business of his own, and he did not like to work for a salary. For years he was hired by others, and in a great part of the time the pay was small.

Playtime in his early teens was spent in driving the stage over the rough Loretto-Cresson road in Pennsylvania's mountains—but he studied while the horses got their wind.

At 16, with $5 in his pocket, he landed in Braddock to clerk 16 hours a day and sleep in a grocery store—salary $10 a month. Then a stake-driver for Edgar Thompson, steel works engineers, at $1 a day. Three years later, he was head of the department, but still on salary.

Ordered to the Homestead plant, a chaos after the strike, he made it the biggest steel mill in the country. Here he received a percentage of profits and wealth began to come. Made president of the Carnegie Steel Company, he sold it to J. P. Morgan for the biggest sum ever paid in a business transaction. Morgan chose him president. Offered a million dollars a year salary, Schwab refused—and made more than that in a percentage of excess profits.

Then he bought the Bethlehem Steel Company to have his own business, and Morgan purchased it from him for the United States Steel Corporation.

A breakdown from overwork, a rest in Europe, and he resigned to buy the Bethlehem company for the United States Shipbuilding Corporation, which he was active in organizing.

Then the wreck of the shipbuilding corporation, and the Bethlehem plant was back on his hands, losing a million dollars a year. They said Schwab finally had struck a snag, but 12 hours a day for three years at the plant, and he made it the greatest fine-steel mill in the country.

Now he still is at the head of his own company, is interested in many many others and is one of the world's wealthiest men.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

The Maharaja of Baroda, who has instituted an annual prize on the lines of the Nobel prize for the encouragement of the arts and natural sciences in India, is one of the wealthiest men in the great eastern empire and is generally regarded as being one of the most enlightened of the native rulers of India. He has written several books and he is a man of high education. His son and heir, who passed away while traveling in Europe last year, was educated at Harvard and the Maharaja himself has visited America. He succeeded to the principality in 1875 and was invested with powers by the British Government in 1881. During the late war he lost no opportunity of showing his loyalty to the British crown. His wife, Chimnabai, the Maharani, is the author of a book of "The Position of Women in Indian Life." The State over which the Maharaja of Baroda rules is over eight thousand square miles in extent and has a population of two million.

IN THE DAY'S NEWS

THE SAHARA'S SNOW-CLAD MOUNTAINS

"It sounds like a geographical joke to say that the railway which the French propose building across the Sahara Desert form Algeria to the Niger River, though most of it will lie in the Torrid zone, will past through a volcanic mountain range crowned with snow during three months of the year—the Hoggar Mountains of the Sahara," says a bulletin from Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

"This vast mountainous plateau in reality about equals the Alps in area, but most of it lies only from 4,000 to 6,000 feet above sea-level. Two peaks, Mounts Watatlen and Hikena, lying about 900 miles in a straight line almost due south of the city of Algiers, just pass the 8,000-foot mark, and Mount Illimane rises to 9,000 feet.

"When one acquires actual scientific knowledge concerning the true nature of the Sahara, some of the pet notions one has had since childhood must go into discard. The Sahara is not a broad stretch of sandy desert, nor are caravans and armies engulfed in the sands, except very rarely in that portion of the great expanse to the east known as the Libyan Desert.

"The alliterative expression 'The Sahara is a sea of sand' which so glibly rolls off the tongue is misleading and partially erroneous, for the surface of the desert offers a great deal of variety ranging from depressions more than 100 feet below the sea-level to plateaus five or six thousand feet above, and in isolated instances even higher. Interspersed between the sand-dunes and oases there are also tracts of loose stones and pebbles and valleys which must in ages past have been the beds of streams.

"Across this wind-swept waste, whose surface is continually changing, a broad band of rocks stretches, sometimes hiding below the surface and sometimes breaking through into plateaus and hills, accounting for the Hoggar massif.

"Part of this Hoggar plateau is well-watered and productive, but so few Europeans have been into the area that there is almost no descriptive material on the nature of the country or its people available for the inquisitive reader. One of the most colorful bits of literature touching upon the region is Pierre Benoit's romance 'Atlantide.' It even boasts a skeleton of a river system, though the water is temperamental about its flowing hours, having called a strike many years ago. Sometimes the rivers run for a few months and occasionally for a whole year. The Igharghar, which is a large valley and ancient water-course extending from the Hoggar Mountains a distance of 360 miles to the Shott Melrhir, is still dignified by the name of River, though it is entirely dry. But in its bed may be found a few freshwater shells.

"One of the ancient streams which rose in the Hoggar Mountains, the Tafassasset, is believed to have been, years and years ago, part of the course of the Niger River. In Cretaceous times some geologists believe, a great portion of the Sahara was under a sea, which extended from the Atlantic to the foot of the Hoggar Mountains. Fossil sea urchins, and a nautilus or two have been recovered from various portions of the desert, seeming to bear out the theory.

"These mountains, through which the Tropic of Cancer passes lie on the borderline, between the Mediterranean flora of the northern Sahara and the tropical species existing to the south.

"At their base are several well-watered oases supporting large tribes of Berbers. They are known as Taurags and are among the wildest of the nomad races that inhabit the desert. Once they had an unenviable reputation as the greatest robbers in the Sahara, but the French have been trying to curb their 'taking' ways. Their country is well placed to foster in them such tendencies. It lies on the trade route of caravans from the Niger to the north with poorly watered areas to the north and south. Most of the Tuaregs have become expert camel drivers in order to enable them to catch up with and overhaul their quarries.

"The customs of these people always provide a source of interest because the woman of the family is the 'head of the house' and dictates the goings and comings of her better half. On the death of the chief the son of his eldest sister, in no case his own son, is chosen to rule in his stead, subject to the approval of the tribesmen."

Over Sixty-Eight Years of Success

A Little Talk on Thrift

SUCCESSFUL MEN

The recent death of A. H. Smith, president of the New York Central railroad, brings to public attention the career of a man who began his life's work in a most humble position. His first job was that of a clerk, but, not satisfied he took a job with a gang of common railway laborers. His advancement at first was slow but he finally reached the top.

His success illustrates, what has been shown so many times, that success is a matter of ambition, industry, personal efficiency and thrift.

A casual glance at the list of Americas successful men will emphasize the truth of this statement.

Frank W. Woolworth began life as a clerk in a store in Watertown, N. Y.

Cyrus H. Curtis, Philadelphia publisher, started his career as a newsboy.

E. H. Harriman, earned his first money as a clerk in a broker's office.

Andrew Carnegie began as a bobbin boy in a Pennsylvania cotton mill.

Charles M. Schwab was a clerk in a small store and later became stake driver for an engineering corps. John Wanamaker began his career as an errand boy.

James J. Hill clerked in a steamship office.

Henry Ford was originally a Detroit machinist. Thomas Edison began selling newspapers on trains running out of the same city when 12 years old.

The list might be continued indefinitely.

Success is very largely a matter of one's own determination.

And true success is not confined to those who have become leaders of their time. Success just as worthy and praiseworthy may be found in the more modest fields of endeavor, founded on the same solid principles.

All success small or great must rest primarily on policies of thrift.

Without it the start upward is never made.—American Society from Thrift)

FROM THE COMMERCE REPORTS

The United States accounts for 39 per cent. of all the passenger cars, trucks and motorcycles in use in the world. Its total registrations increased almost one fourth in 1923, despite the enormous total of vehicles already recorded—a ratio of growth which was little more than equalled by all the rest of the world. There are now approximately 18,100,000 passenger cars and trucks in operation in all countries and 1,076,000 motorcycles.

BAD BREATH

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets Get at the Cause and Remove It

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, act gently on the bowels and positively do the work.

People afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system. They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after effects.

All the benefits of nasty, sickening, griping cathartics are derived from Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets without griping, pain or any disagreeable effects.

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after seventeen years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint, with the attendant bad breath.

Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color. Take one or two every night for a week and note the effect. 15c and 30c.

Mothers!

Give the children WRIGLEY'S after every meal

A prominent physician says:

"It is surprising how free from decay the teeth can be kept by using gum after each meal."

You know how hard it is to get the children to clean their teeth. By giving them WRIGLEY'S you not only reward them for cleaning their teeth, but the reward is actually the means of performing this important service!

WRIGLEY'S aids digestion too, and acts as an antiseptic wash for the mouth and throat. Several flavors—all of WRIGLEY quality.

Stories That Recall Others

Santa Wouldn't Notice.

It happened before and when mother was starting her preparations for the holidays. "I'll wash the curtains next week," she said. "I must have them clean for Christmas."

Seven-year-old Harry looked up. "Mother," he began soberly, "I think you'd better wash all our stockings first. Santa Claus will see them before he does th ecurtains."

Look, Aunt Mary!

Samuel, three years old, had often heard his mother in displaying her household treasures, tell the visitor how long they had been in her possession, usually "ever since we've been married."

One day when Aunt Mray was there, the tour of inspection and proud exhibition began.

Samuel, clasping the fold of the draperies in one room, exclaimed, "Look, Aunt Mary! We've had these ever since we've been married."

Snapping Into It.

A new employe, apparently not versed in the fundamental duty of being courteous to superiors entered the office of the plant's manager several days ago to report for duty. He placed his elbows on the desk, leaned over in a slouching manner and said:

"Well, are you one of the ginks I report to?"

R. I. REDS AND LEGHORNS RUNNING TIGHT RACE

"Rhode Island Reds increased their lead" is the verdict in the egg laying contest at Storrs. A week ago Fernside Farm's pen of Rhode Island Reds from Attleboro, Mass., led the entire list of all competitors by the scant margin of one egg. Meanwhile the Connecticut pen of Leghorns from Suffield are apparently hard losers. They pulled the Reds for a couple of days and climbed back into first place. At the end of the 21st week, however, the Reds had succeeded in putting seven eggs between themselves and the lighter breeds. The management of the contest is non-committal about the Reds maintaining or increasing their present lead because it is a well known fact that these birds may at any moment obey that impulse and conclude that brooding a batch of chicks is much more essential to their maternal instinct than laying a lot of eggs. This maternal instinct in Leghorns is, of course, much less pronounced which fact oftentimes stands them in good stead in a close race for eggs.

The total for all pens in the 21st week was 3910 eggs or a yield of nearly 56 per cent. This is 119 eggs more than for last week and 25 eggs better than for the corresponding week last year. Fernside Farm's pen of Reds from Attleboro, Mass., and C. T. Darby's pen of Leghorns from North Branch, N. J., tied for first place with 60 eggs each. Deer Brook Poultry Farm's pen of Reds from Short Falls, N. H., was second best pen for the week with a score of 57 eggs. Hilton Farm at Suffield, Conn., and Rhode Island Reds from Red Mount Farm at Franklin, Mass., tied for third place with 54 eggs each. A pen of Reds entered by E. Newton Searles from Pomfret Center, Conn., and Purdue University's pen of Barred Rocks from Lafayette, Ind., tied for fourth place with 53 eggs each.

MAIL ADVISE MOTORISTS UPON ROAD CONDITIONS

With the approach of the road building season, numerous transportation routes in Connecticut will, of necessity, be closed for varying periods throughout the spring and summer. As a result detours will be necessary for traffic in many cases.

The State Highway Department has, therefore, decided to resume its weekly bulletin covering these conditions in detail in all parts of the state, advising motorists and others of the conditions of main line and state aid highways that are under heavy repairs, and pointing out to them the most advantageous detour arrangements that have been temporarily laid out for the emergency.

During the height of the traveling season a year ago, it was the practice of the department to issue these weekly bulletins containing such warnings to all the newspapers in the state simultaneously for publication Friday afternoon or Saturday morning. In this way, it was found that the need of the majority of motorists were best served, particularly those planning week-end trips by motor to shore or mountain.

The department is convinced that motorists desired the service, because many, who formerly were required to get in touch with the department each week in regard to detours over contemplated routes, were able, at a glance, to obtain the information from their daily paper. A number took the trouble to write to the commission expressing appreciation.

It is expected that the repair work will be undertaken very shortly, and the bulletins will become necessary in a few weeks.

NEW YORK SHERIFF SAYS LA VAUGHN IS BIGAMIST

The Norwich police have received inquiry from a deputy sheriff in New York for the police record of John La Vaughn, formerly of this city, where he was in the typewriter business.

According to the telephone messages received from the New York officer La Vaughn, who married a Norwich woman, has now committed bigamy by marrying a woman named Oakley in Poughkeepsie on March 5 last and they are now living in Oklahoma. He also charges that La Vaughn got away with between $1,400 and $1,500 in some manner.

La Vaughn's name has more than once appeared in court matters in Norwich where there is a warrant out for him for obtaining about $200 from the Armory garage on false pretenses.

DANCING CLASS GUESTS OF GILBERT LATHROP DENISON

Saturday afternoon from 3 to 5.30, fifty pupils of the high school class of Mrs. William Ballantine Penfield, were delightfully entertained by Gilbert Lathrop Denison at the state armory on McKinley avenue. The young people enjoyed a dancing programme for which the music was by an orchestra of five pieces conducted by Mrs. Harry Stebbins. At 4.30 the young people marched by couples into the company room where ice cream, fancy cookies and punch were served. Mrs. W. R. Denison was assisted in serving by Mrs. William Sanders, Miss Evon Broadhurst and Miss Rose Crumb. The chaperone for the afternoon was Mrs. William R. McCord and Miss Betty McCord assisted the host in issuing the invitations.

WAY CLEARED TO PROCEED WITH ERECTING NORWICH WHITE WAY

The Norwich white way for which the city meeting last June voted an appropriation of $15,000 for installation and $3,000 for maintenance is now in a fair way to have a beginning made on it at no very distant date it was stated Tuesday as the last obstacle that had been making delay has been cleared away in the the completion of an agreement with the Connecticut Co., as to the placing and use of trolley poles and fixtures that will carry the lights of the white way.

Operations in installing the white way can start as soon as the necessary materials and supplies have arrived and as rush orders for these have been put in it is believed it will be no great time before their arrival will make it possible to begin the work.

The white way will extend on Main street from Dunham square to Washington square and on Broadway from Shetucket street to Union square.

REV. E. C. DUNBAR SPEAKS AT BELT CO. MEETING

Under Y. M. C. A. auspices, Rev. E. C. Dunbar held the close attention of his audience as he gave a heart to heart talk at the Norwich Belt Mfg. Co.

He spoke in part in follows:

"Keep thy heart above all that thou guardest, for out of it are all the issues of life," wrote the writer of Proverbs. A moment's thought brings to mind some of the possessions we do guard. We guard our homes against fire and destruction. We place our securities in the safe deposit boxes of banks. We insure our lives to protect our loved ones from want when we shall leave our earthly temple. Great business concerns spend large sums of money for protection. Our city guards our reservoirs to protect against water pollution. These we feel are necessary. Our writer warns us to be especially diligent in guarding the heart, for from it come the issues of life.

Our hearts can be likened to a great reservoir with three outlets. One flows through the mouth and lips in the form of words. Another comes through our eyes and is manifested in the things we desire to see; the kind of literature we like to read or the moving picture which has the greatest appeal. The third comes through our action and shows itself in deeds. That which is in the heart comes forth in words, desires and deeds. It is therefore important we guard our heart with as great a care as our homes, loved ones and possessions.

Here are three or four rules for guarding our hearts. 1—Keep the heart full of earnestness and wholesome purposes. An empty house gathers dust and dirt. An empty heart gathers evil desires. When one stops nourishing his heart with high ideals he opens up an opportunity for low ones to creep in. What is the purpose of my life? Is it simply to work a certain number of hours, sleep a few more and play the rest? Make our purpose in living a wholesome and worthwhile one.

2—Determine to be a power for good. It is not necessary to have money to do that. It is the smile on the cloudy day. It is word of sympathy to the sorrowful. It is a word of cheer to the discouraged.

3—Choose brave and strong friendships. In the army service it was lonesome to walk the guard post alone. Fears multiplied. Every bush a man. How different it was back with the rest of the men. Fears melted away and the feeling of friendliness returned. Fortify your heart with strong friendships and they will aid in adopting wholesome purposes and illustrating good will.

4—Link up with the friendship of the world's greatest personality, Jesus Christ. He is able to guard, and will, our very lives and transform them into power. He will keep the reservoir clean and sweet. Let him become king of our thoughts and the issues which come from our hearts will make the world a better place to live in.

RYDEL HEARING FOR MANSLAUGHTER CONTINUED

The preliminary hearing in the case of John Rydel of New London on a charge of manslaughter because of the death of two persons in an automobile accident, which was scheduled to be heard in Preston Tuesday before Justice Appleton Main has been continued to next Monday as the attorney who was to prosecute the case for the state had other important business Tuesday that made it impossible for him to appear at the hearing.

Rydel was driving an automobile with nine or ten passengers in it on the Norwich and Westerly road near the city line on the night of Sunday, March 23, when the machine struck a highway fence, turned around and over, instantly killing Peter Stempnick of 9 Fifth street and fatally injuring 5 year old Eleanor Isbicki, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Isbicki of 465 North Main street. Both of these were among the party in the automobile.

Rydel, at first arrested on the charge of driving while intoxicated, was later accused of manslaughter for causing the death of Stempnick and the Isbicki girl.

UNOCCUPIED HOUSE IS BURNED AT WESTERLY

(Special to The Bulletin)

Westerly, April 1.—The old Brown house on the Stonington road, near Cemetery avenue, unoccupied for a week or more, caught fire near the middle of the building and was burned, Tuesday afternoon about 5 o'clock. The house, a well known structure, with its sharp gabled roof, on the north side of the highway as the road curves beyond Orecoastet brook, was the property of Charles Miller of Stonington. A large advertising sign of the Thomas Cusack Co., was also burned, having caught fire from the the house.

DIVORCE GRANTED TO ROSALIE HUBBARD LEE

A decree of divorce was granted to Rosalie Hubbard Lee of Hamden, a suburb, from her husband Huntington Lee of New Haven after a trial that lasted just 20 minutes before Judge Leonard J. Nickerson in the superior court at New Haven Tuesday.

The decision for the plaintiff was granted on the grounds of desertion, Lee having alleged to have left his wife on Feb. 1, 1920. No disposition was made as to the custody of the 13-year-old son, Hubbard M. Lee. The couple were married in Norwich on Nov. 5, 1907.

POTTSVILLE GAVE WELCOME TO MISS EDITH MORAN

Half a hundred representative men and women, appearing on behalf of twenty-four philanthropic societies and agencies of Pottsville, met in the Trinity Parish House Monday night, March 17, partly to further the interests of the new Pottsville Welfare Federation and partly to receive publicly the new welfare worker, Miss Edith Moran, who has taken charge of the federation work in the Pennsylvania city.

Miss Moran was formerly connected with the United Workers in this city.

Spherical tanks in which volatile oil can be stored with minimum of evaporation have been built in Oklahoma.

FINES AND JAIL IN LIQUOR CASE SENTENCES

Liquor cases arising from arrests made last Saturday by federal, county and local officers were before the city court Tuesday morning, with Deputy Judge H. H. Pettis presiding and the court room filled with spectators.

Nicholas Paradis and Dominic Pasqualine, who were arrested at the Socialist Italian club in West Thames street, were each fined $200 and given suspended sentences of 30 days in jail. They promised to get out of business before night. They paid $410.11 to Clerk Bailey.

The same fine was given Toni Lajeunesse of Merchants avenue, Taftville, charged with keeping liquor with intent to sell. He also promised to get out of business and he paid $211.36 to the clerk of the court.

Constant Beauregard of Norwich avenue, Taftville, was presented on two counts, a sale and keeping with intent to sell. He was given a jail sentence of 10 days on the sale charge and a $200 fine on the other.

Henry La Plante of Merchants' avenue, Taftville, was sent to jail for 10 days on a sale charge and was fined $200 and costs on the charge of keeping with intent to sell. He paid $211.36 and went to jail with Lajeunesse to serve out his sentence.

Cases against Peter Brunelle of Occum and Armand Bassanett of Norwich avenue, Taftville, were continued till April 7 and a nolle was entered in the case of Hormisdas Germain who was arrested at the Bassanett place on the charge of interfering with an officer.

The case against James McGrath accused of violation of the liquor law at 48 Water street, where he was arrested with eight other men charged with intoxication Monday afternoon, was continued until April 7. Six of the men were each fined $5 and costs and two were discharged by the court.

The continued case against Mortimer Connelly, charged with obtaining money under false pretenses, was presented with his attorney Earl Matthewson, entered a demurrer which Judge Pettis overruled. Upon request and recommendation of the city attorney the bond which had been $1,000 was reduced to $500 for his appearance in the criminal term of the superior court, thereby allowing the accused time to make proper restitution.

MERCIER ASSEMBLY TO HAVE INITIATION CLASS

Mercier assembly, No. 12, Catholic Ladies of Columbus, held a well attended meeting Tuesday evening in its rooms in the T. A. B. hall. There will be initiation at its next meeting which will be on Monday the 14th in Steiner hall where the initiation can be put on in fine form by the committee under direction of Miss Mary G. Ward, chairman. A final report that was received with enthusiasm was made by the minstrels committee which showed that Mercier assembly share of the net proceeds will be close to $700.

Miss Mary H. Maloney, president of the assembly, called the attention of the members to the lecture course of the Connecticut council of Catholic Women and urged that the members cooperate in these. It is expected that many will attend the lecture next week. After the assembly meeting was over Tuesday night a number went to the lecture by Father Keefe before the Connecticut Council.

As the members have been invited to Occum Thursday night when the play given by the Baltic Assembly is to be repeated a number are going on the 6:45 trolley.

DRAMATIC CLEVERLY GIVEN AT SUBMARINE BASE

The Submarine Dramatic club gave a very enjoyable programme on Tuesday evening for the personnel of the base, with a large number attending. The programme included five acts of vaudeville as follows: "The Employment Office" by members of Division No. 2 and the engineering department; eccentric soft shoe dancing, by Curran and White; feats of magic, by Pvt. Sallat of the Marine Corps; classical and dance music by the Philippine Orchestra; a sketch, "Twenty Years from Now" by members of the dramatic club. The last number was exceptionally well put on and the characters were well portrayed by the members of the cast. There also were several selections by the Base Quartette, Mr. Braun leader. The performance was under the direction of Lieut. J. E. Arnold with J. Mooney as stage director.

Preceding the performance Capt. and Mrs. E. J. King, entertained at dinner a number of guests from the Base and New London.

NORWICH TOWN ARRESTS ON LIQUOR VIOLATION CHARGE

Teodel Ethier, 45, owner and proprietor of Adams Tavern at Norwich Town was arrested the e between 11 o'clock and noon Tuesday on the charge of violation of the liquor law. No liquor was seized at the time of the arrest, but it is understood that the authorities have evidence of a sale which they will produce against Ethier. He gave bonds of $1,000 for his appearance in court.

The arrest was made by federal officers, County Detective William Lewis, Constable George Hoxie of Lebanon and Sergeant Thomas Murphy of the local police force who went to Ethier's after the city court session was over Tuesday.

GUS LAMBERT PASSES FAIRLY COMFORTABLE DAY

Gustave Lambert of No. 21 Cliff street, the well known constable, who was badly injured Monday afternoon while blasting rocks on his Boswell avenue property, had a very restful day Tuesday at the Backus hospital where he is a patient. He slept well Tuesday night and his condition is reported as very favorable.

Paul Miller, who was working with Mr. Lambert and who was injured in the blast, also had a very comfortable day. It was reported from the hospital Monday night that he had lost the sight of one eye, but a report from there about midnight Tuesday stated that his condition is very favorable and that his eyesight may be saved.

More than 3,000 books are destroyed monthly in the Chicago Public Library to keep the shelves as neat as possible.

DIVORCED FROM WIFE HE SECURED THROUGH ADV

Frank E. Green of Ledyard was granted a divorce from Elisabeth (Westcott) Green of Norwich, in superior court at New London Tuesday morning before Judge L. P. Waldo Marvin, on the grounds of desertion.

Green alleged that his wife had left him within a month of their marriage. He met his wife, according to his testimony, through an advertisement placed in a Norwich paper for a Scotch woman to act as housekeeper. Mrs. Westcott answered the adv., it is claimed, and after three weeks' work she married Green at Ledyard.

A cross suit was instigated by Mrs. Green alleging failure to keep marriage vows, but her motion was disallowed by Judge Marvin after hearing evidence in the case.

All other cases coming before the court Tuesday were put over until Friday for re-assignment.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Charles J. Brown

(Contributed)

Lucy Jane Booker, wife of Charles Brown and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Booker, was born in Cumberland county, Va., 33 years ago last September. Soon after her marriage she came to Connecticut in which state she has lived until she passed away Friday afternoon, March 28, 1924 at 5.30 p. m., at her home 157 West Main street, this city. Nine weeks ago Mrs. Brown was taken sick with the grip. But as weeks came and passed on there seemed to be no improvement. Her long illness seemed to weaken her condition which made it impossible for her to rally. But during her long illness she bore her sufferings with rare Christian fortitude. And today we mourn with the bereaved family and friends. We can surely say that one by one the ties that binds us to earth are lessening and the great cord is growing stronger that binds us to our Father's home. Mrs. Brown very early in life chose that good part that shall not be taken from her. It can truly be said she was a true Christian and her memory will live forever in the hearts of her many friends. We have certainly felt the influence of her good deeds which will never die. And today we bow our heads in grief in the loss of this dear one taken in the spring time of life. She has left us to join the majority. But our loss is her eternal gain. She was a woman of estimable qualities and sympathies, charitable and kindly. A devoted wife, a loving mother and a loyal friends. She was a very active member of Mt. Calvary Baptist church where the members will greatly feel her loss.

James E. F. Brown

Deputy Sheriff James E. Brown died Monday at his home in High street, Mystic. Illness continuing throughout almost the entire winter preceded his death, although a short while ago he was thought to have recovered.

During the first of the season, Sheriff Brown was taken ill from pneumonia. For weeks he was confined to the house, but about two weeks ago he had recovered sufficiently to leave his home and for a time he resumed his activities about town. March 20, however, he suffered a relapse and his condition grew continually worse until his death.

Sheriff Brown who was in his 64th year, was most actively interested in affairs of the town of Groton. Except the title of deputy sheriff, he had held no public office of importance. He was however, faithful in his efforts in the town's behalf and he was a hearty advocate of all things that made for the betterment of it.

He received his appointment as deputy sheriff in 1915 and has continued in the position ever since then.

Born in Mystic on Nov. 19, 1860, he was the son of Roswell and Catherine Chesbro Brown. As a boy he attended the Mystic academy and later the Bucklyn institute, then conducted by the father of Dr. J. K. Bucklyn.

Following his graduation from the institute Mr. Brown entered the livery business with his father. The stable was located on West Main street, Mystic. Upon the death of his father he continued the business. When the popularity of horses waned, the Brown stables were altered to accommodate the needs of automobiles. This place of business was Mr. Brown's chief livelihood.

His only fraternal affiliation was with the Stonington lodge of Odd Fellows. He was a member and faithful supporter of St. Mark's Episcopal church.

Mr. Brown is survived by his wife, Mary S. Brown, a son, Burtis L. Brown and a brother, Daniel C. Brown.

Oscar S. Allen

After an illness of some duration Oscar S. Allen, 74, died Tuesday morning at 1 o'clock at his home in Hanover.

Mr. Allen was the son of Joseph L. Allen and had lived in Hanover for about 45 years. He was a great lover of nature and enjoyed the sport of hunting and fishing as long as health permitted.

Surviving are his wife and two daughters, Mrs. Moulton of Canterbury and Miss Carrie Allen who lives at home.

John D. Coughlin

John D. Coughlin, oldest son of the late Timothy and J. Mahoney Coughlin, of No. 188 Bond street, Hartford, died at St. Francis hospital, Hartford, Monday night at 10.30 o'clock, after undergoing a very serious operation for pneumonia Friday. Mr. Coughlin was born in Lebanon 43 years ago and passed his early years in Pitchville from which place he removed to New Haven after marrying Jetta Cashman of Moosup where he was employed by the United States postoffice mail service. From New Haven he was transferred to Hartford where he filled the position of chief railway mail clerk at the New York, New Haven and Hartford depot up to the time of his illness.

He leaves his wife Jetta Cashman Coughlin; two daughters, Jetta Lucile and Frances Pauline, and one son, John D. Coughlin, Jr., all of Hartford; five sisters and one brother, Mrs. Thomas Sullivan, Miss Adelina Coughlin and Timothy Coughlin of Yantic, Miss Catherine Coughlin of South Manchester, Mrs. Harry S. Reynolds, wife of Dr. Harry S. Reynolds of South Manchester and Miss Ella Coughlin of New Haven.

He was a member of Hartford council, K. of C., and the Railway Mail Clerks' union.

Burial will be in St. John's cemetery, Middletown.

STATE POLICE WILL WATCH DANGER POINTS

As part of a comprehensive plan to combat traffic hazards in the face of a considerable increase in the number of motor vehicles registered thus far this year over the corresponding period last year, the state motor vehicle department has notified chiefs of police and other enforcement officers throughout the state that the facilities of the department will be put at their disposal, upon request, for critical analysis of any particular corner or dangerous location to determine whether the principles of safety engineering can be effectively applied.

The announcement is in accordance with a statement issued by the department at the close of last season outlining a program of accident prevention to be followed this year. During the past month, 1,008 accidents were reported to the department, as against 712 in February of last year. There was an increase in all of the seven largest cities of the state. Hartford had 171 accidents last month, as compared with 65 in February, 1923; New Haven had 137, as against 77; Waterbury, 67, as against 48, Bridgeport, 98 as against 47; New London, 31, as against 16; Meriden, 25, as against 16; and New Britain, 37, as against 24.

Commissioner Stoeckel's letter to enforcement officers says that some qualified member of the motor vehicle department will be designated to make a careful study and analysis of any bad intersection or other dangerous location which may have been responsible for the increase in February accidents. As a result of the open winter, the number of automobiles in operation last month was considerably in excess of those on the highways during the same period of last winter.

ELECTRICITY FOR MYSTIC OVER NEW POWER LINE

The new electric light and power transmission line from the town of Ledyard to Mystic, which was vitalized last week is reported to be giving satisfaction and serving the Mystic territory with more efficiency than was possible under the former system of transmitting current from Westerly. With the transfer of power from the old high tension line to the new, the Westerly-Mystic cable will be used hereafter only as an auxiliary line, General Manager William C. Clarke of the Westerly Light & Power Co., stated.

The Eastern Connecticut Power Co., line which receives its current from the Montville power plant is tapped by the Mystic circuit near Gungywamp hill, just north of Centre Groton in the town of Ledyard. This 33,000 volt line to Mystic is about seven miles long, consisting of one circuit of three stranded copper wires. At the new sub-station, near the plant of the Rossie Velvet Co., the 33,000 voltage is reduced by transformers to 2300 volts for distribution in the towns of Stonington and Groton.

INCIDENTS IN SOCIETY

Philip A. Johnson has returned, following several day's stay in New York.

Bowman Galloway of Winston-Salem, N. C., and Joseph Stoddard of Washington, D. C., have been guests of L. Goffe Briggs at his home on Broadway.

Miss Isabel Rodier, a student at Lasell Seminary, Auburndale, Mass., is spending the spring vacation at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest O. Rodier of the Joseph Perkins Road.

It was noted Tuesday that Mrs. Blanche Lanman Carr, wife of Admiral Clarence A. Carr, of The Pequot had returned, after a week's visit in Brooklyn, N. Y. with the family of Captain Wright, at the New York Navy Yard.

Mrs. Moses J. DeWitt, of Bloomfield, N. J., Mrs. William S. Willis, of Newark, Mrs. Gaylord Lawrence, of Hamburg, N. J. and Mrs. Robert Linn, from Sussex, arrived Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. James Lewis Smith, of Broad street. They are nieces of Mr. Smith.

FILLMORE TAKES SEVEN STRINGS FROM BARBER IN CLOSE MATCH

In one of the closest bowling matches of the season Roy Fillmore of this city took the measure of Frankie Barber of Danielson at the Arctic alleys Tuesday evening, winning 7 out of 11 strings and piling up a total pinfall of 1171 against Barber's 1155.

Barber started off strong and the prospects of a victory for the local boy were not overly bright. Fillmore was nervous during the first two strings and had trouble did not tend to make him any more confident. Barber, meanwhile, was rolling along with everything rosy and the match looked up. In the third string things began to take a decided change and the hard luck that had been hounding Fillmore during the first two starts shifted to the Danielson roller and Fillmore won this frame by a scant two-pin margin. In the fourth frame the breaks were all with Barber and he collected two spares and a strike to Fillmore's two spares. Fillmore, however did better work in the pinfalls and picked up stray pins until in the ninth box he led Barber by 5 pins. In the tenth box Fillmore got ten while Barber spared. Needing only six pins to win the string Barber hit the center of the triangle on his extra ball and ploughed through for just two pins, losing the string by 3 pins. The fifth string was a weird affair after Fillmore started with a spare. From the first box until the last neither bowler could get a decent split, and it was a case of picking up the stray pins from all angles. In this game the local boy had the edge on Barber and won the string 96 to 83, taking the lead in the match 4 to 3.

In the sixth string both men appeared to gain strength and the hard luck that had been following them was lacking. However, Barber won this string, evening up the match at three all. Barber took the lead in the seventh string when he nosed out Fillmore by 2 pins.

Fillmore appeared to gain strength while Barber began to slip. Fillmore won this string by six pins and tied the score at 4 all. From then on it was Fillmore's match, he having perfect control and picking up spares when the breaks were good and sometimes making them when the breaks were not so good.

Fillmore averaged 106-6 and Barber 105. The scores:

| Fillmore | Barber |
|---|---|
| 90 | 124 |
| 90 | 100 |
| 104 | 103 |
| 106 | 102 |
| 95 | 88 |
| 112 | 118 |
| 101 | 103 |
| 112 | 106 |
| 122 | 117 |
| 123 | 107 |
| 118 | 87 |
| 1172 | 1155 |

Dugas Beats Morin

In the match at Taftville Chip Dugas took Morin into camp, winning 5 out of the eleven strings rolled. Neither bowler was in real championship form, although Dugas had the advantage throughout the match. The match was close and two strings were won by Dugas by a one-pin margin. Dugas had a total pinfall of 1126 while Morin was 14 pins under him. The scores:

| Dugas | Morin |
|---|---|
| 93 | 114 |
| 125 | 105 |
| 101 | 100 |
| 118 | 98 |
| 92 | 89 |
| 110 | 104 |
| 98 | 97 |
| 101 | 100 |
| 89 | 99 |
| 99 | 111 |
| 100 | 93 |
| 1126 | 1102 |

The Standing

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Fillmore | 16 | 6 | .727 |
| Dugas | 12 | 10 | .545 |
| Barber | 4 | 7 | .364 |
| Morin | 12 | 21 | .364 |
| Dodge | 0 | 0 | .000 |

McKenzie of Moosup who was supposed to have rolled Dugas at Taftville last night withdrew from the tournament at the last minute for some unknown reason. It has been an extremely cold spring, but it is hard to believe that McKenzie's feet were affected by the temperature. But as the saying goes "there is no loss without some gain," meaning that while McKenzie has quit the league Wildmantic has put in a stronger candidate for championship honors in "Bill" Dodge. Now Dodge is a real contender according to reports from the Thread City and the league has gained rather than lost through McKenzie's withdrawing.

WEISSMULLER BREAKS HIS OWN SWIMMING RECORD

Chicago, April 1.—Johnny Weissmuller, of the Illinois Athletic club broke his own National A. A. U. record for the 880-yard free style event at the opening of the National A. A. U. senior indoor swimming meet here tonight. His time was 2.14 4-5, 2.1-5 seconds faster than his old record.

LACK EVIDENCE TO PROSECUTE IN TICKET SCANDAL

New York, April 1.—Charges of ticket speculation in connection with the Dempsey-Firpo heavyweight title bout last September at the Polo Grounds have been partially substantiated by an investigation of the state athletic commission, but not to an extent which would warrant prosecution.

The commission's probe the findings of which were made public today by Chairman George E. Brower, also failed to reveal any evidence of alleged fraud on the part of Promoter Tex Rickard in the payment of state and federal taxes on the proceeds of the fight.

In effect, the report cleared Richard and his associates of charges of collusion in connection with both the sale of tickets and the payment of taxes. These charges first were aired by Tom O'Rourke, veteran New York promoter, before a legislative committee hearing at Albany.

CHAMPIONSHIP SERIES STARTS TONIGHT

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, April 1.—The first game for the race for the supremacy of the city will begin on Wednesday evening, when the Mebs, winners of the Y. M. C. A. House league, will tackle the New London Ship and Engine five, winner of the Industrial league.

The entrance of both the Submarine Base five and the Headquarters battery, recognized winner of the Military league, into the elimination games for the city championship is expected before another day is old. If representatives of both the Headquarters and the Sub Base quintets can make arrangements to meet at the "Y" Wednesday evening before the New London Ship and Engine-Mebs game gets under way it is possible that definite arrangements can be made whereas these teams can enter in the race for the city championship.

Whether the games for deciding the city championship will be played at the Y. M. C. A. floor or at the state armory has not been settled as yet. It is a certainty that the Y. M. C. A. is favored by some of the teams to hold the games. It affords better facilities than the state armory. But in case a decision is not reached to hold all the games at the Y. M. C. A. possibly two games will be played at the armory one night and two at the "Y" floor the next night. The way the city championship is being decided at Hartford at the present time is good and if this system can be copied the games will come out satisfactorily to all teams concerned.

In the game for Wednesday night little advance dope can be given due to the teams meeting for the first time. A hot game is expected.

NEW LONDON SPORT COMMENT.

In a short snapshot taken by Kinoforms and flashed on the Crown theatre screen while the Fordham university squad was going through a baseball drill, Johnny Dwyer, former star athlete at Chapman Tech, was noticed among the candidates out for the team. Dwyer has already done mound duty for the first Fordham team about a week ago. According to reports, he not only showed up well in his initial tryout, but also made such an impressive showing upon the Fordham mentor, Jack Coffey, that he is expected to start the first contest of the season next week against Yale. This is a record to be proud of and here's hoping that Johnny is successful in his first workout as a pitcher in the collegiate circles.

George Sullivan and Kenneth Shea are as much rivals in handball as they are in golf. Recently at the Y. M. C. A. both Shea and Sullivan paired up to play two other players at handball. They met defeat in three sets out of five.

Well, we will be able to see what the Industrial champions, the New London Ship and Engine, can do against the Mebs tonight. It will be a good test for the Dusty victors before departing upon their journey to New Haven on Saturday to participate in the Industrial elimination tournament. Jack Russell is confident that the builders of Diesel engines will make a good showing in the Elm City.

Old Man Weather has once again put the clamps on the baseball practice of the Bulkeley baseball squad. All hopes of getting the team into mid season form for its first game has been abandoned by Coach Robert Aldrich. The Chapman Tech squad that began its first practice Monday of this week will also have to abandon all hopes for practice this week.

Hagen Wins N. and S. Title

Pinehurst, N. C., April 1.—Walter Hagen, Westchester-Biltmore, today won the north open golf championship finishing the 2 holes with a score of 293 points.

Hagen was two strokes ahead of Cyril Walker, Englewood, N. J., who finished with 295, while McDonald Smith, of San Francisco, who gave indications soon after the start of the final round of giving the veteran Hagen a strong contest, finished with a score of 296.

Stribling Gets $7,494.88,

Newark, N. J., April 1.—Young Stribling, Georgia schoolboy boxer, who last night decisively outpointed and outfought Mike McTigue, light heavyweight champion of the world in a 12-round no-decision bout, will receive $7,494.88 as his share of the receipts, it was estimated today. The champion's share will amount to $13,-519.70, one-third of the net receipts.

JUNIORS TROUNCE LOWER MIDDLERS IN FIRST GAME

In the first of the inter-class games played at the Norwich Free Academy on Monday the Juniors trimmed the Lower Middlers 13 to 10. The first year team was arrayed against a heavy hitting team that had several of the varsity men in the lineup and it was not with confidence that the Juniors tackle this team. However the first year boys upset all the school dope and were returned winners by three runs margin.

After the first short period of stage had passed the Juniors started to wield their war clubs with telling effect. Cimekowski opened the bombardment with a smashing double and was followed by "Bute" Mileski who duplicated and before the smoke had cleared the Juniors had three runs to their credit. The upper classmen tied up the score but their rally was short-lived and the Juniors shut them out for the next three innings. The freshies continued their hitting until the score stood 13 to 4 in favor of the frosh team. In the last inning the Lower Middlers made a last stand which netted them six runs but were not able to overcome the lead.

Mileski and Schwarts featured for the Juniors while Burke and Tombari, two varsity players, starred for the Lower Middlers. The lineups:

Juniors—Mileski, c; Schwarts, p; Cimekowski, 1st base; Kampf, 2nd; J. Burns, ss; McVeigh, 3rd; J. Mullins, cf Goldblott, lf; Courture rf.

Lower Middlers—"Ike" Steinman, c; Woods and Tombari, p; Burke, 1st; Sergant, 2nd; Tombari and Woods, ss; Burkman, 3rd; Bush, lf; Gretch, cf; and Samuel Murphy, rf.

WHITE COLLAR MEN WIN FROM HOLE DIGGERS

(Special to the Bulletin)

Putnam, April 1—At the local alleys here tonight the White Collar team of the Putnam Light and Power Co., beat the Hole Diggers of the same organization in a spirited bowling encounter. Keen rivalry attended the opening match of the series between these two teams and the bad weather was no drawback in the way of a large attendance. The White Collar men toppled the pins to a total of 1537 while the Diggers were only able to dig up a total of 1319. Rogers was the star for the Diggers while Francis featured for the White Collars. The next match will be rolled next Tuesday.

SUB BASE DUNGAREE LEAGUE GETS UNDER WAY THIS AFTERNOON

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, April 1.—The Submarine Base will follow an entirely different policy in baseball this year than it did last. Instead of arranging a schedule to carry the Base baseball team through this season, this will not be done and the first scheduled contest for the sailors will not come until the first of July. During this era of inactivity, Lieutenant Arnold, who has charge of all Base sport activities, has arranged an attractive schedule to be played between six teams that will come from various departments at the reservation.

The showing the individuals make in the interdepartment games will go a long way in deciding the personnel of the first team when it is picked at the termination of this league's games. There will be three games played every week and the first is scheduled to get under way on Wednesday afternoon at 4.15. Much interest is manifest in the coming Dungaree league and it will without a doubt be a success.

The early games played by the Base in the past two years with college teams, will have to be abolished. However, Villa Nova college and two or three other collegiate teams will play ball until the middle of July and a game has been arranged with these teams to be played at the Base.

The reason for the change of policy for the baseball team this season, is mainly to get the sailors and officers interested in the various sport activities that the Base team engages in. It is also expected that new talent will be discovered in the course of the various interdepartment games.

Lieutenant Arnold is the man that is directly responsible for the inauguration of the new system. He has been hard at work for the past three weeks in mapping out an extensive athletic program that will not only appeal to the men stationed at the Base but will also appeal to the New London fans.

Tennis teams have been formed along with other teams. Soccer will be played in its season as will other sports. During the days that the teams that are entered in the Dungaree league are not scheduled to play, games would like to be arranged with the various teams in eastern Connecticut. George Havican has been elected official scorer of the Base league.

However, with the opening of the Dungaree league scheduled for Wednesday afternoon, this does not necessarily mean that the Sub Base basketball team has ceased activities for the season. The Base team is desirous of entering in the race for the city championship of New London.

COLD WEATHER HOLDS UP YALE BASEBALL PRACTICE

New Haven, April 1.—Unfavorable weather climaxed by the storm today has prevented the Yale baseball team from getting in the expected five-days outdoor practice before the first game of the season with Fordham Saturday, Coach Wood said tonight. A practice game was planned today but the men were put through a light workout instead due to the cold. The selection of the varsity team is expected to be announced Friday.

Irish Champs Arrive

New York, April 1.—Billy Gilmore, claimant of the lightweight title of Ireland, arrived today for an American invasion. He expects to make his debut in a match at Philadelphia, May 1, with either Eddie (Kid) Wagner, or Nate Goldman, of Philadelphia.

WHITE SOX PENNANT CHANCES ARE SLIM

By Stoney McLinn

Winter Haven, Fla., March 31—Passing a camel through the eye of a needle probably is a tougher assignment than writing a story about the prospects of the Chicago White Sox in the 1924 American League pennant race—but not much tougher.

The bulk of the spring practice has been done by Johnny Evers, who was employed as Chance's assistant at the most important period of the season the manager was absent.

Under the circumstances, one fails to see how the White Sox can be a factor in the pennant chase of 1924. At this writing, the seven other clubs in the American League look better fitted in every way for the hard battles to come.

Red Faber, who starts his eleventh season with the club, comes first. He chucks a spitter and had some bad moments last campaign with a poor club—but he won fourteen. Lost eleven and allowed opponents an average of 3.41 earned runs per game. He is in satisfactory shape this spring.

Charley Robertson, the no-hit game hero of 1923, got away to a bad start last season probably because of a salary squabble with his boss. He won thirteen and lost eighteen—he was expected to win twenty and more games. He has been toiling industriously at Winter Haven.

Mike Cvengros, who was obtained from the Giants soon after the start of the '23 campaign, is a southpaw who won twelve and lost thirteen. He should be a big winner under favorable circumstances.

Then there are Ted Blankenship, Hollis Thurston, Dixie Leverette, Ted Lyons, and Leon Cadore, (former Brooklyn chucker,) all right-handers who were first-string men for Gleason last season. Davenport, a southpaw, is another member of the '23 staff who is in the training camp.

It is the batting punch that may be lacking in the Chicago ensemble, no matter what other assets the club has at post time.

The White Sox had no less than nine outfielders on trial this spring. Six of them were .300 hitters. But there was not a Babe Ruth or Harry Heilmann among them—that is, a husky club swinger who could pound the ball to the outskirts.

Five of the fly chasers were with the Sox throughout the 1923 campaign. Harry Hooper and Amos Strunk are veterans who, if they wear Chicago uniforms this year, probably will be used principally as pinch hitters.

Bib Falk, left fielder last campaign, who hit .307 has been tried out as a pitcher in Winter Haven. He chucked the apple in his college days. But we expect to see Bib in the outfield when he plays A. L. games. He bats left-handed.

Roy Elah, a right-hand hitter, played the outfield last year when southpaws were on the hill for the enemy. His baseball percentage was only .249 He may have to do better to hold a job.

Among the recruits is Maurice Archdeacon, star hitter of the International League and rated the fastest man in baseball. He hit .357 for Rochester and stole thirty-one bases. He joined the Sox in September to play in 22 games and his batting average was .402.

Archdeacon is practically assured the center-field berth. Bill Barrett, Reading outfielder in '23, whose batting mark was .357, cost Comiskey $40,000. He also joined the Sox late in the last campaign. He did not do so well.

Barrett batted .271 in 44 games. But the boy can whack the ball and is predicted that he will be in the outfield. Evers tried him out as a shortstop, but gave it up as a bad job—as did Connie Mack, who once thought the boy should play the short field, but found he was mistaken.

R. L. Ostergard, from Galveston, and Joe Rabbit, from Muskogee, are minor leaguers who desire to become outfielders for the Sox. They batted .328 and .316 respectively last season. Rabbit is fast, as befits with his name.

GROTTO PLAY "MARCHETA" OPENS FRIDAY EVENING

All is in readiness for "Marcheta" to make her mow to Norwich. A large cast and chorus is taking on final polish as they go through rehearsals for the last time. There are only a few more days until Marcheta, the Spanish musical comedy will be presented at the Broadway theatre.

Judging from the superlatives used in its description it will surpass any other show of its type ever seen in Norwich.

A representative of the press in questioning Alexander Pinkyson as to the quality of the production received the answer that if Nemrod Grotto is backing it and the Norwich talent taking part "then it's the best."

Don't forget to exchange your tickets for reserve seats at Sellas Spa and beginning Friday at the Broadway theatre.

The following is the cast of characters:

LENTEN RECITAL WITH ORGAN AND PIANO

A musical treat of unusual interest is scheduled for April 8th, Tuesday afternoon at 4.45, when the large organ at the new Palace theatre is to be used for the first time in a recital. Under the auspices of the Woman's Guild of the United Congregational church and the co-operation of the Palace theater management this high class Lenten music is brought within reach of the general public.

A discriminating program selected with a view of bringing out the many unusual features of this splendid instrument, has been arranged by Mr Frederick W. Lester, who is to be the artist on this occasion. Mr. Lester needs no introduction to the musical public of this locality. He is acknowledged to be the finest organist in eastern Connecticut and his recitals are always a popular feature of the musical season.

The soloist on this occasion is to be none other than the well known Norwich singer, Henry La Fontaine. Mr. La Fontaine announces this to be his last public appearance before entering upon a period of intensive musical study, a preparation for concert work, both vocal and instrumental. Only a few years since he made his bow to the Norwich public and his rapid development has astonished those who have kept in touch with his musical career.

First as a pupil of Professor Frank L. Farrell he showed unusual musical talent. Later his ability received the recognition of Rev. W. A. Keefe and he has now for several years been the organist and choir director at St. Mary's Memorial church. He is about to proceed with his great ambition of developing his beautiful baritone voice for which he has become most favorably known.

Do not two such outstanding artists, a beautiful new instrument that has not yet been heard in recital and the beautifully appointed auditorium make an appealing symphony in the Lenten season attraction which they offer?

Tickets are 50c, tax free, at the theater box office.

TALK AND PICTURES ON THE VALUE OF BIRDS

Members of the Norwich Fishermen's Association, and those of the general public who accept the general invitation to attend the meeting in the town hall of Norwich this (Wednesday) evening will enjoy the opportunity of hearing an especially interesting talk and seeing some equally interesting pictures which will be shown by Wilbur F. Smith of South Norwalk when he gives a talk on the Economic Value of Birds.

He is a former game warden of Litchfield county who has taken many of the pictures which he will show. The meeting begins at 7.30 and is without admission charge.

Real Estate Sold.

Through the office of the Norwich Land, Title and Insurance company, Michael Johns has sold to Ernest M. Newberry the house and land located at 55 Greene avenue. This property is one of the most uptodate and ideally located homes in this city and the new owner buys same for his future home.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

BROADWAY THEATRE

Probably no screen star numbers among his acquaintances so many people in the public eye as Thomas Meighan. It is a tribute to the likeable personality of the handsome Paramount player that flappers and philosophers, governors and ball players, authors and concert singers are proud to number him among their friends.

John McCormack, the singer, is a close friend of Meighan's. Tom would as soon wear orange on St. Patrick's Day, as miss one of the New York McCormack concerts, when he is within commuting distance of it. At Pinehurst, N. C., recently during the governor's conference, attended the chief executive of practically every state in the Union, Meighan, who was there for a rest, was sought out by the statesmen and treated them to a pre-release showing of his newest picture.

The friendship of Meighan and George Ade is well known. The started when Tom was playing the masculine lead in Ade's stage comedy, The College Widow. Incidentally it was during the run of this play that Meighan met Frances Ring, also a member of the cast and now Mrs. Meighan. The Meighan-Ade acquaintance has resulted in such popular pictures as Our Leading Citizen, Back Home and Broke, and Woman-Proof.

Another author-friend of Meighan is Booth Tarkington, considered by many to be America's foremost writer. For a long time the star has been trying to induce Tarkington to write an original story for him to play in on the screen. At last the famous author consented, with most gratifying results. The story is Pied Piper Malone, a comedy-drama, with scenes laid at Oldport, Maine, near Tarkington's summer home. The plot deals with an attractive sailor-man and a girl and a bunch of cute kiddies. Lois Wilson is the girl. It is now on view at the Broadway theatre in conjunction with five superior acts of Keith vaudeville.

AT THE PALACE

Charles K. Champlin and his excellent company playing at the Palace this week have taken Norwich by storm. They are giving us the very best New York successes at popular prices. The production of "The Love Child" last night was a masterpiece and when you stop to think that "The Child" is still running with the big New York cast and playing all the big cities at high prices. Mr. Champlin is giving his patrons more than their money's worth. The play for this afternoon and tonight is "Twin Beds." It has the reputation of being the most laughable bed room comedy drama that ever played New York. It is one continual scream of laughter from the very start and keeps getting funnier every act of the play. Champlin has struck the keynote of popular favor. His company has already won a warm spot in the heart of our townspeople and it is safe to say he will draw big houses all the week. A different play is given every afternoon and evening with two plays being presented Saturday. The plays for the balance of the week are as follows: Thursday matinee and night "Why Women Divorce"; Friday matinee and night, "The Woman in Bronze"; Saturday matinee, "Captain Applejack" and Saturday night "That Girl Mickey."

The Gingham Girl Coming to the Broadway Theatre

The Gingham Girl the season's comedy delight which played to record breaking business at the Earl Carroll theatre, New York, for one solid year, will be the attraction at the Broadway theatre, Friday night, April 11.

For poetry of music, charming story and attractive stage settings, nothing has surpassed this graceful musical comedy in many years. The book is by Daniel Kusell, the music by Albert Von Tilzer and the lyrics by Neville Fleeson.

In the company of principals which will appear here will be found such artists as Peggy Pates, Lillian Young, Natalie Sawyer, Vira Rial, Edna Dare, Vera Thomas, Fay White, Bobby Jarvis, Henry White, Loring Smith, T. J. Keogh, Randall O'Neill and Howard Mills, and the most beautiful and rippiest chorus Broadway has seen in many a moon.

Mail orders soon.

DOUBLE FEATURE BILL AT THE BREED

The disappearance of $100,000 in bonds is the flame which kindles action in Alias The Night Wind, the William Fox production starring William Russell, which is the feature at the Breed theatre today and Thursday.

Bing Howard, the young and highly successful stock and bond broker is outlawed from society. Evidence has been brought against him which convinces even his most trusted friend of his guilt.

The entire Metropolitan police seeks vainly for the fugitive, whose alias veness has won him the title of The Night Wind. He would have given himself up but for the conviction that he would be thrown into prison on false evidence.

He becomes the savior of victims of stick-up parties to rescue the victim. His case progresses little until, under the most romantic circumstances, he meets a young girl detective, who, while pretending to work against him, actually wins his eventual vindication.

For the second feature Shirley Mason will be seen in South Sea Love, an enthralling south sea romance. The Fox news and a scenic will complete this big double bill.

Wally Dash, who was to play with Joplin in the Western Association this year, has been sent to the Orlando Club of the Florida State League in part payment for Al Greene who is re-

LITTLE JACK RABBIT
By DAVID CORY

GIVING MR. ADDER A RIDE

I guess if the old gentleman rabbit hadn't received his old wedding stovepipe hat in the last story, he would have felt very unlucky, although he was usually very lucky. Of course he was, for he was very rich, and it's very lucky to be rich, so I'm told!

As soon as he and Little Rabbit and the Yellow Dog Tramp reached the middle of the bridge, the old gentleman rabbit honked the horn and pretty soon they were safe on dry land again. But, dear me!: just then Billy Breeze almost blew off Uncle Lucky's hat. Taking out his blue silk polkadot handkerchief, and tying it over his hat and under his chin, the old gentleman rabbit shouted:

"I suppose he wants a ride."

"If anyone tries to take my hat, he'll have to take me, too.

Tra, la, la, la; tra, la, la, la, la.
I'm feeling so fine I mush laugh.
For springtime is here and summer is near,
And Mrs. Cow has a new calf.
And soon all the trees will be dressed up in leaves
And the carrots and lettuce will grow,
And the lollypop tree will be waiting for me
Heigh diddle, diddledy, Oh!"

"Bow-wow!" went the Yellow Dog Tramp and "Pop!" went the little rabbit's popgun, and then they all gave three cheers. Why it sounded almost like the Fourth of July.

All of a sudden, an old Adder, a kind of deaf and dumb snake, you know, came out of his hole and said:

"Goodness me! I hear something for the first time in forty years," and, holding the tip of his tail behind his left ear, he listened again.

"Hello, Mr. Adder. How do you do?" shouted Little Jack Rabbit.

"Well, I declare," said Old Mr. Adder, lazily looking over his spectacles for he still was very sleepy after his long winter's nap. Then, crawling up the front wheel tire and into the Luckymobile, he sat down on the back seat with the Yellow Dog Tramp.

"I suppose he wants a ride," whispered Uncle Lucky to his little nephew, and honking the horn, the old gentleman rabbit started the Luckymobile off again. After a mile, he turned to the snake and said.

"How many miles have we traveled? Did you count the mileposts? If you did, add them up. You ought to be a good Adder."

I imagine the old gentleman rabbit thought he had made a splendid joke.

"Twenty-three miles and fifteen feet;
And maybe an inch or two,
For once I looked back and sort of lost track
Of a milepost, so swiftly we flew.
One might make a slip when we go at a clip
That is breaking all records you know.
If you must know the score, turn back and once more.
I'll count them without a miscue."

And next time I'll tell you whether Uncle Lucky turned around or whether he kept right on till he broke the speed limit in fourteen different pieces.

APRIL FOOL SNOW STORM CAUSE OF SOME ANNOYANCE IN NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, April 1.—Joseph Kopp, a well known commercial salesman, is seriously ill at his home on Garfield avenue, having been stricken yesterday. Mr. Kopp's heart is affected.

It became known that with the police taking their regular monthly shifts today, there has been a change made in the hours of duty of two sergeants. Sergeant Patrick Murphy, who has been in charge of the night squad, going on duty at 11 o'clock nightly, has been assigned to the squad reporting for duty at 3 o'clock in the afternoon and concluding duty at 3 o'clock in the morning, the shift of which Charles Hammond, demoted recently from sergeant to patrolman was in charge. As a result of the change, which was ordered by Captain Charles A. Pinney, Sergeant John Cavanaugh, promoted from patrolman to sergeant in place of Hammond, will have charge of the third and last shift, Cavanaugh taking charge of the last squad tonight. A coincidence with the change of the sergeants is that a month ago Hammond was Cavanaugh's superior officer for the newly appointed sergeant was a patrolman at that time. Now Cavanaugh is Hammond's superior officer as a result of the promotion of the former.

Mrs. Valesti Sarteri and twin daughters, of Ocean avenue, Mrs. E. Newton Dickinson of Pequot avenue and Mrs. Bridget Fitzgerald of Jay street, patients at Lawrence hospital, were discharged today.

Sergeant Nelson Smith resumed his duties in charge of the first squad officers today after being absent from his post three weeks because of illness.

The police are making an effort to locate the owner of a Chandler touring car that crashed against a team owned by the Valvoline Oil company, and in charge of Arthur Enos, this morning on the Thames river highway bridge. The Chandler speeded away after the crash, which caused damage to the extent of $150. Thomas Fitch, manager of the oil company, lodged complaint with the police and charged the driver of the automobile with evasion of responsibility. The state police barracks throughout the state and the police authorities of the principal cities in New England have been requested to maintain a watch for the car, which bore Massachusetts registration 32225. The motor vehicle department of Massachusetts at Boston has also been requested to furnish the New London police the name of the owner of the car and if such is furnished, the owner will be arrested, unless it is proven that the car was stolen, which is possible.

The funeral of Mrs. Lucia Louisa Kirkland, widow of Col. Eugene Thorn Kirkland, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at her home, 51 Glenwood avenue. The services were conducted by Rev. Philip M. Kerridge, rector of St. James' Episcopal church. Members of Pequot Independent Hose company, of which company her husband was foreman several years, acted as bearers. Burial was in the family plot in Cedar Grove cemetery.

The death on the rails at Midway, Saturday night, of Barney Harrahan, section worker, whose mutilated remains were found by a yard crew, reveals one of the most gruesome killings of this character ever known in this vicinity. From the investigation by the railroad officials it is believed that Harrahan was walking along the westbound rails and as the train due to reach New London at 7.50 o'clock approached, Harrahan stepped to the east-bound tracks. While he walked along the east-bound rails, the Merchants Limited, which left New London at 7.40 o'clock came along and struck Harrahan, the body being thrown in front of the west-bound express and terribly mutilated. An inspection of the pilots of both locomotives was made and both engines revealed particles of human flesh and blood, which shows that both engines struck a human being. The two trains passed at Midway a few minutes before the body of Harrahan was found strewn for a distance of an eighth of a mile. An idea of the condition of the body can be imagined from the fact that the first portion found was a hand.

The funeral of Thomas R. Powers was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at 82 Washington street, the services being conducted by Rev. Myron E. Center, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church. Burial was in Miner cemetery, Mystic.

David B. Dillon, 55, of 182 Montauk avenue, died last night at the Norwich State Tuberculosis sanatorium, below Thamesville, in which institution Mr. Dillon had been under treatment about three months. He is survived by two brothers, Jeremiah Dillon, customs collector at this port and Thomas C. Dillon, real estate and insurance broker, and by a sister, Miss Annie Dillon, also of New London. Mr. Dillon was the son of the late Jeremiah and Johanna Dillon, born in New London and having always resided here. He was for many years employed as a moulder by the former Brown Cotton Gin company.

Michael Cahill, a farm hand, was arrested at the union station late last night by Patrolman David Nagle when Cahill was found intoxicated and in danger of sustaining bodily harm. When searched at the police station Cahill had in his possession $373. He was not prosecuted in the police court this morning, but before he went to his employment in Waterford Cahill was accompanied to a savings bank by an officer where Cahill deposited $300, keeping the remainder for his daily needs and not for "hooch."

A meeting of city officials and of officials of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad is to take place at the office of Assistant Superintendent Robert N. Smith, at the union station next Monday afternoon at which time the matter of protection at the Maple avenue crossing will be discussed. The crossing is a dangerous one on the outskirts of the city and an effort has been made for a long time to have the railroad station a flagman there or provide gates. The city will be represented at the meeting by City Manager William A. Holt and Director of Law Frank L. McGuire.

A large crowd of young people enjoyed the April Fools' dance given by New London lodge of Elks this evening at the home of the organization on Washington street.

After a lapse of many weeks in which firemen were called to rescue cats that reach the extreme heights of trees and then are unable to get to earth, the department was requested this morning by a resident of Norwood avenue to rescue a puppy that had climbed to the upper branches of a tree on that avenue for two days. The Allen Hook and Ladder company was dispatched to the avenue and by stretching an extension ladder to the tree puppy was rescued.

The March entertainment given by the Ladies Auxiliary of the Independent Order of B'nai Brith at Union lodge hall last evening was attended by 125 members and their families. The committee in charge consisted of Mrs. Louis Schwartz, chairman; Mrs. Julius Daren, Mrs. Morris Gruhner, Mrs. Ezekiel Spitz, Mrs. Philip Hendel, Mrs. Louis Kosakow, Mrs. Morris Gordon, Mrs. Charles Kaufman Mrs. Harry Elliot and Mrs. Charles Glazzenberg. Refreshments were served at 10 o'clock.

Harry B. Carl and family have moved from Bayonet St., to Raymond St.

C. Fred Brown of Post Hill is spending a few days in New York.

Miss Jennie Collins, a student at Mt. Ida school for girls at Newton, Mass., is at her home at Uncasville to remain until the last term of the school, when she will resume her studies.

Henkle Scott, employed by the Winthrop Trust company, has returned to his home on Broad street, having spent a week in New York and Providence.

Lamel S. Marsh, Jr., is at his home on Bellevue place, having spent several weeks in Miami, Fla.

Mrs. Richard W. Johns has fully recovered from illness which had confined her to her home on Connecticut avenue.

Miss Cora Rowley was tendered a miscellaneous shower at her home in Colchester last evening, the event being enjoyed by a dozen intimate friends. Miss Rowley will become the bride of Frank Stevenson of Salamanca, N. Y., tomorrow.

Announcement is made of the engagement of Miss Margaret Mills of Montclair, N. J., a member of the graduating class of 1924 Connecticut College for Women, to Michael Murphy, a practicing lawyer in New York. The wedding will take place next month.

Beware street will be closed today from Woodbridge street south to all vehicular traffic because of work being done on that highway.

Officer Hammond, demoted from the sergeancy and assigned to duty as a patrolman failed to appear for duty at 7 p. m. He telephoned that he was compelled by sickness to remain at home.

An electric wire, heavily charged, fell on Pequot avenue this evening and stopped travel along the highway. A crowd collected there before repairs could be made. A police officer was assigned to remain there until the Connecticut Power Company could replace the wire. At East New London all was in darkness for a considerable time.

Unusual interest was manifested here as to the result of the Hartford election. The democrats were hopeful of the reelection of their mayoralty candidate.

Star of the Sea branch, No. 681, Ladies' Catholic Benevolent association, celebrated daughters' night at its regular meeting last evening. Forty-three daughters responded to the invitation and were given an excellent opportunity to display their talents. There were piano and violin selections by Katherine and Anne Stock, a fairies' dance by Miss Helen Rafferty, Miss Pauline Walsh, Miss Eleanor Murphy and Miss Margaret Harkins; a reading by Miss Eleanor Gilmartin and piano selections by Miss Mary Moriarty, Miss Mary Koch, Miss Rose Stoddard and Miss Agnes O'Grady. Ice cream and cake were served.

At the business meeting three candidates were initiated and arrangements made for another class initiation June 27, at which time the supreme officers will be present.

John A. Connors, of 135 Thames street driver of auto 45 Connecticut reported at 8.15 that his car had been in collision on Pequot avenue with auto N977 Connecticut. He declared that the latter machine was driving without lights during a blinding snow storm. One of the parties in the automobile N977 was taken away with a bleeding hand. The storm abated about 9 o'clock leaving an inch of slush on the walk and in the streets. Thunder and lightning accompanied the storm.

NORTH STERLING

The Danielson correspondent in The Bulletin of March 25th gives the fishermen a good tip in regard to trespassing. Any good sportsmen will show due respect to land owners along the trout stream, but those who think they are the lords of all creation and have the brooks fenced in will have more or less trouble before the trout season is over.

Mr. and Mrs. Deloss Wood returned last week from Florida. They made the trip in their automobile.

Mrs. Byron Young did not take the Titus school as teacher the past week as was expected. The new teacher is Miss Elsa S. Johnson of Woodstock.

Mrs. G. Gunderson of Felton, Del. spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. John Hansen.

The trout fishermen who fail to get a license will find it pretty costly fishing this season.

The first thunder shower of the season came Saturday night with very sharp lightening.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hansen spent Sunday with Arthur Miller and family.

NORTH WOODSTOCK

A union missionary meeting is to be held at the home of Mrs. W. R. Witty April 4th, at 2.30 o'clock. Charles Shimizu, a student at Bethel Bible school, who is studying to be a missionary in Japan, is to speak. His subject will be The Mothers of Japan.

Howard Perrin is seriously ill with pneumonia. He is at Mrs. Frank Perrin's at Woodstock.

Mrd. N. D. Skinner and Miss Julia Smith are expected this week to open their homes here.

The social which was to have been April 4, under the direction of the young men, has been postponed.

Rev. Mr. Lawson preached Sunday. Next Sunday Rev. Mr. Hatch will be here again.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Skinner of Webster were callers in the place on Saturday afternoon.

The man with a grievance always proves a grievance to his friends.

WOMEN WHO LOOK OLD

In many cases they are not old in years, but because they are overworked, over-tired, nervous and run-down, ailments have developed peculiar to their sex and this condition makes them look years older than they actually are. Such women should consider the remarkable record held by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. In a recent canvass among over one hundred and twenty-odd thousand women who had used it, eighty-eight out of every one hundred reported benefit from its use.

Tailored-to-Measure Suits and Top Coats

A SUIT OR TOP-COAT $36.50

EXTRA TROUSERS, $9.50

BUSINESS CLOTHES AT BUSINESS PRICES

By business clothes we mean clothes whose woolens and workmanship are made for rugged business use; and by business prices we mean prices that will stand cold-blooded analysis by men trained to watch their step when they spend money for merchandise.

We guarantee the workmanship, quality, fit and your general satisfaction with any garment we may build for you. We have more than one hundred choice woolens and worsteds for you to select from—there is an expert to take your measure—and that suit or coat will be made up in the very best manner.

Every Boston Store Top-Coat Is Cravenetted
IT IS RAIN-PROOF

You can't buy a "Cravenette." You can only buy something which has been "Cravenette-Processed." It is not a tangible product, but an invisible baptismal process that extends the lease of the garment without raising the rent.

A CRAVENETTED TOP-COAT WILL HOLD IT'S SHAPE LONGER—IT WILL HAVE A NATURALLY LONGER LIFE —AND BE MUCH MORE ADAPTABLE IN EVERY WAY THAN AN ORDINARY COAT.

GURLEYVILLE

The schools in town opened Monday after the spring vacation.

The pulpit of the local church was occupied Sunday by the pastor, Rev. E. M. Pickop who preached a very interesting sermon. After the sermon the pastor welcomed Mrs. Dwight Hanks as a member of the Gurleyville M. E. church by letter from the Greeneville Congregational church, Norwich.

Several automobiles were stuck on Monday in the mud between here and Mansfield Center. Most of the roads near here are very bad, heavy trucking working havoc on the dirt roads, at this time of year.

Ganson G. Depew, 23, assistant federal attorney, of Buffalo, died in a hospital in Aiken, S. C., of acute appendicitis.

CHESTNUT HILL

Mr. and Mrs. G. T. Chappell and daughters visited Mrs. Chappell's parents at Lake's Pond Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Peckham spent a day or two with relatives in Willimantic last week.

Miss Maude Oehlers of Hartford was with her parents in this place for the week end.

Mrs. E. C. Payson spent the week end with relatives in Willimantic.

Miss Cora Chappell returned home Sunday afternoon a visit of several days in Waterford.

Miss Beatrice Stiles was a recent visitor in Manchester.

Mrs. Ella Peckham spent Friday with friends in South Windham.

Six centuries ago Edward III forbade the playing of football in England because it was noisy.

POETRY

She, Came and Went

As a twig trembles, which a bird
Lights on to sing, then leaves, unbent,
So is my memory thrilled and stirred—
I only know she came and went.

As clasps some lake, by sunset kissed,
The blue dome's mountain-thrilling cone,
So my soul held that moment's heaven—
I only know she came and went.

As, at one bound, our swift spring leaps
The orchards full of bloom and scent,
So clove her May my winter's sleep—
I only know she came and went.

An angel stood and met my gaze,
Through the low doorway of my tent.
The tent is struck, the vision stays—
I only know she came and went.

O, when the room grows slowly dim,
And life's last oil is nearly spent,
One gush of light these eyes will brim,
Only to think she came and went.

James Russell Lowell.

My April Lady

When down the stair of morning
The sun rays round her float,
Sweet rivulets of laughter
Are bubbling in her throat;
The gladness of spring's reeding
In gold without alloy,
And in the morning sunlight
I think her name is Joy.

When in the eventide twilight
The quiet bookroom has,
We read old songs of sorrow,
While from her hidden eyes
The tears are falling, falling,
That give her heart relief,
And in the shadowy twilight,
I think her name is Grief.

My little April lady!
Of sunshine and of showers
She weaves the old spring magic
And breaks my heart in flowers.
But when her moods are ended,
She nestles like a dove—
Then, by pain and rapture,
I know her name is Love.

—Henry Van Dyke.

The old Pullman car fish-net hammock is being replaced in the new cars with a rack designed to occupy the same position above the berth as did the hammock. The rack will hold clothing flat and prevent wrinkling. It is made in skeleton form of one-inch green belting and is fastened to either end of the berth by hooks. It folds back flat when not in use.

The clavilux is an organlike instrument that plays light on a screen for the eye, just as music is played into the air for the ear. The instrument blends the qualities of color and of light—now rising and falling in soft gradation, now marshaled in full, impressive splendor, now, fading into abrupt darkness. Sonatas of light and symphonies of color are thus made possible.

When Allen Barker, of Nashua, N. H., went to his garage to get his machine, he saw a large white duck perched on the bumper. Barker recalled that late the night before while returning from Lowell, something white, resembling a piece of paper, struck the front of the machine about ten miles from Nashua. Believing that the paper would blow off, he continued home. The duck was none the worse for the trip.

A baby girl, weighing scarcely three-quarters of a pound and believed to be the smallest living child in the world, is making a hard fight to live in an incubator in a Fort Worth (Tex.,) hospital. The stork left twin girls at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Watson. The first born weighed one pound and six ounces but did not live long. The other twin was rushed to the hospital and the city's medical profession believe that she will win her battle.

A successful English novelist, Miss Sheila Kaye-Smith, generously acknowledges that in the case of two of her stories a fellow-author supplied the basic idea. "The germ of my novels," she says, as quoted by the writer, "is generally a more or less abstract idea which has somehow got entangled with a place. For instance, of land—country back of Rye—was the germ of 'Sussex Gorse,' and a woman farmer—Romney Marsh—was the germ of 'Joanna Godden.' Both these ideas were given me by W. L. George. Miss Kaye-Smith works quickly and corrects little, but it takes her eight months to complete a story.

Harold D. Campbell of Westerly visited in Norwich, his former home, over week end.

Battery E, 243rd Field Artillery, held a regular drill Tuesday evening in the state armory on Pierce street in preparation for the annual federal inspection this month.

A special meeting of the Pawcatuck Fire district was held Monday evening in the rooms of the P. S. Barber Hose company on Liberty street at 8 o'clock, there being over 60 electors present. The meeting was called to order by Moderator Albert G. Martin and Clerk William A. Hillard read the call.

Moderator Martin recognized Stonington Selectman L. C. Purtill of Pawcatuck who detailed the work which the Town of Stonington would do on Mechanic street.

It is proposed to build an 18-foot roadway with five foot sidewalks. The Shore Line Electric railway has agreed to move its tank toward the Pawcatuck river, work already having been begun. From Martin L. Babcock, 1650 square feet of land has been obtained. In all 3,000 feet of sidewalk is to be laid.

A resolution offered by George O. Murphy and seconded by Winthrop W. Barber, was to the effect that a committee of five be appointed by the chair to contract for and supervise the construction of a five foot cement sidewalk on the west side of Mechanic street, beginning at Cedar street and continuing to Pawcatuck avenue. Said walk to be laid and paid for on the same basis as those previously laid by the district, viz: one-third of the actual cost by the abutting owner and two-thirds by the district, but in no case shall the district pay for more than two-thirds of the actual cost of the excavation and laying of the walk." N. Henry Lanphear asked about the cost of laying curbing. Selectman Purtill said that one half would be paid by the owner and one half by the district as has been previously done. Charles J. Norris asked about the Babcock lot and Selectman Purtill stated that arrangements had been made to care for the same. In reply to Mr. Lanphear as to what the total cost would be Selectman Purtill said, $2,400 for the 3,000 feet, the previous amount expended being $2,173.84 for 300 less feet. The resolution was unanimously adopted by acclamation.

Moderator A. G. Martin named the following committee of five: Pierce Morrison, chief engneer of the Pawcatuck Fire department; George Clark, George O. Murphy, Joseph Ozanne, abutting property owners along the line of the proposed improvements and Selectman Lawrence C. Purtill of the town of Stonington.

The advisability of appointing a committee to make a survey of the Pawcatuck Fire district to determine its needs and recommend such legislative action as may be necessary was then taken up.

Clerk Hillard read the following: "Whereas, in order to promote the growth of Pawcatuck and to properly safeguard the property rights of its citizens it seems desirable that the Pawcatuck fire district be empowerde to establish building lines, to restrict certain areas for residential purposes only and to formulate and carry into effect such other plans as may seem desirable; therefore: Resolved, that a committee be appointed to make a survey of the district to determine its need and recommend such legislative action as may be necessary to grant the district the authority to carry its recommendation into effect, said meeting to report at the next annual meeting of the district." The resolution was signed by Alberti R. Stillman.

Judge Stillman, in support of the resolution, said that the creation of building sites as well as residential sections required protection to property owners so that the nature of construction could be controlled and a city planning commission lay out streets for residential and business purposes. In reply to the question as to what the town would have to say the reply was made that the town and fire district should work together. The district already had authority for street lighting and sewer construction and the resolution contemplated the broadening of the district authority which would not be given them by the legislature if it conflicted with that of the town. The resolution was voted without a dissenting vote.

Alexander Marr named the following committee: Dr. William A. Hillard Chief Pierce A. Morrison, Albert R. Stillman, Henry A. Stahle and Howard M. Dunbar. Judge Stillman moved that Moderator Albert G. Martin be an ex-officio member of the committee and it was so voted.

The meeting adjourned at 8.25 after less than half an hours session.

A mission conducted by Revs. John G. Duffy and Rev. James J. O'Sullivan, of the Order of Mary Immaculate, opened Tuesday morning at the Church of the Immaculate Conception. Vars of Westerly, nephews, Edward Vars of Providence and James Clarke of New York. Mrs. Burdick made her home in Dansville, New York and was a sister of the late Enoch W. Vars, of Bradford.

MYSTIC

The scarlet fever situation in the village seems to be under control, due to the prompt action of the health officers of the towns of Groton and Stonington, Doctors L. M. Allyn and C. F. Congdon, respectively, in establishing efficient quarantine rules, also due to the hearty cooperation that prevails on the part of parents of children and those families who are quarantined in following out the orders of the health officers. The bridge quarantine, which keeps the young people of the village on their own side of the river, has been easily kept, and there has been an excellent spirit of cooperation on the part of the moving picture theatre, the Community house, the churches and Sunday schools, etc., and this united effort is proving a great help. There are at present seventeen cases in the village but no cases in new families, the disease being confined to the same families who had it in the beginning. If no new cases develop during this week, it is probable that the school on the West Side will open next Monday.

The funeral of Everett W. Earnshaw was held Tuesday morning, with prayer at his late home on Willow street at 10.30 and service at the Methodist church at 11 o'clock in charge of Rev. J. G. Osborne, assisted by Rev. J. G. Sallis. There was a large gathering of friends and relatives. Burial was in White Brook cemetery, Carolina, R. I.

Phoebe Packer Rathbun tent, Daughters of Veterans, is to meet this (Wednesday) evening.

The Home Missionary society of the Methodist church held a meeting Tuesday afternoon in the chapel.

Miss Isabel Grinnell, student at Connecticut college, is home for the spring recess.

Miss Constance Rathbun of Westerly was the guest Monday of her grandmother, Mrs. Warren Rathbun.

Thursday evening a delegation from Florine Dow camp, Royal Neighbors, is planning to visit Clara B. Wood camp, Royal Neighbors in New London, the trip to be made from here by bus, to witness the degree work of that organization.

The funeral of Henry Griswold Beebe, who died Sunday morning at his home in Orchard lane following an illness of several months, was held Tuesday afternoon, with prayer at his home at 1.30 and service at St. Mark's church at 2 p. m., with Rev. William F. Williams of Calvary church, Stonington, in charge. Burial was in Fishtown cemetery. Mr. Beebe was the son of Henry Griswold and Hannah Murphy Beebe, and was born in Mystic Dec. 26, 1849, and lived in the village the greater part of his life. He is survived by a niece, Mrs. Ruby Clark Decker.

GALES FERRY

Mrs. Minor Moxley was the guest of honor of the Long Cove Ladies' Aid auxiliary, at the Country club house Friday, it being Mrs. Moxley's birthday. She was a charter member of the society when she resided at Long Cove. Nineteen were seated at the tables for dinner which was furnished by members and friends and comprised clam chowder, pie, cake, coffee and tea. Among those present were Mrs. Fred E. Richards, president of the society, Mrs. Fred W. Turner, Mrs. James A. Stoddard, Mrs. Everett Bruce, Mrs. Charles Latwhiler, Mrs. Emil Gunnisky and Miss Gertrude Allen, all of Long Cove, Mrs. Harmon L. Perkins, Mrs. J. A. Birch, Mrs. Charles H. Comstock, Mrs. Latham E. Smith of Gales Ferry, with Mrs. S. H. Wright, Mrs. James Lee, Mrs. Stephen Perkins, all of Groton, and Mrs. Clarence Welch of Pittsfield, Mass. Piano selections were rendered by Miss Allen. Mah jong was played, while members of the society were busy tying a quilt. Mrs. Moxley was presented a satin quilt from the society and individual gifts including towels, table cloth, and aprons, with a potted plant. Mrs. J. A. Birch a guest at the dinner, whose birthday anniversary occurred the same day was also well remembered with gifts.

Scout Executive Frederick E. Burdick, of New London, was present at a largely attended meeting of men at the Country club house Thursday evening to make arrangements for reorganizing Troop No. 1 Boy Scouts of Gales Ferry. The charter of the troop having automaticaly expired January 1 for lack of the required number of scouts qualified to register. Rev. Allen S. Bush acted as chairman of the meeting with Walter M. Buckingham, secretary. A troop committee was appointed as follows: Walter M. Buckingham, Judge Billings S. Crandall, C. E. Colver, Rev. W. D. Woodward, Dudley C. Perkins. This committee will appoint a scoutmaster. Mr. Burdick gave a talk on The Boy Scout Movement, and matters of interest in scout work were discussed.

Mrs. Harriet F. Crandall and her sister, Mrs. Harlan A. Pierce, returned Friday from New York where they have been spending the winter to their home in the village. Mrs. Crandall, who has been very ill during her stay in New York stood the journey very well and is much improved in health. Mrs. A. C. Risdon, of New York, a summer resident of the place, accompanied them here, and is spending some days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Aplin, where she was joined by Mr. Risdon for Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Irving Hurlbutt had as their guests to motor to Norwich Town Sunday to attend the morning service at the Congregational church, Mrs. Henry W. Hurlbutt and Mr. and Mrs. Dudley C. Perkins.

Among those who attended services in New London to hear Dr. Carl A. Kernahan Sunday afternoon and evening were Mrs. D. C. Perkins, Miss Jennie G. Perkins and Mrs. Lucy A. Hurlbutt.

Miss Alice Satterlee attended church services in New London Conference Sunday morning.

Mrs Franklin H. Brown of Norwich was a caller at her summer cottage at Gales Ferry Friday afternoon.

Eddie Simmons of the Bon Ton Girls Co., musical comedy, spent the week end at his home in this place, coming here from Bridgeport and joining the company in New York Sunday night.

Dudley C. Perkins was a guest at the home of Mrs. Byron A. Maynard in Anthony, R. I., while en route to Providence to attend the New England Southern conference.

Hundreds of railroad ties are being assembled a the freight yard at the railroad station here to be distributed at points along the New Haven railroad. These ties are cut and delivered from what was known for years as the Nelson Roach farm, at Stoddard's Wharf.

MANSFIELD CENTER

In spite of the snow storm of Wednesday evening the concert given by the Suwanee River quartette was a decided success, more than 300 attending, filling the church. The concert was one of the best ever given in the town, the quartet being called by the press, "the finest negro quartet in America." The program included camp meeting and plantation songs, as well as readings and popular airs. Especially effective was the rendering as a solo of Old Black Joe. The banjo, piano-harp, guitar and mandolin were also used during the evening. This is the second number of the entertainment course being given under the auspices of the Mansfield Library. It has been necessary to make a change in the third number, which will be given the middle of April, when Miss Brewer, a soloist and reader, and Thompson Blood, humorist and impersonator, will entertain. Credit is due the Mansfield library directors for making this type of entertainment possible since the course involves the expenditure of a large amount of money for a small community.

The Ladies' Aid Society is to meet this (Wednesday) afternoon with Mrs. M. E. Walker.

Mrs. Hawthorne Jones addressed the Older Girls' conference at South Coventry Saturday morning. Among the girls attending from here were Ruth Oden, Lois Cole, Doris Tittle, Fannie, Ruth and Evelyn Brown.

J. N. Jacobsen has purchased from John C. Taylor of Connecticut Agricultural College the property, consisting of building lot and small farm, formerly the site of the residence of Mrs. A. W. Olin and family. Mr. Jacobson plans to erect a dwelling at once.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Young have moved into the second floor tenement of the house owned by A. H. Dresser.

SOUTH KILLINGLY

Lillian Terwilliger of the Putnam telephone exchange force has been spending a few days with her parents Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Terwilliger.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Gates and children spent Sunday with Mr. Gates' sister in Providence.

James Young of Moosup was a business caller at The Oaks, Friday.

Herman Barlow of Danielson spent Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Barlow.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore White have moved into the house with Mrs. White's mother.

Berton Brown, who is working in Willimantic, spent the week-end at his home.

Harold Woodmansee has returned to work, after an enforced vacation by an attack of mumps.

Mrs. John Potter of Danielson spent a day recently with her sister, Mrs. Fred Shippee.

A team driven by A. E. Phillips was considerably damaged when a Providence man misjudged his distance and struck the rear end of the wagon with his machine tipping it over. The horse though frightened made no attempt to run. The driver of the car hastened to Mr. Phillips' assistance and the damages will be adjusted by an insurance company. Mr. Phillips escaped with scratches and bruises.

The mechanic arts class of the Lebanon (N. H.) High school has built a forty-foot high ski jump for the school outing club.

Sweeping Made Easy
Without Electricity!!

Here Is the Wonderful

Vacuette
Non-Electric Suction Sweeper

Picture shows the Improved Model "C" Vacuette

Here, madam, is the vacuum sweeper you have heard so much about—the one you've seen advertised in The Saturday Evening Post and already in use in more than 180,000 homes. We want you to compare it with any other sweeper you have ever seen or used. The Vacuette works mechanically—automatically. No electricity to pay for—no plugs, wires, cords or attachments to get out of order. Just a slight push sends it whirring across your floors—and all the dust, lint, thread, ashes, dirt and grit vanish into the bag. The Vacuette has a beautiful cast aluminum body and weighs only 7½ pounds. Convenient pistol grip handle makes it easy to guide.

As efficient as an Electric—as easy to operate as a Carpet Sweeper

Lasts a Lifetime

So simple is the mechanism of the Vacuette that it requires practically no attention. All parts are "Parkerized" rust-proof and with ordinary care will last for years. Every Vacuette thoroughly examined and tested before leaving the factory, and you get it with the maker's guarantee.

FREE Demonstration

The very minute you see the Vacuette at work, you will realize that here is positively the "last word" in vacuum sweepers. Here is the really dependable cleaner—before which dust and dirt vanish as if by magic. Don't take our word for it. We will demonstrate the Vacuette on your own rugs and carpets. Let us bring this wonderful sweeper to your house, where you can actually test it yourself. No reason to hesitate—you will not be obligated in any way.

Phone or Write

Do this now—before it slips your mind. Take advantage of this opportunity to get a free demonstration at our sole risk and expense. You will be simply amazed at the thoroughness with which the Vacuette cleans your rugs and carpets. You will be positively delighted at the ease with which you can turn drudgery into play. You will be absolutely astounded at the low cost of this peerless vacuum sweeper. Madam, you owe it to yourself to see the Vacuette. Don't put it off a moment. Phone or write—NOW!

MARKET FIRM, BUT DULL.

New York, April 1. — Stock prices displayed a firm undertone in today's market, the dullest full day session this year. Except for an isolated drive on Studebaker, which was hammered down two points below yesterday's final figure, there was a marked absence of selling pressure. Indications that the short interest was becoming unwieldy were seen by many traders in the apparent ease with which several stocks were bid up on relatively few sales.

While constructive interests were encouraged by Washington reports that leaders of the two major parties in the senate intended to expedite pending legislation and that administration officials were hopeful regarding a 25 per cent. reduction on 1923 income taxes before congress adjourns, they made no concerted effort to boost prices. Floor traders reported that most of the buying [redacted] from short interests.

Strength and activity of St. Paul preferred, which touched a new 1924 high at 29 1-2 and closed slightly below that figure for a net gain of nearly two points, was one of the few features.

The buying apparently was based on the improved earnings position of the road as revealed in the February statement, as the stock is one of the few on the "big board" for which there has been no thought of dividend action.

Reports of further curtailment of activity in the Youngstown district failed to affect the steel shares, U. S. Steel common and the independent issues showing slight fractional gains. Bethlehem moved up nearly a point on the announcement by President Grace that March shipment and production were the largest of any month since the middle of 1923.

Oils made only a feeble response to reports of an advance in prices of Gulf Coast crude, although Marland closed a point higher at 37 1-2. Rubber shares yielded slightly on the announcement that dividend action on Kelly-Springfield 8 per cent. preferred had been postponed for one week.

American Can closed nearly a point higher at 105 1-4 despite the circulation of bearish rumors about that stock before the market opened. American Woolen was heavy in the early dealings, touching 67 3-4 but it snapped back later to 69 1-4, up 7-8 on the day. Jones Brothers Tea touched a new low at 18 1-2 and then rallied three points. Dupont, General Electric and U. S. Alcohol were the strong spots among the specialties.

Outside of St. Paul preferred, interest in the railroad group was confined largely to Chesapeake & Ohio and Norfolk & Western, each of which moved up about 1 1-2 points.

Foreign exchanges were strong, new high records for the year being recorded by the French, Italian, Swiss and Scandinavian rates. Strength of French francs was attributed to the active covering of short contracts.

Call money opened at 5 per cent. and then dropped to 4 1-2. The time money market continued firm, dealers reporting a shortage of funds at 4 1-2 per cent. for 90 day loans although the shorter maturities ruled at that figure. Long dates command 4 3-4. The commercial paper market was quiet, prime names being unchanged at 4 1-2 per cent.

BOND MARKET.

New York, April 1.—Failing to develop a definite trend in today's dull trading, bond prices displayed a strong undertone in most sections of the list. At the close the market was enlivened by active selling of the Peoria and Eastern income 4s, which dropped 3 1-4 points to a price more than 5 points below last week's high level.

Opportunities for profit taking supplied the motive for unloading these bonds and also brought fractional declines in other speculative issues. Liquidation of the American Agricultural Chemical 7 1-2s continued.

The principal constructive movement was in the obligations of the St. Paul railroad, which met good buying support at levels slightly below the high figures for the year. Average gains of about a point also were recorded by the French municipal issues on the strength in the foreign exchanges.

Offering of the $30,000,000 Swiss government loan met with a good response, books on the issue closing within two hours. "Switching" operations from the United Kingdom 5 1-2s, selling around par, into the Swiss 5 1-2s, offered at 97 1-2, were reported in progress, investors being attracted by the higher yield.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

Chicago, April 1.—Scarcity of supplies made itself felt in the corn market today, and the price which had been wavering began to climb, business was then of good volume, and the closing was firm, 1-8c to 1 1-8c net higher, May .78 to .78 1-8. Wheat suffered neglect, and closed unsettled, 3-8c to 7-8c off, May $1.01 1-2 to $1.01 1-2 @ 5-8 and July $1.03 1-8, with oats unchanged to 1-8c lower, and provisions varying from 2c decline to an advance of 1 1-2 @ 5c.

Indications that corn was being taken out of elevators here by industries, receipts were so light, was the chief apparent reason for the upward turn of the corn market. The fact that arrivals of corn in Chicago today totalled only 47 cars and that on the other hand the shipping demand here gave evidence of improvement resulted in much comment, and incidentally brought about a good deal of simultaneous buying of May and selling of July during the last half of the board of trade session. Earlier, the corn market kept within a narrow range with quick changes of price whenever offerings or demand showed any sign of increase. Meanwhile, traders were nervous and uncertain regarding what further, if anything, might develop from recent charges that the market had been manipulated.

Wheat values gradually gave way, handicapped by slowness of European inquiry and by reports that Argentina was underselling Canada. Besides, domestic crop conditions were favorable. Late announcement that a vessel room hda been engaged for the shipment of 160,000 barrels of flour to Europe failed to act as an offset.

In the oats market, delay to seeding continued to have a sustaining effect on prices, but buying lacked enthusiasm.

Provisions derived support chiefly from operations by the smaller packers.

CURB MARKET.

New York, April 1. — Stock prices pointed upward in today's curb market but trading activity was confined to a few issues in each group.

Strength of the South American issues featured the oil group, Creole Syndicate touching a new high at 4 1-4. Gains of 1 to 2 points were recorded by Imperial of Canada, Prairie Oil & Gas and Standard Oil of Nebraska, but Standard Oil of Ohio broke 15 points to 305 on a few odd lot transactions. Humble improved fractionally following the announcement of higher Gulf Coast crude prices by that company.

Lehigh Valley coal rights broke two points in response to a reduction in anthracite prices. Dubilier, the only other active industrial feature, gained nearly a point. Fajardo Sugar, making its first appearance in about six weeks, advanced four points to 124 1-2 in reflection of an extra dividend of $2.50.

Chief interest in the mining list centered in the announcement that 5,000,000 shares of the Kay Copper corporation, par value $1, had been admitted to trading, which probably will start tomorrow.

Swiss government 5 1-2s of 1946 were admitted to trading today but there were no sales.

Several of the teachers visited schools in Worcester Monday.

Theodore Cox was in Boston Saturday.

Mrs. Julia Clapp of Pomfret is caring for Mrs. Emily Allen, who is still quite feeble.

Miss Eleanor Lindeman returned from a Washington trip Friday and is spending a few days at her home.

Stewart Morse fell from a ladder in the barn Sunday while doing chores and was picked up unconscious. He was able to attend school Monday.

Miss Louise Lindeman is in New York for a month preparing for a government position. She expects to locate in Buffalo, N. Y.

J. E. Child and family of Putnam spent the week-end with local relatives.

A Missionary meeting was held last week Wednesday with Mrs. J. E. Aldrich, the attendance being 15. A gift of $36 was recently received from Mrs. Mary P. Bixby and a hearty vote of thanks was given her for the generous gift. The program was in charge of Mrs. Everett May, assisted by Mrs. John May; topic, The Grenfell Mission and several interesting articles relating to the work was read. A social hour followed, with refreshments. The collections will be sent to further the work of Dr. Grenfell.

AVERY C. SMITH TELLS HOW MIAMI BEACH GREW

In the first issue of the Daily Tribune, published March 11, at Miami Beach, Florida, Avery C. Smith, formerly of this city, told the story of its development from a mangrove swamp to a summer paradise.

In part, Mr. Smith's sketch of the development of Miami Beach was as follows:

"In the early days of the Flagler regime of development of the strip of land bordering the Atlantic on the eastern shores of Florida I was the owner of passenger steamers engaged in summer service out of Norwich, Conn., my home town on the Thames river, running to the local pleasure resorts on Long Island sound.

"It was there that one Frank Allen, connected with the Clyde line steamship service, New York to Jacksonville, suggesting going to St. Augustine, Fla., then the terminus of the Flagler system, to look over a route for winter service between St. Augustine and a resort called North Beach on the source of the North river, dominated by a man by the name of Sperry of New Haven, Conn. I made the trip, but could see no real chance, as it appeared to me, to warrant engaging in steamboating there at that time.

"I stayed in and around St. Augustine some two weeks enjoying the quaint old city with its magnificent hotels, picturesque fortifications, its balmy air laden with the scent of the jasmine and the Cherokee rose, and I marveled at such conditions being possible in January.

"I had, you see, gotten the Florida fever, so to speak, had unconsciously like many others before me and since, gotten Florida sand in my shoes. So I just had to keep coming back and as often as I could to the land of sunshine and flowers, in the state where Florida spends her winters and where the enthusiast declares, "it's always June."

"And that's how it came to pass that I came to Florida the first time.

"Well, it wasn't long before I came again, and this time got as far south as Daytona, as 'Uncle Henry' (for in those days that's what almost everyone called Henry M. Flagler) had extended the railroad that far south and Daytona even then was a very attractive place. I stopped there off and on several seasons.

"Then the railroad went to Palm Beach, and I enjoyed it there, seeing all the wonderful development take place, the building of gigantic hotels, reclamation of swampy lands, creating of indescribable beauty by landscape gardening, where before the coming of man with money and wonderful foresight, but a jungle had existed.

Six Years Later

"In 1908, or just about six years after my first trip to Miami having given the city time to outgrow its early childhood, I returned again, saw that Miami was growing by leaps and bounds and certainly hadn't been asleep all the time during my absence, nor apparently hadn't suffered any on account of my having neglected it so long!

"This time I hunted up a fisherman with his launch and for $5 real money (and money talked in Miami even in those days) hired him to take me over to the ocean front where since that time has grown our city, Miami Beach.

"We landed down about where the government cut is now and walked zig-zag toward where we could see the pyramid-shaped roof of an old-building called the pavilion, which had been built some few years previously by one Dick Smith (no relation of mine, however) and run as a dance hall, I am told.

"This was the only sign of the work of man in evidence. Cottontail rabbits were behind nearly every tuft of beach grass and they scurried away in contempt at our audacity in encroaching upon their domain. Bright orange and black spotted chickensnakes darted across our path, not any too infrequently, if one were inclined to be nervous at all. Shiny, black-eyed, pointed nose little raccoons, so fat they could hardly get out of our way constituted practically all the life of the islands at that time.

"The whole bay front was an impenetrable mangrove swamp as far as the eye could reach north and south with the only clearing, the place where I landed, sort of an opening apparently made and maintained by the occasional fishermen who walked out to the beach front to size up the weather conditions on the ocean.

How Miami Beach Looked

"Rough tufts of black grass, spicy yellow blossomed plants, glossy leaved coca plum bushes with their puckery, insipid flavored fruit, sea grape trees laden with purple and red grapes of a rather pleasant—as a whole—flavor, beach verbenas purple blossomed, lantanuas with their cheerful, war reddish-browa hue of bloom and the stately cocoanut palm, everywhere lifting its fronds heavenward, bending with the breezes under its load of cocoanuts (which the native Floridian uses for food and drink) the palmetto and its sweet scented bloom surrounded by honey bees, about cover which my first vision of Miami Beach was like. Still I thought it was a jewel in the rough.

"All it needed was nursing along, cleaning up, building up, and with all my unguided efforts, rebuffs, etc. (experienced later). I love it still as I did in the jungle days.

"Having formed my opinion regarding the beach from this personal trip of exploration and inspection of actual conditions I returned to Miami with my mind fully made up to be something of a second Robinson Crusoe, to go a little farther, perhaps, to build up an embryo shore resort on this little South Sea isle, to transport, as it were, a Connecticut beach resort to the jungle land. So I got in touch with the owners of the land and purchased the old pavilion. After spending the balance of the season in Florida coast resorts and the island of Cuba, I returned home to put boats in commission and operate summer business as before.

Next fall, October, 1909, to be exact, I returned to Miami with my wife for I had just married and the trip south was in the nature of a wedding tour, and with a definitely formed plan of casting our lot with delightful seeming Miami and Miami Beach and establishing there our home and business. Filled with enthusiasm and pleasurable anticipation for the future, we rented a cottage in Fort Dallas Park and lived in it one season. Then we purchased a house at 811 Avenue B and, by the way, there were then no buildings except the one afterwards remodeled into the Saratoga hotel or rooming house and the original Episcopal church. We remodeled this house to suit our own uses, lived in it about seven years, saw Miami grow up around us, built up our beach and transportation business, with wharves and office on the north side of the old Fair building at the foot of the present Flagler street.

Starts First Business

"During the previous summer I had found a co-partnership with James C. Warr of Haverhill, Mass., who came to Florida in 1909 and we established the Biscayne Navigation company. This resulted to our building wharves, boats buildings and the necessary boardwalks, clearing of lands, etc., to make a resort, furnish transportation and to start Miami Beach's first business enterprise. Thus in the season 1909-1910 the outside world was given the first opportunity to see (by regular schedule and stated price) Miami's ocean beach. We built the boats Mauretania and Lusitania, double-decked, twin-screw motor boats, with a capacity of 150 passengers each. We purchased the Lady Lou and the Sallie, which we later remodeled, and later we built the Biscayne. These were all operated in the pleasure boat business in Biscayne bay and the Miami river under the name of the Biscayne Navigation company of which Mr. Warr and I were the sole owners, and we were granted an exclusive ferry franchise to cover the ferrying of passengers for hire crossing from Biscayne bay to the beach for a period of 10 years by the county commissioners of Dade county, Florida, a body duly authorized to act in such instances.

"We operated faithfully summer and winter, according to the conditions of our franchise, and after about three years in order to allow unhampered development the county commissioners revoked the franchise, opening up the ferry business to competition. At about this time there was built at Miami South eBach settlement the second casino and the Ocean Beach Realty company the first company in real estate was formed. One hundred acres of land were purchased from Charles H. Lumm of Redbank, N. D., for $30,000 and an option was given by Mr. Lumm to this company on his holdings of 400 acres more or less for an additional $50,000. This entire property ran from the south side of the present Biscayne avenue to some 200 feet north of the present site of the Carl G. Fisher residence on the ocean front and the whole width of the strip of land constituting Miami Beach with no exceptions—narrow strips of land, one at about where the north side of Fifth street lies, called the Wilson tract, and the other called the Carney tract, now the site of Espanola villas.

Initial Real Estate.

"The land was plotted and charted and put on the market and more or less sold, and thus Miami Beach real estate changed hands for the first time.

"While the development was going on at South Beach and the transportation being furnished solely by boat lines John S. Collins and his associates, the Miami Beach Improvement company, were busy in developing North Beach interests resulting in the building of Collins casino, now remodeled in the Fisher Casino, and the greatest projection leading to our rapid development, the wonderful Collins bridge.

"Miami Beach was founded as a town in 1915—March 26 was the day—and Miami Beach became a city in 1917, with J. N. Lummus as the first mayor. It has been a wonder city and has grown so marvelously fast as to attract attention from the whole world and the things of yesterday are not sufficient even within a short time.

"For illustration—Collins bridge thought great in its day was soon outgrown as a main artery of travel and was largely replaced in 1920 by the booming of Dade county and the construction of our million dollar causeway. Now, in 1924, the present causeway and Collins bridge have been declared inadequate to care for the traffic of our rapidly growing community and not only the doubling up of facilities on our present causeway by adding two new viaducts crossing the channels of marine travel and leading to the broad avenues of the causeway proper is actually under construction, but the building of another entirely separate and distinct causeway farther north and landing on the beach near the Nautilus is already launched and an assured project of the near future.

"The building of the causeway was largely due to the foresight and untiring efforts of J. N. Lummus of whom it may be said, 'He usually perseveres until he secures what he starts to get.' The causeway has proved a great asset to the beach development and a wonderful advertisement to Dade county enterprise.

"Summing it all up, it is a most apt illustration of 'great oaks from little acorns grow,' when we impartially and fairly consider where and how Miami Beach took its start.'

"The establishing of the Biscayne boat lines inviting the outside world to visit Miami Beach by furnishing the facilities to do so, resulted in the establishment of Smith's casino by myself and Mr. Warr.

"In the year 1923 I reorganized the business, making it a corporation, spending much money in completely rebuilding and remodeling, making the casino one of America's most up-to-date and one of the largest institutions of the kind. The corporation is comprised of Charles L. Briggs, James C. Warr and myself, who take great pride in what it has been the company's privilege to do in the growth, development and founding of Miami Beach."

TAFTVILLE

Alexander E. Reeves who has been spending some time in town with his father, John Reeves, has returned to his home in Portland, Maine.

Levi Leonard of South Second avenue has been called to Springfield, Mass., by the serious illness of his mother.

Cards are being received from R. C. Plaut and Julius W. Cadden by friends in town. They are postmarked, Bombay, India.

The regular monthly meeting of the Ponemah Wheel club was held Tuesday evening at the club house with a good attendance. Routine business was transacted. The minstrel troupe of the club has accepted an offer to stage their show at the Community House in Plainfield, the latter part of this month.

Edward Morrow of North A street has resigned his position with the Ponemah company.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Goodby have given up their house on Norwich avenue and have gone to Canterbury, where they have purchased a farm.

Ladies Auxiliary, A. O. H., met Tuesday evening at their rooms in Parish hall, with the president, Mrs. William J. Malone in the chair.

Tuesday saw a number of local anglers out to whip the streams in the woods in the outskirts of the village. Many local dealers reported a good demand for hooks, polos, etc. No record catches were reported for the day, however.

Edward P. Dunn of New London was a caller on friends in town on Tuesday.

Peter Flynn of Norwich was a business caller in town Tuesday afternoon.

NORWICH TOWN

Ever Ready Circle of the King's Daughters is to meet this (Wednesday) evening at the home of Mrs. Henry T. Fraser, of Elm avenue.

FATHER KEEFE SPOKE TO CATHOLIC COUNCIL

An address on Great Women in History was given Tuesday evening by Rev. W. A. Keefe, rector of St. Mary's Memorial church, at a meeting of the members of the Connecticut Council of Catholic Women in their rooms at the Scroll building, Main street. The blinding snow storm interfered with the size of the attendance. Mrs. Joseph P. Cummings president of the council, presided at the meeting and presented the speaker of the evening.

Father Keefe spoke of a number of great women in social, political and educational activity. He called attention to the great ideals that inspired these women. He urged the ladies to follow the example of these great women. Father Keefe said that during the past few months there had been several cases solved through the agencies of the Connecticut Council of Catholic Women, that has meant much to the city financially and otherwise. He said he feels that if the people of the city knew of the good that is being accomplished by the local council it would receive very hearty and enthusiastic support of everybody. It was announced that, in view of the small attendance, Father Keefe will repeat his address at a meeting of the council next Tuesday evening. The members of Mercier council have accepted an invitation to be present and are making plans to attend in a body.

AUTOMOBILE LEAVES ROAD IN WESTERLY DARKNESS

(Special to the Bulletin)

Westerly, April 1—The sixteenth snow storm of the season began in Westerly about 8 o'clock on the evening of All Fools day and before 10 o'clock the fall had reached the depth of several inches. At 7.45 the electric light service ceased entirely for a 15 minute interval. During this time an automobile whose driver misjudged the road went over the wall on the Watch Hill road, near the Chapman farm at Avondale, the occupants escaping injury. Early in the evening there were lightning flashes accompanied by thunder. The snow later turned to hail and rain.

GOOD TROUT CATCH ON FIRST FISHING DAY

Tuesday, April 1st, saw many local anglers out seeking their favorite fishing grounds. Several small catches were reported, but Harry Walton of Union street brought home a real catch.

Mr. Walton was out early with a friend and landed 10 fine trout. Four were 10 inches in length and weighed over half pound a piece, while the remaining 6 trout measured from 8 to 9 inches, weighing just under the half pound mark.

RAIN, THUNDER, LIGHTNING AND SNOW IN SUDDEN APRIL STORM

Tuesday qualified and is surely entitled to its name of "April Fools' Day", for if ever a day was made to fool the public Tuesday takes the honor. Dawning cold for an April day, the temperature kept below seasonable average throughout the day and the sun shone out several times during the day tricking hundreds of people into leaving their homes unprepared for what followed.

Shortly before six o'clock in the evening when thoughts began to turn to home and supper a snow storm such as has not been seen in Norwich all winter cut loose in all its fury and for several hours held everything in its sodden clasp. The heavy wet snow buffeted about by a high wind covered everything it struck with a thick coating, people on the streets looking like snow-people within a few moments after braving the storm.

Street travel became exceedingly dangerous and with the traffic on the streets it was a wonder that many accidents did not occur. Automobile drivers caught out in the storm were agreed that it was the worst night for driving in several years. Windshields and windows on the cars were coated heavily with snow and it was impossible to see out of the windows. Cars not having automatic windshield cleaners gave the drivers all kinds of trouble for the snow clouded up the glass as fast as it could be wiped clear.

Along with the snow came thunder and lightning, another freak for this April Fools' Day, and last came the rain which turned the snow into slush, which later turned into slippery walking and traveling.

All together the day was one to be remembered, April, not March, holding the honor of coming in like a lion.

Many who had driven machines from the suburban districts to the city gave up the attempt to get home, and all the public garages had their space so much taken up by 8 o'clock at night that it was hard work to get a car in anywhere.

The trolley company got out their snow ploughs about 10 o'clock and sent them over the Willimantic line which was cleared for traffic. When the ploughs returned to this city they were sent over the local lines.

AUTOMOBILES COME TOGETHER IN BLINDING SNOWSTORM

During the blinding snow storm early Tuesday evening two minor automobile accidents occurred in the central part of the city. Shortly after 6 o'clock a machine driven by Herbert J. Ferguson of this city collided with a machine owned by the Community Bake Shop and parked in front of the Thayer building. Mr. Ferguson's machine skidded into the Bake Shop machine and damaged a fender.

Shortly afterwards machines driven by Albert Altif of No. 535 Main St., and Donald Beany of New London came together at the junction of Shetucket and Main streets. Little damage resulted outside of a bent mudguard.

MRS. C. H. BISSELL REGENT OF CONNECTICUT D. A. R.

Mrs. Charles Humphrey Bissell of Southington was re-elected regent of the Connecticut society of the Daughters of the American Revolution at the closing session of the state convention, held at Center church, New Haven, Saturday afternoon. Other officers elected were: State vice regent, Miss Katherine Arnold Nettleton of Derby; recording secretary, Miss Alice Lee Coe of Winsted; consulting registrar, Mrs. Mary Bugbee Bishop of Putnam; treasurer, Miss Jennie Loomis of Windsor; historian, Miss Harriet Parnal Marsh of New Haven; librarian, Miss Jessie W. Hayden, East Hartford; councilors, Mrs. Frank F. Spencer of Manchester; Mrs. William S. Ingraham of Bristol; Miss Mary Louise Pardee of New Haven; Mrs. Willis E. Terrill of Middletown; Mrs. Charles H. Armstrong of Bridgeport; Mrs. Thomas E. Carroll of East Hartford and Mrs. Harry A. Smith of Hartford. All of the officials were re-elected with the exception of the registrar.

READ HER POEMS AT Y. M. C. A. AUXILIARY MEETING

Members of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Norwich Young Men's Christian association met Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Charles D. Noyes of 18 Lincoln avenue, enjoying a very pleasant meeting and social time.

In the absence of Mrs. Charles Tyler Bard, president, who is confined to her home because of illness, the meeting was in charge of Vice President Mrs. F. W. Cary. Edwin W. Hill, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A. was present at the meeting and spoke briefly concerning general topics and routine business was transacted. A special attraction on the programme was the appearance of Miss Mazie Cruthers who in a most pleasing manner read a number of poems of her own composition.

Following the meeting, tea was served by the hostess and a social hour enjoyed.

Gift to Bride-Elect

Miss Gretta Harrington, supervisor of writing in the New London public schools for the past four years was tendered a farewell party Friday by the teachers at the Saltonstall school in that city. Miss Harrington is to leave soon to marry Henry Bois of this city. As a parting gift Miss Harrington was presented a pair of silver candle sticks.

JUDGE REBUKED MEN ON BOOTLEGGERS' LISTS

Judge Maltbie in the superior court at Hartford Monday disposed of the cases of Harry Bliss an Donal Siegel of Providence, the so-called society bootlegger when he sentenced each to 9 months in jail. In passing sentence he said it was not intended solely as a punishment for what they had done, but also as a deterrent to others who might be tempted to engage in the business.

State wide interest has been brought to the case because of lists taken from the two men which apparently gave the names of prominent persons who had been their customers. All these were summoned into court Friday where they were questioned as to their dealings with the two liquor runners and were given a scorching denunciation by Judge Maltbie.

Five of the witnesses who failed to appear on Friday were in court Monday. Dr. Charles C. Beach was the first witness called. He had been a physician for 38 years and was a member of the city, county and state medical societies. He said he had known Bliss for about a year and had made several purchases from him, buying sherry, champagne, vermouth, cordials and ale.

Dr. John B. Griggs, physician, had made three purchases amounting in all to about $250. Edgar L. Robbins, Matthew M. Hogan and Rocco Matarese also appeared.

Miss Kate Ryan, proprietor of a fashionable womans wear shop, was reported by the state's attorney to be ill in bed and unable to get to court, but had promised to file an affidavit telling of her purchases, which would be read into the record.

Those to testify privously were James H. Kane, Hartford, dentist; William T. Kennedy, clothing salesman; Luther H. Bishop, insurance man, of Warehouse Point; Col. Emerson G. Taylor; Joseph Watson Beach, insurance broker; William J. Mulligan, attorney of Thompsonville; George A. Long, engineer; Irving I. Ingraham, manufacturer of West Hartford, William E. Egan, attorney; Antonia Sano, Arthur P. Towne, banker; Addison Brainerd, bank cashier; Otto Thiene of West Hartford; Charles Teneyck, manufacturer.

After the witnesses had been heard, Judge Maltbie delivered a scathing arraignment of the group.

The court: I am not going any further with this today, for two reasons: I am in no mood to sentence these men, and in the second place, there are these other witnesses whom I think are dodging subpoenas of this court, and I want them to appear. My idea is that it may stand over until 9.30 Monday morning; but I do want to say this, and I am going to stand up so I will make myself heard by those men who came here on this witness stand. Every one of you, with the possible exception of Mr. Mulligan, has confessed here to a part in these transactions, in breach of the laws of your country and the constitution of these United States; and every one of you is foresworn, because every one of you when you became an elector held up your hand and swore that you would uphold the Constitution of the United States. And that is not all; these men here are charged, and have pleaded guilty, to breaking the laws of their country, not in any accidental way, not in any outburst of passion, but coldly and consciously, in order to get a portion of the results of an illegal traffic; and they have done it to get your money; and not only have they broken the laws of their country in this respect, but the trade which they represent, as every man of you who reads the papers knows, drags after it every manner of violence up to murder, smuggling, piracy, and worst of all bribery and corruption which reaches out to every man that tries to enforce these particular laws of his country; and the trail of those crimes leads right to the door of you who have come here and told that you have played your part in it. It is your money which causes that, and you who are supposed to represent property, respectability and social position—what are you after all but participants in crime, instigators of crime? That's what you are; and you set yourselves up and you say "I will choose what laws I will obey." Well, if you can choose what laws you will obey, any other man can choose what laws he will obey; and if you do that, what becomes of your country? American citizens, some of you with creditable military records back of you, digging at the very vitals of your country. There is many a man—there's a man who sits in that pen over there who is deserving more at the hands of the court and the public than you are.

Take a recess Mr. Sheriff, and air out the room.

Mystic Man Bequeathed $25,000.

Charles E. Wheeler, manager of the Standard Machine company of Mystic, it was disclosed in the surrogates' court in New York Saturday through the filing of a transfer tax state appraisal of the property of Mrs. Alice M. Wheeler, who died Jan. 14, 1923, will receive $25,000.

The estate of Mrs. Wheeler is valued at $1,048,583.32. Mr. Wheeler is her brother-in-law.

SEVEN NEW BRIDGES IN HIGHWAY DEPT WORK

Construction of approximately fifteen miles of new highways and seven new bridges, is called for in proposals which the State Highway Department submitted Monday to contractors for sealed bids. The bids will be received up to Monday, April 7, at 2 o'clock at the State Highway Commission, and must be accompanied by bond for one-third the amount of the bid.

The following towns are included in the new construction program: Clinton, Westbrook, Canaan, North Canaan, Brookfield, Newtown, West Haven, New Haven, East Hartford, Easton, Pomfret, Seymour, Oxford and Darien.

The proposed improvements follow: East Hartford—About 1,300 linear feet of sheet asphalt pavement over concrete base on Main street.

West Haven—About 2,340 linear feet of water bound macadam and one thirty-foot span concrete girder bridge over Little River on Middletown Avenue.

Brookfield and Newtown—About 8,800 linear feet of waterbound macadam on Brookfield-Hawleyville road.

Canaan and North Canaan—About 24,568 linear feet of waterbound macadam on the South Canaan road.

Clinton and Westbrook-Federal Aid Project—About 16,283 linear feet of reinforced concrete pavement on the Post Road.

Easton—About 900 linear feet of waterbound macadam and a concrete girder bridge at the foot of Sport Hill.

Pomfret—About 4,550 linear feet of bituminous macadam over broken stone base on Pomfret Station-Murdock Roads.

Seymour—Concrete girder bridge over Bladen River at Payne's Corner.

One concrete slab bridge and one concrete girder bridge on the Seymour-Oxford road.

Darien—About 16,300 linear feet of reinforced concrete pavement on the Boston Post road.

Canaan—Two concrete slab bridges on the Canaan-Cornwall road.

This is the second large group of contracts proposed by the state in the last few weeks and marks the beginning of the spring and summer program of reconstruction of highways.

COTTON MANUFACTURERS ARE TO MEET IN BOSTON

New England men who are prominent in the business world are to address the semi-annual meeting of the National Association of Cotton manufacturers, which is to be held at the Copley Plaza hotel in Boston on Wednesday, April 30, and Thursday, May 1, and which is to deal primarily with industry in New England.

It is announced by the association that on Thursday morning, May 1, S. H. Thompson of Lowell, former president of the American Hardware association, will speak on "The Community and the Industry," and Gerrit Fort vice president of the Boston & Maine railroad, will discuss "The Railroads and the Industry."

Arrangements are now being perfected for the technical session to be held Thursday afternoon. James E. Coburn, agent for the Androscoggin mills at Lewiston, Me., will be chairman of this session. Prof. George B. Haven will speak on "Work on Textiles at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology," and W. A. Nivling of the Huron Milling Co., of Boston, will discuss "The Viscosity of Starches." Prepared papers will be read after these addresses and a general discussion will then follow.

At the session on Wednesday afternoon Harry C. Meserve, secretary of the association, will speak on "The Founding and Growth of Industrial Centers." Other speakers and chairmen of the various sessions are now being arranged for, and it is expected that a convention that will prove of great value to New England industry will result.

Missing Bull Pup Found

A Boston bull Gigi belonging to Miss Nellie Sullivan of Stonington disappeared a few days ago and it was feared that the dog had been stolen. People in the vicinity of the Stanton barn on Cliff street heard a dog barking for a couple of days and at last told Miss Sullivan, who lives at the home of Mrs. Oscar Pendleton, of the fact. She found that it was the missing dog, which had fallen into an old dry well under the barn. Procuring a ladder and the services of a small boy, the dog was soon brought to safety greatly to his delight and that of his owner. The dog suffered no ill effects from his temporary imprisonment with the exception of a sore throat caused by continuous barking.

Decides to Go to Jail

At Rockville, vacating his appeal to the superior court, Frank C. Mack, who was found guilty of violating the liquor laws in police court the other day was lodged in the county jail at Tolland. Mack must serve fifteen days in jail as he was found guilty on three different charges by Judge John E. Fisk. A penalty of $70 and five days was imposed on each charge, together with the costs of $22.06. The fine, amounting to $310, was paid after Mack made known to Prosecuting Attorney McCarthy that he wished to vacate his appeal. City Sheriff Arthur T. Dickinson took Mack to the jail.

Jailer Erston Clough states that there is plenty of work at present as the plans for replacing the destroyed buildings are about complete. Jailer Clough states that if it was summer the five men sentenced by the city court would be put at work farming, but their services will be handy at present cleaning up the burned buildings.

After being sentenced Mack furnished an $800 bond which was returned the following day. This leaves but one appeal from the eight cases heard in the city court, being that of Louis Barbera, who was fined $200 and sentenced to jail for 15 days together with costs of $10.28. He was released under a cash bond of $700 furnished by his brother.

BINGHAM'S KEY NOTE SPEECH AT REP. STATE CONVENTION

Lieutenant Governor Discussed National Affairs to the Exclusion of Local Questions—Was Lavish in His Praise of President Coolidge—Condemned "Inquisitorial" Nature of Senatorial Methods — Protested Movement to Nationalize and Standardize Education—Warned Against Modern Tendency Toward Bureaucracy—Praised Mellon Plan of Taxation—Would Require Future Constitutional Amendments to Be Submitted to the People Instead of the Legislatures.

Hartford, April 2.—Colonel Hiram Bingham, lieutenant governor of Connecticut, temporary chairman of the republican state convention which tomorrow will name seventeen delegates to the Cleveland convention, in his address to the delegates tonight declared that in Calvin Coolidge are the "characteristics and traditions of those who took their lives in hand and signed the Declaration of Independence." His keynote speech was devoted entirely to discussion of national affairs, contained much praise of President Coolidge and a defence of republicanism, and condemned the "inquisitorial nature" of senatorial investigations now in progress.

Discussing the investigations Colonel Bingham said that "a tremendous smoke screen, made of burning oil had been thrown up to hide from the country the kind of a president we have. There are two things to be done, and we can trust the president to do them," he said. "First, to get back what has been illegally acquired, and second, the duty of punishing the guilty. Party affiliations will not protect the guilty. We, in Connecticut, understand his (the president) kind. He is the ideal statesman, patient, wise, steady, just and true."

Colonel Bingham discussed national affairs to the exclusion of local questions. He declared that the republican administration in its handling of foreign policies had "upheld the dignity of this nation and had sown no seeds of war." The republican foreign policy, he asserted, "means peace with honor and peace with righteousness which means nothing less than the golden rule."

The chairman praised the Mellon plan of tax reduction which he said, represented the majority opinion in Connecticut. "So able has the government been conducted," he said, "that a marked reduction in taxes can be affected, but unfortunately congress lacks a majority of organized republicans able to carry out republican policies."

Colonel Bingham declared that one of the most important questions is that of education. "We believe in decentralization," he said, "and protest against the movement to nationalize and standardize education. There is a tendency on the part of some people to do away with liberty. They want to make laws to prevent every sort of thing which seems to them undesirable. Let us have fewer laws rather than more laws. When a republic begins to subordinate the good of the individual to the good of the state then it ceases to be a true republic and becomes a despotism. What education needs today is not a big federal gift but more liberty for parents and teachers and less control by government bureaus. Let us be careful not to lose rights of individuals by Amendments. We are in favor of an amendment to the constitution which shall require future amendments to it to be submitted to electors for ratification instead of the legislatures. We believe the most precious thing in the world is liberty, and we deplore the modern tendency toward bureaucracy, and the tendency to create commissions with inquisitorial powers to examine into private business."

Colonel Bingham described the direct primary as a "scheme whereby the best self-advertiser secures the nomination with no obligation, if elected, to carry out party policies. As a result a number of senators find it necessary to play to the galleries, to undertake things that will bring them into headlines and make people believe they are distinguished statesmen."

Colonel Bingham turned the thoughts of his audience "reverently and sympathetically" to the late President Harding and paid a tribute to his memory and said of the late president that he was a man who endeavored to carry out the golden rule." In passing Mr. Bingham said: "We do not believe in a league of nations, but we do believe in regional conferences or what is termed a world court."

The convention was held in Parson's theatre and its first sitting included the address of the temporary chairman, and at its conclusion the announcement of convention committees and the new state central committee was made.

The convention session was over a few minutes after Colonel Bingham had finished his address. Adjournment was taken until 10 a. m., tomorrow when delegates at large and their alternates will be chosen. The congressional conventions will be held at 11 a. m. and their selections of district delegates and alternates will be reported back to convention which will ratify the choice made.

Judge Alexander Creedon is the convention secretary and his assistants are Mrs. E. W. Frisbie, J. Frederick Baker, Leo J. Noonan and Albert W. Bill.

The chairman's address took an hour and fifteen minutes. In accepting the gavel Colonel Bingham said that he had been informed that yesterday the democrats in Hartford "prayed for rain and were snow-bound." His reference to the election of a republican mayor was applauded.

The committee on credentials reported no contesting delegation and the temporary roll which the state central committee approved in the afternoon will be the convention roll. The committee on permanent organization recommended Colonel Bingham for permanent chairman. The rules committee had under discussion some changes which may be reported to the convention tomorrow, these dealing with increased responsibilities placed on women through election to local committees and the state committee.

The new state central committee is as follows by districts:

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

Navarro Reverter Dead

Madrid, April 2—Navarro Reverter, former minister of finance is dead.

Pilgrims Had Narrow Escape

London, April 2—(By the A. P.)—Twelve hundred pilgrims bound for Juddah today had a narrow escape when the cotton cargo of the British steamer Frangestan caught fire in the Red Sea as the vessel was near Port Sudan.

Answering radio calls for assistance a number of craft rushed to the Frangestan and stood by until all the pilgrims and other passengers and the members of the crew were transferred to another steamer.

A message received by Lloyds from Alexandria, Egypt, tonight said the captain was abandoning the steamer, and that he had all the assistance he required. An earlier report said the fire in the cotton cargo was spreading.

F. A. VANDERLIP TO RETIRE FROM BUSINESS BOARDS

Washington, April 2—Frank A. Vanderlip, retired New York banker, announced tonight his intention "of resigning from every business board on which I occupy a seat," because of the attitude of many of his New York business associates "towards the work I am doing in Washington."

This decision was made known when Mr. Vanderlip made public an exchange of letters with E. P. Swenson, president of the Freeport Texas Company of New York, in which his resignation as a member of that company's board was requested and given. Recently he resigned upon request as a director of the Continental Can Company, of Syracuse, N. Y., because of exceptions which a fellow director had taken to his statement concerning the sale of President Harding's newspaper.

"WOLF OF WALL STREET" GIVES UP LEGAL FIGHT

Trenton, N. J., April 2.—David Lamar, "wolf of Wall street," has given up his fight to escape service of the one-year term imposed upon him on a charge of conspiracy to cause strikes along the New York waterfront and prevent shipment of munitions during the World war.

He today withdrew his appeal of Judge Relstrab's decision upholding the conviction, and will be taken back to the federal court of the Third district of New York, where he was tried, for re-sentence. An order for his removal from Essex county penitentiary was turned over to Marshal Mulheron today.

Husband and Wife Made Death Pact

James Cummins, Business and Club Man, of Richmond, Va., Found Dead—His Wife Dangerously Wounded.

Richmond, Va., April 2—Holmes Cummins, prominent Richmond business man and club man, was found shot to death and his wife, Tula Cummins, nationally known as a writer, dangerously wounded when police broke into their apartment at 105 A. North Third street late today.

The husband and wife shot themselves as a result of a mutual agreement, Coroner Whitfield declared the wounded woman told him. Cummins had been in ill health for several months.

IRREGULARITIES CHARGED BY COUNSEL FOR FORBES

Chicago, April 2—Charging flagrant irregularities in the grand jury proceedings, counsel for Colonel Charles R. Forbes, former head of the veterans' bureau, today filed pleas in abatement against three grand jury indictments voted against him as a result of an inquiry into the administration of the veterans' bureau.

Six pleas were filed charging that unauthorized persons appeared before the grand jury, that witnesses were examined without being sworn, and that certain government agents were active in the proceedings without proper authority.

In general the pleas charged that through irregular procedure in the grand jury investigation, Forbes was not granted fair and impartial consideration in accordance with established legal rights.

Assistant Attorney General John W. Crim, the government chief prosecutor, the pleas set forth, was not authorized to appear before the grand jury in the federal court in which the indictments were returned.

It is also charged that Mrs. Kate Forbes, Colonel Forbes' divorced wife, was examined before the jury without being sworn as a witness, and that she was compelled by coercive action to reveal certain confidential papers and letters.

Pending hearing on the pleas Forbes again asked what he termed "indulgence of the public in respect to the many malicious statements" which have been made against him during the inquiry.

Colonel Forbes with J. W. Thompson, Chicago, and St. Louis contractor, was named in three of four indictments returned by a special federal grand jury here, March 1. He was charged with conspiracy to defraud and conspiracy to corrupt the government and in a separate indictment with accepting a bribe. Pleas for Thompson will be filed later.

MELLON ATTACKS INCREASE IN THE ESTATE TAX

Washington, April 2. — Another house amendment to the revenue bill came under fire today before the senate finance committee when Secretary Mellon attacked the increase in the estate tax. The hearing of the treasury secretary consumed the full morning session of the committee for second time in two days and with the secretary to be heard further tomorrow, Chairman Smoot said final report on the measure might be delayed until early next week. The committee, meanwhile, went ahead with consideration of the bill at a night meeting.

The house action in increasing the state taxes from a maximum rate of 25 per cent to 40 per cent was characterized by Mr. Mellon as "economic suicide." He insisted this form of taxation should be reserved principally to states, and the continued use, or increase of the tax by the federal government would force states to resort to higher taxes on land.

Actuaries were called in again today by the committee to work on a new set of figures on the number of veterans entitled to benefits of the soldier bonus passed by the house by which the committee expects to close up somewhat the gap of $3,500,000,000 between the estimates on the cost of the bill submitted by the veterans' bureau and treasury actuaries.

EIGHT ROBBER SUSPECTS DETAINED IN MONTREAL

Montreal, April 2.—Eight suspects—six men and two women—were in the hands of the police here today in connection with the holdup yesterday of an automobile belonging to the bank of Hochelaga, from which $100,000 was stolen. A bank employe and a bandit were killed.

The police identified the dead bandit as Harry Stone, said to be an internationally-known narcotic smuggler, and the clues to most of the suspects came from a list of telephone numbers found on his body. One of the men examined was said to have had $8,000 in currency in his pocket.

Bank officials announced today that the bandits had overlooked $140,000 in their flight. The bank had just ordered an armored car for the transportation of its bonds, but delivery could not be made for two weeks.

50 LAWYERS ENGAGED IN NORTHCLIFFE WILL CASE

London, April 2.—The Northcliffe will case, in which fifty lawyers are engaged, was opened today before Justice Russell in the chancery division of the settlement and construing of certain clauses in the will of the late newspaper publisher. The case was instituted for the reason that difficulties had arisen as to whether the directors and employes were entitled to the legacies left them by Lord Northcliffe, also as to the fund to watch they were to look for payment.

In an early stage of the proceedings the justice ruled against the claims of the directors of the Amalgamated Press and Associated Newspapers to the legacy left them.

PROSPECT FARMER WAS GORED BY A BULL

Waterbury, April 2.—Fred Jolly, 24, a Prospect farmer, was gored by a bull at his farm early today. The bull first tossed him into the air and then pinned him against the barn. One horn entered his thigh. A doctor called from the city took several stitches to close the wound. Jolly's father drove the bull off with a pitchfork and perhaps saved the victim from being killed.

Negligence Charges of Dep't of Justice

Made by H. L. Scaife, a Former Investigator For the Department, at Daugherty Investigation Hearing Yesterday.

Washington, April 2.—Further details of charges that the department of justice had delayed unduly war-fraud prosecutions were heard by the senate Daugherty committee today from H. L. Scaife, a former investigator for the department, who was called to the stand for the third time.

Scaife, who was the only witness to appear before the committee today, testified to some extent from records of the house committee, which in 1923 considered impeachment charges asinst Harry M. Daugherty.

Reiterating and extending a previous allegation that the Wright-Martin Aircraft corporation had received an "over-payment" of $6,367,000 on war contracts and had not been prosecuted, Scaife declared that former Attorney General Daugherty, Secretary Weeks, Charles Hayden, chairman of the Wright-Martin board, and Guy D. Goff, former assistant attorney general, should "all be indicted by a grand jury" for inaction in the matter.

Senator Wheeler, democrat, Montana, the committee prosecutor, contended that such "voluntary remarks" had no place in the committee record, but did not press his objection when Senator Moses, republican, New Hampshire, observed that the testimony had "already gone over the wires."

The witness contended that machinations "of what I call the invisible government" had been disclosed by some of the investigations, and told of what he said were fruitless efforts on his part to have the department of justice investigate army aircraft disasters.

Professing a desire to hold an even hand in political matters, Scaife said in explaining the Wright-Martin contracts that Thomas L. Chadbourne, an attorney and "a large contributor" to democratic campaign funds, had obtained for this corporation a cost-plus contract during the war. The lawyer's fee was added to the contract costs by the company, he said, "plus a profit." Later audits by the air service, in 1921, disclosed the "overpayment," the witness asserted, and resulted in the preparation of government suits to obtain the return of money spent under the contract for cigars, dinners, laundry, secret service, and for insufficient allowances in the salvage of materials and tools.

The committee tomorrow plans to inquire further into allegations that Oklahoma Indian land frauds had also failed of prosecution by the department of justice.

21 PERSONS PERISH IN MOVING PICTURE HOUSE IN MEXICO

Mexico City, April 2 (By the A. P.)—Twenty-one persons, mostly children, lost their lives, and more than fifty were injured, ten of them fatally, when a fire in the Barragan motion picture theatre in the nearby suburb of Tacubaya, sent 500 spectators rushing wildly from the structure last night. The majority of those who perished were suffocated, or crushed beneath the mass of bodies which quickly blocked the single exit.

The theatre, which was patronized largely by the poorer classes, was very little damaged, as the fire, which the civic authorities today declared was caused by a short circuit, consumed only the celluloid films and some fixtures in the operator's cubicle.

Several of the smaller children were killed when their panic-stricken mothers threw them from the gallery into the pit below, or from windows into the street. Two others were electrocuted when they attempted to escape from the theatre by means of telegraph poles carrying high voltage power wires.

Rescuers who were quickly upon the scene attempted desperately to enlarge the exit with axes and crowbars, but their efforts did little good. The ages of the victims ranged from three to twenty-three years, although the majority were half-grown boys and girls.

LANGLEY HEARING MAY BE HELD BEHIND CLOSED DOORS

Washington, April 2.—Investigation of charges against Representatives Langley of Kentucky, and Zihlman of Maryland, republicans, by a special house committee, will be conducted behind closed doors, but a stenographic report of all testimony will be made public when the committee submits its findings to the house.

This procedure was agreed upon today by the committee as it resumed its inquiry, determined to first look into the charges against Mr. Zihlman. At two executive sessions the committee heard the testimony of Elias H. Mortimer, who is understood to have accused Zihlman of improper use of official influence.

Tomorrow Edward Robinson, former proprietor of the Federal Drug & Chemical company, of Baltimore, who also is said to have made charges involving the Maryland representative, will be examined.

LIQUOR IN PRIVATE CAR OF RAILROAD PRESIDENT

New York, April 2—The private car of George E. Boutillier, president of the Long Island railroad, was raided by two prohibition agents as it stood in the Pennsylvania station late today, and several cases of alleged whiskies and wines seized. The negro steward of the car was arrested on a charge of illegally having liquor in his possession.

Mr. Le Boutillier later disclaimed any knowledge of the beverages and said he was unable to account for their presence aboard his private car. He had not used the car for at least two weeks, he added, saying he had ordered it taken over the road to test a recently installed radio outfit. He did not know where it had been taken, he said.

S. O. S. CALL FROM SHIP IN DISTRESS OFF CHATHAM, MASS.

New York, April 2—An S. O. S. call was broadcast tonight by an unidentified steamship in distress off Chatham, Mass., the naval communications bureau announced. Although all coast radio stations ceased broadcasting for twenty minutes the naval station was unable to learn the identity or exact location of the distressed vessel.

Middletown, Conn., April 2.—The grand jury in the superior court here today failed to find a true bill of murder in the first degree and refused to find a true bill in the second degree in the case of James McArthur, negro, charged with the slaying of Julius Land, negro, on March 8. The jury was out about five hours. State's Attorney Ernest A. Inglis stated he will decide tomorrow whether McArthur will be tried on a charge of manslaughter.

COUZENS ALONE CONDUCTS MELLON TAX INVESTIGATION

Other Members of the Committee Were Otherwise Engaged —Michigan Senator Finds Nothing Wrong With the Gulf Corporation or the Standard Steel Car Records—Announces a New Program of Procedure Will Be Worked Out—Would Have Mellon Announce His Holdings In the Three Big Corporations Which Have Been the Chief Source of Inquiry.

Washington, April 2.—Tax affairs of companies in which Secretary Mellon is a stockholder were again under searching inquiry today before a special senate investigating committee consisting, for the day at least, of Senator Couzens, republican, of Michigan, alone.

The committee is looking into internal revenue bureau affairs, particularly those of the income tax division, and the other members were detained in the senate or in other committee rooms, leaving Senator Couzens to proceed alone with the investigation he fostered.

Senator Watson, republican, Indiana, appeared in the committee room only long enough to present a letter from Secretary Mellon saying he was prepared to furnish information as to other companies he was interested in if the committee would inform him as to names of companies it had in mind and the questions raised as to them. This was in reply to a recent verbal request submitted to bureau officials by Senator Couzens for a list of all companies in which Mr. Mellon had any interest.

Senator Couzens renewed that request today after reading the Mellon letter. He also announced his purpose of asking Mr. Mellon to indicate his holdings in the three big corporations whose tax affairs have been the chief source of inquiry by the committee up to this time, the Gulf Oil corporation, Standard Steel Car company and Aluminum Company of America, the so-called "Mellon companies." The Michigan senator asked bureau officials today if they knew whether Mr. Mellon had any interest in the Nesta Machinery company, or if it was a subsidiary of one of the other three. They told him they had never heard of it.

Testimony by bureau officials today, culled from the mass of tax records and reports they have produced with consent of the tax payers, dealt again to a large extent with the "leasehold allowance" made in the tax settlement in February 1921, with the Gulf Oil corporation.

Senator Couzens carried Mellon through details of the bureau process, by which a regulation permitting this allowance to oil companies was finally evolved and signed by Mr. Mellon more than a year after it had been granted in the settlement made with the Gulf concern. Solicitor Nelson Hartson of the bureau said he did not know how that allowance had been authorized when the regulations at the time were to the contrary and the question was under discussion in the bureau.

Professor Adams, committee adviser and formerly adviser to the bureau, said he had helped frame the revenue act sections involved, and was confident that "lessee depletion" was not contemplated when they were drawn. He said he was "shocked to learn that allowances such as that in the Gulf case had been made. Hartson replied by suggesting that the Gulf settlement was made before Mr. Mellon took office.

Senator Couzens brought out the statement that "the commissioner and the secretary" sign the agreements with taxpayers, such as that with the Gulf corporation, known as "1313," agreements which waive the right of the taxpayer to reopen the case.

"Then the secretary signs agreements to close up taxes on his own companies," Senator Couzens said.

He was informed that Mr. Mellon had not signed the Gulf agreement.

At another point Senator Couzens read an unsigned letter charging that the "Mellon family" had benefited to the extent of $500,000 through Mr. Mellon's failure to urge that certain litigation involving his relatives and the government be reviewed by the supreme court. Solicitor Hartson characterized the letter as full of "misstatements" and offered to present the records of the case to which it referred. Senator Couzens, however, said this was unnecessary.

The Michigan senator finally expressed himself as satisfied for the present, with the Gulf examination, and the Standard Steel car case, and called for the records of the third "Mellon company," the Aluminum Company of America. These disclosed that an amortization allowance of $15,589,000 against a construction cost of $31,602,000 had been granted to be used in estimating taxes due for 1918-1919. The engineer who made the reports in the case for the bureau was still digging through details of this allowance when Senator Couzens announced that the committee would recess on call, probably until some day next week. A new "program" of procedure with the investigation would be worked out meanwhile, he said.

SUMMARY OF YESTERDAY'S EVENTS IN WASHINGTON

The senate began consideration of the immigration bill.

Harlan Fiske Stone of New York was nominated to be attorney general.

The state department announced the settlement of the Newcastle consulate dispute with Great Britain.

President Coolidge held a breakfast conference with republican senators on measures to speed up legislation.

The tariff commission ordered another inquiry into tariff rates on imports of cedar, fir, spruce and western hemlock.

The treasury announced that March income and profit tax collections would approximate $17,000,000 more than those of March 1923.

Secretary Mellon told the senate finance committee that the increase in estate tax rates in the house revenue bill was "economic suicide."

Chairman Marvin of the tariff commission, and Secretary Wallace testified before house committees on the McNary-Haugen agricultural export bill.

Senator Couzens, republican, Michigan, alone for the senate revenue bureau investigating committee, continued inquiry into tax affairs of Mellon companies.

The house committee investigating charges aainst Representatives Langley of Kentucky and Zihlman of Maryland, republicans, continued its hearings behind closed doors.

The house irrigation committee voted to repeat its request for the appearance of Governor Hunt of Arizona, who has charged Secretary Work with favoring Colorado in Colorado river development.

George White, former democratic national committee chairman, told the senate oil committee that E. L. Doheny contributed $9,900 for the 1920 campaign and $25,000 later to help wipe out a deficit.

H. L. Scaife, former department of justice investigator, told the senate Daugherty committee that in his opinion Harry M. Daugherty, Secretary Weeks and others should be indicted in the Wright-Martin aircraft case.

NEWCASTLE CONSULATE DISPUTE ADJUSTED

Washington, April 2.—The state department announced settlement of the Newcastle consulate dispute tonight by making public the correspondence between Premier MacDonald and Ambassador Kellogg as given out in London. It is the intention to re-establish the Newcastle consulate at any early date and to bring about the assignment of Consular Officers Slater and Brooks to posts in Great Britain.

The latter two officers were charged by British shipping interests and by the British foreign office itself with attempting to divert passengers from British to American lines. It was contended that they had raised difficulties in the issue of visas for the United States to passengers not traveling by American lines, and had hinted that inconveniences would be encountered in the United States unless the passengers traveled on American steamships.

The state department at the time the charges were made instituted three separate and thorough investigations. In each instance the investigators reported that the charges could not be substantiated and that Messrs. Slater and Brooks have not been found guilty of any wrongful act or to have in any degree exceeded their authority as consular officers.

HARLAN FISKE SONE FOR ATTORNEY GENERAL

Washington, April 2.—President Coolidge filled his second cabinet vacancy today by selecting Harlan Fiske Stone, retiring dean of Columbia university, school of law, as attorney general.

Having gone recently to the Pacific coast to get a secretary of the navy in Curtis D. Wilbur of California, Mr. Coolidge turned to the Atlantic seaboard for his attorney general and in Mr. Stone chose a present resident of New York city and a former New England farm boy. Mr. Wilbur was drawn from California's supreme court and Mr. Stone is being taken from a law school and from active practice.

The president selected Mr. Stone because he has known him for thirty years and has confidence in him; because he regards the New York man as possessing the desired qualities of thorough legal knowledge and administrative capacity, and because he looks upon the Columbia dean as "a $100,000 man willing for patriotic reasons to accept a $12,000 job."

Mr. Coolidge chose Mr. Stone yesterday from a list of six and summoned him to Washington. Arriving in Washington on an early train, Mr. Stone and the president were in conference before most of Washington was awake this morning and before eight o'clock the president had tendered Mr. Stone the portfolio and the New York man had accepted. Then at eight o'clock the president introduced Mr. Stone as his new Attorney general to a dozen senators invited to the White House for a breakfast conference.

Mr. Stone's nomination was sent to the senate soon after that body convened at noon and late in the day it was referred to the judiciary committee for inquiry. Confirmation is expected without delay although several senators expressed a desire to examine the appointee's record and particularly to look into a letter written by him early in 1921 questioning methods of the department of justice in the "red" raids of the year previous.

Mr. Stone entered Amherst college a year before President Coolidge. His parents at that time were living on a farm just outside of the town of Amherst. He played football, was class orator and was graduated among the first three in his class. One of his classmates was Bertrand H. Snell, now member of the house from New York.

Representative Snell today described Mr. Stone as "a two-fisted American, an excellent lawyer, a great organizer and a man who I predict will let the department of justice know who is boss from the minute he steps inside the doors."

SCHOONERS DISABLED OFF COAST OF VIRGINIA

Norfolk, Va., April 2—The four-masted schooner Purnell T. White, more than a month overdue from Turks Island to Baltimore with a cargo of salt, was brought into Hampton Roads late today by the coast guard cutter Mascoutin with her head seas damaged and her windlass out of order. The schooner was sighted by distress signals off Dam Neck Mills coast guard station. She will be towed to Baltimore tomorrow.

The coast guard cutter Mascoutin tonight was speeding to the aid of the four-masted schooner Lester R. of Rockland, Maine, 30 miles south of Cape Henry. The steamer Dorothy is understood to be standing by the disabled schooner.

NORWICH BULLETIN
Willimantic Office
21 Church St. Telephone 1062

Incidental to the birth of a child to a 14-year old girl, now a resident of Willimantic, Samuel Pollack, 16 of Gurleyville was placed under arrest late Tuesday, by State Policeman Hardesty, of the Stafford Springs barracks, on a warrant which charged him with carnal knowledge and abuse of a minor female. Pollack was locked up in the local police station.

The father of the accused came to this city and secured an attorney to represent the boy. Arrangements were made with Justice of the Peace George H. Andrews of the Mansfield town court to have the case tried Friday morning of this week. Bonds of $1,500 were furnished for the young man's release. It is alleged the crime was committed in Mansfield.

Records filed at the office of Town Clerk Frank P. Fenton show that there were eleven deaths in the town of Windham during February. The list follows:

Amelia Adelaide Bennett, 79, cerebral embolism.
4. William H. Gane, 72, acue parenchymeris nephritis.
7. Albert Bonin, 5 days, icterus neonatorum.
8. Marcel Lussier, one-half day, premature birth.
13. Robert F. Hornberger, 10, la-grippe.
18. John Bak, 1, meningitis-pneumonia.
20. Frank Wilcox, 70, carcinoma of the rectum.
20. Morris Silverstein, 59, hypostatic pneumonia.
21. James Casey, 36, pulmonary embolism.
23. Alfred Nassin, 7, bronchial pneumonia.
23. Johanna Antonia Krodell, 20 acute nephritis acidosis.

Information of much value has been supplied within the past week by farmers in this locality who have cooperated with R. A. Hahn, instructor of the vocational agricultural course at Windham High school. Facts regarding the management and operation of their farms have been willingly given by the farmers. Notes taken on these statements by Mr. Hahn are most valuable, having the merits of being actual, adapted to the local conditions and up to date with community practice. The students in the classes get from books and bulletins the possible improvements in the way of theory and more highly specialized practice in other regions. Last year, Mr. Hahn made a survey of over forty of the larger farms in this area, but this year he restricted himself to farms of smaller acreage.

Instructor Hahn finds that the average farmer is optimistic in spite of the fact that conditions all over the country are deplorable. There is one farmer just outside Willimantic who has not enough funds to purchase plows and seeds for this spring. Such a situation must cease soon or the smaller farmer will be forced to abandon his occupation.

The big trick put over in this city April Fools' Day, was early in the evening when the weather man made victims of the entire population by dropping down the heaviest snow storm of the season. The evening was marked by a combination of rain, snow, thunder and lightning, well flavored with high winds. Automobiles were caught out on the highways without tire chains and not a few became anchored in drifts before working their way home. Windshields became coated with snow and driving was a dangerous proposition. The two branches of the Connecticut Company wit hterminals in this city were kept in condition by the snow plows which ran over the roads all night.

Street Superintendent John S. Sullivan had his men on the job early Wednesday morning. Crosswalks and gutters were cleared. Following past snow storms it had been the custom to plow the snow from the streets, into banks along the curbing. Of late this procedure has met with considerable disapproval especially on the part of automobile owners. Superintendent Sullivan decided to take another course and the snow was allowed to remain as it had fallen on the thoroughfares. This proved beneficial for as the day progressed the sun and the traffic melted away a great deal of the snow. A few more warm days or a little rain and the streets will be clear of snow, without incurring the usual expense of shoveling the snow banks along the gutters into trucks to be carted away.

The Willimantic Woman's club held its last meeting meeting in the afternoon at the club's rooms, 203 Main street with a fine attendance of members, who were interested in the biennial election and the reading of reports of the activities of the club during the past two years. The secretary's report enumerated the long list of attractions provided club member sat regular meetings, in the line of speakers, musicales, dramas, etc. The report of the treasurer followed. The expenditures for the past two years amounted to $2,531.63. The Ways and means committee was complimented on the splendid work accomplished last year. This committee is credited for the raising of nearly four hundred dollars which was used for benevolent purposes.

The report of the president, the last and most interesting gave a review of the content of local club members with members of other clubs through state and national conferences. Officers and members of committees were thanked heartily by the president for their cooperation. The report closed with the reading of a charming little poem, which, the president said, expressed her ideal of the true spirit of the club.

A change in the regular program was announced. "An Afternoon at Brook Farm" by Mrs. M. Gertrude Ritter, scheduled for May 6, is to be given April 15th and "Guests" night, listed for April 15 is to be held in the Congregational church house, May 6.

The club voted to accept an invitation to attend a lecture by Mrs. Mary C. Wells, of Hartford of the State Consumer's League, on "Women in Industry," and the Equal Rights to be given at St. Joseph's church hall, Tuesday evening, April 8, under the auspices of the Catholic Women's Council.

Officers were elected as follows: President, Mrs. Carl Alford; vice-presidents, Mrs. George F. Taylor, Mrs. C. C. Case; recording secretary, Mrs. William A. Buck; corresponding secretary, Mrs. E. J. Tryon; treasurer, Mrs. H. L. Hunt; auditor, Mrs. D. E. Abel; elective members of executive board, Mrs J. P. Bath, Mrs. Arthur Clark, Mrs. Harry Branch and Mrs. Chester Scripture.

Mrs. Jessica Fenton gave pleasure with two piano solos, at the close of the meeting.

Many relatives and friends attended the funeral of Daniel E. O'Connor held Wednesday morning from Killourey Brothers' mortuary parlors on Union street. In the solemn requiem high mass at St. Joseph's church at 9 o'clock, Rev. Michael E. O'Connor, brother of Mr. O'Conner was the celebrant; Rev. John E. Clark was deacon and Rev. Charles M. Kelly, sub-deacon. The organ music was by Mrs. H. R. Portelance. Mrs. Henry Mathieu and Miss Monica McKeon rendered, "Nearer, My God to Thee" as the body was borne into the church; "Pie Jesu" was sung by Miss McKeon at the offertory and "He Wipes the Tear from Every Eye" was given as a waiting hymn. Burial was in the family plot in St. Joseph's cemetery. The bearers were, Michael F. Sullivan, Daniel Grady, Charles Gormley and George Waters. There were beautiful floral pieces. Arrangements were in charge of Killourey Brothers.

Funeral services of Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Greene, were held Wednesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock at the First Baptist church, in Westerly, R. I., Burial was in the River Bend cemetery. Before the cortege left this city a prayer service was conducted at the home of her daughter, Mrs. D. A. Griggs of 43 Mountain street at 9:30 a. m. The arrangements were in charge of the J. C. Lincoln Company.

The funeral of Mrs. Helena V. Chandler were hel dat two o'clock Wednesday afternoon at her home, 70 Chestnut street. Rev. T. F. Frahay officiated. Burial was in the Willimantic cemetery. Avery and Van Zandt were in charge of the arrangements.

Officials of the Connecticut Agricultural college denied a report Wednesday that there was a case of small pox at the institution. It was true that one of the students had been taken ill Tuesday and reported as having the contagious disease, but a diagnosis of his case showed that the malady was scarlet fever. There are several cases of the latter illness at the college, five of the male students being cared for at the infirmary. All the cases are light.

Two one-legged pigeons which joined a flock that was feeding on pieces of pop corn in front of Stamaton's store on Main street Wednesday morning, attracted considerable attention. The birds appeared to be able to get along quite nicely on one foot.

The case of Charles Hanson, charged with non support of his family continued from last week in the police court until Wednesday morning was again continued this time until further notice. It was made known that Hanson has secured a job in Norwich and that he was fulfilling his obligations toward his family.

The Bulletin has news about Norwich fifty years ago, but some Willimantic residents could look back forty-six years ago Wednesday and recall a decided contrast. At that time the lawns in this city were green, tree swere budding and genuine spring weather had come to stay. A remarkable difference from the sight which greeted the eye Wednesday.

At a whist party given recently at the home of Misses Mary and Florence Grady, 75 Oak street, prizes were awarded as follows: First, Miss Marion Tubridy; second, Miss Helen Mansfield. The guests included, Miss Alice Barnet of Jewett City. Miss Katherine Grady, Miss Anna Moriarty, Miss Josephine Hurlike of Danbury and Mrs. Eugene Clouthier.

COLUMBIA

George H. Champlin and Frank Preston left town Monday morning for Stamford and South Norwalk, in the vicinity of which places, they will continue the repair work to the state roads, upon which they were engaged last fall, when the setting in of winter closed further operations.

Henry Hutchins and his son Lawrence were engaged Monday last in clearing from the lawn of Miss Eliza Hutchins trees and branches cut while the snow from previous storms was on the ground.

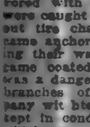
A severe snow storm prevailed in this locality Tuesday night, with the unusual accompanying of thunder and lightning at the start and terminating with a gale. Several inches of snow covers the ground. Few conveyances of any kind and no pedestrians were out upon the roads early Wednesday morning. Children from the outlying districts found it difficult to get to their schools, and the auto busses carrying pupils to Windham High school, were necessarily late, the bus from Hebron being over a half hour late. By 8 a. m. however, the energetic drivers of the snow plow of the state highway department in this section, had one-half the road to Columbia Center cleared, and was proceeding toward Hebron. Very prompt and efficient work has been accomplished on the state roads during the past winter, and is much appreciated.

Erwin Collins and James Utley were able to finish sawing their wood piles before the storm broke, but Mrs. Ethel Blakeley who had a pile of many cords, was able to get only a portion of it sawed.

LARGE PIMPLES PAINED AWFULLY

Itched and Burned. Could Not Sleep. Cuticura Heals.

"I was troubled with large, red pimples on my face. At night they itched and burned causing me to scratch and I could not sleep. Every time I turned around in bed they pained awfully. Each week they seemed to grow larger and more painful.



"I was treated without any benefit. I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample. It helped me so I purchased a cake of Soap and one box of Ointment which healed me." (Signed) Miss Mary Silvia, 234 River St., New Bedford, Mass.

Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Talcum are ideal for daily toilet uses.

NO MORE YELLOW TEETH!

New Discovery Removes Stains—Whitens Teeth Instantly

A new harmless treatment has been discovered which—in just three minutes—gives dull, yellowish teeth a beautiful pearly whiteness. This new discovery is called Bleachodent liquid which curdles and softens the stains—and a new kind of paste which gently removes them, and if used daily, prevents the formation of new stains.

All you need do is simply brush your teeth with a few drops of the liquid—then use the paste—and no matter how dull or discolored your teeth may have been—they quickly take on a new whiteness and lustre. Tobacco stains usually disappear after first few applications. Perfected by prominent Dentist.

Children's teeth are especially subject to stains, tartar and decay. In removing the stains, and cleansing the teeth, Bleachodent Combination retards the formation of tartar and is a great aid in keeping teeth sound and healthy. It is antiseptic and generally beneficial to both teeth and gums. Only a safe, mild preparation like Bleachodent Combination should be used on children's teeth. Gritty pastes should never be used. Get Bleachodent Combination today. Costs only a few cents. Money back if not delighted. Sold by good dealers such as G. G. Engler, E. M. Lerou, Andrew McLaughlin, Lee & Osgood.

JEWETT CITY

To judge from the stories told by the local automobile fraternity Wednesday, the driver who designated Tuesday night's freak snow fall as a "wind shield" storm, was right in line. To drive facing the rapidly falling wet snow proved anpossible. One man had to get out and clear his glass from the heavy snow three times between the Elm block and St. Mary's church.

A driver attempting to pass through Brown avenue, from East to North Main street, failed to make the right angle turn when half over, and went straight out into an open lot at that point, before he noticed it. Two separate parties trying to reach Norwich gave it up and returned home, one man consuming an hour between the Taftville and Quinebaug bridges.

At a regular session of Reliance lodge, No. 39, I. O. O. F., Monday evening the banquet committee reported plans nearly complete for the annual banquet of Reliance lodge, No. 39, I. O. O. F., and Undaunted lodge, No. 34, K. of P., the date to be announced.

A cordial invitation from the Rebekah lodge, No. 28, to attend the sixteenth anniversary celebration was accepted to be held April 8.

The financial secretary, Brother G. A. Haskell, continues ill. It is the earnest desire of all the members that he may have a speedy recovery, that the lodge business may be conducted with punctuality and dispatch. Brother William J. Robertson, Jr., has consented to act as financial secretary until such time as "Uncle George" can assume his duties again.

Mrs. Patrick Connell is very ill with pneumonia at her home on Railroad avenue.

All through this section there seems to be just now, a great agitation to get somebody to shoot all the crows. C. F. Lewis sends the following letter, and says that take it all the year round, the crow is the farmer's friend. If this contest goes through personally I believe it will mean the gradual extermination of our feathered friends.

I have been a bird observer and practical forester for 16 years and I am a friend of the crow because I know that the crow is a natural scavenger.

If there were more crows we would have better looking forests.

Offering a prize for the destruction of birds, if they be black or otherwise, is an unsound scheme because everybody will be shooting birds of insectivorous value promiscuously.

Five years from now watch your forests deteriorate if you slaughter the birds.

If I. I. Du Pont-DeNemours Co. must sell their powder and are overstocked on shells, let's go at it naturally and educate the public what to shoot.

"Protect Our Feathered Friends," should be the slogan, not the "Crow Must Go."

Allen H. Wood in a recent letter to a Boston paper, says, that he has a gunning place down on the Vineyard, and that he has a number of live Mallard ducks (decoys), and that they lay hundreds of eggs. His story further states that the crows come, thrust their bills into the ducks' eggs and fly away with them to the beach, where they break them and devour the contents. Local opinions include the view, that a crow could no more carry away a duck's or a hen's egg intact, then a mosquito could fly away with a huckleberry.

Few Jewett City sportsmen refrain from taking a snap shot at Jimmie Crow, perched on the topmost limb of a nearby tree. Nevertheless, the opinions for a general extermination drive upon this wary inhabitant of the woods and fields of Griswold, that is up against it all the time, are by no means unanimous.

G. S. Brown, president of the Ashland Fish and Game Protective association, declares that although having never seen it done, he is convinced that a crow is able to carry an egg in its bill or held with its feet. He believes that their destruction of game birds' eggs is very great.

The arrival of the state road scraper during the forenoon Wednesday was a great blessing to the sidewalk pedestrian. Before its welcome arrival every passing automobile squirted out a beautiful spray of mud, snow, water and other more objectionable matter, wherewith the windward exposure of dresses and trousers was liberally treated. One big truck from Fall River, with extra wide tear wheels, sent out a shower hardly hardly equalled by the discharge from the cut-water of a West Mystic seal.

Trout fishing got a decided set-back in this section by the April fool storm. The parties that asked off for a three days brok whipping trip, camping meanwhile, said something appropriate to the weather man's clerk, who pulled the November blizzard on the first of April.

Officer Viegard took Michael Dwyer down to the state farm at Norwich for a spell Wednesday. Mike has many friends who feel nothing but compassion for him. He wanted to go himself, agreeing that it was the best thing for him.

A. H. Dawley had to show Wednesday evening two trout, one weighing an even pound and the others 13 ounces. He caught them Wednesday while standing in four inches of snow. Mr. Dawley has fished every brook in this section and evidently is acquainted with the one to pick with winter conditions. Ask "Tige," he knows!

STERLING

Mr. and Mrs. J. Vere spent Sunday in Providence.

Harry Miller was in Providence on Saturday.

Mrs. George Davis who has been ill for the past two months is able to be out.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Chamberland who has been ill for some time is improving.

MYSTIC

Tuesday evening proved that even those who have lived in New England all their lives can be surprised at the pranks of the elements for that part of New England in which Mystic is located was visited with a howling snowstorm accompanied by [illegible] and thunder. It began to snow about six o'clock and shortly before seven the lightning and thunder manifested itself and the latter continued about three-quarters of an hour intermittently while the snowstorm continued wall into the night with a high wind which howled and whistled through the trees with all the zest of winter. The street lights were out for a time and the house lights grew dim occasionally.

The Sewing society of Charity chapter, No. 61, O. E. S., is to meet Friday afternoon with Mrs. Leonard Allyn.

Mrs. Lincoln Cilly of Vermont, is the guest of her grandmother, Mrs. Emeline Allyn.

Mrs. Alice Ledwidge of Westerly spent Tuesday with her parent, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mabbett.

James B. Gaffney, of San Francisco, Cal., was in Mystic Tuesday afternoon calling on friends. Mystic friends of the family are interested to know that his sister, Mrs. John R. McNamara, of Norwich, who has been very ill with pneumonia, is improving.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Methodist church is to meet this (Thursday) afternoon.

Rev. J. P. Beauchamp arrived home from New York Thursday afternoon and reports Mrs. Beauchamp as improving in the hospital in which she is a patient.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred O. Colby were visitors in Hartford Wednesday.

Helen Starkey chapter of St. Mark's church is to meet this afternoon.

Manning Miner was in Norwich on Tuesday attending the funeral of his brother-in-law, Erastus Nelson Roach.

Mason Manning went to Hartford Wednesday to attend the republican state convention to which he is a delegate from the town of Stonington.

C. H. Reynolds had a birthday sunday and the event was celebrated in proper style at his home on High street with a company of congenial friends present.

Incidental to the birth of a child to a 14-year old girl, now a resident of Willimantic, Samuel Pollack, 16 of Baileyville was placed under arrest late Tuesday, by State Policeman Hardesty, of the Stafford Springs barracks, on a warrant which charged him with carnal knowledge and abuse of a minor female. Pollack was locked up in the local police station. The father of the accused came to this city and secured an attorney to represent the boy. Arrangements were made with Justice of the Peace George H. Andrews of the Mansfield town court to have the case tried Friday morning of this week. Bail of $1,500 were furnished for the young man's release. It is alleged that the crime was committed in Mansfield.

Records filed at the office of Town Clerk Frank P. Fenton show that there were eleven deaths in the town of Windham during February. The list follows:

Amelia Adelaide Bennett, 79, cerebral embolism.

4. William H. Gane, 72, acue parenchymeris nephritis.

5. Albert Bonin, 5 days, icterus neonatorum.

8. Marcel Lussier, one-half day, premature birth.

18. Robert F. Hornberger, 10, laryngitis.

18. John Bak, 6, meningitis-pneumonia.

20. Frank Wilcox, 70, carcinoma of the rectum.

20. Morris Silverstein, 56, hypostatic pneumonia.

21. James Casey, 86, pulmonary oedema.

23. Alfred Nassin, 7, bronchial pneumonia.

23. Johanna Antonia Krodell, 20 acute nephritis acidosis.

Information of much value has been supplied within the past week by farmers in this locality who have cooperated with R. L. Hahn, instructor of the vocational agricultural course at Windham High school. Facts regarding the management and operation of their farms have been willingly given by the farmers. Notes taken on these statements by Mr. Hahn are most valuable, having the merits of being actual, adapted to the local conditions and up to date with community practice. The students in the classes get from books and bulletins the possible improvements in the way of theory and more highly specialized practice in other regions. Last year, Mr. Hahn made a survey of over forty of the larger farms in this area, but this year he restricted himself to farms of smaller acreage.

Instructor Hahn finds that the average farmer is optimistic in spite of the fact that conditions all over the country are deplorable. There is one farmer just outside Willimantic who has not enough funds to purchase plows and seeds for this spring. Such a situation must cease soon or the smaller farmer will be forced to abandon his occupation.

The big trick put over in this city April Fools' Day, was early in the evening when the weather man made victims of the entire population by dropping down the heaviest snow storm of the season. The evening was marked by a combination of rain, snow, thunder and lightning, well flavored with high winds. Automobiles were caught out on the highways without tire chains and not a few became anchored in drifts before working their way home. Windshields became coated with snow and driving was a dangerous proposition. The two branches of the Connecticut Company writ hitherwards in this city were kept in condition by the snow plows which ran over the roads all night.

Street Superintendent John S. Sullivan had his men on the job early Wednesday morning. Crosswalks and gutters were cleared. Following past snow storms it had been the custom to plow the snow from the streets, into banks along the curbing. Of late this procedure has met with considerable disapproval especially on the part of automobile owners. Superintendent Sullivan decided to take another course and the snow was allowed to remain as it had fallen on the thoroughfares. This proved beneficial for as the day progressed the sun and the traffic melted away a great deal of the snow. A few more warm days or a little rain and the streets will be clear of snow, without incurring the the usual expense of shoveling the snow banks along the gutters into trucks to be carted away.

The Willimantic Woman's club held its last meeting meeting in the afternoon at the club's rooms, 203 Main street with a fine attendance of members, who were interested in the biennial election and the reading of reports of the activities of the club during the past two years. The secretary's report enumerated the long list of attractions provided club members at regular meetings, in the line of speakers, musicales, dramas, etc. The report of the treasurer followed. The expenditures for the past two years amounted to $2,531.63. The Ways and means committee was complimented on the splendid work accomplished last year. This committee is credited for the raising of nearly four hundred dollars which was used for benevolent purposes.

The report of the president, the last and most interesting gave a review of the contact of local club members with members of other clubs through state and national conferences. Officers and members of committees were thanked heartily by the president for their cooperation. The report closed with the reading of a charming little poem, which, the president said, expressed her ideal of the true spirit of the club.

A change in the regular program is announced. "An Afternoon at Brook Farm" by Mrs. M. Gertrude Potter, scheduled for May 6, is to be given April 15th and "Guests" night, listed for April 15 is to be held at the Congregational church house, May 6.

The club voted to accept an invitation to attend a lecture by Mrs. Florence C. Wells, of Hartford of the National Consumer's League, on "Women in Industry," and the Equal Rights banquet to be given at St. Joseph's church hall, Tuesday evening, April 8, under the auspices of the Catholic Workers Council.

Officers were elected as follows: President, Mrs. Carl Alford; vice-presidents, Mrs. George F. Taylor, Mrs. C. C. Case, recording secretary, Mrs. William A. Buck; corresponding secretary, Mrs. E. J. Tryon; treasurer, Mrs. H. L. Hunt; auditor, Mrs. D. E. Abel; elective members of executive board, Mrs J. P. Bath, Mrs. Arthur Clark, Mrs. Harry Branch and Mrs. Chester Scripture.

Mrs. Jessica Fenton gave pleasure with two piano solos, at the close of the meeting.

Many relatives and friends attended the funeral of Daniel B. O'Connor held Wednesday morning from Killourey Brothers' mortuary parlors on Union street. In the solemn requiem high mass at St. Joseph's church at 9 o'clock, Rev. Michael E. O'Connor, brother of Mr. O'Connor was the celebrant; Rev. John E. Clark was deacon and Rev. Charles M. Kelly, sub-deacon. The organ music was by Mrs. E. R. Portelance. Mrs. Henry Mathieu and Miss Monica McKeon rendered, "Nearer, My God to Thee" as the body was borne into the church; "Pie Jesu" was sung by Miss McKeon at the offertory and "He Wipes the Tear from Every Eye" was given as a waiting hymn. Burial was in the family plot in St. Joseph's cemetery. The bearers were, Michael F. Sullivan, Daniel Grady, Charles Gormley and George Waters. There were beautiful floral pieces. Arrangements were in charge of Killourey Brothers.

Funeral services of Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Greene, were held Wednesday afternoon at 1.30 o'clock at the First Baptist church, in Westerly, R. I., Burial was in the River Bend cemetery, Before the cortege left this city a prayer service was conducted at the home of her daughter, Mrs. D. A. Griggs of 42 Mountain street at 8.30 a. m. The arrangements were in charge of the J. C. Lincoln Company.

The funeral of Mrs. Helena V. Chandler were held at two o'clock Wednesday afternoon at her home, 70 Chestnut street. Rev. F. F. Foshay officiated. Burial was in the Willimantic cemetery. Avery and Van Zandt were in charge of the arrangements.

Officials of the Connecticut Agricultural college denied a report Wednesday that there was a case of small pox at the institution. It was true that one of the students had been taken ill Tuesday and reported as having the contagious disease, but a diagnosis of his case showed that the malady was scarlet fever. There are several cases of the latter illness at the college, five of the male students being cared for at the infirmary. All the cases are light.

Two one-legged pigeons which joined a flock that was feeding on pieces of pop corn in front of Stanton's store on Main street Wednesday morning, attracted considerable attention. The birds appeared to be able to get along quite nicely on one foot.

The case of Charles Hanson, charged with non support of his family continued from last week in the police court until Wednesday morning was again continued this time until further notice. It was made known that Hanson has secured a job in Norwich and that he was fulfilling his obligations toward his family.

The Bulletin has news about Norwich fifty years ago, but some Willimantic residents could look back forty-six years ago Wednesday and recall a decided contrast. At that time the lawns in this city were green, tree swere budding and genuine spring weather had come to stay. A remarkable difference from the sight which greeted the eye Wednesday.

At a whist party given recently at the home of Misses Mary and Florence Grady, 75 Oak street, prizes were awarded as follows: First, Miss Marion Tubridy; second, Miss Helen Brainfield. The guests included, Miss Alice Barnet of Jewett City, Miss Katherine Grady, Miss Anna Moriarty, Miss Josephine Hurlike of Danbury and Mrs. Eugene Cleuthier.

COLUMBIA

George H. Champlin and Frank Preston left town Monday morning for Stamford and South Norwalk, in the vicinity of which places, they will continue the repair work to the state roads upon which they were engaged last fall, when the setting in of winter closed further operations.

Henry Hutchins and his son Lawrence, were engaged Monday last in clearing from the lawn of Miss Eliza Hutchins trees and branches cut while the snow from previous storms was on the ground.

A severe snow storm prevailed in this locality Tuesday night, with the unusual accompanying of thunder and lightning at the start and terminating with a gale. Several inches of snow covers the ground. Few conveyances of any kind and no pedestrians were out upon the roads early Wednesday morning. Children from the outlying districts found it difficult to get to their schools, and the auto busses carrying pupils to Windham High school, were necessarily late, the bus from Hebron being over a half hour late. By 8 a. m., however, the energetic drivers of the snow plow of the state highway department in this section, had one-half the road to Columbia Center cleared, and was proceeding toward Hebron. Very prompt and efficient work has been accomplished on the state roads during the past winter, and is much appreciated.

Erwin Collins and James Daley were able to finish sawing their wood piles before the storm broke, but Mrs. Ethel Blakeley, who had a pile of many cords, was able to get only a portion of it sawed.

LARGE PIMPLES PAINED AWFULLY

Itched and Burned. Could Not Sleep. Cuticura Heals.

"I was troubled with large, red pimples on my face. At night they itched and burned causing me to scratch and I could not sleep. Every time I turned around in bed they pained awfully. Each week they seemed to grow larger and more painful.

"I was treated without any benefit. I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample. It helped me so I purchased a cake of Soap and one box of Ointment which healed me." (Signed) Miss Mary Silvia, 234 River Rd., New Bedford, Mass.

NO MORE YELLOW TEETH!

New Discovery Removes Stains—Whitens Teeth Instantly

A new harmless treatment has been discovered which—in just three minutes—gives dull, yellowish teeth a beautiful pearly whiteness. This new discovery is called Bleachodent liquid which curdles and softens the stains—and a new kind of paste which gently removes them, and if used daily, prevents the formation of new stains.

All you need do is simply brush your teeth with a few drops of the liquid—then use the paste—and no matter how dull or discolored your teeth may have been—they quickly take on a new whiteness and lustre. Tobacco stains usually disappear after first few applications. Perfected by prominent Dentist.

Children's teeth are especially subject to stains, tartar and decay. In removing the stains, and cleansing the teeth, Bleachodent Combination retards the formation of tartar and is a great aid in keeping teeth sound and healthy. It is antiseptic and generally beneficial to both teeth and gums. Only a safe, mild preparation like Bleachodent Combination should be used on children's teeth. Gritty pastes should never be used. Get Bleachodent Combination today. Costs only a few cents. Money back if not delighted. Sold by good dealers such as G. G. Engler, H. M. Lerou, Andrew McLaughlin, Lee & Osgood.

JEWETT CITY

To judge from the stories told by the local automobile fraternity Wednesday, the driver who designated Tuesday night's freak snow fall as a "wind shield" storm, was right in line. To drive facing the rapidly falling wet snow proved impossible. One man had to get out and clear his glass from the heavy snow three times between the Finn block and St. Mary's church.

A driver attempting to pass through Brown avenue, from East to North Main street, failed to make the right angle turn when half over, and went straight out into an open lot at that point, before he noticed it. Two separate parties trying to reach Norwich gave it up and returned home, one man consuming an hour between the Taftville and Quinebaug bridges.

At a regular session of Reliance lodge, No. 29, I. O. O. F., Monday evening the banquet committee reported plans nearly complete for the annual banquet of Reliance lodge, No. 2, I. O. O. F., and Undaunted lodge, No. 34, K. of P., the date to be announced.

A cordial invitation from the Rebekah lodge, No. 28, to attend the sixteenth anniversary celebration was accepted to be held April 8.

The financial secretary, Brother G. A. Haskell, continues ill. It is the earnest desire of all the members that he may have a speedy recovery, that the lodge business may be conducted with punctuality and dispatch, Brother William J. Robertson, Jr., has consented to act as financial secretary until such time as "Uncle George" can assume his duties again.

Mrs. Patrick Connell is very ill with pneumonia at her home on Railroad avenue.

All through this section there seems to be just now, a great agitation to get somebody to shoot all the crows. C. F. Lewis sends the following letter, and says that take it all the year round, the crow is the farmer's friend. If this contest goes through personally I believe it will mean the gradual extermination of our feathered friends.

I have been a bird observer and practical forester for 16 years and I am a friend of the crow because I know that the crow is a natural scavenger.

If there were more crows we would have better looking forests.

Offering a prise for the destruction of birds, if they be black or otherwise, is an absolute error because everybody will be shooting birds of insectivorous value promiscuously.

Five years from now watch your forests deteriorate if you slaughter the birds.

If E. I. Du Pont-DeNemours Co. must sell their powder and are overstocked on shells, let's go at it naturally and educate the public what to shoot.

"Protect Our Feathered Friends," should be the slogan, not the "Crow Must Go."

Allen H. Wood in a recent letter to a Boston paper, says, that he has a gunning place down on the Vineyard, and that he has a number of live Mallard ducks (decoys), and that they lay hundreds of eggs. His story further states that the crows come, thrust their bills into the ducks' eggs and fly away with them to the beach, where they break them and devour the contents. Local opinions include the view, that a crow could no more carry away a duck's or a hen's egg intact, then a mosquito could fly away with a huckleberry.

Few Jewett City sportsmen refrain from taking a snap shot at Jimmie Crow, perched on the topmost limb of a nearby tree. Nevertheless, the opinions for a general extermination drive upon this wary inhabitant of the woods and fields of Griswold, that is up against it all the time, are by no means unanimous.

G. S. Brown, president of the Ashland Fish and Game Protective association, declares that although having never seen it done, he is convinced that a crow is able to carry an egg in its bill or held with its feet. He believes that their destruction of game birds' eggs is very great.

The arrival of the state road scraper during the forenoon Wednesday was a great blessing to the sidewalk pedestrian. Before its welcome arrival every passing automobile squirted out a beautiful spray of mud, snow, water and other more objectionable matter, wherewith the windward exposure of dresses and trousers was liberally treated. One big truck from Fall River, with extra wide tear wheels, sent out a shower hardly hardly equalled by the discharge from the cut-water of a West Mystic seagled.

Trout fishing got a decided set-back in this section by the April fool storm. The parties that asked off for a three days brok whipping trip, camping meanwhile, said something appropriate to the weather man's clerk, who pulled the November blizzard on the first of April.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Old Man Winter appears about as hard to keep buried as Old John Barleycorn. Snow is again piled up in barricades along the streets in the business section and along the state highways leading out of Danielson. Snow removal crews and snow shoveling brigades put in a full measure of effort, Wednesday clearing away the latest accumulation of snow. The boys have put away their marbles and baseballs and the fish reels and creels are in disuse. It's winter again.

About five inches of snow whirled down during the hours of Tuesday night and Wednesday morning. The snow, apparently, came on consignment. No one seems to have ordered it, no one is known who wanted it, though it did boost business a bit in some lines, as it injured it in others.

In this vicinity the storm caused little damage. It has set the season back at least a week, however, and that's a big item with people who have been planning out-door operations.

Old inhabitants recall that there have been other such storms as late in the season—even snow storms in early May—but there has been no such occurrence in recent years.

Two men who discussed the storm here Tuesday recalled other April snowstorms, one of the men mentioning out of memory a snow fall of 26 inches April 11, 1914. This man came from Newfoundland, it may be mentioned, so that snow storm didn't mean much in its relation to local weather happenings.

In clearing away the arrival of snow, the Connecticut company's snowplow crews found the snow varied in depth between Central Village and North Grosvenordale from 3 to 8 inches, the heaviest fall being north of Putnam, where some drifts were as high as 18 inches. Some overhead of the trolley company was damaged by the storm to the south of here, but this did not interfere with the regular operation of cars.

Military orders of the Connecticut National guard include announcements that Second Lieut. Wellington E. Bitgood of the Service Battery has been advanced to the grade of first lieutenant and that Corporal Gordon J. Gale of the same command has been commissioned as second lieutenant.

Lieut. Bitgood enlisted in the Service Battery April 1, 1921, and was appointed first sergeant, a post he filled for two years, being then advanced to second lieutenant. During the world war he enlisted in the United States Marine corps and was overseas with the 5th brigade of marines. He is rated one of the top notch infantry drill instructors in the Connecticut National guard. This valuable qualification is reflected in the drilling efficiency of the Service battery, which has a high rating in the 192nd Field artillery, of which it is a unit.

Corporal Gale also has a good military record. May 1, 1917, when the United States had just entered the world war, he became a member of the Reserve Officers Training corps and there remained until Sept. 30, 1918. On October 1, 1918, he was ordered to the Central Officers Training school at Camp Lee, Va. He is one of the best known and most active of the Service battery members. Having his commission he will act in the capacity of property officer and athletic director and instructor of the battery. He has done much for the battery along physical and athletic lines during the past year.

At the state armory here Saturday evening, the National Guard basketball championship of Connecticut will be decided through the meeting of the Service battery team and the E company, 169th infantry of Middletown. This without doubt will be the greatest service teams' game seen in eastern Connecticut this playing season.

The Service battery is easily the best of all the military teams in the eastern part of the state. Likewise the E company team has swept all before it in the central and western sections of the state. It has an impressive record of visitories and recently eliminated by a score of 40 to 10 the A company team of Meriden, claimant of the military championship of the state.

The manager of the Middletown team broadcasted a challenge to meet any of the service team sof the state and the challenge has been accepted by the Service battery team.

Now that the Killingly High school basketball season is closed the services of Williams and Keech of that team are available for the battery team. Both are regularly enlisted men. Their playing will add great strength to the battery team, and all Danielson will be rooting for them to beat Middletown and earn the championship Saturday evening.

The funeral of Donald A. Stevens, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Stevens, was held from their home Wednesday afternoon, with funeral services at St. James' church at 2 o'clock Rev. Deschaux, M. S., reading the service. Louis E. Kennedy was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Another new bus has arrived here for service on the Interstate line. It is the last word in such type of motor vehicle construction. First of all, it is remarkable comfortable both in its appointments and riding qualities. It rolls on big pneumatic tires, with dual wheels at the rear. It has seating arrangements for 23. It is long hung, easy of access and deservedly is known as the Fageol Safety coach. It is electrically lighted and heated and can be kept as comfortable as a living room at home, on a bitter cold winter day.

The many men who indulge in the weed will be very interested to know that the big coach has a smoking compartment. There is also a compartment for luggage, inside the vehicle. The seats are upholstered in heavy leather.

Wednesday, the coach was taken on its first run from this city to Providence. These was not a service trip, but one to allow the Rhode Island officials charged with that duty to inspect the big vehicle, before it is put into service. It will be sent to Hartford for a like purpose. Possibly the coach will make its first regular run Saturday of this week, but that had not been determined Wednesday afternoon. The Interstate line maintains service between Danielson and Providence and Danielson and Willimantic.

Miss Helen Nash, teacher at Montville, whose home is here, will be in New York Friday visiting the Horace Mann kindergarten and will spend the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Almond Fish, at Bloomfield, N. J.

Mrs. E. H. Keach will have the members of the Civic Federation at her home for a meeting Friday afternoon.

Counterfeit $10 bills are being circulated in this territory, as told in the Putnam news this morning. Banks and business houses here are on the watch for them.

The types made a trout caught by James Kent of Elmville a bit heavy Wednesday morning. The fish weighed a pound and 8 ounces—not a pound and 15 ounces.

It continues to be true that one should not count chickens before they are hatched. Early in March the total snow removal costs to the town of Killingly for the winter was only $100, and mention was made of the fact. Then came the big storm of March 11-12 and the snow removal cost jumped to $1750. And now comes April with another snow storm.

PUTNAM

Counterfeit $10 bills have made their appearance in this city. Two of them detected in deposits by tellers of the First National bank had been found up to Wednesday noon. The first one came in with money sent for deposit from North Grosvenordale. The second one was included in the deposit of a Putnam shoe dealer. He is unable to remember who passed it on him and difficulty was being experienced Wednesday in ascertaining something of the history of the bill that came in from North Grosvenordale.

The counterfeits are Federal Reserve bank notes and bear a likeness of Jackson on the obverse side. These fake bills are easily distinguishable from a real note when compared side by side, but will readily deceive anyone not on the watch for such a spurious issue. The figure of Jackson does not stand out as clear and sharp as on the genuine bill and the same is true of the designs on the reverse of the bills.

An impression is that some one has been circulating the counterfeit bills in territory hereabouts and other specimens may be looked for at once.

Special publicity is being given the matter in order that anyone being handed a $10 bill may be on the lookout for one of the fakes. Banks in neighboring towns were notified about the matter during Wednesday.

The breaking of journals on two cars of a freight train a mile east of the Thompson railroad station, at about 12.10 Wednesday morning, caused a wreck that blocked the main line between this city and Boston A wrecking crew sent out from Readville had about cleared up the wreckage when the big crane in use toppled over and again blocked the tracks, so that trains out of this city for Boston and trains coming in from that place were being detoured from East Thompson over the branch line to Webster and then southward to this city, during Wednesday forenoon.

The sixth car from the head end and the sixteenth car in line were the ones on which the journals are said to have given out and messed up the train. No member of the freight train crew was injured, but W. A. White, Boston, of the crew of the wrecking train was hurt while at work, suffering a dislocation of the shoulder. He was attended by Dr. R. C. Paine of Thompson. Dr. Paine ordered the man to Norwood that an X-ray of the injured shoulder might be made.

For the first time in April since the state highway department has practiced clearing the trunk line highways of snow, the equipment was being used for that purpose Wednesday morning. Between five and six inches of snow covered this territory in the storm that started just after nightfall Tuesday and raged like a young blizzard for several hours.

Snow plows were sent out, too, by the Connecticut company, which rarely, if ever, has had to clear its lines of snow by such a method as late as April.

Recalling other freak snowstorms, an old-timer who was in the city on Wednesday morning told of a 6-inch fall of snow that came May 6, 1873, so the April storm, though unusual, broke no records.

Automobilists found the wheeling very difficult Wednesday forenoon, but conditions improved as the day wore on. Drivers who were out in the storm between 7.30 and 9.30 on Tuesday night found it almost impossible to see the highway, so heavy and swirly was the fall of snow, driven before half a gale.

Making the most of their opportunity many children of the public schools who are on recess this week got out their sleds for the first coasting that most of them ever enjoyed in April.

There is rejoicing among many friends here of Lieut. Ambrose Moriarty over the fact that the United States senate has passed a bill advancing him to the rank of major, with a retired officer's pay of that rank of $340 a month.

Major Moriarty has been a helpless invalid for the past 21 years. He is afflicted with arthritis deformans and every joint in his body has become rigid. Even his jaws are practically set. He is under the constant care of a nurse, Miss Alma Martin, who has been in attendance upon him the past fifteen years.

The action taken by the senate through the good offices of U. S. Senator Frank B. Brandegee of this state will increase Major Moriarty's income from $136 to $240 monthly, enabling him to live with some degree of comfort and outside an army post hospital, where he has been a patient—at Fort Banks, Boston—the past three years.

Lieutenant Moriarty, a native of Putnam and a graduate of the United States military academy at West Point, became afflicted through exposure when stationed at Highwood, near Chicago, during the winter of 1887, when troops were ordered there following the Haymarket riots. Major Moriarty spent that winter in a tent. Later exposure while on duty in the west and southwest aggravated his illness and forced him onto the retired list.

In all the years of his invalidism Major Moriarty has borne his great suffering with remarkable fortitude. Incidentally, he exhausted practically all his financial resources in meeting the heavy costs of being maintained and three years ago went to Fort Banks hospital to live, after making his home in this city during all the prior period of his retirement. With his advance in rank and the increase in pay that will come with it, Major Moriarty likely will be brought back to this city to make his home. Gen. Mark L. Hersey, a classmate of Major Moriarty's, was among those who interested themselves in the retired officer's case, which is without parallel in the history of the army.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Rhoades, of Thompson, are en route by boat from Jacksonville to New York. They motored to Florida last fall and have spent the winter visiting around that state. Bad highway conditions in southern states at this time brought about their decision to ship their car by boat and to come to New York on the same vessel.

Shipping news lists the arrival at San Francisco of the steamship Kronland, on which Mrs. M. R. Joy and son, Richard, and Miss Helen Sharpe of this city are passengers. They recently sailed from New York for the west coast, via the Panama canal.

G. Harold Gilpatric is in Hartford today (Thursday) attending the republican state convention.

Attorney Charles L. Torrey was in Hartford Wednesday attending a meeting of the state board of education.

So wet and heavy was the fall of snow in the April storm, that more trees, weakened by the heavy snow storm of March 11-12, went down or had limbs broken off.

Very few good strings of trout have been produced in this territory from the first two days of the season's fishing, and the snow is regarded by the experts as making conditions unfavorable for several days to come.

Members of Israel Putnam lodge of Odd Fellows plan to go to Central Village Saturday evening, to witness the conferring of a degree on a class of candidates.

At the meeting of the common council Tuesday night, the spotlight was thrown on the development in progress at the plant of the Putnam Foundry & Machine corporation. The information, of which there has been rumor, was gained when Attorney L. F. Carpenter appeared on behalf of the company seeking to purchase two tracts of land owned by the city of approximately an acre each. The land is contiguous to that now owned by the company and is needed in the plans for enlargement and development of the concern.

Mr. Carpenter presented each member of the council a blueprint plan of the two tracts of land and stated that the north tract, a small triangular piece not utilized by the city for any purpose, was desired by the foundry company in order to have a means of outlet from the company's property to Mechanics street. This tract was necessary to the company's welfare at once. The other tract, now used by the city for operating the city stone crusher, was also desired by the company but was not needed immediately. If the city would sell this second tract, Mr. Carpenter said, the company would allow the city to retain the stone crusher for a period of three years.

It is known that the company is already erecting an addition, 154x100 feet, to its plant. Mr. Carpenter stated that ground had been broken for a second addition, 340x100, and that still further enlargement of the plant is under consideration.

Attorney Carpenter predicted that within three years the Putnam Foundry & Machine company would be as big an asset to Putnam as the Manhasset Manufacturing company never was. In view of the benefit that the city would derive from the enlargement of this plant, the increased valuation for taxation purposes and the furnishing of employment to many men he thought the company deserved favorable consideration.

Mr. Carpenter's optimistic forecast was that within a year Putnam would be as prosperous as it ever was and that within two years' time it would be more prosperous than ever before—the problem that would confront the city would be a housing problem.

The members of the council expressed themselves as favorable to assisting the company if possible to do so without affecting the city adversely. It was voted that the highway committee, the finance committee and the mayor be a joint committee, empowered to sell the north tract immediately, if the committee and the company could agree upon terms and to investigate the matter of selling the south tract and to report to the next meeting of the council.

Alderman-at-large Richard took up the matter of garbage disposal, a problem that has confronted the city for a number of years, but has not as yet found a solution. It was urged that with summer approaching some action should be taken to relieve a bad situation. The mayor appointed a committee consisting of Aldermen Richard, Rogers, and Dubois to confer with Ray Hurlbut relative to the matter as Mr. Hurlbut, it was understood, was willing to undertake the collection of garbage.

The council voted to grant William St. Onge a yearly license for Music Hall, a new amusement building recently erected, at the rate of $25 a year with the understanding that if entertainments were put on by others than the owner an extra license at the regular daily rate should be charged.

The matter of replacing curbing in front of the new Putnam Savings Bank building and the Seder block was referred to the highway committee.

Several petitions for street improvements and sewers are to be turned over to the city engineer for estimates as to the cost; the council is to receive the engineer's report at a special session Tuesday evening, April 15th.

Chief Thurston of the fire department was asked regarding the attendance of members of the department at fires. He said that the men of Hose Company No. 1 were doing most of the work in answering alarms for chimney fires even when the call is for the hook and ladder company. He did not think it fair that the same men should do all of this work unless they received additional compensation but he was trying to work out a plan to remedy this situation.

After so easy a wash you have plenty of energy left a romp with the baby

Now let Rinso soak the dirt out

This entirely new kind of soap meets today's needs for a Really Modern Laundry Soap ✓ Dissolves instantly and completely ✓ Makes a rich soapy solution which gently soaks dirt out. *Rinses out thoroughly! No more yellowed clothes!

A pleasant happy washday with energy left at the end of it!

That is what women want today and that is what Rinso is giving them—freedom from the long-drawn out old-fashioned bar soap washday.

Over a million packages of Rinso are used every week by progressive housewives who deeply appreciate how much it saves their time and energy.

It does what soap has never done before

What you used to have to do by hard rubbing, Rinso now does for you. It does away with rubbing soap on the clothes to get them soapy and rubbing the soapy clothes to get them clean.

Tablecloths, towels, sheets, all those bulky pieces so heavy to drag up and down on the washboard are now soaked snowy white in the rich Rinso suds.

Even hard-to-get-at dirt on seats and knees of little rompers or badly ground-in, grimy cuff edges and collar bands take only a light rubbing to get them as white as new.

The only laundry soap you need

This is the laundry soap the modern housewife has always wanted! It dissolves instantly and completely — gently penetrates every thread of the clothes with its rich, soapy solution — soaks dirt out — rinses out thoroughly leaving no soil in your clothes to make them gray and dingy — no bits of soap to turn them yellow under the iron.

It is the only soap you need on washday. Perfect for every kind of washing machine; nothing could be better for boiling white cottons; simply wonderful for soaking.

Just use Rinso instead of old-fashioned bar soap. It does the whole job.

Rinso is made by the makers of Lux, the largest soap-makers in the world. They spared no effort of testing or research to make Rinso meet every modern need for a perfect laundry soap—just as Lux meets today's needs for a special soap for fine things.

THE NEW ATTORNEY GENERAL.

By the appointment of Harlan Fiske Stone, the retiring dean of Columbia University Law school, as attorney general, President Coolidge has made a selection that must make a strong appeal to the nation.

In the naming of the new cabinet member, quite the same as in the naming of a new secretary of the navy, the president had the opportunity to use it for political purposes. He might have named a new attorney general for the votes which a certain person might be able to influence because of his political activity. He could have passed out the office in the adjustment of a political debt already accrued or contemplated, but that is just what he had studiously avoided doing.

President Coolidge has been actuated by the desire to get a man for the place who not only had the ability but who could be pointed as having been chosen because of his qualifications as to law rather than his political attainments. And again he was guided by fitness rather than geographical limitations.

Dean Stone has made a record for himself in the manner in which he has built up the law school at Columbia. He is a man of outstanding ability who responds to the opportunity to serve the country at no little sacrifice and his choice must be regarded as a highly gratifying one. He hasn't been selected because he is a political leader, because he comes from any particular locality, because he has the endorsement of partisans, but because he is unquestionably the man for the place and one in whom the country as a whole cannot fail to have the utmost confidence. His selection cannot fail to satisfy, and it certainly discloses the attitude of the president relative to that important office.

The fact that he comes from New York, which is the state to which Secretary Hughes is credited, makes no difference. It is the man and not the state that is selected. The president continues to present most gratifying evidence that he has ideas of his own in regard to cabinet material and is not afraid to follow them.

SLANDER MONGERS.

More than one endeavor has been made to being pressure to bear which would force Assistant Secretary Roosevelt of the navy department out of office. But just as fast as they have been made it has been demonstrated that there was no ground for action and that the efforts were bad examples of partisanship and character smashing.

It didn't take long for those who charged that the assistant secretary should give up his office because he failed to block the oil leases to be informed that there was no more ground for this attack than there was for the blow that was aimed at the secretary of the treasury. Mr. Roosevelt has not been involved in the oil leak. When it came to his attention that the leasing of the navy reserve was underway he devoted his best efforts to halting it and succeeded in forcing certain restrictions, though it is to be remembered that he occupied no commanding position. Allegations as to his connection with the company that obtained the lease of Teapot Dome have been grossly distorted as the testimony before the committee itself shows. Inference rather than facts have been put forward, and as is apt to be the case the inferences were directly contrary to the facts.

It is not surprising that in the opposition displayed toward the administration that there are those who recognize that the mud slinging campaign is being carried too far. It is getting to the point where there is no ground for it and it is creating resentment, quite the same as such political endeavors are quite apt to do.

Misrepresentation may make some progress for a time but when it is checked up and found to be what it is rather than what it claims to be its effectiveness is quickly lost and the real damage accrues to those who are responsible for it. There can be no surprise that there is a well developed tired feeling created by the methods that have been used for slandering instead of dealing with facts. The time for calling it off has long since arrived.

PAINTED FISH?

How does the idea of eating fish that has been changed from its natural to an artificial color by some lyeing material hit you? The thought of such a thing is enough to ban it for most people, but just how much of the dyed fish is consumed may never be known.

Health officials in Philadelphia have disclosed the fact that white salmon which had been "painted" with a coal tar dye to change its color was being sold for red salmon. Perhaps it would be found that the same stunt was being practiced in other cities if inquiries were directed to such an end. It hasn't been found as yet just where the coloring was done, but apparently before the fish reached the retailers.

Even though tests disclosed that the dye was not necessarily injurious it is clear that a deception is being practiced upon the consumers. They are paying for what they believe to be red salmon, but are getting instead white salmon, a cheaper variety, which has been made red artificially. Whether there is likely to be any injury sustained in the consumption of such coal tar dye, it is impossible to look upon it otherwise than as a direct swindle, and such a deception cannot be exactly pleasing.

The question also arises as to whether this is an adulteration of food in violation of the national food and drug act. Inasmuch as the law says that a food is adulterated when it is "mixed, colored, powdered, coated or stained in a manner whereby inferiority is concealed," there would seem to be no question about it.

The discovery of the "painted" salmon discloses the need of running down those who are responsible for this method of fraud and seeing that the public gets the protection which it is entitled to. Even though tests may have shown that health is not at stake the time has not come when the welfare of the pocketbook can be entirely disregarded. The situation would be entirely changed were it stated that the fish had been put through the coloring treatment.

FLOOD PREVENTION.

It only requires such floods as that along the Potomac to direct greater attention to the need of prevention. For the time being, aside from recovering from the effects, it will be possible to get public sentiment in the affected regions to concentrate upon the means of avoiding similar occurrences in the future. It will be possible to get such localities to recognize the penalty of inaction. They will agree that something should have been done but it is a question whether they will think seriously enough of it for a sufficiently long period to even now see that remedial action is taken.

It is easy to understand after such disasters happen how provisions might have been made to prevent them in greater or less degree, but too often it is the case that nothing but talk follows, until there is occasion for its revival when trouble comes again or develops somewhere else.

Human life and valuable property can be protected through measures that would prevent such a volume of water entering the valleys at one time. One factor in the situation is the failure to replace the growth that is removed from the hillsides. Woodlands are denuded and instead of the water being held in the ground it rushes into the streams, and this is particularly true when rains melt large snow falls.

Reforestation might not be the sole preventive for floods, but it is an important one, and has the additional advantages of utilizing the land and contributing to the future lumber supply. It will be interesting to note how much of it is done, however, as the direct result of the recent flood in the Potomac.

AN OLD STORY.

If there was any need of demonstrating the value of adequate exits from public buildings it is furnished by the instance in Mexico where there was but one entrance for the accommodation of several hundred all striving to get through it at once.

There is no telling what an audience will do when it becomes alarmed. It has been repeatedly shown, however, that it is a time when only a few can be expected to display cool judgment. Among too many the disposition is to start a wild rush for the outside instead of making an orderly exit, and in that stampede it is invariably more harm is done than from the cause of the excitement.

That was true in the Mexico picture house. People went crazy when the picture booth developed a fire, but the blaze was confined to the booth and the deaths and injuries came from being trampled upon in the mad rush for the single doorway.

Whether the Mexican town will respond to the disclosures and enforce protective measures in the future is problematical. The lesson confronts any other communities quite the same as that particular Mexican town, especially if the safety of the public is not being considered. Fireproof structures, plenty of exits and efforts to prevent panics in audiences have all developed from just such instances in other days, and yet it would probably be surprising if it were known how many public places where hundreds gather are inviting just such deplorable affairs as that which occurred in a Mexican town. There cannot be too many safeguards established in public gathering places.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

If nothing else April starts in with a liberal supply of the poor man's fertilizer.

Some would prefer the snowstorm in mid August to the opening performance of April.

The man on the corner says: The time for April to get all the snow out of its system is now.

Those called to testify against the "Mellon companies" seem to have wasted a lot of valuable time.

It was thoughtful of the weatherman to provide a small blizzard just as the sprinkling season opened.

"Archie Roosevelt Home—Won't Talk About Oil Scandal." He told it all in the first chapter apparently.

Even though Bergdoll has upset plans about his home coming there'll be no brass band engagement to cancel.

The gas and electric plant is a subject that never fails to arouse an unusual amount of discussion whenever brought forward.

Even though you cannot go fishing for a few days you can improve the time and provide yourself with the necessary fishing license.

Harry Daugherty's support of the president may not help the latter very much, but it will not be giving comfort to the opposition.

That New York Central engineer who has traveled 2,500,000 miles and lives to retire gives evidence that he has been a respector of signals.

Perhaps Al Jennings will come to the conclusion some day that if Jesse Hamon actually told him what he claims he was stringing him.

THEY ALL FALL

"It's awful," declared the man who took an interest in his friends, "the way some of you fellows fall for the stuff the girls put over! It makes me shudder to think how your gullibility and weakness for flattery are leading you into paths which spell jail, chains and slavery for the rest of your life!"

"Is that so?" objected the handsome young man who had just fallen violently in love for the sixth time "I can't let you malign the noble creatures who——"

"I admire you for your stand," admitted the man who took an interest. "It shows a fineness of character which adds poignancy to your undoubted fate if you keep on at the rate you are now going. Nothing seems to send a man into such joyous transports as to have a girl ask him to run down cellar or upstairs and get something for her.

"Anything difficult, just so he is doing it for her! Little sweetheart, looking up through long, beautifully beaded lashes, coos: 'I believe I must have left my thimble over at Mabel's today—don't you want to run around there and see if you can find it?' And off the poor simp gallops, retrieves the thimble and dashes back triumphantly with much the same air as though he were saying, 'You see, I slew the pterodactyl for you!'

"I hate to ask you to look upon that poor chap a few years later after he and sweetheart are married and have settled down, to use a stock phrase which means nothing at all. No married couple ever settles down—all married people know that between battles, bills and bunk they haven't any time to do anything so peaceful. Well, going back to this man. He sits reading the paper because that's the easiest way to obtain temporary solitude and quiet. "Henry," pipes up ex-sweetheart, looking up from her pile of mending, 'there's the phone—won't you answer it and while you are up you'd better go look at the furnace!"

"'Huh!' grunts Henry, folding page carefully to denote his intense absorption in what he is reading.

"'The phone is ringing!' his wife points out a bit sharply. 'And my lap is full and I wish you'd——'

"'Aw, it's sure to be for you!' objects Henry.

"By this time his wife has spilled all her sewing over the floor and reached the phone, to be told the other party has abandoned the enterprise. And she tells Henry what she thinks of him. 'You did little things for me before we were married!' she declares. '"You acted as though you really cared about me then! And now you kick and growl if you are asked to do the simplest thing! You wouldn't go down to the fruit cupboard and bring up those preserves last night and I never was so ashamed! You let me shove the chairs around the table and go hunt the cards and everything while you sat peacefully in your armchair and smoked! Why, before we were married——'

"Yes, t hat's the sort of conversation a man brings upon himself when instead of making a stand in the balmy days of courtship he lets the girl coit him about her little finger when she tells him he is so big and strong and she is so weak and helpless and depends on him so! Being told that she depends upon his superior strength is simply a narcotic.

"The brainier he is the harder he falls. He does double somersaults showing her just how strong and enduring and capable he can be, little reckoning how he is setting a precedent that he will be expected to follow until he is 98 and uses a crutch! For a woman never forgets, my son!"

"Her sister Josie took quite a pains to you that day we all hiked through the park," interjected the handsome young man who was in love. "Josie said that she never knew a man who could walk as fast and as far as you did with so little effort and——"

"Pshaw now, did she?" asked the man who had been lecturing on men's foolishness. "Oh, that walk wasn't anything at all! Sometime I'd like to show that girl what I really can do in the endurance line! Why, I could beat that record all hollow! Josie struck me as a very fine girl of discrimination, too! I guess I'll go over tonight!"—Exchange.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Major George L. Berry, who has become a candidate for the nomination for Vice President on the Democratic ticket, is a prominent figure in organized labor circles, having served for seventeen years as president of the International Printing Pressmen and Assistants' Union of North America. He was born in Hawkins County, Tennessee, in 1882, and still makes his home in that State. He has never attended school and was sixteen years old before he learned to read and write. Major Berry is a World War veteran, one of the founders of the American Legion and a past national vice commander of that organization. He is not without political experience, having been a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor of Tennessee ten years ago, when he was defeated by Thomas C. Rye by 82 votes. In the interest of his present candidacy for second place on the national Democratic ticket committees of trade unionists and other are being established in leading cities throughout the country.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

A Split Gospel.

Mr. Editor: This writer has been waiting to see if some one, more publicly set for the defence of the gospel, would have something to say in regard to a recent sermon reported in your columns and put forward as a "modernist view" in regard to the Apostle's Creed and the gospel in general. In the absence of any such notice, no one thinking worth while or having the time but not the inclination, this writer would offer a few observations, mostly in the way of inquiry, but in no antagonistic spirit. Rather to give a reason for the hope that is in him, with meekness and fear.

After reading the discourse as given we are led to ask, Are there two gospels of Jesus Christ? One a gospel about Christ, which is to be discredited, misinterpreted and discarded, and another, a gospel of Christ—a deduction from the first which is to be preached and enforced?

If seeking first the kingdom of God and his righteousness is the sine quanon of Christian character, where are we to get the light and guidance, except from the life and words and works of Him who came as the revealer of the divine nature and its laws? He said, "Search the Scriptures, for they are they that testify of Me" and by this he meant the Old Testament Scriptures. It betokens a limited view of these to say that the incarnation idea is an evolution of the medieval sense of sin and depravity, which required a sinless redeemer. Seven hundred years before Christ a prophet described him in terms unmistakable—even to the virgin birth (Is. 7-14) 'Behold a virgin shall conceive and bear a son and shall call his name Immanuel."

'Tis true that Jesus did not in so many words declare his miraculous birth, but he did say that God was his father. If he was God's son and the virgin Mary his mother, isn't that sufficient? The added testimony of apostles could not strengthen, nor its absence detract.

It may be a common thing today to call anyone a son of God, but in the time of Jesus it was a serious claim and he suffered for it.

"We have a law," said the Jews to Pilate, "and by our law he should die, because he called himself the Son of God."

When the pagan magistrate heard that, it made him hesitate—and it is not flattering to our intelligence if the announcement does not also give us pause."

The sophistry that discredits our Lord's resurrection of course has no place for any general resurrection. St. Paul exhausted that argument in his day. This discussion may be labeled modern, but a reasoning mind sees in it the features of inconsistency and antiquity.

What has geography and astronomy to do with Christianity. A man may be a devout Christian and not know if the moon has an atmosphere or if Mars is inhabited. Even scientists are in doubt about both.

The Copernicon system was not discovered today, nor yesterday, nor since the World war. It is of the 15th century and before the reformation and was coexistent with the great victories of the gospel.

Even a flaw in geography may not be fatal in commercial enterprise. Columbus was, perhaps, as great a geographer and navigator as was in his time, and he ventured beyond the gates of Hercules, but when he reached the Bahamas he thought he had approached the East Indies, and so, called the natives Indians, a name by which we improperly term them to this day—but that did not vitiate the fact that he had discovered America.

The ancient fathers may have given fanciful locations to heaven and hell, but where do our moderns locate them?

After all in the presence of so great a scheme as the gospel it becomes us to be modest. As yet we only know in part and prophesy in part." When that which is whole has come, then that which is in part shall be done away" and anything given out previous to that is, in the nature of it, premature.

Woolworth Went Back Home.

"You ought to pay us for having you around" told him when he started to work, and These other boys can sell all around you," sneered by another employer three years later, were too much for Frank W. Woolworth—and he went back home.

His parents, the neighbors and the soul of the farm at obscure Rodman, N. Y., where he was born, all were poor. He attended the country school and business college and when 21 years old, with $50 saved, went to Watertown.

Fifteen hours a day in a dry goods store, without pay, just to learn. After three months the wages were $3.50 a week, after three years, $6, he paying his way, and saving, all the time.

The store across the street started him at $10, then quickly cut to $8.50, because he "couldn't sell." He had worked, worked, worked, but he still was the slow, clumsy farmer boy. The disappointment was so great that he had to give up and go back home.

A year of rest, and he was back in the first store in which he had worked, this time at $10 a week. Then his pay was reduced to $8.50. Now 28, and married, the blow hit hard.

A 5-cent sale gave him an idea. Opening a store in Utica, N. Y., with $300 borrowed, he did all the work, but it failed. His former employer would not take him back, so he moved his little stock to Lancaster, Pa., and started another store.

Finally it succeeded, and he opened five others. Three failed. Competition rose and fell, and the 5-and-10-cent business was rated risky. He persevered, and, when 34 first saw prosperity.

When he died there were more than 1200 F. W. Woolworth stores in the United States, Canada and Great Britain, and he was a multi-millionaire, and owner of the world's largest business building.

Speaking of his times of hopelessness, he said, "I was discouraged—but I kept on."

LITTLE JACK RABBIT
By DAVID CORY

Collision With a Ram

Now, I'm not going to tell you whether dear Uncle Lucky broke the speed limit into fourteen different pieces, as I feared he might in the last

"Put on those rubbers and your hands this morning"

story, for perhaps a motorcycle cop, after reading this story, may find one of those pieces and arrest the dear old gentleman rabbit, which would be too dreadful for words.

Dear Uncle Lucky's little tin liz
Was never laid up with the bad rheumatiz
Nor was it afflicted with fits of the blues
The reason, perhaps—it wore rubber shoes.

So, please to remember when mother insists—
The grass is all dewy, the air full of mists,
To put on your rubbers without any kick.
Then you'll laugh at the doctor and never be sick.

Well, anyway, as the Luckymobile sped swiftly on with Uncle Lucky and Little Jack Rabbit on the front seat and the Yellow Dog Tramp and old Mr. Adder, the deaf and dumb snake in the back seat, one of the tires burst. Oh, dear me! That Luckymobile turned right into a meadow where there were 14 sheep and three little lambs and a great big curly-horned ram.

And would you believe it? When that Luckymobile went right for that curley-horned ram, he put down his head and snorted. Oh, dear me! again. Although Uncle Lucky tried to stop, he couldn't. No, sir, And the first thing anybody knew, there was a dreadful crash and that Luckymobile went right over the ram.

Out crawled Mr. Adder to hide under a rock. But the faithful Yellow Dog Tramp stayed right there to help the two little bunnies.

"Please keep still," begged Uncle Lucky of the ram who was kicking the bottom of the Luckymobile in a dreadful way. The next minute, the old gentleman rabbit hopped out and grabbed that rambunkous ram's tail. As soon as Little Jack Rabbit put his paws around the old gentleman's waist and the Yellow Dog Tramp had placed his around the little bunny's, Uncle Lucky shouted: "One, two, three, hold your breath, pull!"

Goodness me! Out came that ram almost as fast as he had gone in, a luckymobile lamp on each horn and a big grease smudge on the end of his nose. Bump! went the two little bunnies on top of the Yellow Dog Tramp, who almost stepped on a little red ant as she came out of her anthill.

"Take those lamps off your horns this minute, or I'll turn on the electricity and give you a dreadful shock," shouted the old gentleman rabbit as soon as he had picked himself up and pushed out the dent in his old wedding stovepipe hat.

At last when the curly-horned ram had put them back on the Luckymobile, kind Uncle Lucky handed him the blue silk polkadot handkerchief which he carried in his hip pocket.

Everybody took a long breath as the curly-horned ram wiped the grease smudge off his nose and gasped:

"Whew, we had a narrow escape."

And if the lady conducter doesn't put my nickel in her vanity bag, so I can't get a transfer from the motorman, I'll tell you next time what happens after that.

A Plain Girl

Who made herself the rage of New York

By Edna Wallace Hopper

Before me is my picture as a girl. Few girls would envy me my looks. But I made myself a famous beauty. And I've kept that beauty to a grand old age. I am still on the stage playing young girls' parts, and I still look a girl of 19.

I have helped many girls to careers of beauty. To many women I have brought decades of added youth. So I am convinced that millions can attain the benefits I get. I am going to help them do it. Now I am placing at every woman's call the very helps which made me what I am.

White Youth Clay

I found my greatest help in clay. Not in the crude and muddy clays so many still employ. My Youth Clay, perfected by French experts, is white and clean and dainty. It is a superclay, based on 30 years of scientific study. No other clay that I know is nearly so efficient.

Youth Clay purges the skin of all that clogs or mars it. It brings that rosy afterglow which so amazes and delights. It firms the skin, combats all lines and wrinkles, reduces enlarged pores. Many users, in 30 minutes, seem to drop ten years.

No girl or woman who once sees its results will ever go without it. The cost is 50c and $1.

My Youth Cream

My cold cream is another French creation. I call it my Youth Cream. It contains products of both lemon and strawberry. Also all the best that science knows to foster the fine texture of the skin. You have never known a cold cream to compare with this.

I apply it after my clay. Also as a night cream. Also daytime as a powder base. It feeds, softens and protects. Youth Cream will delight you. It costs 60c.

I use a liquid cleansing cream, called my Facial Youth. A famous Parisian beauty first told me about it. Now the greatest beauty experts everywhere advise it, but they charge too high a price.

Facial Youth contains no animal, no vegetable fat. The skin cannot absorb it. So it cleans to the depths, then departs. All the dirt and grime and refuse come out with it. I have never found a method which cleans skins half so well. My Facial Youth costs 75c.

My Hair Youth

My hair is my greatest glory. It grows finer every year. Dandruff, falling hair or gray hair have never come to me. Nor to any friend who has employed my method.

These results are due to my Hair Youth. It is based on lifetimes of hair study. I apply it with an eye dropper, directly to the scalp. There it combats the hardened oil and dandruff which stifle the hair roots. It stimulates and fertilizes. Hair flourishes in such a well-kept scalp. No man or woman who sees what Hair Youth does will ever go without it. The cost is 50 and $1 with eye dropper.

All druggists and toilet counters now supply Edna Wallace Hopper's beauty helps. With each one comes my Beauty Book, also a guarantee. No one can do you a greater kindness than to urge you to employ them. Go learn how much they mean. Edna Wallace Hopper, 536 Lake Shore Drive, Chicago.

PROTECT YOUR CHILD'S HEALTH

Through thoughtlessness the slight cough or cold of a child is often neglected and soon becomes serious. A few doses of FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR COMPOUND, at small cost, taken at the onset of the cold would bring speedy relief. Be prepared, have a bottle of this safe, reliable cough remedy on hand, and give promptly when a cough or cold is detected. Equally as effective for older persons. No opiates.

Guard Against "Flu" With Musterole

Influenza, Grippe and Pneumonia usually start with a cold. The moment you get those warning aches, get busy with good old Musterole.

Musterole is a counter-irritant that relieves congestion (which is what a cold really is) and stimulates circulation.

It has all the good qualities of the old-fashioned mustard plaster without the blister.

Just rub it on with your finger-tips. First you will feel a warm tingle as the healing ointment penetrates the pores, then a soothing, cooling sensation and quick relief.

Have Musterole handy for emergency use. It may prevent serious illness.

To Mothers: Musterole is now made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole. 35c and 65c, in jars and tubes.

During the evening the bride and groom left for a wedding tour to New York and Washington. They will make their home in Montreal where Mr. Miller is in the country business with his father.

The groom is the son of George A. and Catherine Picken Miller and was born in Montreal. His bride is the daughter of Henry C. and Mary Elliott Lane and was born in Norwich. She is a graduate of the Norwich Free Academy and is an accomplished musician.

NORWICH W. T. C. U. PLANS FOR NOTABLE MEETING

The March meeting of the W. C. T. U. was held Wednesday afternoon, with its president, Miss Harriet G. Cross in charge, and opened with a devotional service, after which the secretary, Mrs. Bunce, and the treasurer, Mrs. Robinson, gave their reports.

Most of the time was spent in discussing and planning for the jubilee meeting which is to be held, April 24th, at the Central Baptist church, when the speaker will be Mrs. Ida B. Wise Smith, Iowa state president, W. C. T. U., and national director of Christian citizenship, of the same society. She is one of the most popular platform speakers, in the United States, and the local union expects that many women and men in New London county will avail themselves of the opportunity of hearing her.

The W. C. T. U. was organized fifty years ago, and that is why these special meetings are being held.

The national, state, county and local officers are to be present, and take part in the service.

Norwich union is fifty years old also.

If you never begin a task you will never finish it.

GAS & ELECTRIC COMMISSIONERS WANT RIGHT TO USE $75,000

Pursuant to the request contained in a communication from the gas and electric commissioners, Mayor Milo R. Waters has issued a call for a special city meeting next Monday evening at which the voters will be called upon to vote upon appropriating $75,000 for the use of the gas and electric department in addition to the sums appropriated at the annual city meeting in June.

In their letter to the mayor the gas and electric commissioners explain that the reason for calling for this extra appropriation is because of the much greater business that has been done this year than had been anticipated, which will result at the end of the year in about $100,000 more in receipts than had been counted on but at the same time calls for the expenditure of more money in the next few months which they cannot do without a vote of a city meeting. The money is needed to pay for purchases of coal, coke, oil and other supplies. The amount named is on hand, the commissioners say, but they cannot use it without the authority is given them by a city meeting.

Similar action was taken a year ago, when the commissioners asked authority to spend $50,000 more than had been appropriated.

The report of the city treasurer at the March meeting of the common council showed that the gas and electric department had $673,416.67 for operating expenses and betterments appropriated for it by the annual city meeting last June and that $486,091.28 had been expended, leaving a balance of $93,325.89 on hand on Feb. 15, 1924. Other balances shown on hand by the city treasurer's report at that time were $15,000, white way; $25,000 temporary loan; $17,000, G. & E. sinking fund; and $5,740, interest on $287,000 city bonds (1931).

SCHOOL TEACHERS' SALARY AVERAGE SHOWS $1,426.40

The average salary paid to school teachers in Connecticut in the year 1922-1923 was $1,426.40, according to statistics compiled by the state department of education. In towns which have no supervising agents and which do not come within the school grant rating, it was $1,219.04; in towns which have supervising agents but which do not receive school grant funds, it was $1,131.43; while in those towns with an equalized grand list of less than $3,500,000 the average salary per teacher was $1,000. Taking the state as a whole and including principals, supervisors and teachers, but not part-time teachers, the elementary school average salary was $1,423 and the high school $1,924.

In the city group Hartford leads in average elementary school salaries, the figure last year being $1,584.07. In high school salaries Waterbury led Hartford slightly. The average in Waterbury was $2,247.50, while in Hartford it was $2,237.64. New Britain was slightly below Hartford in elementary school salaries. Rockville was lowest in both elementary and secondary school salaries. The average salary for the former group was $1,149.19 and for the latter $1,477.27.

In the second group of towns Greenwich paid the highest average salary in both classes of schools. The average salary for elementary school teachers there was $1,602 and for high school teachers $2,071.97. Groton paid the least to elementary teachers, the average being $861.30, while Stonington paid the least to its high school teachers, who received an average salary of $1,182.28 last year.

In the third group of towns Farmington paid the highest average elementary school salary, $1,380.56; and Newtown paid the highest high school salary, $1,660. Sprague was at the bottom in elementary school salaries, with an average of $1,001.92. Madison paid the least to high school teachers, with an average of $1,250.

In the group of state aid towns Saybrook led in elementary school salaries, with an average of $1,415.46. Old Lyme led among high schools, with an average of $2,000. Stonington brought up the rear among elementary schools, with an average of $670.57; while Woodstock was in like position among high schools, the average being $1,332.33.

DIVORCE FOR CRUELTY TO STONINGTON WOMAN

On grounds of intolerable cruelty, Mrs. Mabel Ostman of Stonington was granted a divorce from Frederick J. Ostman, of Stonington, by Judge L. P. Waldo Marvin in superior court at New London Wednesday. Mrs. Ostman was also given the custody of a daughter, Mabel Louise Ostman. The couple were married June 10, 1919, and the alleged acts of cruelty began on January 1, 1920.

Meeting of Primary Council

At the monthly meeting of the primary council held in Broadway school Tuesday evening, Miss Grace M. Sistare, principal of Jeannette school, New London, gave an interesting talk about the work done in their opportunity school for backward and delinquent children. She spoke of many children they had saved from the State Reform school by getting them to attend these classes. Very interesting hand work, such as sewing, weaving, wooden toys, hand brushes and artificial flowers gave an idea of the kinds of work accomplished.

It was announced that at the next meeting elections for the coming year would take place. A nominating committee was elected.

INCIDENTS IN SOCIETY

Mrs. Frank S. Bunnell and Mrs. Carl W. Brown have been in Boston during the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Greene of Boston have returned, after a week-end visit with Mr. and Mrs. John F. Rogers of Washington street.

Malcolm Austin, a student at Choate school, Wallingford, is at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Willis Austin, during the spring vacation.

Norwich members of the Colonial Dames have been notified that the meeting of the board of managers of the Connecticut Society of Colonial Dames is to be held Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Henry Laurens, 163 Prospect street, New Haven.

CONVENTION REPORTS FOR FAITH TRUMBULL MEETING

With the regent, Mrs. George A. Ashbey, presiding, the April meeting of Faith Trumbull chapter, D. A. R., was held Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the Community House. The meeting opened with the singing of America, Miss Annie E. Vaughn at the piano, the repeating of the Lord's Prayer and the salute to the flag. Reports of officers and committees were read and accepted and there were also reports from the 31st annual state conference held in New Haven last week. Among those who attended the conference from this city were Mrs. George A. Ashbey, Mrs. Herbert W. Gallup, Miss Susan Gallup, Mrs. George Ingalls and Mrs. Channing Huntington.

Mrs. Herbert W. Gallup gave the report for the Thursday afternoon session. She said that when the reports of state committees were given, the reports on patriotic instruction, better films, correct use of the flag, international relations and magazines were very interesting. During the session a resolution was adopted, which expressed confidence, trust, loyalty and respect toward President Calvin Coolidge, from the Daughters of the American Revolution of the state of Connecticut convened in the 21st congress. This resolution was sent to President Coolidge. The following day a telegram was received from the president thanking the Daughters for their trust and loyalty. Miss Susan Gallup gave a most interesting report of a pageant given in the evening of March 27 called Episodes, from Glimpses of Our Country's History.

An interesting report of the Friday session of the conference was given by Mrs. Ingalls. She said there were reports from state officers, a report from the Children of the American Revolution and the election of state officers. The speaker for that afternoon was Miss Mary Louise Pardee, ex-regent of Mary Clapp Wooster chapter of New Haven and chairman of the Ellis Island Immigrant aid committee.

After the reports of the state conference there was an excellent programme of music. Mrs. Henry T. Church sang Thou Wondrous Youth (Franz Abt); I Bring My Roses (Carfe); Roses in June (Edward Germon); Smiling Through (Arthur Train). Also Mrs. Henry Church and Mrs. William Crowe sang two duets. The accompanist was Miss Louise Fuller.

A social hour followed the programme and tea, sandwiches and wafers were served. The hostesses for the afternoon were Mrs. Herbert W. Gallup, Mrs. L. O. Smith, Mrs. Orrin S. Leffingwell, Mrs. Avery Gallup, Miss Hattie Carter, Miss Barbara Allen, Mrs. Helen Zabriskie, Mrs. William G. Park and Miss Anne Browne.

MRS. GUSTAVE GEDULDIG REACHES 92nd BIRTHDAY

Mrs. Gustave Geduldig of Cedar street celebrated her 92nd birthday Wednesday, a number of her friends calling during the day or sending presents and remembrances. Mrs. Geduldig is in fine health and takes pleasure in keeping in touch with present day happenings. Her friends wish her many more such happy birthdays.

Gilbert Osgood Webb

After a long illness the life of Gilbert Osgood Webb came to a close Wednesday at his home in Norwich Town. He was born in this city the son of J. Theodore Webb and Lillie Morgan Osgood. He attended local school and was a graduate of the Norwich Free Academy after which he attended Yale university. He was also a member of Christ Episcopal church.

Surviving him are his mother, Mrs. J. Theodore Webb and two aunts, the Misses Mary and Martha Osgood, all of this city.

Mrs. Dan C. Russ

The death of Mary Beach Russ, widow of Dan C. Russ, occurred early this (Thursday) morning at her home 280 West Main street, following a brief illness, having been taken sick with grip last Wednesday from which pneumonia developed.

Mrs. Russ was born in Troy, N. Y., Jan. 16, 1852 and later moved to Hardville, this state, where she was married to Dan C. Russ of Chaplin. For the last 45 years her home had been in this city. She was an active member of Trinity Methodist Episcopal church and an earnest worker in the Ladies' Aid society. A devoted mother to her family and a kindly and helpful neighbor and friend, her death will bring heavy bereavement to her children and deep sorrow to many loving friends.

She leaves three sons and a daughter, Howard C. Russ of New York, Arthur F. Russ of New London, Mrs. George E. Prentice of Danielson, and Edgar B. Russ, residing with his mother. She also leaves a brother, John H. Beach of Guilford, and a sister, Miss Elizabeth A. Beach of this city.

Martin Kremskie

After an illness of some time Martin Kremskie died Wednesday afternoon at 4.30 o'clock at his home at 47 Lorenzo street.

Mr. Kremskie was born in Poland about 70 years ago but had made his home in this country for about 50 years. He was employed by the J. B. Martin company in the mills at Taftville. About 30 years ago in St. Patrick's church, this city, he was united in marriage with Mrs. Mary Ilvan who survives him with four children, Joseph and Stanislaus Kremskie of New York, Mrs. Julia Rodeside of New London and William Kremskie of New London. There are also several grandchildren.

Mr. Kremskie was a man of kind and loving disposition and took great interest in his home.

The schools at West Mystic are having their spring vacation.

GAVE INSTRUCTIVE LECTURE ON VALUE OF BIRDS

Over five hundred people attended the annual meeting and entertainment of the Norwich Fish and Game association held Wednesday evening at the town hall, where they enjoyed one of the finest illustrated lectures on bird life ever shown in this city.

The lecture was by Wilbur F. Smith of South Norwalk, who was game warden for Litchfield county for 16 years, and was under the auspices of the State Board of Fisheries and Game. The lecture dealt with the Economic Value of Birds showing their life, history, habits and the reasons why the birds should be protected.

The welcoming address was made by William W. Ives, secretary of the Norwich Fish and Game association, who said that the meeting had been planned by the association to assist in the protection of song birds and game birds, and to enlist the people of Norwich in the fight to give the birds proper protection and see that all laws were enforced.

Starting his lecture Mr. Smith said that Connecticut ranked second to none in the beauty of nature, the streams, lakes and ponds within its borders being as beautiful as those in other states. The lecture started with the showing of song birds, the robins, thrush and others, all of which are protected and which save thobsands of dollars yearly by killing insects and other small life that kill trees, plants and produce. Speaking of the woodpecker, Mr. Smith said that this bird annually saved hundreds of trees while seagulls pick up refuse and dead things from the waters all along the coast. The small owls, said Mr. Smith, should be protected by everyone and the state laws enforced for these birds kill mice. One small owl in one winter killed 40 field mice, 16 pine mice, 1 sparrow and numerous destructive animals. The only owl not protected by law is the great horned owl which sometimes comes down from the north when snows prevent their getting their meals in their native haunts.

After describing the habits of birds that nest on the ground Mr. Smith said that brus hfires annually destroy many of these birds, many eggs being burned. Hunters and bird lovers should take care that fires are not started in woods, for this precaution would tend to increase the numbers of game birds in the state several hundred every year.

Speaking of golden plover, Mr. Smith said these birds were most remarkable for the distance they would travel each year. Leaving their home near the north pole these birds fly down over Labrador out over the Atlantic Ocean. If a strong west wind sets in they are blown onto the mainland. Otherwise these birds fly southward until they reach South America and end their journey in Argentina. Later in the year they start north going up over Mexico and Central America, over Canada until they get back to their native haunts, the most remarkable flights any birds take yearly.

Mr. Smith then told of the fight against people who wilfully take the lives of song birds and birds protected by law. The Italians, he said, are the worst offenders. These people plead they do not know the law but this is not true, for they are wise and it is difficult to catch them. House cats, boys with stones, sling shots, air rifles and guns are the next worst offenders.

In closing Mr. Smith requested that people leave the small birds alone when found alone on the ground. If you take them away, he said, the parent birds do not know how to find them, but the small bird you think is lost, is not lost for the parent birds are watching it and will feed it until it can care for itself. Do not go near the nests of birds, said Mr. Smith, and when you find eggs in them do not spread the story for if you go near them too often the mother deserts the nest and the eggs are not hatched.

Mr. Smith also requested that people feed birds in the winter and clear ground that the ground feeding birds may live. He also told of Boy Scout work in the western part of the state, how they go out during the winter to clear snow from beneath stumps and rocks and leave feed for the birds. This practice, he said, will save the lives of hundreds of birds each year, and if people become interested in saving birds they will not stand for the ruthless killing of song birds, or game birds out of season.

Following the entertainment the annual meeting was called to order by President Arthur E. Story. Secretary and Treasurer William W. Ives read his report, showing that during the past year the association has placed over 12,000 fingerling trout in streams in New London County, put bass, perch, pickerel and bullheads in ponds and lakes, and released over 225 pheasants in neighboring woodlands. He promised that more trout would be put out this year and that birds and fish could be secured by the association if members requested them. Secretary Ives also reported the membership, paid up, in the association was 333.

At this point in the meeting all members were requested to stand while Secretary Ives read a tribute in memory of Joseph L. Oat, a charter member of the association and vice president from the year of its organization. Ever a helpful member, said Secretary Ives, Mr. Oat rendered great aid to the association in its work of distributing fish and game, and in his death the association has lost a most valued member.

The report ended with a summary of receipts and expenditures for the year showing a balance on hand April 1st of $166.14.

Election of Officers

The election of officers followed the report of the nominating committee, the officers for the year 1924 to be, President, Arthur E. Story; vice president, Louis J. Ortmann; directors, Warren N. Church, James A. Bidwell, John M. Swahn and William LaRochelle; secretary and treasurer, William W. Ives.

Committees were appointed as follows: Outing committee, Edward Underwood, Kenneth W. Fox, E. Louis Young, Lewis Oat, Harmon J. Gibbs, Gus Paradis and John B. Oat; prize and casting committee, William W. Ives, George Dolbeare, Archibald Mitchell and L. M. Young; committee on game, William LaRochelle; committee on fish, William W. Ives.

A summary of the business transacted is as follows: Voted that the salary of the secretary of the association be $50 annually; that a vote of thanks be given Game Warden Robert Chappell for his assistance during the past year, and that the annual banquet of the association be held in 1924.

George Dolbeare, Judge Nelson J. Ayling and William W. Ives reported that the officials of the park board would be pleased to cooperate with the association in arranging for a casting platform at Mohegan park. Mr. Dolbeare offered to assist members wishing to learn bait and fly casting and offered the use of targets and floats.

It was also announced that the Norwich Golf club would be pleased to allow members of the association use of the trap shooting galleries at the club, the shoots taking place Saturday afternoons from 2.30 until 4.30 o'clock.

It was also announced that members willing to sow seeds for feed for game birds would be supplied by the association before May 1st, the month in which the seeds should be sown.

After extending a rising vote of thanks to Mr. Smith for his lecture the meeting adjourned and members and friends enjoyed light refreshments served by the outing committee.

The meeting was one of the best attended in the history of the Norwich association and a number of new members were admitted. It is expected that the work of the association will bring about great interest in protection of animal life in New London county and a large membership gain is anticipated during the year.

NERVOUS, RUN-DOWN MOTHERS

Worn Out Caring for Children and Housework—See how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helps

Indianapolis, Indiana.—"I was in a very nervous and run-down condition while nursing my baby, and hearing some talk of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I began taking it. From the second bottle I noticed a big improvement, and I am still taking it. I am not a bit nervous now, and feel like a different person. It is a great medicine for any one in a nervous, run-down condition and I would be glad to give any one advice about taking it. I think there is no better medicine and give you permission to publish this letter."—Mrs. ANNA SMITH, 541 W. Norwood St., Indianapolis, Indiana.

The important thing about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is that it does help women suffering from the ailments common to their sex.

If you are nervous and run-down and have pains in your lower parts and in your back, remember that the Vegetable Compound has relieved other women having the same symptoms. For sale by druggists everywhere.

SPEAKERS SHOW WORK HADASSAH IS DOING

A well attended meeting of Norwich chapter of Hadassah was held Wednesday evening at Roseland on Market street with addresses by Dr. George Cohen of Hartford and Dr. Charles W. Solomon of this city as features of the programme.

After the meeting had been called to order by the president, Mrs. J. N. Rosenberg, the annual report of the secretary was read by Miss Anna Sadinsky.

Dr. Solomon spoke of the work done locally by the Hadassah and of the remarkable cooperation that it had received from the other organizations.

Dr. Cohen was heard with pleasure as he spoke of work done in Palestine, where, he said, there was an obligation upon the Hebrew people to prove to the world that they could restore the land for which they had been hoping and praying for years and which was now placed in their hands by the mandate that had been granted. The part that the men can do will be to supply the funds that will be needed, but the women are to be nurses to the land and to the people. As nurses to the land they can work to abolish the disease areas that are a blot on Palestine and as nurses to the people they can push forward the hospitalization work in which already they have done so much. Dr. Cohen spoke of one hospital that has been founded and is supported by Nathan Strauss in consequence of what he saw the Hadassah had been doing there. The speaker held before the Hadassah of once again making Palestine deserve the Biblical description of a land flowing with milk and honey.

Refreshments were served by the Hadassah committee at the close of the meeting.

CHESTER J. BUSHNELL IS NEW DOG WARDEN

To succeed Frank L. Tuttle who has resigned as dog warden, the selectmen on Wednesday appointed Chester J. Bushnell of Sunnyside avenue as dog warden and special constable. The appointment is for one year, the appointee taking office at once.

Mr. Tuttle has held the office for six years and has proved a conscientious official.

Pretty, Wavy, Curling Hair Without Hot Iron

Here's a simple method which is a favorite of the belles of a certain exclusive social set. It will give your hair such a beautiful wave and lustre, and permit you to do away with the ruinous wave iron forever. Just get from any druggist a few ounces of pure liquid silmerine, and apply a little with a clean tooth brush just before doing up the hair. This will give you a real surprise. The fascinating pretty, wavy effect will appear so natural and there will be no greasy, gummy, streaky, or other unpleasant trace of this harmless liquid. You can exercise for hours in the gymnasium, dance all evening in a heated ball room or take a long motor trip, without fear of your hair losing its curl—indeed you won't need to again use silmerine for a considerable time.

BILL TERRY MAY BECOME GIANT FIRST SACKER IN PLACE OF KELLEY

New York, April 2.—The possibility that Bill Terry, whose sensational play has been one of the few encouraging spots so far this spring on the surface of Giant hopes, may replace the veteran George Kelly at first base looms in reports from the camp of the National league champions.

Terry, who came from Toledo, is characterized by Manager John McGraw as "the sweetest-looking batter I ever saw step up to the plate" and, coupled with reports that Kelly is off form, observers see prospects of another switch in the club's inner defense.

McGraw frankly admits that his team has not shown up well so far in the south. Hugh McQuillan, he says, is the only pitcher in first class condition, while Frank Frisch and Ross Young also are hitting far below their usual form.

"Our showing this year depends chiefly on the pitchers," he says. "McQuillan is the best now, but Jack Bentley, the big southpaw, has reported weighing 21 pounds less than he did a year ago and should do great. Ryan has had a sore arm and Nehf is starting slowly. But I have high hopes for several youngsters. Maun, the Wichita, Kas., boy, looks very good and so does Howard Baldwin, who came from Newark."

McGraw's real finds, however, in his belief, are Terry, Wilson, a Virginia league outfielder, and Lindstrom, semi-pro infielder, who may step into the breach at third base if Heinie Groh is not in condition to start.

PITTSBURGH BEATS BOSTON IN LAST-MINUTE RALLY

Pittsburgh, Pa., April 2. — Scoring the winning goal in the last minute of play, Pittsburgh defeated the Boston A. A. 2 to 1 tonight in the fourth game of the championship series of the United States Amateur Hockey association. Boston made its goal in the first period.

After Small had made the Boston goal in the first six minutes of play, the eastern champions played a defensive game throughout and checked the attack of the western titleholders until the third period. McKinnon tied the score for Pittsburgh in that period and the game had but 31 seconds to go when McCurry sent through the winning goal.

Tonight's victory gave Pittsburgh three games to one for Boston. The title goes to the team first winning four games. The fifth game is scheduled Friday night with another Saturday if necessary.

MEBS TAKE LISTLESS GAME FROM S. & E. TEAM

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, April 2.—The Mebs quintet took a listless contest from the New London Ship and Engine five Wednesday night on the Y. M. C. A. court. The victors of the Y. M. C. A. House league administered a 36 to 16 defeat to the winners of the Industrial league.

It was not a play off game for the city championship as was previously announced. Representatives of both the Submarine Base and the Headquarters battery, winners of the Military league failed to put in an appearance at the scheduled time and the Mebs-New London Ship and Engine game which was already advertised was played. It was in the nature of a practice game for the Dusty league victors in preparation for their entering the industrial tournament at New Haven Saturday.

The winners of the house league gained an easy victory. It took this team a short time to get into winning form and once it did the New London Ship and Engine players had nary a chance. The passing of the Mebs was at all times superior to the ship workers. They used three men in working the ball down the court. One at each side of the line and the other at the center of the floor. This system of passing was successful from the very start. The Ship and Engine team could do very little in breaking it up. Short and snappy passes were used by the winners of the House league and very few baskets were lung up by this team that were made from outside of the foul goal area.

The New London Ship and Engine on the other hand relied mostly on long distance baskets. Several of these were hung up by the Diesel workers, but the majority were missed. The defense of this team was ragged at times and it was an easy matter for the Mebs forward and center to sift through for scores. All in all the members of the team from across the river were too intent on making baskets and paid little attention to team work. They will have to improve in their play if they expect to make any headway at the tournament at New Haven.

McDougal, Sistare and Prince proved to be the harbinger to the destruction of the Ship and Engine five. Their playing at all times was highly commendable. Prince especially was a strong link in the defense system of the Mebs and much credit for keeping the score of the Ship and Engine team down was due to his excellent guarding. He intercepted pass after pass and in general was a thorn in the side of the Ship and Engine players. Linkletter also played hard.

Risch and Craig were the best for the Ship and Engine. Some of the other Ship and Engine players should emulate Craig's mode of play.

The lineup and summary:

| Mebs | G | F | Pts. |
|---|---|---|---|
| McDougal, rf | 5 | 2 | 12 |
| Fred, lf | 1 | 1 | 3 |
| Linkletter, lf | 4 | 1 | 9 |
| Sistare, c | 6 | 0 | 12 |
| Lord, rg | 0 | 0 | 0 |
| Prince, lg | 0 | 0 | 0 |
| Totals | 16 | 4 | 36 |

| New London Ship and Engine | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Risch, rf | 4 | 0 | 8 |
| Craig, lf | 2 | 0 | 4 |
| D'Avignon, c | 0 | 2 | 2 |

|---|---|---|
| Mebs | 19 | 17—36 |
| Ship and Engine | 8 | 10—18 |

COACHES OFFER SERVICES TO OLYMPIC ATHLETES

New York, April 2.—A general invitation to all candidates for the American Olympic track and field team to come to Philadelphia and train under his wing was issued today through the Olympic committee by Lawson Robertson, Pennsylvania mentor and head track coach of the American team. A similar invitation was issued by Tom Keane, Syracuse coach, to cross-country and middle-distance men, to train in the orange stadium and over the Syracuse hill and dale course, one of the most testing in the country.

Four of America's sprinting hopes are now working out at Franklin field under the watchful eye of Robertson. They include Loren Murchison, Newark A. C. star and national champion; Louis Clarke, Johns Hopkins; Alfred Leconey, former Lafayette star and Harold (Beots) Lever, former Pennsylvania crack. Francis Hussy, sensational New York high school boy is unofficially credited with a mark of 9 3-5 seconds for 100-yards will join the quartet of sprinters at Philadelphia during the Easter vacation.

Similar preliminary work will be undertaken by other members of the Olympic coaching staff in various parts of the country, it was said, including Walter Christie of California, who is head field coach of the team.

LIGHTWEIGHTS SHOWED SPEED LAST EVENING

In the lightweight basketball league games at the Y. M. C. A. on Wednesday evening two good games were played, the "Y" Emps leaning to the Taftville Celtics, 47 to 27, and the Baltic Bantams taking a close game from the Taftville Speedboys, 17 to 11.

The first game was a one-sided affair, the Celtics getting the jump on the Emps at the start and holding the lead throughout. The Celtics played a fast game and were never in danger of being headed. The second game was close and also fast, both teams displaying remarkable defensive work which kept the score down. The Bantams had the edge in shooting for the hoop. The league standing is as follows:

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Celtics | 2 | 0 | 1.000 |
| Battery B Inds. | 1 | 0 | 1.000 |
| Bantams | 1 | 1 | .500 |
| Emps | 0 | 1 | .000 |
| Speedboys | 0 | 1 | .000 |

CLEVELAND APPROVES THE VILLA-TREMAINE BOUT

Cleveland, April 2.—A twelve round decision bout between Pancho Villa, flyweight champion, and Carl Tremaine, Cleveland bantamweight, here April 23 was approved today by the Cleveland boxing commission. No permit for the show will be granted, however, until the full card of four bouts is approved.

The committee also approved ten round bouts between Harry Gordon, New York, and Al Zelmer, Cleveland, lightweights, and two local heavyweights, but refused to sanction a go between Jack Wolfe, Cleveland, and Jack Sharkey, New York, bantams. A suitable opponent for Wolfe is being sought.

It will be the first professional show here in nearly three years.

FILLMORE CLASHES WITH BARBER IN RETURN MATCH

Filled with all kinds of confidence, Roy Fillmore, pride of local bowling fans, will clash with Frank Barber at Danielson tonight in the second match between these two stars in the Eastern Connecticut bowling championship tournament. Fillmore on Tuesday evening took seven of the eleven strings rolled, beating Barber for the first time on the local alleys. As it happens Fillmore has won against Barber every time on Barber's own alleys but has lost to the Danielson bowler in Norwich. Having broken the luck Fillmore feels certain that he can get better than an even break against Barber this evening.

A large delegation will go to Danielson tonight to back the local boy and Danielson fans will be on hand to give the Norwich boys the kind of a welcome that they are looking for.

LARGE NUMBER PREP SCHOOL CREWS IN ROWING CLASSIC

New Haven, April 2.—Yale rowing authorities have received entries from six schools for the annaul Yale interscholastic regatta on the Housatonic river May 10, and expect three more, making the largest number of prep school crews to take part in the event it was learned today. The schools entered are Choate of Wallingford, which has won the regatta for the past three years; Episcopal academy of Overbrook, Pa.; Kent school; New Rochelle, N. Y., high school; Dewitt Clinton high school, New York, and the Lynn, Mass., English high school. The Culver Military academy, the Pomfret school and Exeter are expected to be represented. May 10 is date scheduled for the race between Pomfret and Exeter and Yale is confident that the crews can be brought here on that day.

Yale crews held their regatta practice yesterday despite the blizzard. The oarsmen ran into the storm during their eight mil reow, returning to the boat house covered with snow.

M'TIGUE INJURED ARM IN BOUT WITH STRIBLING

New York, April 2.—Mike McTigue, world's light heavyweight champion, is suffering from an injured left hand and arm as a result of his match Monday night with Young Stribling, Georgia schoolboy, at Newark, it became known today.

McTigue's arm is swollen twice its normal size and there is evidence of a possible fracture of the hand, according to Dr. S. L. Meylackson, who examined the titleholder. According to Paddy Mullins, manager of McTigue, the injury occurred in the sixth round of the bout, in which Stribling was a decisive victor.

Dr. Meylackson, however, said he could not determine the exact extent of injury until he had taken an x-ray.

McTigue injured the same hand prior to his fight with Stribling at Columbus, Ga., last October and fought that battle, he claimed, under the handicap of a slight fracture.

HIGH SCHOOL TOURNEY STARTS TODAY

Glens Falls, N. Y., April 2.—The fifth annual scholastic basketball tournament for the open championship of New York and New England will open tomorrow night in the armory here under the auspices of the Glens Falls Basketball association. Eight clubs will compete during the three nights for team trophies and individual prizes.

Tomorrow night's program will bring together St. Joseph high school, Pittsfield, Mass., and Drury high school, North Adams, Mass.; Hanover, (N. H.) high school and Morrisville, (N. Y.) Aggies; Glens Falls high school and St. Mary's Academy for the local city championship; Hamilton (N. Y.) high school and Suffield, (Conn.) prep. The officials will be George Tilden, Schenectady and Don C. Risley, Utica.

COLD WEATHER PREVENTS ACADEMY BASEBALL PRACTICE

The snow, ice, rain and cold weather has spiked the aspirations of the Academy baseball squad to get early outdoor practice. The local high school boys were slated to hit the dirt on the campus last Monday but the chill breeze curtailed the work and since then there has been no chance.

Coach Brigham has had the battery candidates at work in the cage at the Y. M. C. A. gym for several weeks and the throwing arms of the hurlers are limbering up fast. There is plenty of new mound material with Ellis Seigel, Steinman and Johnny Fellows, veterans of last year, as the mainstays. The other positions in the infield and outfield are doubtful but there is much promising timber that is expected to report when the call comes for outdoor work.

YALE AND COLUMBIA NOT TO PLAY OFF FOLO TIE

New York, April 2.—Columbia and Yale will not play off their tie for the intercollegiate water polo championship, brought about last Saturday by Columbia's sensational victory over the Elis in the play-off of a game protested by Yale.

This was decided today when Columbia faculty authorities ruled that, since the season already had been unduly prolonged, another game would not be for the best interests of the players.

Each team had won seven games and lost one in the League competition, which also involved Princeton, City College of New York and Pennsylvania.

500 COLLEGES REPRESENTED IN PENN RELAY CARNIVAL

Philadelphia, April 2.—Team entries for the great Pennsylvania relay carnival on April 25 and 26 closed today with a total of exactly 500 colleges and schools on the list. This is 75 more than last year and breaks all previous records.

The college list totals 113 and is the most representative in the history of the meet. An international flavor will be given the meet by the presence of teams from Cambridge university, England; Edinburgh university, Scotland; University of Havana, Cuba, and several Canadian institutions.

BERLENBACH HAS SEVERAL BOUTS SLATED IN FUTURE

New York, April 2.—Paul Berlenbach, New York middleweight sensation who has begun a comeback following his recent knockout in the hands of Jack Delaney, has signed for fights during the next few weeks at Buffalo, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia and Waterbury, Conn., in addition to appearing in an Olympic fund benefit here.

Wasserman Wins Trophy

Hamilton, N. Y., April 2.—The "scalp and blade" trophy, presented each year to the member of the Colgate varsity basketball team who has given the most distinctive service, has been awarded this year to Captain Richard Wasserman of Jersey City, according to an announcement today.

MORIN TO BOWL DODGE AT TAFTVILLE TONIGHT

Tonight at the Olympic alleys in Taftville there will be a bowling match that will have no small bearing on the Eastern Connecticut championship. This will be the match between Mike Morin of Taftville and Bill Dodge of Willimantic. Dodge is an unknown quantity in bowling circles in this neck of the woods and his performance against Morin will be watched with interest. He is a new entrant in the Eastern Connecticut bowling tourney, taking the place of McKenzie who dropped out at the last minute. He has a reputation of being a strong tournament bowler and will make the veterans in the tournament step to hold their places.

Dugas will roll against Dodge at Willimantic on Friday evening in the second match of the week.

COLLEGE SWORDSMEN TO COMPETE AT NEW YORK

New York, April 2.—Representatives of nine institutions will participate tomorrow and Friday at the Hotel Astor in the annual intercollegiate fencing championships.

Swordsmen of Yale, Harvard, Pennsylvania, Columbia, Hamilton and the Naval and Military academies will seek both individual and team titles, while Dartmouth and M. I. T. will be represented only in the quest for individual honors. Cornell, the only other member of the college fencing association, failed to qualify for either event.

STEVENS AWARDED PUNTING CUP AT YALE

New Haven, April 2.—Marvin A. Stevens, '25, of Osborne, Kas., has been awarded the Ledyard Mitchell cup, offered by members of the Yale class of 1904 for proficiency in punting it was announced today. Stevens was halfback on Yale's championship football team last fall.

In awarding the prize distance, height, speed in getting kicks away and the handling of the ball were taken into consideration. The cup is given in honor of Ledyard Mitchell of Detroit, one of the best punters in Yale's football annals, and is awarded annually.

TILDEN WINS WAY TO TENNIS FINALS

Augusta, Ga., April 2.—William Tilden, II, of Philadelphia, won his way to the finals of the south Atlantic states tennis tournament on the Country club courts here this afternoon by defeating Cedric A. Major, of New York, three straight sets in the semi-finals, 6-3, 6-0, 6-1.

He will play the winner of the Lawrence Rice-A. H. Chapin, jr., match which will be played tomorrow afternoon, for the championship on Friday.

CHAS. E. ROBINSON, OLD TIME BALL PLAYER, IS DEAD

Syracuse, N. Y., April 2.—Charles E. Robinson, 67, one of the most famous baseball catchers of the barehanded days of the "eighties" both with Cincinnati and Syracuse, is dead at his home here and funeral services will be conducted Thursday.

Robinson was a "big time" catcher for 15 years and quit the game in 1893 with both of his hands battered out of all resemblance of their original shape.

Bogash Gets Decision.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., April 2.—Lou Bogash of Bridgeport, Conn., won the decision here tonight over George West of New York, formerly of England, in a fast ten round fight. Bogash was too strong for West, displaying a great right hand punch, one of which knocked West down in the fourth, the bell stopping the count.

Manager Fred Lariviere of the Wood alleys, Willimantic, is to donate the proceeds of the receipts taken at the alleys Wednesday night toward the baseball fund of the American Thread Athletic association which is taking the lead in financing a baseball team for Willimantic during the coming

SPORT WORLD BRIEFS

Charles Dorman, who a few years ago was with the Chicago White Sox as a catcher, has ambitions to be a policeman or fireman in San Francisco. He recently took examinations for each branch of the safety department.

Lee Cronin, a left-handed pitcher from San Francisco; Roy Percival of Stockton, an outfielder; Earl Swift of Bellingham, a shortstop, and Clarence Hutchinson, another outfielder, have been set adrift by the San Francisco Club.

Harry Topel, former star athlete of Central High school, Rochester, has signed with the Scranton Club of the New York-Pennsylvania League. He filled in at center for Scranton at the tag end of the 1923 season and made a good showing.

Mike Kelley, manager of the Minneapolis Club, has dropped negotiations with the Brooklyn Club. French, a third baseman, whose arm went bad after he joined the Dodgers last year, is a salary holdout.

When Eric Erickson, the pitcher, persistently failed to communicate with Mike Kelley regarding his reasons for not reporting, the Minneapolis manager sent him a telegram. Erickson wired back: "Have best reason in world for not reporting if I am doing you a favor by staying away. Would be mighty glad to report if I was in shape. Will write."

President Hickey of the American Association has nine under contract. The additions are Ted McGrew, formerly of the Pacific Coast League; W. E. Finneran of the National League and Jim Delehanty, the former major league player, Frank Connolly, James Murray, Ollie Chill, J. E. Freeman, Cornelius Daly and John Mullen are the holdovers.

Fulton of the Kitty League is looking for another bang-up team this year and the management has made plans to enlarge the park. A new stand is to be stretched along the west side of the field. Dan Griner will manage the club again this year.

New Haven has sold Pitcher Axel Lindstrom to Nashville of the Southern League. No players were involved in the transaction, it being a straight cash deal. This leaves Johnny Tillman as the only twirler remaining from last season at New Haven.

President Toole of the International League has reappointed his entire staff of nine umpires. They are Harry C. Geisel, Daniel J. McDevitt, William B. Carpenter, John F. McBride, William T. Gaston, Doll Derr, George L. Magerkurth, Gormer James and Roy Van Graflan.

The Western League has passed a rule that no member of any club may pitch, unless he is a regular member of the twirling staff. A fine is provided for violation of the order. It was said outfielders, etc., on several occasions last year went in to pitch with the result that there was a certain feeling of buriesquing among the fans.

Bert H. Ellison has signed as manager of the Enid, Okla., club of the Southwestern League. Ellison has for the last three seasons managed independent clubs in and near Kansas City. Clyde Pulse and Thomas A. Banker are the men behind the Enid Club this year and they propose to to turn out a winner if possible.

The Fort Smith Club of the Western Association will use the Dardanelle Club of the Western Arkansas League, as a farm this summer for youthful hopes, according to Blake Harper, manager of the Twins.

Jack Dempsey, who says he has never punched anybody in his life, has signed with the Durham Club of the Piedmont League. He is a pitcher, who recently was discharged from army service at Fort Bragg, N. C.

The Newark fight promoters expect a record crowd on hand the night of March 31 to witness the light heavyweight championship battle between Mike McTigue and Young Stribling. The ten-round semi-final on the evening's program will be furnished by Paul Berlenbach of Brooklyn and Harry Krohn of Akron.

OIL COMMITTEE TAKES THREE DAY RECESS

Washington, April 2.—The senate oil investigators took another three day recess today after hearing a single witness, George White, former chairman of the democratic national committee.

Called by Senator Spencer, republican, Missouri, White testified that E. L. Doheny had contributed a total of $34,900 to the democratic campaign fund, but that Harry F. Sinclair had made no contributions. White explained that Doheny had given $9,900 during the 1920 campaign and $25,000 in 1921, to help wipe out the deficit resulting from the campaign.

While offering no objection to the examination of White, Senator Walsh, democrat, Montana, the committee prosecutor, made it a matter of record that he regarded the testimony as irrevelent. He told the committee he would support a resolution calling for a general investigation of all campaign contributions, but that he did not think the testimony sought by Senator Spencer was pertinent to the inquiry into the naval oil leases.

Senatoh Spencer took an opposite view, pointing out that contributions by Sinclair and Doheny to th republican campaign fund had been inquired into. Senator Walsh replied that this was revelant, as it would be a natural inference that large contributions by the lessees of the naval leases to the republican war chest might influence the subsequent action of republican officials leasing the re-

After White was excused, Chairman Ladd announced that because of the absence of witnesses and the desire of the committee to give attention to pending legislation, the public hearings would be adjourned until next Monday.

$30,000 PER YEAR FOR FRUIT STANDS AT THE BATTERY

New York, April 2.—Thirty thousnad dollars a year for the privilege of dispensing fruit, candy, soft drinks and tobacco will be paid the city for two small stands at the Battery landing on the harbor front.

Pericles Xenakis, of Brooklyn, the successful bidder at the auction of the concessions today took a three year lease at an annual rental of $12,500 above the sum received by the city last year. The same stands rented in 1920 for $100 a month.

STRIKE HAS ENDED ON CUBAN RAILROADS

Havana, April 2.—The strike of union workers on the Santiago division of the Cuban railroads was ended today and train service was resumed, according to a despatch to La Prenza. No details were given.

WEISMULLER SMASHES 100 YARD SWIMMING RECORD AT N. A. U. MEET

Chicago, April 2. — Johnny Weissmuller of the Illinois A. C. broke the National A. A. U. championship record for the 100 yard free style swim tonight in the National A. A. U. senior indoor swimming championship tournament continued from last night, splashing the distance in 53 4-5 seconds. His old record was 54 seconds.

David L. Jones of Providence, R. I. was second and Harry Lewis of the Brooklyn Y. M. C. A. was third.

John Faricy of the I. A. C. won the 220-yard breast stroke event in 2:5-5, equalling the world's record and bettering the National A. A. U. record of 3:56 3-5 held by Bobby Skelton of the I. A. C. Skelton was second, Faricy winning only by a flap of the hand.

In an exhibition swim, Miss Sybil Bauer of the I. A. C. bettered her orld's record for 200 meters back roke and 220-yard back stroke, doing the former in 3:56 as compared ith her old time of 3:03 4-5 and the tter in 3:37 1-5 as compared to her rmer time of three minutes flat.

PLANS INCREASED PAY FOR POSTAL WORKERS

Washington, April 2.—Postmaster General New presented to President Coolidge today a plan worked out by the postoffice department for readjustment of salaries of postal workers with provision for the increased expenditure to be met in part at least by advances in the postage rate on second and third class mail and in parcel post charges. The plan was submitted as an alternative to the Kelly bill for a flat increase in salaries amounting, according to postmaster department estimates, to $150,000,000 a year.

The plan was laid before the president at a conference attended by Mr. New and Director Lord of the budget. The latter was directed by the president to study the plan to ascertain what portion of the salary readjustment expense would have to be borne out of the general funds of the treasury and what part from the postal revenues.

The postmaster general did not disclose what the annual cost of the readjustment suggested would be or what increases in postage charges on the three classes of mail he had proposed. He announced that there was no suggestion that first class mail rates be increased.

Enactment of some sort of postal employes' salary increase bill has been placed on the house program, by republican leaders and agreed to by the president, who, however, is opposed to a general increase.

ALARMED BY RAPID RISE OF THE FRENCH FRANC

New York, April 2.—After reaching new highs for the year, French and Belgian francs late today reacted on profit taking and the failure of definite information regarding a loan to Belgium to develop.

Selling at 5.06 cents, French francs touched a record 1924 high level, 30 points above the previous closing figure. With large scale speculative activities again influencing the market, the currency failed to hold its strength and yielded half of its early gain. There were indications also that French interests, alarmed by the rapid rise of the franc, above 5 cents, contributed to the decline by selling exchange.

International bankers reported no new developments in negotiations for establishment of a Belgian credit, but intimated that European financial interests had offered to supply limited funds to stabilize the currency. After running up as high as 5.19 1-2 cents, the Belgian franc settled back to around 5 cents, 7 points below yesterday's close. Spanish pesetas dropped about 1-2 cent to 13 cents, and Swiss and Scandinavian exchanges also weakened.

WORK ON U. S. MILITARY CEMETERIES IN EUROPE

Washington, April 2.—Completion of all construction work on the eight American military cemeteries in Europe by May 30, Memorial Day, was forecast in a report received today by Major General W. H. Hart from Quartermaster corps officers overseas in charge of the work.

The reports show that 30,409 American world war dead now rest in the six cemeteries in France and the two in England and Belgium. The last of the dead to be removed to the United States has been returned, the report said, and no other will be returned except in cases where the identity of unknown dead is established and relatives ask shipment of the bodies to them.

Although more than five years have passed since the war ended, the report said, identifications of unknown dead still average two a week and the ultimate number of unknown will be lessened still more by the finding of an occasional isolated grave previously unlocated.

OUTBREAK OF FRESHMEN AT SYRACUSE UNIVERSITY

Syracuse, N. Y., April 2.—Chancellor Charles Wesley Flint, of Syracuse university, has halted his tour of visitation to alumni societies and is on his way home for an investigation of the freshman class outbreak of Monday night when a large group of first year men attacked the home here of William Shaw.

NEW BRITAIN PASTOR WILL BE SPEAKER

The Men's Club of Park Congregational church will have an unusual feature for its open meeting next Monday evening at the church, when both men and women will be welcome to attend and hear Rev. John L. Davis of New Britain will be the speaker.

During the World War Mr. Davis received a commission as capt. in the construction division of the United States Army and spoke to thousands of workmen in the army camps, from New York to Texas, to men, finely blending truth with humor. His messages are as breezy as his disposition, and seem to reflect the long vision of the prairies from whence he came.

Mr. Davis is now pastor of Trinity Methodist church, New Britian, Conn., and leader of the famous. "Everyman's Bible Class" with a membership of over two thousand men, which has been called "the most dramatic movement of the decade in New England". He is also state chaplain of the American Legion, Chaplain of the 76th Division, Officers' Reserve Corps, and a director in the New Britain Chamber of Commerce.

Studebaker Workers Rewarded

South Bend, Ind., Feb. 12—(Special)—White-haired grandfathers, their sons and their grandsons stood shoulder to shoulder at the seventy-first birthday celebration observed the other day by the families of 20,000 employees of the Studebaker Corporation at South Bend and Detroit.

Nearley 3,000 artisans were awarded medals for continous and loyal service of five, ten, twenty and up to sixty years with Studebaker, the oldest automobile manufacturer in the world.

Some Serve 60 Years

More than 2,300 received bronze medals for five or ten years service, 157 were awarded sterling silver medals for fifteen years, and 222 had gold medals pinned upon them for 20 years employment by the House of Studebaker. The last group included those employes who have been with the corporation from 30 to 60 years. They were cheered by their fellow workers as they received the honors.

For seventy-two years the name Studebaker has been linked, not only with every improvement in transportation, but with American industrial development as well.

Since its inception in 1852 as a crossroads blacksmithing and wagon-building shop, Studebaker has expanded to one of the greatest manufacturing institutions in the world, with $90,000,000 of actual net assets, including $60,000,000 of plant facilities and an annual production capacity of 150,000 cars. Studebaker has 2,000 branches and dealers in the United States and is widely represented in all foreign countries.

Branches Out Rapidly

This romance of the American industrial world began when Henry and Clem Studebaker commenced operations in South Bend in 1852 with two forges and a cash capital of $68. They built two wagons their first year, one of which gave satisfactory service for 33 years, a record that indicates the ideals of quality upon which the business was founded.

Three other Studebaker brothers, John M., Peter E., and Jacob F., joined the firm; the first, John M., adding to the assets $8,000 which he had earned repairing wheelbarrows and stage coaches in the busy days of the "gold rush" in California.

The fame of Studebaker vehicles spread rapidly. In 1863 the firm name was changed through incorporation to Studebaker Brothers Manufacturing Company, and a few years later the first branch house was opened at St. Joseph, Mo., to handle the trade of pioneers who were crossing the country in large numbers. The business prospered and expanded accordingly during the following years until Studebaker became the world's producer of horse-drawn vehicles.

Builds "Horseless Vehicle"

It was inevitable, therefore, with the advent of the automobile in the late 90's that the company would become interested in this new method of transportation and its possible bearing upon Studebaker's business future.

LENTEN RECITAL WITH ORGAN AND SOLOIST

A musical treat of unusual interest is scheduled for April 8th, Tuesday afternoon, at 4.45, when the large organ at the new Palace theatre is to be used for the first time in a recital. Under the auspices of the Woman's Guild of the United Congregational church and the co-operation of the Palace theater management this high class Lenten music is brought within reach of the general public.

A discriminating program selected with a view of bringing out the many unusual features of this splendid instrument, has been arranged by Mr. Frederick W. Lester, who is to be the artist on this occasion. Mr. Lester needs no introduction to the musical public of this locality. He is acknowledged to be the finest organist in eastern Connecticut and his recitals are always a popular feature of the musical season.

The soloist on this occasion is to be none other than the well known Norwich singer, Henry La Fontaine. Mr. La Fontaine announces this to be his last public appearance before entering upon a period of intensive musical study, a preparation for concert work, both vocal and instrumental. Only a few years since he made his bow to the Norwich public and his rapid development has astonished those who have kept in touch with his musical career.

First as a pupil of Professor Frank L. Farrell he showed unusual musical talent. Later his ability received the recognition of Rev. W. A. Keese and he has now for several years been the organist and choir director at St. Mary's Memorial church. He is about to proceed with his great ambition of developing his beautiful baritone voice for which he has become most favorably known.

Do not two such outstanding artists, a beautiful new instrument that has not yet been heard in recital and the beautifully appointed auditorium make an appealing symphony in the Lenten season attraction which they offer?

Tickets are 50c, tax free, at the theater box office.

WESTERLY

Fire at Watch Hill, about 9 o'clock Wednesday morning, practically destroyed the $50,000 summer cottage, "Annecrawl", the summer home of Charles H. Johnson, of Washington, D. C., on Browning road. The apparatus of the Watch Hill fire department fought the blaze and help was telephoned for from Westerly. The out-of-district alarm 33 was sounded on the Westerly fire bell and Chief George Egger, of the Westerly department took the Ahrens-Fox pump with a force of men to the Hill, going by way of Ninigret avenue and Ocean View road. Water was pumped out the burning house from 9.36 to nearly 11.30 o'clock. The return to Westerly was not made until noon.

Coast guardsmen reported seeing flashes in the neighborhood of the house early in the morning but nothing was thought about it until the alarm was given soon after 8.30. Chief of the Watch Hill department George Hoxie was ill at his home and the department was under Foreman Nash and H. E. Burdick, of Avondale. The Westerly pump on its arrival enabled the firemen to lay two lines of hose from a small pond at the junction of Browning road with Ocean View avenue and when later it was seen that the small pond was being lowered, two streams of hose were secured from the hydrant at the junction to the pond. The fire apparently started inside the cottage which was unoccupied and the interior of the large house, which has been built nine or ten years and was well furnished in that time, was pretty generally consumed before the blaze was seen breaking out on the outside. Once on the outside the strong wind fanned the flames and it appeared for a time as if the neighboring cottages of Charles E. Sheehan and Wilfred Ward would be burned. The snow which covered the roofs and ground prevented the spread of the flames. It is thought that short circuit of electric wires of a high tension circuit nearby, caused by the high wind, was the reason for the fire. The loss is believed to be covered by insurance but this will not be learned until the arrival of Mr. Johnson, possibly today (Thursday).

A New York newspaper the first of the week, in detailing marine disasters which were occasioned by the heavy gales of a week ago, had an article on the narrow escape from death of the party on board Alex Smith's yacht Cutty Sark, off Cape Hatteras. The yacht was under the command of Captain Isaac P. Gavitt, a Westerly boy, who was born here and attended the public schools in town. Even as a youth Captain Gavitt became experienced in marine affairs when he accompanied his father who commanded the tug Westerly on many of his trips. Captain Gavitt has two brothers who now reside in Westerly, Edward Gavitt and William Gavitt.

The story follows:

Norfolk, Va., March 29.—Alex Smith, of Chicago and New York, and two girls, ten and 12 years old, narrowly escaped death on board the yacht Cutty Sark off Cape Hatteras in a 70-mile gale Tuesday night. The yacht put in at this port yesterday and reported that her first mate, M Berry, of Portland, Me., had been washed overboard by high seas.

The craft was bound to New York from Florida and ran into a gale when off Hatteras. The vessel breasted the storm for thirty hours, and it was when the crew was rigging the vessel and fastening down hatches that a high sea swept over the first mate to his death.

Mr. Smith and the two girls were in their cabin, but the yacht rolled and pitched so heavily that at times they were knocked off their feet.

The yacht is commanded by Capt. I. P. Gavitt and carries a crew of 16. She was formerly the Ariadne. She is 110 feet long, with a beam of 26 feet. The yacht is being repaired here and probably will sail for New York Monday.

The seventh annual banquet and entertainment of the South County Rod and Gun club was held Wednesday evening, at 8 o'clock, at the Majestic hall on Coggswell street, there being nearly a hundred members and guests present.

The following menu was served:

Oysters on the half shell
Dinner Crackers Sweet Pickles
Roast Capon with Dressing
Cranberry Sauce Creamed Onions
String Beans Mashed Potatoes
Parker House Rolls
Strawberry Ice Cream
Assorted Cake Coffee

President Earl Palmer presided. The other officers of the club are: vice president, Fritz Raithel; secretary, George H. Bray; treasurer, H. Russell Burdick. The banquet committee consisted of George A. Dolan, chairman; Charles A. Morgan, Dr. Thomas E. Robinson, H. Russell Burdick and Farquhar Smith. Active committees of the club are, the conservation committee, George A. Dolan, Robert E. Cole and Farquhar Smith; contest committee, Alfred H. Chapman, chairman.

Congressman Clark Burdick of Newport, representative from the Rhode Island district, and Rhode Island Fish Commissioner Hugh A. Baker, also of Newport, were brief speakers, as was also Rhode Island Shell Fish Commissioner Dr. Milton A. Duckworth.

Following the banquet those present were entertained with musical, vocal and instrumental—numbers and dancing, by Miss Elisabeth Otto and Miss "Ginger" Gordon of Boston.

Jessie R. Walker, 33, wife of Benjamin A. Peabody, Jr., of Pawcatuck, died at her home on East Lincoln avenue, Wednesday noon. Mrs. Peabody was born in Niantic, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Walker and when a child came to Westerly to make her home. She attended the public schools of Westerly. For ten years she was in the employ of the F. H. Ople store. She became the wife of Benjamin Peabody and took up her residence in Pawcatuck. They have one child, Benjamin Arnold Peabody. Mrs. Peabody became afflicted with tuberculosis and a little over two years ago went to the Norwich State sanatorium for treatment. Last November she returned to her home on the West Side, gradually failing in health. Besides her son she is survived by her mother, Mrs. C. H. Brown, four sisters, Mrs. James Tough, Mrs. Margaret Sylvia and Miss Helen Walker, of Westerly, and Mrs. A. H. Chesebro of Jamestown, R. I., and by a brother, Charles Walker, of Westerly.

LAFOLLETTE AND SMITH LEADING IN WISCONSIN

Milwaukee, Wis., April 2.—(By the A. P.)—Delegates-at-large pledged to Senator Robert M. La Follette at the republican national convention and to Governor Al Smith of New York, at the democratic national convention, continued to increase their leads as additional precincts were tabulated here tonight.

With slightly more than one thousand precincts out of the 3,374 in the state, reported, Senator La Follette had a majority of nearly 75,000 over the delegates-at-large who ran under the banner of President Coolidge. One-thousand and eleven precincts in this contest gave LaFollette delegates 133,980; Coolidge delegates 94,636.

Early tonight Smith delegates had a majority over the McAdoo delegates at large of 12,860, with approximately one-third of the precincts in the state heard from. In 835 out of 2,674 precincts in the Wisconsin this vote stood: Smith delegates-at-large 38,433; McAdoo delegates at large 20,533.

In the presidential preferential between Mr. McAdoo and Senator James A. Reed of Missouri, which was merely an expression of public opinion and not binding in any way, upon the state delegation, McAdoo was leading by a good margin, although little interest was manifested in the state and the vote was exceptionally light. Returns from 516 precincts out of 2,574 gave McAdoo 17,794; Reed 5,604.

With less than one-half of the state's precincts reported tonight, the district delegates contests show La Follette leading and probably a winner in eight districts and Coolidge leading and probably a winner in one or two other districts where the returns are too meagre to indicate a trend one way or the other.

If the remainder of the returns do not upset these district figures, La Follette will probably have 16 district delegates and seven delegates-at-large to the republican convention; Coolidge will have two district delegates and four delegates are in doubt.

In the democratic district contests, Smith is leading in the first six districts, with returns for the seventh, eighth, ninth, tenth and eleventh districts so few that they indicated nothing.

ANOTHER SUSPECT HELD FOR THE BAUER MURDER

New York, April 2.—Jacob Hopiak was arrested at Stapleton, S. I., today on a charge of illegally possessing a pistol, and the police said they would question him in connection with th emurder of Mrs. Maude Bauer last week.

Although the police protess to have no information that Hopiak was near the scene of the murder when it occurred, they sought to question him concerning the .25 calibre pistol which they declared he had when arrested. It was a weapon of similar calibre that fired the fatal shots. Hopiak denied all knowledge of the murder.

Hopiak, detectives asserted, also owns a sedan of the type known to have been driven by the man who murdered Mrs. Bauer in the Chelsea section of Port Richmond after persuading her to ride with him on the pretext that he would assist her in getting help to remove her own machine from a sand bank.

The pistol, fully loaded, was found in Hopiak's home, the police said, and he had no pistol license.

STUDEBAKER LIGHT-SIX TOURING CAR

Mark This Example of what Studebaker alone can do

STUDEBAKER is the world's largest maker of quality cars. Our assets are $90,000,000. We have $50,000,000 in model plants.

Our sales have almost trebled in three years, because of our matchless values. Last year, 145,167 people paid $201,000,000 for Studebaker cars.

Come and learn why

Come and see, before you buy a car, the reasons for this success. See this Light-Six Touring Car, for instance.

Built of the finest steels. Of the very same steels we use in the costliest of our cars. On some we pay makers 15% premium to get just the quality specified.

Built under an engineering department which costs us $500,000 yearly.

Each car subjected in the building to 32,000 separate inspections.

Same steels, same workmanship as in the costliest Studebaker models.

Two great features

There are many features in this Light-Six found in no rival car. But we want to mention two in particular.

The motor is perfectly balanced. That means long life and freedom from vibration.

The reason is this: We machine all surfaces of our crankshafts and connecting rods by 81 operations. Just as was done in Liberty Airplane Motors. This is done in no other car at our prices.

Then we use more Timken bearings in this car than are used in any competitive car within $1,500 of our price. And Timken bearings take up wear as no other bearings do.

Why this price?

This Light-Six Touring Car is priced at $1,045. Built under ordinary conditions such a car would cost you from $200 to $400 more.

But we build 150,000 cars per year. We make our own parts. We build our own bodies in $10,000,000 body plants. We have 12,500 up-to-date machines. Our major costs are divided by enormous output.

The result is a value no other maker even tries to match in a fine car of this size. Come see what it means to you.

Send for the Book

Mail us the coupon below. We will send you free our new book that will inform you on five simple things which reveal the value of a car. For instance—

It will enable you to look at any car and tell whether it's been cheapened to meet a price or offers true quality.

It will tell you why some cars rattle at 20,000 miles and others don't. It shows one single point in a closed car which measures whether you're getting top or medium quality. The book is free. Clip the coupon now.

How It Excels

Steels are identical with the steels in the costliest car we make.
More Timken bearings than in any competitive car within $1,500 of its price.
Genuine leather cushions, 10 inches deep. Curled hair filling.
All-steel body.
One-piece windshield—rainproof.
Attractive cowl lights.
Quick-action cowl ventilator.
Non-skid cord tires.
Transmission and ignition locks.
Perfect motor balance.
The supreme car of its class.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

BREED THEATRE

Situations of the romantic power found in Alias The Night Wind, William Russell's latest William Fox vehicle, are not to be found outside of the early Elizabeth classics. This production is the feature attraction at the Breed theatre today and is a modern Arabian Nights story laid in a great American Metropolis.

Bing Howard, the hero, is a stalwart young stock and bond broker who becomes involved in scandal following the theft of $100,000 in bonds. As a result of the calumnious evidance "framed" on him by an unscrupulous detective, he is forced to flee.

Shadowed and hounded, his life as uncertain as tomorrow's sun and his days as harrassed as the police could make them, he suddenly meets the girl. Fleeing from the police one night he boards a taxi which he believes is vacant. To his astonishment he finds it occupied by a pretty girl who politely permits him to alight far from his pursuers. The next time finds that she is a detective, therefore, to one in his position, an enemy. The story is brought to a dramatic climax with love winning the honors.

Shirley Mason in South Sea Love, the Fox news and a scenic make up the remainder of the bill.

AT THE PALACE

Twin Beds at the Palace last night brought down the house. It was a scream from beginning to end. Each night the Champlin company present a different play and each play gets better and better. Mr. Champlin and his company have always been big favorites in Norwich but this season he has gone far ahead of any previous effort in bringing to this town the best stock company ever seen here. In fact the performances given this week are much better than many of the $2.50 shows that tour the country. This afternoon and tonight they present Why Women Divorce. It is a thrilling melodrama in five acts. This play ran all last season in New York at the Nora Baye's theatre where it was pronounced by the New York critics to be the greatest super melodrama of the year. It is a play with very exciting situations and scenes. It is intense throughout and keeps you on edge every minute. It has a big surprise at the last moment in the final act that gives the play a twist seldom seen on any stage.

Strand Theatre—Keith Vaudeville

Without question the Norwich theatergoers are convinced that there is no vaudeville like the Keith vaudeville. For the past few weeks there has been nothing but high praise for the attractions playing the Strand and Broadway theatres and the public can rest assured that the show scheduled for the last of this week at the Strand will more than live up to the reputation already established.

Dan Coleman & Co. will present that comedy record breaker and musical farce, "The New Stenog." Mr. Coleman is ably assisted by Alina Sauer and Don Armand.

Yvonne Verlaine and Kathryne Vore in Variety-as-it-Should-Be, is a very likeable team of pretty misses.

Paul Murray and Gladys Gerrish offer a comedy "Studying Stars."

Gene Morgan, that boy from Dixie, offers an abundance of comedy kicks.

The well known novelty entertainers, Russ, LaVan and Peat, complete the vaudeville program.

Mildred Davis, star!

That's the interesting announcement of the Strand theatre this week where the dainty little actress, formerly leading woman for Harold Lloyd, is appearing in a new picture called "Condemned"—one of the cleverest stories of the season, it is declared.

Broadway Theatre

The Allan Dwan Paramount production of "Big Brother," a Rex Beach novel, which will be shown at the Broadway theatre on Sunday next to remain for four days, is supplemented by a cast of worthiness and repute.

Heading the list of popular players, who bring the famous story to the silver sheets is Tom Moore in the role of Jimmy Donovan, the leader of the Car Barn Gang on New York's lower East Side. It is doubtful if Moore ever had a more appropriate role. Edith Roberts, whose recent return to the studios after an illness finds her in greater popularity than ever, plays the feminine lead. Then there is Raymond Hatton, also featured in the role of a dope fiend; Mickey Bennett, the talented seven-year old player, Charles Henderson, Joe King, Paul Panzer, Neil Kelley, William Black, Milton Herman, Florence Ashbrook and Yvonne Hughes play in support.

The elements working against the gang leader, the depth and sincerity of his love for Kitty, the angel of the district, the machinations of Cokey Joe, the dope fiend, and the final triumph of Jimmy Donovan provide sympathetic and convincing entertainment and true testimony of the genius of Mr. Dwan and Mr. Beach.

Balance factor in Success of Balloon Gum-Dipped Cords

"I do not hesitate to say that the car which is running on balloon gum-dipped cords and steam-welded tubes is about as free from vibration and 'shimmy' as any on the road," says Mr. A. F. Senft of A. J. Senft & Son, local Firestone distributor, "for I do not know of another manufacturer who exercises as much accuracy and care in building balanced tires, as Firestone. And it is the lack of this balance which causes much of the high-speed vibration in a car."

"Even a few ounces extra weight at any point in the revolving wheel will develop into a vibration commonly known as 'shimmy' when the car is driven at the higher speeds," continued Mr. Senft. "For example, the valve stem, which weighs but a few ounces, unless counterbalanced will cause a hammering effect of several pounds at higher speeds.

"Of course, the wheel assembled itself may be sufficiently out of balance to cause vibration. But it is a simple matter to balance this, while on the other hand, it is practically impossible for the average car owner to correct an unbalanced tire and tube.

Firestone Standard of Balance

"Firestone considers balance such an important point in the balloon gum-dipped cord and steam-welded tube, that every piece of rubber and fabric used, must first be carefully measured and weighed. And every process through which the tire and tube passes must undergo the most rigid inspections. In addition to all this care and extreme accuracy, the finished tire must pass a final balancing test on a special Firestone-designed balancing machine.

"I want to make it clear that Firestone balloon gum-dipped cords on any car with properly balanced wheels and correctly adjusted steering mechanism will provide the utmost in comfort, safety and car conservation without sacrifice of mileage or increase of fuel consumption."

JOHN E. CAIRNS' BOY SENT TO OHIO FROM NEW LONDON FOR BURIAL

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, April 3.—The body of John E. Cairns, whose death occurred at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital two years ago as a result of injuries he sustained by being thrown from an automobile in which he was riding with Charles H. Humphrey, the proprietor of the Standard garage, when the car collided with a telephone pole in Waterford, was removed from the receiving vault in Cedar Grove cemetery this morning and forwarded to Cincinnati, Onio, for burial. Mrs. Cairns and her three children moved to Cincinnati several months ago.

Garry Fortune, star pitcher of the Pittsfield club of the Eastern league, who has been under treatment at Lawrence hospital several days, was able to return to his home in Groton today.

Mrs. Frances E. Mosher, 72, wife of George S. Mosher, died last night at her home in Waterford, after a lingering illness. Besides her husband, Mrs. Mosher is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Herbert A. Shellenbergar of New London. Mrs. Mosher was born in Norwich, but had resided in Waterford a quarter of a century.

Richard Ballestrini of 87 Walbach street will be in the police court next Saturday morning, charged with violation of the automobile law in operating his automobile with displaying headlights. Ballestrini was ordered into court as the result of his machine being in collision with a car owned and operated by John A. Connor, of 135 Thames street, on Pequot avenue last evening. Connor, who sustained a lacerated hand as a result of the collision, claims that Ballestrini's car did not have lights showing, while Ballestrini denies the allegation.

Anna M. Richardson has sold a house and lot on the east side of Ocean avenue to John and Elizabeth Siderits. The price paid was $12,000.

Ambrose Cassara has sold an undivided half-interest in a building lot on Elliott avenue, Ocean Beach, to Frank L. McGuire.

Agostino and Leonardo Minucci have sold a house and lot on Goshen street to Ettora Verdini.

Iman Ellonsky has sold a house and lot on the east side of Belden street to Annie McLary.

Arthur H. Gager, one of New London's best known business men, died this morning at his home at Best View, Waterford, from pneumonia. Mr. Gager's death was a surprise to his acquaintances for until last night there was every reason to hope that he would recover.

Mr. Gager was a member of the Gager-Crawford company. He is survived by his widow and two children. He was taken ill last Thursday and was compelled to leave his place of business and go home. Mr. Gager responded well to treatment and until late last evening the reports from his bedside were encouraging. During the night he suffered a sinking spell, dying about 9 o'clock this forenoon.

A dog owned by Francis O'Hara was struck and killed on Connecticut avenue this morning by an automobile owned and driven by Edmund H. Lamb, of Ledyard.

The New London police have learned that the automobile that collided with a team owned by the Valvoline Oil company and driven by Arthur Enos, on the Thames river highway bridge, yesterday forenoon, is the property of Chester Thayer of East avenue, West Bridgewater, Mass. Today the police of West Bridgewater were communicated with and Thayer will be ordered to appear in the local police court, charged with violation of the automobile law in evasion of responsibility. Enos declared that after the team was struck the owner of the automobile speeded away without stopping and ascertaining the extent of the damage occasioned, which was close to $150.

Clarence Merrill, colored, who was arrested here Monday night by Deputy Sheriff J. H. Tubbs on a warrant issued by the authorities of West Haven, charging Merrill with a statutory offense, will be given a hearing in the West Haven court on the 12th inst. Merrill was taken to West Haven yesterday and furnished a surety on his bond for a hearing later in the month.

Miss Ethel Blue of Niantic, Mrs. Arthur Frances and infant son of Oakdale, George Bayers of the crew of the S. S. Canadian Ranger, Miss Hazel Sansoust of Niantic, Mrs. John Burnett and infant son of Willetts avenue, Mrs. Guy Brown and infant son of Quaker Hill and Mrs. Theresa Stewart, of Niantic, patients at Lawrence hospital, were discharged today.

The funeral of Mrs. Ellen B. Touchette, wife of John H. Touchette, was held this morning at 9 o'clock at St. Joseph's church. A mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. William C. Fitzsimons, pastor of the church. The bearers were Edward J., James H. and James P. Neilan and John F. Gilmartin, Edward Raymond and Raymond Coleman. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

The first of the New London patrolmen to start the department's annual vacations this morning was Patrolman Edward Daniels, who began two weeks' recreative trip. The last officer to take a vacation will not have his allotted time until October.

Deputy Collector of Customs Joseph A. Comstock today got rid of the craft seized in the sound by the coast guard steamer Seminole, a few weeks ago. The Seminole found what was believed to be vessels engaged in the transportation of liquor from craft off Block Island to the shore and nabbed the craft suspected. The 79-J was the only craft in four seized that had liquor aboard. She had seven cases and the boat and the liquor are still held here. The craft which were released today are the Pacific, owned by A. Stone, of Greenport; and the Virginia, the property of a man at Block Island. The craft were given over to their owners after they paid a fine for violating the navigation laws. The K-391, a speed boat was released in the custody of officers representing the department at New York who came to this port with instructions to deliver the craft at New York. The start was made this afternoon.

Steamer Commercial Pathfinder is discharging foreign lumber at the state pier for shipment to points along the Central Vermont railroad. The ship came here from Vancouver, British Columbia. She touched at Jacksonville where a portion of the cargo was discharged. The steamer Canadian Challenger, laden with automobiles and automobile parts, left the state pier today for Australia.

Notwithstanding there is to be a referendum vote to determine whether this city shall erect a half-million dollar junior high school building the matter has not aroused the interest anticipated. If there is any particular anxiety about the result of the vote it is not apparent to people generally. It may be that citizens are indifferent in the matter, and that they will do their grumbling after the result of the voting is announced. The voting is to be done next Monday, all the voting places being open for the reception of votes just as in a national or state election.

William Jenson, an employe at the state hospital ran down a boy on lower Bank street some months ago. The boy was sent to the hospital for treatment for his injuries and remained there three weeks. Jenson made the statement to the boy's father that he had insurance on the automobile and that the company which carried the risk was liable for the damage occasioned. The father of the lad has since paid out considerably more than $100 for the treatment of the boy in the hospital but he has not seen anything of Jenson, or the representative of the alleged insurance company. Now the boy's father has placed the matter of collection of damages in the hands of a lawyer, so there will be something doing for Mr. Jenson and the insurance people if Jenson has any guarantee against damage to or by the car.

New London lodge of Elks will install officers Thursday evening. Past Exalted Ruler Harrington of Norwich will be the installing officer. A lunch and entertainment will follow the formal ceremonies.

Every one is wondering whether the United States district court will confirm the sale of the Groton Iron Works to one Morris Shapiro, of New Jersey for $203,500, when, as a matter of fact the property cost the government nearly $4,000,000. It is difficult to imagine what use the buyer can make of the property as there is no ship building to speak of being done now, the government having all the vessels for sale that are likely to be used for a long time. The works could be made use of in the repair of government craft and in the repair of tugs and barges and for the repair of steamers of large size that are in commission. But the parties who will make use of the yard in that direction are not in sight now.

City Manager Holt is contemplating calling a meeting for the discussion of ways and means of prevent- ... congestion of traffic on State and Bank streets during the coming ... This idea is to see expression of opinion from parties doing business along these streets and from others who may have ideas that will prove practical when put into practice. There have been suggestions made that to prohibit the parking of machines at the curbing would eliminate the congestion almost wholly, while the making of Bank street a one-way street has also been suggested. The meeting proposed will be held early in April, it is supposed.

Philip John, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest O. Picken of Shaw street, died Monday at Lawrence hospital. Funeral services were held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at 48 Shapley street. Rev. Chester H. Howe officiated. Burial was in Groton cemetery.

Misses Theodora and Virginia Palmer of Pequot avenue are spending a few days in New York.

Mrs. Robert Maynard and infant daughter of Noank, Mrs. James McLaney of Groton and Mrs. Frank Newbury of 22 Amity street, were patients discharged today at Lawrence hospital.

Miss Margaret S. Romsen of New York, an annual summer resident in New London, came here yesterday and attended the funeral of Mrs. Lucia L. Kirkland.

Mrs. George Griffith returned to her home in Providence this evening after having spent several days with her mother, Mrs. George C. Harris.

Capt. and Mrs. James D. Pettigrew, 163 Ocean avenue, have returned to their home, having spent a fortnight in Florida.

Miss Dorothy Ahern, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Ahern of Blackhall street, a student nurse at New Haven hospital, has returned to the institution after having been at the home of her parents several days recuperating, following an operation for tonsilitis.

Kenneth Salter is in New York to spend the remainder of the week with his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Manahan.

An automobile truck owned and operated by Harry Weinstein of 308 Broad street and a touring car, owned and driven by Andrew, of Pauchaug, were in collision late this afternoon in Golden street. The truck sustained the greater damage.

Carlisle White, 19, of 384 Broad street, and Edward Belland, 19, of 16 Montauk avenue, will be presented in the police court Saturday morning, charged with violation of the automobile law. The youths were ordered into court this evening by Sergeant Samuel Hick, following an automobile owned by Mrs. Sarah Jane Phillips of 690 Bank street, being in collision with a car owned by Joseph C. Lounsbury.

The car of Mrs. Phillips was operated by White who did not have a license, but supposed he had the right to do so because Belland held an operator's license. As the machine was a public service car and as Belland did not possess a license to operate this type of car, both youths were guilty of a law violation. Their being ordered into court resulted when White was operating the machine. In making the turn at the corner of State and Green streets, the machine crashed against the rear of Lounsbury's car, which was parked beside the curb on Green street and caused damage estimated at $50. White declared that he could not avoid the collision inasmuch as he was avoiding running down a child that was trying to cross the street.

The owner of automobile, L-80, which is alleged to have collided with the motionless automobile owned by John MacArthur of 33 Hempstead street, Monday afternoon, on Bank street, is Mrs. Cecelia M. Ponedel of Niantic. It is alleged by MacArthur that his car was damaged and that the driver of the colliding car operated it away without stopping to determine what damage had been occasioned.

Patrolman Charles Hammond reported for duty this evening.

Mendel Zimmer and his wife Rosie, have had so many disagreements that they have decided to live apart and they have reached a mutual agreement to that effect. As a result of the agreement Zimmer today transferred two tracts of land on Main street and an undivided one-half interest in a dwelling on Shapley street to his wife. Mrs. Zimmer in turn transferred an undivided one-half interest in a dwelling on Federal street to her husband.

Mrs. Evelyn, 12 Richards street complained to the police this evening that youths and employes of a nearby garage had engaged in a snowballing conflict and as a result several windows of her home had been broken. Motorcycle Officer William Babcock and Patrolman Thomas Cavanaugh were dispatched to the place where they found the gang. The employes of the garage agreed to pay Mrs. Evelyn for the damage that they had caused.

PUTNAM

foreman, Joseph Dumas, assistant foreman, and Eugene Reneault secretary of Hose company No. 2 was approved by the council, as was the election of Rosario Mayotte to be the foreman of Hose company No. 1.

The quarterly payroll of the department submitted for payment showed a total of $1155. The electric light bill of the city for the month of March was $740.05 and it cost the city for telephones, $65.91. All of the current bills were ordered paid.

Those present at the meeting were Mayor Chapdelaine, Alderman-at-Large Richard, Aldermen Rogers, Ames Delisle, Labby, Dubois and Berthiaume. Absent: Aldermen Pigeon and LaRose. The meeting adjourned to April 15th, to receive the report of the city engineer.

PLAINFIELD

A meeting of the grange was held at Grange Hall Tuesday evening although the attendance was reduced considerably by the storm. The program, which was to have been furnished by the men, was put over a week.

The Lenten service of Saint Paul's Episcopal church, was held in the basement of the church Wednesday evening. Rev. L. R. Richards, the new rector at Danielson, was the preacher.

The moving of the Mercier store was begun Tuesday morning, the work being done by George Pember. The building was moved back some sixty feet, to make room for the new building, which will be erected on the site which the old one occupied.

A meeting of the executive board of the Woman's Club was held at the home of Mrs. Benjamin Dawson, Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Edward King leaves this (Thursday) morning for Boston, to visit with her mother for a few days.

The preacher at the Wednesday evening Lenten devotions in St. Johns Catholic church was Rev. John J. McGrath, an assistant pastor of St. Mary's Star of the Sea Church, New London.

CAMPBELL'S MILLS

The Finnish people of this community held a social at the home of Andrew Luoto Saturday evening and a very enjoyable evening was spent. Mrs. Luoto served a supper to all.

Edward Manelin, Eric Soiminen and Joel Williams were business callers in Norwich Saturday.

Miss Margaret Tanner, teacher of the Wylie school, attended a teachers' meeting at Voluntown last Monday, conducted by Supervisors Garrison and Lund.

Mrs. B. S. Hall spent a part of last week with relatives at Norwich.

In spite of the fact that the roads were very muddy last Thursday evening a good number was present at the community meeting at Grange hall, Ekonk, and enjoyed a fine program, well given. The next meeting is to be held in May and will be a competitive program between the Sterling Hill, Wylie and Ekonk schools. Mrs. Hilliard, Miss Tanner and Miss Potter, teachers of the respective schools, are to have charge of the program. A prize will be given the winning school.

Miss Bertha Hall of Jewett City recently visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. S. Hall.

LIBERTY HILL

A heavy thunder shower between 11 and 12 o'clock Saturday night was a surprise to all.

Miss Flora Bruce, the local teacher, attended a teachers' meeting at Lebanon Center, Wednesday afternoon.

The C. E. society is to have a social Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. George Paton of Willimantic were the guests of their daughter, Mrs. Robert James, Saturday.

Mrs. E. C. Payson spent the week end with her mother-in-law, Mrs. E. P. Payson of Willimantic.

The mercury Tuesday morning was 20 above zero with ground frozen solid. Parsnips were dug in gardens on Saturday.

Alex Wordon, who lives on what is known as the Graves place, now owned by the Liberty club, cut his foot with a broad axe, while hewing ties last Tuesday. He was taken to the hospital Wednesday and treated, seven or more stitches being taken to close the wound. He has a wife and five children and it is said his wife is ill.

Mrs. Shelden, who has been making a two weeks' visit with her sister, Mrs. John Kinnaird, returned to her home in South Salem, N. Y., Monday.

OCCUM AND VERSAILLES

Since the burning of the Versailles school building a room of the Occum school has been turned over to the use of twenty-five pupils of the Versailles school, comprising the first and second grades. Miss Gertrude Ladd, teacher. The upper grades are being cared for at Baltic.

A fire alarm was sent out soon after 3 o'clock, Wednesday afternoon, for a small building in the rear of the home of Alfred Fountain. The building contained both gasoline and kerosene. The gasolene drum, while the building was ablaze, was opened by Michael Coffey to guard against an explosion. The building was but a few feet from the Fountain house and before the fire was out, paint on that building had been scorched. The loss was small.

It was feared that the houses in the vicinity would catch fire, so a call was sent to Norwich for assistance, but a volunteer soon had the fire under control, although a quick run was made by Chief Stanton and Company No. 1.

No remedy can cure all ailments of the human body, but an immense number of people suffer from aches, pains and disease symptoms when their real trouble is lack of iron in the blood. It is the iron in your blood that enables you to get the nourishment out of your food. Without iron your food merely passes through you without doing you any good; you don't get the strength out of it. There is one universally known tonic that has helped thousands because it contains iron like the iron in fresh vegetables and like the iron in your blood.

is an eminent physician's best blood prescription, standardized. It is recommended for all anaemic and run-down conditions. It has helped thousands of others. It should help you. Ask for it at any drug store.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you'll find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Thousands take them every night just to keep right. Try them. 15c and 30c.

FREckLES

Now Is the Time to Get Rid of These Ugly Spots.

There's no longer the slightest need of feeling ashamed of your freckles, as Othine—double strength—is guaranteed to remove these homely spots.

Simply get an ounce of Othine—double strength—from any druggist and apply a little of it night and morning and you should soon see that even the worst freckles have begun to disappear, while the lighter ones have vanished entirely. It is seldom that more than an ounce is needed to completely clear the skin and gain a beautiful complexion.

Be sure to ask for the double strength Othine as this is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freckles.

ADDRESS OF LIEUT. GOV. BINGHAM AT THE REPUBLICAN STATE CONVENTION

BACK TO THE CONSTITUTION WITH CALVIN COOLIDGE

The address of the temporary chairman, Lieutenant Governor Hiram Bingham, Republican State Convention in Hartford last night follows, in part:

"It is four years since we last met to choose delegates to a National Convention. The Constitution of the United States wisely provides that the executive branch of the central government must come before the people every so often and surrender the great powers with which it has been entrusted. It then becomes necessary for the citizens to consider the acts of the executive, to approve or disapprove its policies and to say whether the executive shall have a new lease of life or not. The people are now engaged in this process. It will end on Election day next November. The present assembly, consisting of representative citizens from each community in the state, citizens who know the general feeling of their neighbors as regards the conduct of the present executive, must now choose those whose duty it will be to go before the great gathering of representative citizens from all parts of this nation and make known the wishes of the Republicans of Connecticut. Accordingly it is necessary for us at this time to review the part played by the executive during the past four years and determine what policies we should like to have followed in the future. This is not the time to debate matters of town and municipal government, nor is it the occasion for a discussion of the problems of state government. On the other hand, it is fitting for us to fix our attention on the national government in all its parts, legislative, judical, and executive.

Before doing this, however, let us reverently and sympathetically turn our thoughts for a moment to President Harding. As his successor has so ably said: "The world knew his kindness and his humanity, his greatness and his character. He has left his mark upon history. He has made justice more certain and peace more secure. The surpassing tribute paid to his memory as he was borne across the continent to rest at last at home revealed the place he held in the hearts of the American people." He came to the presidency in a time of world-wide confusion, when mankind was suffering from the aftermath of the great war. He strove to solve fundamental problems in a spirit of neighborly good will. He tried to follow the injunction, "Love thy neighbor as thyself." He endeavored to carry out the golden rule of doing unto others as you would be done by.

His greatest achievement was the preservation of peace in the Pacific. The Washington Conference, which he summoned, came together in a spirit of suspicion and distrust, but soon recognized the sincerity of America's wish for peace and ended by the adoption of a group of treaties whose importance is as yet only dimly realized. Many of us who live here in the east find it difficult to believe that in this way a terrible war was averted. It is as though some one should claim he had prevented a devasting earthquake. It is easy to feel gratitude to one who has actually pulled us out from under the ruins. On the other hand, it is hard to visualize a catastrophe which has not happened, even though those who were in the best position to know tell us that it was surely coming. The calling of the Washington Conference, its conduct and results, constituted a masterstroke of diplomacy, perhaps the greatest bloodless victory the world has ever seen, and one for which we can never be too grateful to President Harding and his advisers.

Foreign Relations and the League of Nations

By this Constitution the Federal Government is given exclusive control over our foreign relations. The treaty-making power in the hands of the president and the senate. Some people have laid great stress on the important of our joining the League of Nations and surrendering to the judgment of others the right to decide our foreign policy. They overlook the fact that the great majority of nations have different aspirations and desires from ours. They have a different system of fundamental law, a different conception of government. The time may come, a thousand years from now, when the nations of the world will be a homogenous community in which the individual nations will have the same background, the same habits of thought, the same ideals, and be as well aware of the personal merits and defects of each other as the voters in a town meeting. When that time comes, a league of nations will be as natural and proper as a town government. It is easy to see why the rulers of countries where majority rule does not prevail, where a ruling caste keeps itself in power by intrigue or force of arms, and where honest efforts "to establish justice, promote the general welfare and secure the blessings of liberty" are unknown, should be willing to take their chances in a league of nations, always reserving to themselves the right to do as they pleased in the long run. What kind of a policy is that? How long would a town government last if the individuals who composed it had no intention of submitting to majority rule except when it suited their convenience? How long would you have peace and order in such a town?

We have learned that a government, to be effective in securing peace, must be based on the willingness of the minority to yield to the wishes of the majority. It would seem that a league, to be effective in securing peace, must be based on the same principle. And when we survey the nations of the world today we are not willing to bind ourselves to the wishes of the majority of nations. Their history is not our history; their traditions are not our traditions; their ideals are not our ideals; their principles are not our principles. We do not believe that such willingness on our part to surrender our ideals and our principles would tend to the best good of the world or to the making of universal peace. In a word, we believe in America. We do not believe in the League of Nations.

World Court

While we do not believe in a League of Nations, we do believe in regional conferences. We believe that when difficult questions arise the nations that are immediately concerned should get together around the council table and, meeting in a spirit of fairness and justice, find out what it is that each nation wants, or objects to, and arrive at the best possible conclusion without recourse to arms. That is what we did when we had trouble with Canada over fisheries or boundary disputes; that is what we did in the Pacific when there was danger of a misunderstanding between ourselves and Japan. Regional conferences, attended by those who are directly concerned, is a Republican doctrine to which we heartily subscribe. Assemblies of nations dealing with subjects with which the majority are not directly concerned, but in the decision of which they may be swayed by the wish to please or the fear of offending powerful neighbors, is not the way to prevent war and preserve peace.

In regard to our foreign policy we believe with the present head of our nation that "Our country has one cardinal principle to maintain. . . . It is an American principle. . . . We attend to our own affairs, conserve our own strength, and protect the interests of our own citizens; but we recognize thoroughly our obligation to help others, reserving to the decision of our own judgment the time, the place, and the method. We realise the common bond of humanity.

Republican Foreign Policies

It is with particular pleasure that we review the recent conduct of our foreign affairs. Not only has the question of the Pacific been handled in such a way as to allay suspicion and avert war, other questions which might have caused acute irritation have been handled discreetly. Our rights and privileges have been maintained, but in such a way as to give the least possible offense. The dignity of this nation has been upheld, and at the same time no seeds of war have been sown.

Our prohibition laws have caused foreign nations to be unusually tenacious of their rights on the high seas. Our government could not look with indifference on attempts to introduce illicit cargoes of liquor into the United States. The three-mile limit, an ancient and honorable doctrine in international law, and one that we were careful to insist upon in our dealings with Spain and Cuba, threatened to give "hovering vessels" too good a chance to break our laws. On the other hand, a ruling which prevented foreign vessels from calling at our ports with liquor on board, under seal and not to be delivered anywhere within the United States, appeared to be a serious departure from international comity and an unwarranted interference with trade between other foreign countries. Wars have been caused by the clumsy handling of just such problems.

In Mexico we have found a government which appeared to be willing and able to restore stability and put the country on a basis where international obligations could be recognized. Special treaties have been negotiated relating to claims arising from revolutionary disturbances. These treaties are before the Senate. In the meantime, an insurrection arose, based on an effort to seize the presidency and overthrow law and order and subvert constitutional procedure. The established government asked us to sell it arms and ammunition to enable it to quell the insurrection. We agreed. To have done otherwise would have been to have insulted a friend and to have given powerful encouragement to those who were challenging.

Our relations with Turkey have been handled with skill and discretion. As Secretary Hughes has said: "The spirit of the Near East must be met sympathetically, not by arms, not by attempts at dictatorship or by needless interventions, but by candor, directness, and just appreciation of nationalistic aims and by a firm but friendly insistence upon the discharge of those international obligations, the recognition of which affords the only satisfactory basis for the intercourse of nations. In this way the Orient and the Occident may find ground for cooperation and for the maintenance of peace sustained by the reciprocal advantages of cultural relations." This is nothing less than the golden rule. Republican foreign policy means peace with honor, peace with righteousness. We are delighted to leave the difficulties of diplomatic negotiations in the hands of such a true Republican.

Tariff and Taxes

It is interesting to remember that four years ago, when we were about to nominate a president, this country was suffering from very hard times, 1920 was a bad year. It happened to be the last of eight years of Democratic administration. If you will compare conditions today, after scarcely more than three years of Republican administration, you will find very cogent reasons why the people of Connecticut should continue to support the Republican party. In 1920 the cost of living was at its high peak. Prices were sixty per cent higher than they are today. The government had acquired the habit of lavish spending and seemed to be totally forgetful of the fact that the war was over. The naval appropriation made for the following year, 1921 was over eight hundred million dollars. The naval appropriation for 1924 is less than three hundred million. In this item alone, as a result of Republican policy, the taxpayers have been saved five hundred and twenty million dollars in one year, and that is only a sample of what has been done.

The Mellon Plan

During the past year the public debt has been reduced by a billion dollars and the government has been so ably conducted that a marked reduction in the taxes can be effected. There is no single province of government which effects everybody as much as taxes. On this subject the views of the president, as expressed in his message of last December, are very significant and important. He said: "A very great service could be rendered through immediate enactment of legislation relieving the people of some of the burden of taxation. To reduce war taxes is to give every home a better chance. . . . For seven years the people have borne with uncomplaining courage the tremendous burden of national and local taxation. These must both be reduced. The taxes of the nation must be reduced now as much as prudence will permit, and expenditures must be reduced accordingly. High taxes reach everywhere and burden everybody. They bear most heavily upon the poor. They diminish industry and commerce. They make agriculture unprofitable. They increase the rates on transportation. They are a charge on every necessary of life. Of all service which the Congress can render to the country, I have no hesitation in declaring this one to be paramount. To neglect it, to postpone it, to obstruct it by unsound proposals, is to become unworthy of public confidence and untrue to public trust. The country wants this measure to have the right of way over all others." Nothwithstanding this plea, notwithstanding the fact that the Mellon plan is held by the majority of thinking people to be one of the ablest measures ever presented to Congress — a plan drawn by a secretary of the treasury as farsighted and gifted as Alexander Hamilton himself — Congress is still tinkering with it.

Congressional Impotence

Unfortunately the present Congress lacks a majority of organized Republicans able to carry out Republican policies. Even Connecticut did not send back a solid phalanx of Republican votes. Neither in the Senate nor in the House are the regular Republicans able to command a majority. Insurgents, radicals and independents, masquerading under the title of Republicans, by uniting with the Democrats are able to prevent normal Republican measures from being passed. So little do they care about the party whose name they have assumed for purposes of being elected, so free from any obligation to carry out its platform or to put its leaders in a position of authority, that in the Senate they actually succeeded in electing a Democrat as chairman of one of the most important committees. Due to the fact that the regular Republicans are in a minority in both houses of Congress we cannot expect that the present Congress will carry out Republican policies.

Centralization in Education

One of the most important questions before the country today is education. We believe in decentralization. We protect against the movement to nationalise and standardise education. Some people want a minister of education and an appropriation of one hundred million dollars as a starter. Education is a matter of prime importance. Its aim should be the welfare of the individual and of the state. It must recognize in the child the future citizen of the state, one of the very units which compose the state. It must remember that if the citizens fail to take an active interest in the working of the governmental machinery, if they are unable or unwilling to perform their duties as citizens, the state cannot function properly and we shall lose that precious liberty for which our fathers fought and died. Education, therefore, must not only teach the child how to preserve the health of his mind and body, it must also equip the child for his duties and obligations as a citizen and develop in him such loyalty to the state as will make it seem natural for him to sacrifice self and self-interest for the state and its proper functioning. Now that we have universal suffrage, it is all the more important that every child should be so educated.

Personal Liberty.

There is a tendency today, on the part of some people, to do away with liberty. These same people would be the first to deny it. They do not realise what the are working for. They think they want the millennium, a blessed age when everybody will be happy and good, in just the precise way and manner which best suits the reformer. The wish to make laws to prevent ever sort of thing which seems to them undesirable. They forget that each individual has his own likes and dislikes. They forget that Jack Sprat and his wife were "a happy pair" because they had absolutely different likes and dislikes. "Between them both, the happy pair, they licked the platter clean." They enjoyed liberty, and apparently they didn't pick on each other because one "could eat no fat" and one "could eat no lean." Their motto was "Live and let live." It was an unselfish motto. It made for happiness. It was true liberty. In the spirit of the golden rule let us have fewer laws rather than more laws. Let us correct the evils and diseases of our government by equipping our citizens for the duties and responsibilities of citizenship and by instilling in them the spirit of unselfish patriotism.

Self-Reliance

It is most important for the state to allow the citizens as much freedom of action as is consistent with true liberty. If, in the interest of efficiency and progress," it makes too many laws, oddinances and rules, as so often happens where governmental bureaus have highly trained and expert chiefs, it "takes all the joy out of life." Human beings like to do things in their own way. They like to try experiments. They like to learn from experience, as their fathers have for thousands of years. They like to invent new ways of doing things. They enjoy the exercise of initiative and the pleasures of spontaneity.

The Strength of Our Constitution

We believe in Connecticut. It is the happy distinction of Connecticut to be the only state which officially on its seal, refers to itself as a republic. A republic is not a monarchy; neither it is a Soviet. It is not an oligarchy, nor is it a pure democracy. It is a representative form of government in which the citizen places a certain amount of power in the hands of selectmen, legislators, judges and other officials, while at the same time he reserves for himself as much personal liberty as is not inconsistent with the proper exercise of personal liberty on the part of his neighbors. A republic is not benevolent despotism. Those who are in a hurry for social and political reforms often wish our government were a benevolent despotism which they could persuade to their way of thinking. They sometime forget that Rome was not built in a day and that our most precious institutions, including the town meeting, trial by jury, and the writ of habeas corpus, were the result of centuries of slow but natural growth.

Constitutional Amendments by Referendum

We are in favor of an amendment to the Constitution providing in effect that future constitutional amendments proposed to the several states should be submitted to the electors of the states for ratification, instead of to the legislatures. Such an amendment was introduced into the Congress several years ago by the senior senator from Connecticut. It was debated on several occasions but its importance was not recognized by Congress and, although reportde favorably by unanimous vote of the Senate Committee on the Judiciary, it failed to come to vote in the Senate. A similar proposal, introduced by Senator Wadsworth, is now before the Senate and we trust that it will pass both houses of Congress and will eventually be ratified by the states. As Senator Brandegee recently said: "The matter of amending the Constitution of the United States is no different nor other from the subject matter of amending the constitution of a single state. They are both amendments to the organic law of a government. It requires just as much brains and just as much consideration and wisdom to act upon one as it does to act upon the other. The constituency in a state which acts upon an amendment to its own constitution is already authorized under the constitution of every state to be the judges of whether that amendment shall take effect or not after it has been recommended to it by the legislature. If the constituency of a state is capable of considering and acting upon an amendment to its own state constitution it is equally capable of deciding whether or not it wants the United States Constitution amended."

Bureaucratic Tendencies

We believe that the most precious thing in the world is liberty. We propose to maintain the Constitution in its purity as a protector of the rights of the individual as against tyranny in any form. We believe that the object of this nation is to preserve the life, liberty and pursuit of happiness of the individual rather than to establish a benevolent autocracy. We believe that the happiness of the individual, his power to exercise initiative and his freedom from unnecessary restrictions than upon thousands of rules and regulations, no matter how wisely they may be convinced.

We deplore the modern tendency towards bureaucracy. We have been giving more and more power to commissions and commissioners, urged on by a desire to see things done quickly and an impatience with long established laws and customs. We have during the past few years set up at Washington commission after commission, with triple powers—the legislative power of putting these laws into operation, and the judicial power of seeing whether the citizens have broken these laws or not.

A Helpful Department

Our Department of Commerce has been wisely engaged in helping the American business man to carry on his business, rather than in trying to hinder and hamper him. Placing an emphasis on the importance of mass production, the Secretary of Commerce has helped manufacturers in Connecticut and all over the country by giving them opportunity to reduce the amount of unnecessary waste and by increasing the possibilities of foreign markets. When Secretary Hoover came into the cabinet we had only ten per cent of the automobile business in South America. Only a small number of American cars were sold there. Today we have more than three quarters of this business.

Harmful Commissions

We deplore the tendency to create commissions with inquisitorial powers to examine into private business. Our fathers struggled for centuries against the tyranny of similar commissions, in the days of Old England.

Federal Centralization

We are opposed to those who would place the nation's business in the hands of the government. We believe that the Federal Government is already attempting to carry more burdens than it can possibly handle successfully. Ancient history and recent history have shown the danger of placing too much power and responsibility in the hands of bureau chiefs. The extraordinary growth of these bureaus was never for a moment contemplated by the framers of the Constitution. They were too close to the time when bureaus in London had attempted to dictate to them as colonists.

The Direct Primary

Some years ago a considerable number of states adopted the plan called the direct primary. The old idea, which still prevails in Connecticut, of having the people's representatives get together in convention and select the best available candidates, has given way in these other states to a scheme whereby the best self-advertiser, the man who most successfully pleases the instincts of the mob, secures the nomination. If he is elected he is under no obligations to his party to help the members of that party carry out party platforms or national policies. If a senator of the United States wishes to be renominated he must interest and please the great mass of unthinking newspaper readers, who are too busy to study national policies and who form their impressions largely on what the headline writers say. As a result, a considerable number of senators find it necessary to play to the galleries, to undertake things which will bring them into the headlines and make people believe that they are distinguished statesmen. They are more interested in furnishing copy for the newspaper than in performing their constitutional functions.

Misconduct in Public Office

We believe in the Constitution of the United States. We believe that it is wise in providing that when public officials are considered to be guilty of improper conduct they should be impeached by the house of representatives and then tried by the senate, sitting as a court. But from time immemorial we have surrounded our courts with dignity and have expected our judges to try cases with justice and with due regard to such principles as protest the innocent while not shielding the guilty. We do not believe that judges should act in the capacity of grand jurors or prosecutors.

Coolidge

Our president is that type of New Englander who does not weigh the possible effect on himself of such actions or words as are dictated by his old-fashioned conscience. Both by education and temperament he is debarred from deciding questions by any other standard than that of right and wrong. Amidst a throng or flurry, hustling, nervous law - makers and public officials, he sits calm, imperturbable, patiently thinking, conscientiously considering how he can best serve his country. He is like a refreshing spring of clear, cold water when one is wandering in a hot desert where the only wells are oil wells—and gushers, at that.

The senate has assumed executive functions without constitutional warrant. It has instituted "star chamber" proceedings which hit directly at the established rights of individual citizens. A tremendous smoke screen, made of burning oil, has been thrown up in Washington in order to hide from the country the kind of president we now have. In regard to the oil situation there are two things to be done and we can trust the president to do them. The first thing is to get back whatever has been illegally acquired, the property that belongs to the people must be restored to be used for them as they direct through their representatives. So great has been the hysteria that it is not yet known what has been properly done in regard to oil leases and what has been improper. We may be sure, however, that the president will not rest until the public interest has been served. In the second place, there is the duty of punishing the guilty. The president has selected able counsel, approved even by the senate, and has instructed them to see to it that the guilty are punished. The record of the president throughout his 35 years of public service shows that he may be trusted to see that this situation is cleared up to the satisfaction of the American people. Had the senate been really desirous of securing justice they would have ceased to spend their time and effort in investigating the oil scandal after the president had shown his willingness to act and his eagerness to see that justice was done. The fact that the senators have continued to investigate shows that their desire is for publicity and notoriety rather than to further the ends of justice.

It is a cause of great pride to us as New Englanders that our president should not only come from the Connecticut valley but that he should so ably personify its traditional virtues. The Yankee is not renowned as a silver-tongued orator. But when he talks he generally says just what he means and means just what he says. The president never wastes words. In fact he has a gift for silence. The Constitution requires him to talk occasionally. His message to Congress last December was one of these occasions. And when you read that speech, not to cover up his thoughts but to let you know exactly what he thought on each national issue. And you learned that he was gifted with old-fashioned common sense. Although a lawyer, he was not troubled by technicalities nor did he use words to conceal his real meaning. Although a politician, he did not hesitate to advocate a measure of tax reform which the demagogues have tried to make out was solely for the interest of the rich instead of for the interest of everybody, both rich and poor. He did not hesitate to say where he stood on any public question. In his own words, he believes in being "as revolutionary as the multiplication table." He is neither a stand-patter nor a demagogue. We all know he has courage, honesty and statesmanship. More recently he has shown restraint and calmness under stress, respect for public opinion, yet none for unworthy partisan clamor, and an undeviating purpose to protect the integrity of the government at all costs. Party affiliations will not protect the guilty, nor need the members of the opposition worry unless they have actually overstepped the bounds of legitimate activity.

In Connecticut we understand his kind. We know the farmers who were his ancestors; the country lawyers, judges and Congregational ministers from whom he derives his character. We know the type—we are proud of it. He thinks for himself; is cautious in accepting new theories, slow in coming to new conclusions; yet independent and fearless in following the dictates of conscience. Such do not wear their hearts on their sleeves. Although capable of profound feeling and the deepest convictions, they inherit the power of self-control and rarely if ever get excited. Stick-to-itiveness is one of their traits. On the other hand, we know the Yankee loves liberty, is willing to expose himself to danger in resisting tyranny, finds deep satisfaction in carrying out his own ideas and at the same time has no desire to harm or oppress his neighbors. Impatient or despotism, yet equally impatient of lawlessness, these old Puritans in whom we take so much pride were capable of self-restraint in the fact of the utmost provocation. Even when they found it necessary to behead a king of England they did it according to the rules of law, without hysteria, without undue haste, only after solemn trial and proper testimony. They taught a lesson which we may be sure this New England president will not forget. He is still close to the characteristics and traditions of those who took their lives in their hands when they signed the Declaration of Independence. His has been a life of plain living and straight thinking. Educated in the district school and in one of our old-fashioned New England colleges, there is nothing about him which is strange to any of us in Connecticut. He has faith in the worth of man. He believes in the fundamental English axiom that a man is innocent until he is proven guilty. He is not of the class of pettifogging lawyers who take pride in protecting the guilty and who use technicalities to defeat the ends of justice. He has been a public servant for more than a quarter of a century. In all that time he has had but one thought, the interest of the public. He has been faithful to his trust. His strength has been spent for those who put their trust in him. That trust has never been betrayed. He is the ideal statesman, patient, wise, steady, just and true. He comes from New England, and his name is Calvin Coolidge.

Finds Kellogg's Bran "Easy way to avoid Constipation" after suffering for years

Constipation is a dangerous disease. It can lead to many others. Twenty years' suffering with constipation undermined this man's health. Kellogg's Bran restored it—as it has done for thousands. This is what he says:

"Gentlemen:

After eating Kellogg's Bran twice a day for one month I find it not only an 'Easy Way to Avoid Constipation,' but an easy and most pleasant way to cure it. I have been troubled with constipation . . . for more than twenty years . . . after adopting the milk and bran diet I find my stomach greatly improved, and find it a specific for constipation.

. . . I deem it only justice that you should know what your product has done for me, and what it is capable of doing for others."

(The original of this letter is on file at the Kellogg Company, Battle Creek, Mich.)

Kellogg's Bran relieves mild and chronic constipation because it is ALL bran. It brings sure results. It sweeps, cleans and purifies the intestine in nature's own way. Don't experiment. Only ALL bran can be 100 per cent effective.

If eaten regularly, Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, is guaranteed to bring permanent relief—or your grocer returns your money. You should eat two tablespoonfuls daily—in chronic cases, with every meal.

The flavor is delicious—nut-like—cooked and krumbled. Enjoy it with milk or cream, sprinkled on other cereals, cooked with hot cereals, or in the delightful recipes on every package. Made in Battle Creek. Sold by grocers everywhere.

Firestone Balloon Gum-Dipped Cords

The Firestone Balloon Gum-Dipped Cord tire has brought about one of the greatest advances in the comfort, safety and economy of motoring since the invention of the pneumatic tire. Low air pressure without sacrificing service or economy is the fundamental principle underlying its construction.

It is built with double the air volume of the regular tire thus requiring only half as much air pressure. However, it is not merely an oversize tire. Because of the extreme flexibility demanded of it, this tire is of new design throughout.

It has thin sidewalls of limited ply construction, an entirely new type of carcass and specially designed tread with double the road contact of ordinary tires. And, most important of all, it is built with the special Firestone Gum-Dipping Process, which makes the Balloon tire practical and successful.

Firestone has been the pioneer in the development of the Balloon Gum-Dipped Cord, and its nation-wide organization is prepared to supply this great improvement in motoring progress to consumers everywhere.

MARKET WAS DULL.

New York, April 3.—Stock prices registered further improvement today but trading continued in relatively small volume. Professional bear traders, apparently discouraged by their recent failure to dislodge stocks for covering purposes, suspended their attacks while operations of the long side were a rather cautious character.

Bullish sentiment undoubtedly was created by the brighter prospects for early action by the senate on the tax reduction bill. Speculative expectations that the market will make a favorable response to the Dawes report, which probably will be made public at the end of the week, was reflected in the strength of stocks likely to benefit by an amicable settlement of the troublesome reparations problem.

Revival of interest in the copper shares was based on prospective buying orders from abroad. American Smelting was the leader of this group, closing nearly 3 points higher at 61. Most of the others improved fractionally. American Zinc issues were strong.

Speculative interest in the railroad group was divided between the Erie and St. Paul issues, buying o Both being predicated on large current earnings. St. Paul preferred touched a new high for the year at 36 1-4 while Erie common and first preferred closed approximately a point higher at 25 3-4 and 33 5-8 respectively. Other strong spots in that group were Southern Pacific, which climbed to 2 3-4 points to 89 and Northern Pacific and Chesapeake and Ohio, each of which advanced about a point.

Steel shares rallied slightly on publication of weekly trade reviews estimating that March ingot production would equal that of last April, the peak month in 1923. U. S. Cast Iron Pipe rallied 2 1-2 points on short covering. Studebaker moved up 1 5-8 on President Erskine's statement that the company should earn the $10 dividend this year with a 50 per cent. margin to spare.

General Electric climbed more than 3 points to 223 1-4 despite official denial that there would be any shtock split-up. Reynolds Tobacco B., one of the weak spots yesterday, rallied more than 3 points. Marked improvement also was registered by other tobacco shares. Oils held firm, with the greatest activity in the low priced issues, particularly Transcontinental, Skelly and Superior, buying of the last named being based on reports of increased operations. American Telephone rallied another 1 1-2 points to 126 3-4.

Call money opened at 4 1-2 per cent, but dropped to four after noon. Little change was apparent in the time money market, short term loans ruling at 4 1-2 per cent., and the longer maturities at 4 3-4. Prime commercial paper was unchanged at 4 1-2.

Establishment of new high records by French and Belgian francs, the former crossing 6 cents, featured the foreign exchange market. Profit taking was noted, however, in the Italian, Swiss, Spanish and Scandinavian currencies.

BOND MARKET.

New York, April 2.—Responding to lower money rates and reports that senate action on the tax reduction measure would be expedited, bond prices displayed material improvement as trading expanded today. Liberty bonds, in which there was a revival of activity, led all standard investment issues into higher ground.

The rally of the French franc to above 6 cents stimulated buying of French bonds, the governmental 8s attained a new high level for the year at 99 and most of the municipal issues registered substantial gains. Other foreign obligations were mixed.

An 8-point break in Wickwire-Spencer 7s was attributed to speculative activities. With a narrow market prevailing in the bonds, a relatively small volume of offerings thrown on the market toward the close was sufficient to depress the price at one time to 51. Officials of the company said that interest requirements had been more than earned in 1923 and also in the first quarter of this year.

Improvement in the earnings of the Erie railroad last year, as shown in the annual report today, contributed to an upward movement in the company bonds, with gains comparing favorably to those of the St. Paul issues, which again held leadership of the rails.

Local bankers were awarded $2,235,000 twenty-thirty year, 4 1-2 per cent. improvement bonds of the territory of Hawaii, which will be sold around par. Offering is expected shortly of about $5,000,000 Northern States Power 6s and other public utility issues.

CURB MARKET.

New York, April 2.—Stock prices continued to forge upward in today's curb market with sharp gains taking place in some of the high price oil shares. A slightly broadening tendency was noted, particularly in the speculative issues.

A sudden burst of activity and strength in New Mexico Land, which touched a new 1924 high at 10, featured the oil group. Gains of 1 to 2 points were recorded by Prairie Oil and Gas, Humble, Ohio Oil and Sandard of Kansas while Borne and Scrymser, Chesebrough Manufacturing, Standard Oils of Nebraska and Ohio and Swan and Finch jumped 4 to 9 points.

Few changes of importance took place in the industrial group, American Light and Traction and Durant Motors being among the few outstanding strong spots.

Chief interest in the mining group centered in the newly listed Kay Copper Corporation stock, nearly $5,000 of which changed hands between 1 and 1 1-16.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, April 2.—Corn led a general advance today in the value of receipts of corn here were the smallest so far this season, and there was talk that the May delivery might yet reach $1.00 a bushel. The corn market closed firm, 3-4c to 1c net higher May 78 7-8 to 79. Wheat also finished firm, 5-8 to 3-4@7-8c up, May $1.02 1-4 to $1.02 1-4@3-8 and July $1.03 3-4, with oats at 1-4 to 1c advance, and provisions varying from 7c decline to a rise of 5c.

Notwithstanding the weather was normal, fresh arrivals of corn in Chicago today totaled only 27 carloads, and a canvass indicated that five of the leading houses on change had fewer than a dozen cars of corn in transit to this market. Meanwhile, country offerings to arrive here were virtually nothing, and it was said considerable corn had already been put under charter here and at Milwaukee for shipment at the opening of lake navigation. Besides, it was contended that feeding of corn to hogs promised more profit than heretofore of late, and that field work by farmers would render unlikely for some time any big movement of corn.

Price climbing which resulted in the corn market began almost as soon as busines opened. Subsequent gains were steady, and the final figures were within 1-4c of the day's top level. Oats were stronger in sympathy with corn on further reports of delayed seeding.

Wheat was unsettled being easier early but then developing strength after other gains had shown decided independence.

The wheat rally was ascribed in part to gossip that France was buying under cover. Mill withdrawals of wheat in store here counted also as a stimulating factor.

Increased stocks of lard here and lower quotations in hogs eased the provision market.

New-Germian Discovery Promises Relief From Rheumatic Pains

From Leipsig, Germany, comes a report of the discovery of a newer method for the relief of pain in cases of rheumatism, gout, neuritis and neuralgia without the use of internal medicines. The discoverer, Jacob Buhler, of Stuttgart, Germany, has undoubtedly proved that in even the most advanced and stubborn cases the sufferers often secure relief the very first day.

Buhler proceeded on the theory that rheumatism is often caused by internal abscesses (such as a blind pus pocket in a tooth), giving off poisons which are absorbed by the blood and carried to the joints and muscles where they set up inflammation and intense pain. When the inflammation appears in the muscles or joints, it takes the form of rehumatism, but where the delicate nerve sheath becomes inflamed it causes neuritis or neuralgia. To neutralize these poisons, Buhler compounded a new form of oil intended to penetrate to the affected joints and muscles and neutralize the poisons in much the same way that bicarbonate of soda or magnesia neutralizes an acid stomach. As a result the aching joints are soothed, the annoying pains and inflammation, stiffness and swelling are relieved in many instances with even the first few applications.

Note: The oil referred to above is known in this country as Buhler Oil. At the present time, the following druggists report that they have secured a limited quantity of Buhler Oil for distribution in this city. So remarkable have been the results from the use of Buhler Oil that these druggists are giving their customers a written guarantee to refund the price in full to all purchasers of Buhler Oil who fail to get immediate relief. ## LEE DIVORCE HEARING LASTED FIVE MINUTES

Wednesday's New Haven Journal Courier said: On the ground of desertion a decree of divorce was granted to Mrs. Rosalie Hubbard Lee of Hamden against Huntington Lee, well known local business man by Judge Leonard J. Nickerson in the civil superior court Tuesday morning. The hearing which lasted scarcely five minutes, stood out in sharp contrast to another hearing some time ago, when the first divorce suit between this couple was tried out before Judge Isaac Wolfe. At that time most of the same facts had been aired, when upon suggestion of Judge Wolfe the parties conferred and the suit went out of court. Later Mrs. Lee started a new suit on the same charge leging desertion and it was tried yesterday morning. The hearing was short and to the point, there practically being no contest.

Mrs. Lee testified that she married Huntington Lee, Nov. 5, 1907 at Norwich. Public Utilities Commissioner C. C. Elwell, Isabell R. Williams and Isabell S. Elwell were the only witnesses and they said that Mr. and Mrs. Lee are not living together. Attorney Jacob P. Goodheart, who represented the defendant, was silent during most of the proceeding, and took occasion only to ask Mrs. Lee a few unimportant questions. Judge Nickerson granted the decree without further formality.

Nothing was said and no order made as to the custody of Hubbard Mather Lee, the 13-year-old son of the couple. It is understood that an amicable agreement concerning the care and education of the boy was entered into between the parties before the hearing. Likewise the question of alimony was not mentioned, it also being understood that the financial arrangements were completed some time ago.

Petitions For Change of Name.

Hans Andrew Haagensen, a sailor who has lived in New London since 1909 where he has gone by the name of Hans Andrew Hanson, petitions the superior court to change his name to Hanson, in which name he holds a marine engineer's license. He was born in Sioux City, Iowa, April 7, 1891. Shortly after his birth his parents moved to Chicago where they remained until he was five years old when they took him to Norway. Here they remained until he was fourteen when he returned to this country and resided with his uncle at New Milford, Conn. He has always used Hans Andrew Hanson as his name and is known by that name.

SUFFIELD SCHOOL READY FOR ENDOWMENT CAMPAIGN

Captains who will head the ten teams which are to solicit funds in the town of Suffield for the $350,000 endowment campaign of Suffield school will meet for the first time Friday evening, April 4, at the school. The team captains were chosen following a meeting of the local campaign executive committee March 24 which was attended by S. R. Spencer, chairman; Sumner Fuller, Mrs. Pearley Lilley, George A. Peckham, A. B. Crane, Howard B. Russell, George Harmon, Howard Henshaw, E. Scott Farley, Mrs. Jessie E. Phelps, Miss Helen Cavanaugh, Dr. Hobart G. Truesdell, headmaster of the school, Clinton D. Towne, Dr. W. E. Caldwell and Samuel H. Graham.

The campaign in Suffield will be carried on some time during this month and will be followed later by the national campaign, the home town of the school thus being given every opportunity to "set the pace" for other sections.

The purpose of the campaign and the plans for carrying it on will be outlined to the members of the present student body at a dinner to be held at the school Monday evening, April 7th. Prominent alumni will address the Students' Association also at assemblies on April 3, 4 and 5.

Divisional conferences, which were attended by district chairmen, recently have been held throughout the east and the organization which is to carry on the campaign rapidly is being perfected under their direction.

STATE WILL EXPEND $4,442,046.52 ON ROADWORK

That Connecticut will witness many important improvements in its highway system during the coming summer is indicated by a statement prepared by the state highway commission and made public Wednesday, showing that the value of work now under construction aggregates $4,442,046.52. This includes all moneys unexpended on contracts for new construction as well as major repairs and indicates the immense spring and summer road building programme that the state has put under way.

Three types of new road surfacing are largely used by this state in its road work. They are concrete, macadam and bituminous macadam. Concrete highways have proven their worth in this system, and in the new work under way at this time, concrete surfacing is being used to the value of $2,416,786.96. Bituminous macadam also particularly advantageous in certain sections, and, of the new work, this character of construction is represented by contracts totalling $253,508.78. Macadam highways under construction are valued at $1,606,647.22.

For the correction of conditions on dangerous trunk lines contracts to the valuo of $104,860 are being carried out, and new bridges worth $60,248.56 are under contruction at the present time.

In addition to this amount, plans and specifications have just been submitted to contractors for the construction of new highways and bridges valued at approximately $500,000, thereby bringing to almost $5,000,000 the amount of money being expended on roads in the state for this season.

And the less money a woman has to spend the more she talks shop.

SUES FOR $3,500 FOR INJURIES BY DOG BITE

Before Judge L. P. Waldo Marvin in superior court at New London on Wednesday the damage suit of Mrs. Callia M. Exley of Groton against Mrs. Margaret L. Cooper, also of Groton, was started. The plaintiff is suing for damages of $3,500 alleging that a dog owned by the defendant attacked her some time ago, inflicting painful injuries. Several witnesses were examined during the day.

MARKET WAS DULL.

New York, April 2.—Stock prices registered further improvement today but trading continued in relatively small volume. Professional bear traders, apparently discouraged by their recent failure to dislodge stocks for covering purposes, suspended their attacks while operations of the long side were a rather cautious character.

Bullish sentiment undoubtedly was created by the brighter prospects for early action by the senate on the tax reduction bill. Speculative expectations that the market will make a favorable response to the Dawes report, which probably will be made public at the end of the week, was reflected in the strength of stocks likely to benefit by an amicable settlement of the troublesome reparations problem.

Revival of interest in the copper shares was based on prospective buying orders from abroad. American Smelting was the leader of this group, closing nearly 2 points higher at 61. Most of the others improved fractionally. American Zinc issues were strong.

Speculative interest in the railroad group was divided between the Erie and St. Paul issues, buying o both being predicated on large current earnings. St. Paul preferred touched a new high for the year at 20 1-4 while Erie common and first preferred closed approximately a point higher at 25 3-4 and 33 5-8 respectively. Other strong spots in that group were Southern Pacific, which climbed to 2 3-4 points to 89 and Northern Pacific and Chesapeake and Ohio, each of which advanced about a point.

Steel shares rallied slightly on publication of weekly trade reviews estimating that March ingot production would equal that of last April, the peak month in 1923. U. S. Cast Iron Pipe rallied 2 1-2 points on short covering. Studebaker moved up 1 5-8 on President Erskine's statement that the company should earn the $10 dividend this year with a 50 per cent. margin to spare.

General Electric climbed more than 2 points to 228 1-4 despite official denial that there would be any shtock split-up. Reynolds Tobacco B., one of the weak spots yesterday, rallied more than 3 points. Marked improvement also was registered by other tobacco shares. Oils held firm, with the greatest activity in the low priced issues, particularly Transcontinental, Skelly and Superior, buying of the last named being based on reports of increased operations. American Telephone rallied another 1 1-2 points to 126 3-4.

Call money opened at 4 1-2 per cent. but dropped to four after noon. Little change was apparent in the time money market, short term loans ruling at 4 1-2 per cent., and the longer maturities at 4 3-4. Prime commercial paper was unchanged at 4 1-2.

Establishment of new high records by French and Belgian francs, the former crossing 6 cents, featured the foreign exchange market. Profit taking was noted, however, in the Italian, Swiss, Spanish and Scandinavian currencies.

BOND MARKET.

New York, April 2.—Responding to lower money rates and reports that senate action on the tax reduction measure would be expedited, bond prices displayed material improvement as trading expanded today. Liberty bonds, in which there was a revival of activity, led all standard investment issues into higher ground.

The rally of the French franc to above 6 cents stimulated buying of French bonds, the governmental fs attained a new high level for the year at 99 and most of the municipal issues registered substantial gains. Other foreign obligations were mix.

An 8-point break in Wickwire-Spencer 7s was attributed to speculative activities. With a narrow market prevailing in the bonds, a relatively small volume of offerings threwp on the market toward the close was sufficient to depress the price at one time to 51. Officials of the company said that interest requirements had been more than earned in 1923 and also in the first quarter of this year.

Improvement in the earnings of the Erie railroad last year, as shown in the annual report today, contributed to an upward movement in the company' bonds, with gains comparing favorably to those of the St. Paul issues, which again held leadership of the rails.

Local bankers were awarded $3,285 000 twenty-thirty year, 4 1-2 per cent. improvement bonds of the territory of Hawaii, which will be sold around par. Offering is expected shortly of about $5,000,000 Northern States Power 6s and other public untility issues.

CURB MARKET.

New York, April 2.—Stock prices continued to forge upward in today's curb market with sharp gains taking place in some of the high price oil shares. A slightly broadening tendency was noted, particularly in the speculative issues.

A sudden burst of activity and strength in New Mexico Land, which touched a new 1924 high at 10, featured the oil group. Gains of 1 to 3 points were recorded by Prairie Oil and Gas, Humble, Ohio Oil and Sandard of Kansas while Borne and Scrymser, Chesebrough Manufacturing, Standard Oils of Nebraska and Ohio and Swan and Finch jumped 4 to 9 points.

Few changes of importance took place in the industrial group. American Light and Traction and Durant Motors being among the few outstanding strong spots.

Chief interest in the mining group centered in the newly listed Kay Copper Corporation stock, nearly $5,000 of which changed hands between 1 and 1 1-16.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, April 2.—Corn led a general advance today in the value of receipts of corn here were the smallest so far this season, and there was talk that the May delivery might yet reach $1.00 a bushel. The corn market closed firm, 3-4c to 1c net higher May 78 7-8 to 79. Wheat also finished firm, 5-8 to 3-4@7-8c up, May $1.03 1-4 to $1.02 1-4@3-8 and July $1.03 84, with oats at 1-4 to 1c advance, and provisions varying from 7c decline to a rise of 5c.

Notwithstanding the weather was normal, fresh arrivals of corn in Chicago today totaled only 27 carloads, and a canvass indicated that five of the leading houses on 'change had fewer than a dozen cars of corn in transit to this market. Meanwhile, country offerings to arrive here were virtually nothing, and it was said considerable corn had already been put under charter here and at Milwaukee for shipment at the opening of lake navigation. Besides, it was contended that feeding of corn to hogs promised more profit than heretofore of late, and that field work by farmers would render unlikely for some time any big movement of corn.

Price climbing which resulted in the corn market began almost as soon as busines opened. Subsequent gains were steady, and the final figures were within 1-4c of the day's top fevel. Oats were stronger in sympathy with corn on further reports of delayed seeding.

Wheat was unsettled being easier early but then developing strength after other gains had shown decided independence.

The wheat rally was ascribed in part to gossip that France was buying under cover. Mill withdrawals of wheat in store here counted also as a stimulating factor.

Increased stocks of lard here and lower quotations in hogs eased the provision market.

For Gasoline Pump Fire

Chief Stanton sent Engine Company No. 1 to Occum Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock when word came down from that village that the gasoline pump in front of Fontaine's store on Fire Tree Terrace complex also responded and the fire was soon extinguished.

New-German Discovery Promises Relief From Rheumatic Pains

From Leipsig, Germany, comes a report of the discovery of a newer method for the relief of pain in cases of rheumatism, gout, neuritis and neuralgia without the use of internal medicines. The discoverer, Jacob Buhler, of Stuttgart, Germany, has undoubtedly proved that in even the most advanced and stubborn cases the sufferers often secure relief the very first day.

Buhler proceeded on the theory that rheumatism is often caused by internal abscesses (such as a blind pus pocket in a tooth), giving off poisons which are absorbed by the blood and carried to the joints and muscles where they set up inflammation and intense pain. When the inflammation appears in the muscles or joints, it takes the form of rehumatism, but where the delicate nerve sheath becomes inflamed it causes neuritis or neuralgia. To neutralize these poisons, Buhler compounded a new form of oil intended to penetrate to the affected joints and muscles and neutralize the poisons in much the saime way that bicarbonate of soda or magnesia neutralizes an acid stomach. As a result the aching joints are soothed, the annoying pains and inflammation, stiffness and swelling are relieved in many instances with even the first few applications.

Note: The oil referred to above is known in this country as Buhler Oil. At the present time, the following druggists report that they have secured a limited quantity of Buhler Oil for distribution in this city. So remarkable have been the results from the use of Buhler Oil that these druggists are giving their customers a written guarantee to refund the price in full to all purchasers of Buhler Oil who fail to get immediate relief. On sale at Lee & Osgood Co., Andrew McLaughlin, J. A. Morgan, G. G. Engler.

LEE DIVORCE HEARING LASTED FIVE MINUTES

Wednesday's New Haven Journal Courier said: On the ground of desertion a decree of divorce was granted to Mrs. Rosalie Hubbard Lee of Hamden, against Huntington Lee, well known local business man by Judge Leonard J. Wolfe in the civil superior court Tuesday morning. The hearing which as it scarcely five minutes, stood out in sharp contrast to the hearing some time ago, when the first divorce suit between this couple was tried out before Judge Isaac Wolfe. At that time most of the family linen had been aired, when upon suggestion of Judge Wolfe the parties conferred and the suit went out of court. Later Mrs. Lee started a new action, this time alleging desertion and it was tried yesterday morning. The hearing was short and to the point, there practically being no contest.

Mrs. Lee testified that she married Huntington Lee, Nov 5, 1917 at Norwich. Public Utilities Commissioner C. C. Elwell, Isabell R. Williams and Isabell B. Elwell were the only witnesses and they said that Mr. and Mrs. Lee are not living together. Attorney Jacob C. Goodheart, who represented the defendant, was silent during most of the proceeding, and took occasion only to ask Mrs. Lee a few unimportant questions. Judge Nickerson granted the decree without further formality.

Nothing was said and no order made as to the custody of Hubbard Mather Lee, the 13-year-old son of the couple. It is understood that an amicable agreement concerning the care and education of the boy was entered into between the parties before the hearing. Likewise the question of allmony was not mentioned, it also being understood that the financial arrangements were completed some time ago.

Petitions For Change of Name.

Hans Andrew Haagensen, a sailor who has lived in New London since 1909 wasere he has sone by the name of Hans Andrew Hanson, petitions the superior court to change his name to Hanson, in which name he holds a marine engineer's license. He was born in Sioux City, Iowa, April 7, 1891. Shortly after his birth his parents moved to Chicago where they remained until he was five years old when they took him to Norway. Here they remained until he was fourteen when he returned to this country and resided with his uncle at New Milford, Conn. He has always used Hans Andrew Hanson as his name and is known by that name.

SUFFIELD SCHOOL READY FOR ENDOWMENT CAMPAIGN

Captains who will head the ten teams which are to solicit funds in the town of Suffield for the $350,000 endowment campaign of Suffield school will meet for the first time Friday evening, April 4, at the school.

The team captains were chosen following a meeting of the local campaign executive committee March 24 which was attended by S. R. Spencer, chairman; Sumner Fuller, Mrs. Pearley Ellsley, George A. Peckham, A. B. Crane, Howard B. Russell, George Harmon, Howard Henshaw, E. Scott Farley, Mrs. Jessie E. Phelps, Miss Helen Cavanaugh, Dr. Hobart G. Truesdell, headmaster of the school, Clinton D. Towne, Dr. W. E. Caldwell and Samuel H. Graham.

The campaign in Suffield will be carried on some time during this month and will be followed later by the national campaign, the home town of the school thus being given every opportunity to "set the pace" for other sections.

The purpose of the campaign and the plans for carrying it on will be outlined to the members of the present student body at a dinner to be held at the school Monday evening, April 7th. Prominent alumni will address the Students' Association also at assemblies on April 3, 4 and 5.

Divisional conferences, which were attended by district chairmen, recently have been held throughout the east and the organizaton which is to carry on the campaign rapidly is being perfected under their direction.

STATE WILL EXPEND $4,442,048.52 ON ROADWORK

That Connecticut will witness many important improvements in its highway system during the coming summer is indicated by a statement prepared by the state highway commission and made public Wednesday, showing that the value of work now under construction aggregates $4,442,048.52. This includes all moneys unexpended on contracts for new construction as well as major repairs and indicates the immense spring and summer road building programme that the state has put under way.

Three types of new road surfacing are largely used by this state in its road work. They are concrete, macadam and bituminous macadam. Concrete highways have proven their worth in this system, and in the new work under way at this time, concrete surfacing is being used to the value of $2,416,786.96. Bituminous macadam also particularly advantageous in certain sections, and, of the new work, this character of construction is represented by contracts totalling $253,508.73. Macadam highways under construction are valued at $1,606,647.22.

For the correction of conditions on dangerous trunk lines contracts to the value of $104,580 are being carried out, and new bridges worth $60,240.56 are under contruction at the present time.

In addition to this amount, plans and specifications have just been submitted to contractors for the construction of new highways and bridges valued at approximately $500,000, thereby bringing to almost $5,000,000 the amount of money being expended on roads in the state for this season.

And the less money a woman has to spend the more she talks shop.

SUES FOR $3,500 FOR INJURIES BY DOG BITE

Before Judge L. P. Waldo Marvin in superior court at New London on Wednesday the damage suit of Mrs. Callie M. Exley of Groton against Mrs. Margaret L. Cooper, also of Groton, was started. The plaintiff is suing for damages of $3,500 alleging that a dog owned by the defendant attacked her some time ago, inflicting painful injuries. Several witnesses were examined during the day.

Now It's Spring Take Celery King

Three times a week for three weeks, brew yourself a cup of Celery King and drink it just before retiring. Give it to the children, too.

Celery King drives out winter impurities and so fortifies the system against spring and summer illness.

Everyone needs a spring tonic.

LEGAL NOTICES

MAYOR'S OFFICE
CITY OF NORWICH, CONNECTICUT

To either Sheriff of the City of Norwich, Greeting:

You are hereby directed to warn the legal voters in City Meeting of the City of Norwich to meet in Special City Meeting at the Town Hall in said City of Norwich on Monday, the 7th day of April, A. D. 1924, at eight o'clock in the evening for the following objects and purposes, viz:

To act upon the request of the Gas & Electrical Department of the City of Norwich that the Court of Common Council of said City shall be authorized to appropriate a sum not exceeding Seventy-five Thousand Dollars for the general expenses of The Gas & Electrical Department of The City of Norwich during the balance of the City's present fiscal year in addition to the amount they have heretofore been authorized to appropriate for such purpose.

Also to determine whether or not said meeting will authorize and sanction the use of unappropriated moneys in the hands of the Gas & Electrical Department of the City of Norwich for the purpose of providing money to meet the appropriation that may be authorized by said City Meeting.

Dated at Norwich, Connecticut, this 2nd day of April, A. D. 1924.

MILO R. WATERS,
Mayor of the City of Norwich.

State of Connecticut, County of New London, ss. City of Norwich, April 2nd, 1924.

The foregoing is a true copy of the original call and warning of the Special City Meeting to be held on April 7th, 1924. Attest:

MAURICE R. LOOMY,
Sheriff of the City of Norwich

The Snowstorm

Announced by all the trumpets of the sky
Arrives the storm, and driving o'er the fields
Seems nowhere to alight; the whitened air
Hides hill and wood, the river and the heaven,
And veils the farm-house at the garden's end.
The sled and traveler stopped, the courier's feet
Delayed, all friends shut out, the housemates sit Around the radiant fireplace, inclosed
In a tumultuous privacy of storm.

Come see the north wind's masonry.
Out of an unseen quarry evermore
Furnished with tile, the fierce artificer
Carves his white bastion with projected roof.
Round every windward stake or tree or door.
Speeding, the myriad-handed, his wild work
So fanciful, so savage, nought can be
For number or proportion. Mockingly
On coop or kennel he hangs Parian wreathes;
A swan-like form invests the hinded thorn;
Fills up the farmer's lane from wall to wall,
Maugre the farmer sighs, and at the gate
A tapering turret overtops the work.
And when his hours are numbered, and the world
Is all his own, retiring, as he were not,
Leaves, when the sun appears, astonished art
To mimic in slow structure, stone by stone,
Built in an age, the mad wind's night work,
The frolic architecture of the snow.
—Emerson.

A House at Night

It will not be absorbed into the night
With trees; it huddles close against the ground,
Repelling the dim hush that closes round
With the broad spearshots of its steadfast light.
An eager tenderness is blossoming bright
From all its windows through the lone profound
Of nature, where all feeling is drowned
Under the blue-black heaven's impersonal height.
Spurred by the largeness of a golden morn,
A man would hasle, unseeing, by the spot
Or view the

DR. CAMPBELL ELECTED ROTARY CLUB PRESIDENT

Dr. Hugh B. Campbell was elected president of the Norwich Rotary club at the annual meeting held Wednesday noon at the Wauregan hotel. He was the unanimous choice of the board of directors which met immediately after they had been elected by the club membership. The other officers elected were E. LaRue Bliven, vice-president; J. Nelson Weymouth, secretary, (re-elected for third consecutive year); Dr. Clarence A. Spear, treasurer (re-elected for the fourth consecutive year); Edwin A. Harris, sergeant-at-arms.

The directors who were elected were as follows: Dr. Hugh B. Campbell, E. LaRue Bliven, Clarence A. Spear, Frank P. Welch, Charles A. Saxton, Grosvenor Ely, John J. O'Rourke and Judge Nelson J. Ayling. The result of the election was enthusiastically received and each officer as his election was announced was warmly greeted and all were forced to respond to demands for a speech. Dr. Campbell in taking the chair of office expressed his sincere appreciation of the honor accorded him in making him president of the club. He also spoke highly of the preceding administrations and expressed the hope that he would be able to maintain the high standards of the club during his term of office.

There were several reports from the various committees. Dr. R. F. Agnew reported for the Boys' Work committee saying that the two crippled boys that the club was helping were doing nicely. Dr. Clarence A. Spear, treasurer, made his annual report which showed a good financial balance in the bank. Also there was a report on the Dr. John S. Blackmar Boys' Fund showing that the fund was now $2,430.39.

Retiring President Charles A. Saxton presided at the luncheon and William G. Park was the song leader. There were several guests at the luncheon, representing San Francisco, Red Bank, N. J., Fall River, Mass., and Bridgeport.

Rotarian Charles K. Champlin of Red Bank, N. J., made a short speech in which he gave several recitations which were very pleasing to the club. There were also several vocal selections by the various members of the club, one harmonious number being rendered by Mayor Milo R. Waters, Charles Taggart, Frank P. Welch, Edwin A. Harris, and E. LaRue Bliven.

The meeting closed with the singing of the Star Spangled Banner.

Miss Houlihan Pleasantly Surprised.

After the regular meeting of Division No. 54, A. O. H., Wednesday evening, Miss Katherine Houlihan of 4 Fourteenth street was pleasantly surprised when the members tendered her a shower in honor of her approaching marriage to Thomas Smith of New London. A beautifully decorated basket containing many useful and appropriate gifts was presented to Miss Houlihan.

During the evening square and round dances were enjoyed and Mrs. Nellie Moore favored with an Irish jig. Gaelic songs were rendered by Mrs. Margaret McCarthy which proved a great attraction. Refreshments were served by the capable committee in charge of Miss Mary E. Shea, chairman, assisted by Mrs. Edward Connelly and Mrs. Frank Williams.

Rid Yourself of Rheumatic Pain With New Powder From Italy

Shake it in Your Shoes — No Medicine to Take

Honor is due Alessandro Volta, the eminent Italian physicist, for his discovery of a powder which promises to revolutionize the treatment of Rheumatism. Already thousands of the most stubborn cases in this country have been relieved by this amazing new treatment. The old torturing pain has left these chronic sufferers with remarkable rapidity.

VOLTA powder, as this discovery has been named is not an internal treatment. It is a fine powder which is shaken into the shoes, where it seems immediately to be absorbed into the blood, through the pores of the feet—due no doubt, to the fact that the feet contain over 10 times as many pores to the square inch as are found in any other part of the body.

So remarkable and rapid have been the results from the use of Volta powder, both in this country and in Italy, that the American distributors have authorized local druggists to dispense Volta with the unqualified guarantee of relief from the use of the very first box or your money will be refunded.

If you suffer from rheumatic pains Sciatica, Lumbago, Gout or Neuralgia you owe it to yourself to try this startling scientific treatment. It is absolutely harmless and will not cost you one cent if you do not receive wonderful relief.

You can get a box of Volta from such good druggists as Lee & Osgood, Geo. G. Engler, Frank Eggleston.

DR. CAMPBELL ELECTED ROTARY CLUB PRESIDENT

Dr. Hugh B. Campbell was elected president of the Norwich Rotary club at the annual meeting held Wednesday noon at the Wauregan hotel. He was the unanimous choice of the board of directors which met immediately after they had been elected by the club membership. The other officers elected were E. LaRue Bliven, vice-president; J. Nelson Weymouth, secretary, (re-elected for third consecutive year); Dr. Clarence A. Spear, treasurer (re-elected for the fourth consecutive year); Edwin A. Harris, sergeant-at-arms.

The directors who were elected were as follows: Dr. Hugh B. Campbell, E. LaRue Bliven, Clarence A. Spear, Frank P. Welch, Charles A. Saxton, Grosvenor Ely, John J. O'Rourke and Judge Nelson J. Ayling. The result of the election was enthusiastically received and each officer as his election was announced was warmly greeted and all were forced to respond to demands for a speech. Dr. Campbell in taking the chair of office expressed his sincere appreciation of the honor accorded him in making him president of the club. He also spoke highly of the preceding administrations and expressed the hope that he would be able to maintain the high standards of the club during his term of office.

There were several reports from the various committees. Dr. R. R. Agnew reported for the Boys' Work committee saying that the two crippled boys that the club was helping were doing nicely. Dr. Clarence A. Spear, treasurer, made his annual report which showed a good financial balance in the bank. Also there was a report on the Dr. John S. Blackmar Boys' Fund showing that the fund was now $2,430.39.

Retiring President Charles A. Saxton presided at the luncheon and William G. Park was the song leader. There were several guests at the luncheon, representing San Francisco, Red Bank, N. J., Fall River, Mass., and Bridgeport.

Rotarian Charles K. Champlin of Red Bank, N. J., made a short speech in which he gave several recitations which were very pleasing to the club. There were also, several vocal selections by the various members of the club, one harmonious number being rendered by Mayor Milo R. Waters, Charles Taggart, Frank P. Welch, Edwin A. Harris, and E. LaRue Bliven.

The meeting closed with the singing of the Star Spangled Banner.

Miss Houlihan Pleasantly Surprised.

After the regular meeting of Division No. 54, A. O. H., Wednesday evening, Miss Katherine Houlihan of 4 Fourteenth street was pleasantly surprised when the members tendered her a shower in honor of her approaching marriage to Thomas Smith of New London. A beautifully decorated basket containing many useful and appropriate gifts was presented to Miss Houlihan.

During the evening square and round dances were enjoyed and Mrs. Nellie Moore favored with an Irish jig. Gaelic songs were rendered by Mrs. Margaret McCarthy which proved a great attraction. Refreshments were served by the capable committee in charge of Miss Mary E. Shea, chairman, assisted by Mrs. Edward Connelly and Mrs. Frank Williams.

Rid Yourself of Rheumatic Pain With New Powder From Italy

Shake it in Your Shoes — No Medicine to Take

Honor is due Alessandro Volta, the eminent Italian physicist, for his discovery of a powder which promises to revolutionize the treatment of Rheumatism. Already thousands of the most stubborn cases in this country have been relieved by this amazing new treatment. The old torturing pain has left these chronic sufferers with remarkable rapidity.

VOLTA powder, as this discovery has been named is not an internal treatment. It is a fine powder which is shaken into the shoes, where it seems immediately to be absorbed into the blood, through the pores of the feet—due no doubt, to the fact that the feet contain over 10 times as many pores to the square inch as are found in any other part of the body.

So remarkable and rapid have been the results from the use of Volta powder, both in this country and in Italy, that the American distributors have authorized local druggists to dispense Volta with the unqualified guarantee of relief from the use of the very first box or your money will be refunded.

If you suffer from rheumatic pain, Sciatica, Lumbago, Gout or Neuralgia you owe it to yourself to try this startling scientific treatment. It is absolutely harmless and will not cost one cent if you do not receive wonderful relief.

You can get a box of Volta from such good druggists as Lee & Osgood, George G. Engler, Frank Eggleston.

NO RIPPLE OF DISSENSION IN REP. STATE CONVENTION

J. Henry Roraback Was Chosen to Head List of Delegates-at-Large to the National Convention—Delegation Will Be Uninstructed, But Its Members Will Be Prepared to Vote For Calvin Coolidge—New Rule Adopted Permits Each Senatorial District to Elect Its Own Committee and Deprives the Town Conventions of Control Over All Districts.

Hartford, April 3.—A smoothly running state convention of the republican party held here today selected a delegation of seventeen persons, with an alternate for each, to the national convention of the party at Cleveland, in June. It will be an uninstructed delegation but its members will be prepared to vote for Calvin Coolidge for the presidential nomination. It is recalled that at the national convention four years ago it was the Connecticut delegation which early declared for Mr. Coolidge for vice president, and it was J. Henry Roraback, the national committeeman from this state who presented Mr. Coolidge's name when the roll for vice president was under way. Mr. Roraback today headed the list of delegates-at-large chosen, and he was re-elected state chairman when the new state committee organized, and he will be again elected national committeeman by the Connecticut delegation as it proceeds toward Cleveland two months hence.

Today's state convention would have been quickly over had there not been a discussion of changes in party rules, one of which changes was the outcome of the recent contest in New Haven which resulted in Colonel Isaac M. Ullman, for twenty years the party leader in that city, being deposed and supporters of Mr. Roraback winning all the seats there on the state committee as well as electing all the convention delegates.

The rule change made the most in debate replaces a rule which some years ago Mr. Ullman had adopted and by which a town convention made up of senatorial district delegates in a town which has more than one district could control the election of the state committeemen in each district. The new rule permits each district to elect its own committeeman and deprives the town convention of the right of control over all the districts. The small towns of the state had no interest in the change in rules but Hartford, New Haven, Waterbury and Bridgeport are effected because in each there are more than one senatorial district. Hartford opposed the change because of a claim that it worked an injustice. An effort to alter the rule to accommodate Hartford failed and the new rule was adopted. Hereafter delegates of each senatorial district will chose their own committeeman and will not have to act in convention with other district delegates in the same town.

The convention taking up the recent squabble in Madison over primary nominations when party rules recognize only causes, and which affair brought two court injunctions, disposed of it by asserting its own right to alter its rules, to chose a town committee. Attorney General Frank E. Healy, who was one of a very few delegates who were accredited as being in opposition to State Chairman Roraback, protesting that convention action in selecting a chairman for a town committee was illegal, was answered by Major John Buckley to the effect that the party organization was able to make its own rules and regulate its own conduct.

It was afterwards said by party leaders that the convention action was intended as a warning to town committees that if they become involved in disputes which result in schisms, the state convention may step in and name a town committee and its officers and ignore the committee of record.

Three members of the party who were missing from among delegates in many years and each of whom had long played a striking role in proceedings were Colonel I. M. Ullman, of New Haven, Judge Arthur W. Marsden of Madison and John T. King of Bridgeport. The two first named had failed to be elected delegates but Mr. King was on the list although he had lost his seat on the state committee as had Colonel Ullman.

The Connecticut delegation will be called together at a later date to arrange for its Cleveland trip to select members for various national convention committees. Mr. Roraback headed the committee which notified Mr. Coolidge of his nomination as vice president, the visit being made to Northampton for that purpose.

Delegates-at-Large.

The delegates-at-large chosen follow: J. Henry Roraback state chairman and present national committeeman; Charles Hopkins Clark, editor of The Hartford Courant; Lieut. Gov. Hiram Bingham of New Haven; James F. Walsh of Greenwich; Mrs. Samuel O. Prentice of Hartford, wife of former Chief Justice Prentice, and present woman member of the national committee from Connecticut; Colonel Francis T. Maxwell of Rockville, manufacturer; Miss Katherine Byrne of Putnam, member of the state central committee who is a sister of Bank Commissioner John B. Byrne.

The alternates-at-large are: W. H. Blodgett of Winchester; Mrs. Alice Rose of Shelton; Mrs. Katherine Baldwin Pickett of New Haven; Mrs. Norman C. Beers of Danbury; William H. Putnam of Hartford; Lewis M. Carpenter of Jewett City and Mrs. Ernest A. Jennings of Deep River.

District Delegates.

The district delegates and alternates chosen were as follows:

First—John H. Trumbull of Plainville and George W. Klett of New Britain, with Mrs. Isabel Alcorn of Suffield; wife of Dr. T. G. Alcorn, and Henry H. Hunt of Glastonbury, alternates.

Second—George H. Bradford of Montville and F. R. Goodrich of Portland, with E. I. Mitchell of Somers and Raymond F. Gates of Willimantic, alternates.

Third — Former Gov. Rollin S. Woodruff of New Haven, with Ferderick Klingsbury of Hamden and Louis D. Stanton of Madison, alternates.

Fourth — Charles E. Williamson of Darien and Mrs. Helen E. [illegible] of Stratford, with Mrs. Lou Carson Meehan of Reding alternate for Mrs. Lewis and Louis R. Miller of Georgetown for Williamson.

Fifth — George C. Clark of Plymouth and Harris Whittemore, Jr., of Naugatuck, with Mrs. Frank A. Waters of Middlebury and Walter W. Barnum of Kent as alternates.

NEW WARRANT AGAINST AN ALLEGED PIRATE

Boston, April 3—A new complaint and warrant against Ray Cass of Somerville, alleged pirate, were sought from United States Commissioner Wheeler by Canadian government officials here today. Cass is now at liberty under $10,000, charged in a Canadian indictment with piracy and attempted murder on the high seas in connection with an attack on the British rum-running schooner J. Scott Hankinson off Rockport last August. Unsuccessful in their previous efforts to obtain from the late United States Commissioner William A. Hayes, Cass' detention without bail and removal to Halifax for trial, the Nova Scotia officials, assisted by British Vice Consul Arthur F. Marlow, said they hoped for success from fresh proceedings under his successor. Commissioner Hayes died last Tuesday.

A previous piracy charge brought against Cass by the United States government was dismissed because Captain Frank Moore and Cook Harry Harms of the Hankinson, wounded in the attack, could not be obtained to identify him. He was then re-arrested and arraigned under the Canadian indictment.

Commissioner Wheeler, a temporary appointee, set tomorrow for a hearing and the Canadian authorities said they would produce Moore and Harms to identify Cass.

HEARST ACQUIRES THE ALBANY TIMES-UNION

Albany, N. Y., April 3.—William Randolph Hearst today added to his chain of newspapers the Albany Times-Union.

The announcement published in the newspaper today said that former Governor Martin H. Glynn, owner and publisher of the paper, will continue as editor and publisher and that the newspaper's policies will be unchanged.

Papers filed today with the Albany county clerk indicated that the firm name, Albany Evening Union company, will be retained, and that Mr. Glynn will be president of the firm, Mr. Hearst vice president and James J. Kane of Albany, secretary.

The papers showed the corporation has 5,000 shares of stock, of which Mr. Hearst holds 4,997, Joseph A. Moore, of New York, his attorney, two shares, and Mr. Kane has one share, and that a bank is given a mortgage of $750,000.

The announcement said the change would bring to the Times-Union all the newspaper resources of the Hearst organization, and at the same time would give Mr. Hearst an interest in a newspaper in the state capital.

ESCAPED FROM HIPOLITO VILLA'S BANDIT GANG

El Paso, Texas., April 3—Thomas George Mackenzie, general manager of the companies agricola of Chihuahua, escaped from Hipolito Villa's bandit gang Monday night and had arrived in Parral, friends here were advised by telegraph.

E. P. Thacker head of the hydro-electric company's office, received the following telegram from Mr. McKenzie:

"Escaped Monday walked 50 miles and caught train at San Rosario, went Parral."

Mr. Mackenzie was captured in January when Hipolito Villa first took the field and has been with the bandit forces as a prisoner since that time. A demand that a ransom of 50,000 pesos be paid for his release was made by Villa. Authorities attempted then to get in touch with the rebels in an effort to effect the release of Mr. Mackenzie but failed due to the fact that Villa was being closely pursued by the federal troops. The company of which he is general manager, is the largest hydro electric development company in northern Mexico.

GOVERNOR TEMPLETON'S FAST DAY PROCLAMATION

Hartford, April 3.—In a proclamation designating Friday, April 18, the day of the Crucifixion, as a day of fasting and prayer, Governor Templeton calls upon all the people of Connecticut "without distinction of creed" to assemble in their places of worship "to pray to the God who in a made and preserved us a nation that in our prosperity we may be delivered from selfishness from greed, from contempt of law; to pray that we may have courage to stand and if need be to suffer on the side of right."

Good Friday, says the proclamation, is a day of commemoration that "affords us an opportunity to ask ourselves whether the spirit of sacrifice is yet alive in us; whether we are still ready to give ourselves for others as did those of this nation and other nations who died that the world might be saved from oppression and wrong."

The proclamation follows:

"Our fathers founded this nation upon the rock of faith. Connecticut from earliest times has observed the great days of the religious year along with those of the national year. In accordance with ancient usage, I designate Friday, the eighteenth day of April next to be a day of fasting and prayer.

"Through the ages the Saviour's death stands as a reminder that suffering and death are not of themselves evil; that comfort and security are not of themselves good; that only a life is lived for others is it worth as the living. This day of commemoration affords us an opportunity to ask ourselves whether the spirit of sacrifice is yet alive in us; whether we are still ready to give ourselves for others as did those of this nation and other nations who died that the world might be saved from oppression and wrong.

"And I recommend that on this day without distinction of creed, we assemble in our places of worship to pray to the God who has made and preserved us a nation that in our prosperity we may be delivered from selfishness, from greed, from contempt of law; to pray that we may have courage to stand and if need be to suffer on the side of right.

"Given under my hand and seal of the state at the capitol, in Hartford, this third day of April, in the year of our Lord, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-four and of the independence of the United States the one hundred and forty-eighth.

By his excellency's command: Charles A. Templeton.

"FRANCIS A. PALLOTTI, Secretary."

KENTUCKY MINER SHOT DEAD; ANOTHER WOUNDED

Pineville, Ky., April 3.—One man was killed and others wounded when miners of the Liberty Coal and Coke company, at Straight Creek, were fired upon late today, reports here said.

George Lucas, from across the line in Virginia, was killed instantly. Edward Dishman, Exeter, Va., was brought to a hospital here with a bullet wound in his leg. Only two men were believed to have been struck. It was estimated riflemen fired 500 shots from the mountainside.

Eviction notices recently had been posted to all residents of the Liberty company's mining camps who refused to work under the present scale. The company obtained an injunction this week prohibiting interference with mine operations or molestation of company employes.

Company officials disclosed today that recently workers were fired upon as they approached the mines, but added no one was hurt. The company is operating on an open shop basis, using the 1917 union wage scale.

WOULD PROMOTE THE MINING OF POTASH

Washington, April 3.—A bill to promote the mining of potash on the public domain was introduced today by Chairman Ladd, of the senate public lands committee. Under its provisions prospectors would be permitted to operate on sections not to exceed 2,560 acres in area, and upon the location of potash they would be granted leases to the land.

Searles Lake, California, known to contain potash, is excluded from the provisions of the measure, which would provide for the operation of this deposit by the governor or its lease to private parties.

Senate Nears Accord on House Tax Cuts

Smoot Says There Are Enough Votes in the Senate to Override Veto of the Bonus Bill.

Washington, April 3.—Announcement today by Chairman Smoot of the senate finance committee that some of the special appropriation bills pending before congress would have to be reduction dealt a severe blow to the chances of retention of some of the tax cuts made by the house in the revenue bill.

Bills calling for aggregate appropriations of almost $800,000,000, are pending, and some have been passed by either the house or senate. These appropriations would be in addition to the expenditures estimated by the budget bureau on which the surplus of $395,000,000 available for tax reduction in the next fiscal year was estimated by the treasury.

Mr. Smoot is preparing a list of probable extra expenditures which he thinks will have to be taken care of by the revenue bill now under consideration. In this he would include, he said, the soldier bonus bill, which it is estimated will cost a maximum of $135,000,000 in the first year of operation. Mr. Smoot has said there were enough votes in the senate to override a presidential veto on the bonus bill.

Reduction in the tax bill already agreed to by the finance committee include $232,500,000 in the income tax rates in accordance with the Mellon plan; $33,000,000 in theatre admission taxes, and about $65,000,000 in reductions on earned incomes.

The total reductions estimated to have been made by the bill as passed by the house were $446,270,000.

The committee again took up consideration of the other rate schedules in the house bill tonight after concluding this morning the hearing of Secretary Mellon, who opposed the increase in the estate tax voted by the house. This increase it was estimated, would raise $12,000,000 additional revenue annually.

Among the bills requiring special appropriations in the next fiscal year and which either have passed the senate or house or are strongly advocated are: Pensions, $57,000,000; bonus $135,000,000; McNary-Haugen farm relief, $100,000,000 to $200,000,000; postal employes salary increases $135,000,000; German food relief, $10,000,000; and good roads $85,000,000.

Complete date on the amount of reductions allowed in the revenue bill as framed to date by the senate committee and the estimated amount of revenue needed next year by the government has been asked for.

New estimates on the cost of the soldier bonus bill passed by the house, based on revised figures as to the number of veterans entitled to benefits under the bill, also are being prepared.

VOTE TAXES ON RADIO AND MAH JONG SETS

Washington, April 3.—Taxes on mah jong and radio sets were voted into the revenue bill tonight by the senate finance committee which at the same time approved the reduction in automobile taxes and repeal of the candy tax voted by the house.

The gift tax and increase in the estate taxes rates voted by the house, however, were knocked out of the bill. The present estate tax rates were restored but provision was made for a change in the brackets to which they would apply so that the revenue increase of $12,000,000 which would have resulted from the house increase would be effected.

Men Indicted For Bucketing Have Fled

New York Detectives Are Going to Chicago With Bench Warrants For the Missing Men.

New York, April 3.—Detectives left for Chicago tonight with bench warrants in search of four men against whom a grand jury today returned 50 indictments for bucketing orders of the New York stock exchange firm of E. W. Wagner & Co., which closed its offices in 42 cities in December, 1921, and failed for $10,000,000.

The bench warrants named Emil W. Wagner, directing head of the firm; Frank W. Donaldson, manager of its main office at Chicago; Charles A. Johnson, manager of its New York branches; and Ernest Tietjens, the concern's chief financial adviser.

Members of the district attorney's staff have gone to Albany to prepare extradition papers in expectation that the quartet, if served with the warrants at Chicago, will fight removal to New York for trial.

Before its failure, E. W. Wagner & Company was one of the most active brokerage firms in America. It had membership in the New York stock exchange, the New York cotton exchange and the Chicago board of trade.

With a main office in Chicago and two branches in New York, it operated in 39 other big cities in the nation. Its private wire system was noted. Two years before the house failed it distributed among its employes $300,000 in Christmas bonuses.

The indictments charge that heads of the firm swindledied its customers by trading against them through a system of 13 "house accounts."

Colossal sums were alleged to have passed through these accounts. Investigators for the district and federal attorney were reported to have told the grand jury that in two years of delving through as many of the firm's records as they found find they were even unable to estimate the extent of its transactions. One house account alone, was "short" $20,000,000 at one time they testified.

Authorities declared before General Sessions Judge McIntyre, in whose court the grand jury presented the indictments, that records most valuable to the prosecution were missing. Detectives who went to Chicago to investigate reports that some of the firm's ledgers had been destroyed returned saying the records had been sold for junk and transformed into paper pulp.

There were 30 complainants against heads of the bankrupt brokerage—men and women in all walks of life—a patent lawyer, the president of an ice company, a motion picture actress, a jeweler and several of the Wagner firm's own employes.

The Armours in Chicago and Charles Chaplin were said to have been customers of the bankrupts. Morris Feldberg, Detroit jeweler, claimed to have been swindled of $400,000 in a deal for deal for Willys-Overland stock. William H. Bohlever charged he was defrauded of thousands of dollars in a Famous Players-Lasky Corporation stock transactions.

Thomas K. Norris of Syrcuse alleged the Wagner concern bucketed his order for Baldwin Locomotive shares. J. J. O'Brien of this city, said he had been similarly defrauded in the purchase of 1,500 shares of United States Steel.

Sixteen months after the failure, John S. Sheppard, receiver for the bankrupts, submitted a plan for settling with creditors for 50 per cent of their claims in cash and 50 per cent. in notes of a corporation, to be organized to realize on "slow" assets the firm was believed to possess."

NAVAL PAYMASTER MENTALLY DERANGED; WIFE RETURNED THE MISSING $120,000

San Diego, Calif., April 3.—Lieutenant Ervine B. Brown, missing navy paymaster, whose accounts were found to be $120,000 short, was here Monday and in Los Angeles yesterday, according to navy officials, who announced today that Mrs. Daisy D. Brown, his wife, yesterday returned $75,000 of the missing funds.

Announcement of Brown's movements after the return of part of the missing funds by Mrs. Brown was made by Captain H. N. Jensen, chief of staff, at the Eleventh Naval district headquarters. Brown, it was said, is still at large.

Mrs. Brown, it was stated, brought the money to San Diego yesterday in two of the grips carried by her husband when he left his ship, the U. S. S. Somers. According to her story to navy officers, Brown was in San Diego up to Monday, when joined his wife and children at Azusa.

Yesterday she said, she managed to obtain the two grips which she believed contained the $120,000. Then, she said, she left Brown and drove to navy headquarters here, where she turned the grips over to navy officers.

Mrs. Brown's account of her husband's conduct has given navy officers here the impression that he is mentally deranged, according to Captain Jensen.

San Diego, Calif., April 3.—Lieutenant Ervine B. Brown, missing navy paymaster, whose accounts were found to be $120,000 short, was here Monday and in Los Angeles yesterday, according to navy officials who announced today that Mrs. Daisy D. # DAUGHERTY COMMITTEE HAS SUMMONED SEC'Y WEEKS

Summons Followed Testimony of Thomas F. Lane, a Legal Adviser to the Army Air Service, That He Had Been Ordered "to Stay Away From the Committee," Then Dismissed From the Service—Declares His Papers Were Seized by Captain W. F. Volandt, Who Issued the "Stay Away" Orders.

Washington, April 3—The senate Daugherty committee turned its inquiry today upon the war department, and concluded, a three hour session by summoning Secretary Weeks to appear before it tomorrow with specified documents relating to departmental handling of war fraud [redacted].

The committee had listened, before its summons was issued, to the story of Thomas F. Lane, a legal adviser to the army air service, who said he had been ordered a day or two ago "to stay away from the committee," and then had been dismissed from the service.

Lane said also that papers bearing upon his inquiry into war contracts which he regarded as his own, were seized by Captain W. F. Volandt, assistant chief of the army air service, who issued the "stay away," order. Captain Volandt, who was at once summoned before the committee, in the course of sharp interrogation by Senator Wheeler, democrat, Montana, the committee prosecutor and other members, said he regarded Lane's papers as part of the official departmental files. He had turned them over to Secretary Weeks he said, and the latter had sought an opinion as to their status from the judge advocate general.

Senator Wheeler, in the terse examination of Captain Volandt, charged that the dismissal of Lane and the sequestration of his papers was "intended to cover up," the war president's handling of air fraud cases. This Volandt sharply denied.

The papers, Lane claimed, were for the most part copies of recommendations he made as to the procedure the government should take against war contractors. Secretary Weeks, he added, had asked the judge advocate general to give an opinion as to whether such copies were official records.

His order to Lane, "to stay away from the committee," Volandt continued, was issued because the air service wished to "rush" preparations of claims against the Standard Aircraft Corporation and the Willys-Overland Company, that these might be sent to the department of justice for further action.

Although not in possession of his records, Lane described his own investigations and recommendations touching the Standard company, the Lincoln Motor Corporation and the American Bosch Magneto Company which had war contracts.

From the Standard Company, controlled by Mitsui and Co., a New York subsidiary of a Japanese banking firm he said, the government should have obtained re-payment of about $2,200,000. From the American Bosch Magneto Company, he had recommended repayment of $450,000 and from the Lincoln Corporation, he fixed the sum of $9,890,000.

A promise was made by the department of justice in the Lincoln Motors case, he said, over the formal protest of the war department, for $1,000,000, after the company had gone into receivership. From the others, he added, nothing had been obtained, and, against them no action had been instituted.

All the governmental claims arose from war investigations of war contract settlements, Lane explained. His story of the Bosch Magneto case, went further than the detail of the war contracts.

The concern, German owned, was seized during the war by the alien property custodian and put into the hands of trustees, who took some contracts to furnish the air service spark plugs. In 1919, the property was sold by the government for $4,150,000. Lane testified, although its assets were set at $12,000,000 and it was reorganized through the firm of Hornblower and Weeks of Boston, as the American Bosch Magneto Company.

Secretary Weeks was neither in the government service nor a member of the firm when the transaction took place, Senator Moses, republican, New Hampshire, indicated during the examination. The American Bosch company, however, Lane said, collected $450,000 after the reorganization from the government, although no records could be found that any war materials had been delivered to the government.

Lane's story as to the Standard Company covered ground previously entered upon by the Daugherty inquiry. The re-audits he directed disclosed, he said, that Mitsui and Company had invested $5,500,000 in the Standard Company, and got that all back and a "profit of $600,000 or $700,000, "as part of the money the Mitsui Company considered invested, he said, was $1,619,000 which it lost before the war in financing a manufacturing plant in Plainfield, N. J., and this, too, the witness said, the government repaid.

Lane and Captain Volandt, alike were instructed to remain in attendance upon the committee. In the communication to Secretary Weeks, Senator Wheeler said, the committee specified its demand for all of Lane's formal recommendations in the three [redacted].

DAUGHERTY TO ANSWER ADDRESS OF PEPPER

Washington, April 3.—Harry M. Daugherty declared in a brief statement tonight that a would prepare and make public tomorrow an answer to te address of Senator Pepper, republican, Pennsylvania, at Portland, Maine, today, which the senator said that the "selection of Mr. Daugherty as attorney-general seems to me to have been a grave error of judgment."

"I do not propose," Mr. Daugherty said, "to be made an issue in the coming campaign except for the benefit of the republican party as a beneficiary of my administration of the public business in the department of justice."

Although not amplifying his brief statement tonight associates of the former attorney general said that he particularly resented that part of Senator Pepper's address in which the latter said that in referring to the selection of Mr. Daugherty he was speaking of the mistakes not of the living but of the dead."

These friends predicted that in the forthcoming reply to the Pennsylvania senator Mr. Daugherty would make known his intention of defending himself from what he may consider efforst by republican leaders to make him bear "any liabilities of the Harding administration."

LONGWORTH'S TRIBUTES TO PRESIDENT COOLIDGE

Philadelphia, April 3.—Praising President Coolidge and the republican party, and condemning the democratic Representative Longworth, republican leader in the house of representatives declared in an address here tonight before the republican women of Pennsylvania he felt certain a 'calm perusal and weighing of the record of the republican party during this administration will prove its title "to another lease of power."

Although "a good many republicans are worrying about the chances of defeat in the next election," Mr. Longworth said he was not "losing any sleep over it," and added:

"Judged by its conduct in the past few years it seems to me that the title of the democratic party to its emblem, the rooster, although far less noble than the eagle at least endowed with courage and the love of fair play, is decidedly shaky. It has been standing for obstruction, destruction and disturbance. Of late it has been revelling in abuse, calumny and slander of the dead as well as of the living, so its own skirts have proved to be less clean than those of the party it has been attacking. It seems to me that a fitting emblem for democrats in the next campaign would be the buzzard."

Paying tribute to President Coolidge Mr. Longworth declared he already had proved himself a great president and "in his next term will prove himself a greater one."

ASK INSTRUCTIONS FROM FIREMEN AND ENGINEERS

New Haven, April 3.—A call for instructions from firemen and engineers of the New Haven road was issued today by a committee representing the men with a view to bringing to a head the controversy arising over the increase in wages asked by the firemen and enginiers last October. Ballots were issued Oct to th mn and are expected to be returned by the first of next week when a definite plan of procedure will be decided upon.

It is understood that this action is being taken as the result of the inability of the road officials and the committee to come to an agreement both on the 30 per cent increase asked in October and the revised increase of five per cent asked in January when the New York Central announced a five per cent increase to its men. It is reported that the decision to issue the ballot came as the result of the demands made upon the men over and above agreements entered into between the road officials and the committee.

C. L. Bardo, general manager of the New Haven road, could not be reached tonight for comment but it was reported earlier in the day that a statement was issued from his office stating "there was nothing to say."

BLOCK RECOUNT OF THE HARTFORD CITY ELECTION

Hartford, April 3.—Revolt of five democratic aldermen in the caucus which preceded the meeting of the board of aldermen sitting as the board of canvassers to declare the result of the city election of Tuesday, tonight blocked a move to declare for a complete recount of the vote which swept into office a republican administration.

The democrats had planned to refuse to accept the official returns and to ask for a thorough examination of all voting machines. Although the meeting was scheduled to start at 8 o'clock the democratic caucus delayed the start almost an hour. Failing to secure the control of their own party votes, the democratic leaders made no effort to hold up the election returns after the meeting had started.

EVIDENCE AGAINST NINE ARRESTED FOR BANDITRY

Montreal, April 3.—Attempts to force the release through habeas corpus proceedings of two of the nine prisoners held as suspects in the sensational $142,288 robbery of the pay-car of the money car of the Bank of Hochelga last Tuesday were frustrated by the police today, who declared that evidence already gathered involved seven men and two women already in custody.

Hourly, they said, new evidence was received implicating the captives in the robbery, in which one of the bandits and a bank employe were killed, and a second bank employe seriously wounded. Minor charges have been placed against the prisoners, and high bail fixed in each case.

NOMINATED FOR CHIEF OF NAUGATUCK FIRE DEPT

Naugatuck, Conn., April 3.—Henry J. Callahan who was removed as captain of the Naugatuck fire department last May by the board of wardens and burgesses was tonight nominated by the Naugatuck hose, hook and ladder company to succeed George W. Hoadley, chief of the department. The nomination is practically equivalent to appointment as the board of warden and burgesses usually abides by the decision of the men.

At the time Callahan was removed from office no charges were preferred against him. Hoadley has been chief for the past 12 years.

At the meeting of Francis S. Long post, Woman's Relief Corps, No. 24, this week, those in attendance included five W. R. C. department officers and a number of department officers and post officers of the G. A. R. The session, which was held in G. A. R. hall, opened with a supper served by the executive committee, Mrs. Alice Bentley chairman. The guests were: Department president, Mrs. Eva E. Ruoff of Glastonbury; junior vice president, Maud Deming of this city; department inspector, Ida Bjurstrom, Norwich; department counsellor, Bertha Morse, Hartford, and Department Press Correspondent Eleanor L. Lacy, West Mystic. Others were Commander John L. Saxe, Waterbury and staff; Assistant Adjutant General William F. Smith of New Haven, department patriotic instructor James Haggerty of this city, Chief of Staff James Young of Waterbury, Mr. McKee and Mr. Smith of Waterbury. Four color bearers escorted the officers to their stations. The president, Mrs. Margaret MacArthur, was in the chair. Conductor Mrs. Minnie Jones presented the visitors to the president. Mrs. Lucille Dinneen, Mrs. Delia Dilworth, Mrs. Elisabeth Green and Mrs. Edith Williams were initiated. It was announced that the annual camp fire is to be held on the evening of April 23.

Thursday morning the business conducted by Fred L. Yeomans at No. 23 Church street was sold to the Acme Electric company of Worcester, Mass. Elmer M. Young, former owner of the establishment for thirteen years has been appointed manager of the store. Mr. Young disposed of the business about two and a half years ago to Mr. Yeomans. The new company is also a former local affair. It is the offshoot of the oldest electrical store in Willimantic, started in 1904 by C. Winfield Noyes and Arthur E. Jackson, clerks at the time in the employ of the old Willimantic Gas company. They conducted the business under the name of the Eastern Electric company. In 1908 the business and good will of the company was bought out by Mr. Young.

The officers of Willimantic lodge, No. 1311, B. P. O. E. were installed at a meeting held this week in the lodge rooms. Past Exalted Ruler Leclair P. Merriam, of Putnam lodge, No. 574, was installing officer, assisted by Past Exalted Ruler Thurston, also of Putnam lodge, who acted as grand esquire. Later lunch was served. The new officers are: Exalted ruler, Valentine L. Murphy; esteemed leading knight, Albert J. Fournier; esteemed loyal knight, Clarence M. Mathieu; esteemed lecturing knight, P. D. Donahue; secretary, Louis J. Flynn; treasurer, Raymond A. Parker; tyler, Jerry P. Bocash; trustee, John F. Carr, delegates to the grand lodge, Charles W. Hill; alternate, R. Ernest Melody.

The construction work on the new addition to the Natchaug grammar school will be completed by May 1. It will then be necessary to install the school room equipment, leading to the belief that the new section will not be put into use until the opening of the term next fall. Some of the grades of the school have been on part time for the past two terms and a change of this schedule at this time would break the routine to which the pupils have become accustomed and would not be advisable.

The school authorities look forward to a registration of 800 pupils at the school, next fall. The number is close to 600 at present, an increase of nearly 30 per cent since the original school was opened, in 1915. The new addition is an eight-room affair. Principal J. L. Harroun's general business office is to be moved from the old building to the new. He will also have a private office. The new section will include a first aid room. The Natchaug school, with the addition, as it stands today, presents a most attractive appearance.

The funeral of Kenneth R. Brown was held from his home, No. 55 High street at 2.15 o'clock Thursday afternoon with services at St. Paul's church at 2.30 o'clock. Rev. F. C. Williams, the pastor, officiated. The bearers were Walter Williams, Louis White, Leonard Burr, Russell Winchtersman, Harry Jones and Raymond Copeland, all members of the Boy Scouts of America. Burial was in Willimantic cemetery, where Rev. Mr. Williams read the committal service. Arrangements were in charge of the Martineau-Bacon Co. Inc.

Arthur N. Jacobs, 34, died at his home, 22 Moulton court, Wednesday evening after an illness of several days. He was the son of the late William and Mary Taylor Jacobs. He leaves his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Ledoux Jacobs; a son, Arthur Edmunds; his mother, Mrs. Mary Jacobs, a sister, Mrs. Allen Green and four brothers, Levern, Winfield, Claude and Ernest Jacobs, all of Willimantic. Mr. Jacobs was employed at the American Thread company plant and was widely known and highly respected here. He was a member of Obwebetuck lodge, No. 16, I. O. O. F., Natchaug lodge, No. 22, Knights of Pythias, and Willimantic lodge No. 1440, Loyal Order of Moose.

The funeral of Mrs. Charles Kenfield was held at 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon at 62 North street. Rev. A. Stanley Muirhead, pastor of the local Methodist Episcopal church, officiated. Burial was in the new Willimantic cemetery. Avery & VanZandt were in charge of the arrangements.

The April meeting of the Willimantic City Medical society was held at the home of Dr. Robert C. White of Church street. The attendance was good. At the conclusion of the usual discussion a social hour was enjoyed and a lunch was served by Mrs. White.

Eleven cases of contagious diseases were reported to the city health officer during March: Measles 2, diphtheria 4, scarlet fever 2, mumps 2, and chicken pox 1.

At a meeting of the directors of the Willimantic Building and Loan association held recently, nominations for officers and directors of the association were made, to be voted on Friday, April 11, by the stockholders at the office in the Jordan building. The directors have declared the usual annual dividend of 6 per cent on deposits, which will be added to the amounts on pass books.

"Dick" Richard Bishop of Lebanon, now a successful voter, was in town Thursday calling on friends. Dick closed with the New York company playing The Bat, last week, in the middle west. He had one of the leading roles in the play. Dramatic critics in the west wrote of the Lebanon young man in complimentary terms. Bishop has since signed up with the Poli Theatrical association for the summer season as leading man for a Springfield company.

Physical Director Leroy A. Dissinger is preparing a program for the stag party for men at the Y. M. C. A. next Tuesday evening. A feature will be a wrestling exhibition between two Hartford "Y" mat-men.

President James P. Mustard is heading a delegation of members from the Willimantic Rotary club which is in attendance in New Britain at the spring conference of the 30th district of Rotary International. About a dozen more Rotarians will motor to the Hardware City today (Friday) to participate in the second day's activities.

The committee on revision and codification of school laws of which Town Clerk Frank P. Fenton is a member, will visit the oral school for the deaf and dumb at Mystic today (Friday).

State Policeman Henry Heinold of the state police barracks at Stafford Springs, inspector of applicants for motor vehicle operators' licenses in this section, was a busy man Thursday. The call of spring brought out some twenty-five applicants of both sexes, who visited the patrolmen's room of the police station to take the required tests.

Eight applicants applied for employment certificates, Thursday forenoon, to Archibald W. Buchanan of Mansfield Center, agent for the state board of education, who was at the common council chamber to meet children between 14 and 16 who wish to work.

STAFFORD SPRINGS

Mrs. Katrina Jenks Brown, wife of Clarence E. Brown, died at Johnson Memorial hospital, Wednesday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Brown have lived in Stafford Springs since 1906 and have been very active in town and church affairs. Mrs. Brown was a member of the Current Events club, Baker chapter, Order of Eastern Star, the republican town committee, the Congregational church. Besides her husband she leaves two daughters, Barbara and Claire Brown, also a sister, Mrs. Edith J. Marsh.

A. I. Mitchell, Miss Linda Mitchell and Mrs. D. D. Mitchell have returned from a trip to the south and west.

Mrs. Paul Sweeney and daughter of New York are visiting at the home of Mrs. Ellen Fitzpatrick on West Main street.

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Smith and daughter, Helen, have returned from a visit at Crescent City, Florida.

Mrs. James Shepherd and daughter, Miss Meredith Shepherd are spending a few days in Boston.

The funeral of William L. Smith was held at the Congregational church Wednesday afternoon. Rev. Levi Rees officiated. The body was placed in the receiving vault at the Springs cemetery and will be buried later in the Stafford Street cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. William Park, who have been spending the winter in Florida, have returned to their home in the Hollow.

Miss Ethel Von Deck of Oneco is visiting her sister, Mrs. Earl Belcher in Staffordville.

Miss Ethel Moore of Portchester, N. Y., has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Moore.

Mrs. La Vergne Dimock of West Stafford is spending a few days with the Misses Ballantine in Milford.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Burke of Springfield have returned to their summer home in Crouttville.

Rev. E. A. Legg has been assigned to the local Methodist church for another year by the New England Southern Conference.

JEWETT CITY

William Maynard, commander of Orville La Flamme post, American Legion, has received a communication from E. P. Armstrong, department commander dated at New Haven, April 1. Arrangements have since been completed so that Mr. Armstrong will speak in the legion rooms next Monday evening, April 7 and 8. The legion is hoping that the speaker will have a large audience, not only ex-service men, but of veteran citizens as well, so that the latter may know what the legion stands for and what is is doing.

The following notice received Thursday by Postmaster Finn, is of interest: The United States civil service commission has announced an open competitive examination for railway mail clerk, May 3, 1924, to be held at many points in New England states. Persons eligible and desiring to enter this examination should be advised to apply at once for civil service form 2279, stating the title of the examination desired to the secretary of the First Civil Service District Boston, Mass., or to the United States Civil Service Commission, Washington D. C. With this form full information as to the scope of the examination and the points at which it will be conducted will be furnished.

A local automobile dealer says there never has been the time here when there was as many used machines for sale, as this spring, adding, that they are almost made to order. Another man hearing the remark, recalled a fact told by a one-time resident of Jewett City. This man was an agent of the one-time Columbias bicycle. Previous to becoming the agent he went to Norwich to buy one. The merchant of the Rose trundled out a fine brand new one all in newpaint and gaudy stripes. Mr. O. inquired the price. The price $75 staggered the would-be purchaser, and caused him to remark that he guessed he would have to buy a second hand one. Seeing that the Jewett City man was really on the move, the dealer said, "Hold on a minute!" and mounting the wheel he rode it around Franklin square. Returning, said he to Mr. O, "Now it is second hand." The purchaser paid $40 and after that rode it for hundreds of happy miles.

The following note was received Wednesday from E. H. Forbush, director of the ornithological division of the Massachusetts department of agriculture. The facts set forth as to number of crows applies directly to this section. Returning fishermen and one taking walks afield, are reporting never seeing so many crows here before.

As March came in crows began to appear in many parts of New England from which they had been absent till winter, and recently the movements reached tremendous proportions. An observer in Essex county estimated that on the 20th at least 35,000 passed his post of observation, and an observer in Connecticut estimated that he saw 100,000 at a crow roost. Crows have gone into the country and into the hills all over New England in immense numbers, scattering as they passed northward, stopping wherever they found food. The probability is that there are more crows in this part of the country in recent years as ever before.

While we have no objection to the killing of crows in reasonable numbers, and while there is no law protecting them, we deprecate the project of an ammunition company which offers bounties or prizes which will bring a large number of gunners and boys with guns into the field during the nesting season of the crow which will give the law-breaking gunner an excuse for being out at all seasons of the year, cannot fail to do far more harm than good. Spring fires in the woods, which are sure to result, will be destructive to nesting birds.

A good sized gallery was much interested in the bowling match held Wednesday evening. Mr. Wilcox with 387 got away with Harry Paul, his only dangerous rival, by a margin of 13.

Mrs. Martin Hebert of New York is a visitor with her grandmother, Mrs. John McBroome.

Mrs. Ransome Read is in a critical condition at her home on Palmer avenue.

Mrs. M. L. Hobart of New York is visiting her sister, Mrs. S. R. Waters of Lisbon, who is ill.

The record match in the series being run by the Rifle club was hot Wednesday night, and some good scores were made. Charles Palmer showed the boys how easy it is to get a perfect score.

Score: Charles Palmer, 50; Dona Ballou, 49; Paul Gleet, Jr., 48; A. C. Stebbins, 48; John Davis, 45; Otis Gilbert, 45; E. Gutnecht, 42, John Medcik 42; J. Edw Wyatt, 42; W. Webster, 39; J. Davis, 39; W. Ambot, 30; Eudor LeClaire, 36.

President Palmer of the local club is very anxious that all the members who can possibly do so enter the qualification matches. The N. R. A. awards medals to all men who qualify as marksman, or better. J. Edw. Wyatt, the secretary, will take the names of all who wish to take part in these matches and will furnish information about them to any member desiring it.

WILLIMANTIC STORES
Know What To Buy—How To Buy—Where To Buy

Half a century ago the jewelry business now owned and conducted by H. W. Standish at 725 Main street, was founded by the late D. C. Barrows.

Mr. Standish entered the employ of Mr. Barrows in 1902 and thoroughly learned the trade of jeweler and watch maker. Upon the death of Mr Barrows, Mr. Standish purchased the business and took possession, November 1, 1915.

It is an interesting fact that Mr. Bert L. Hicks, the watchmaker with Mr. Standish has been continually employed in this store for the past 35 years, he also having learned his trade of the late D. C. Barrows.

Since becoming owner, Mr. Standish has made many alterations, both inside and in the store front of the establishment, as well as enlarging his stock to meet the demands of the ever growing business.

In 1917 Mr. Standish was invited to become a member and stockholder in the United Jewelers' Inc., of New York City, a corporation composed of over 800 leading jewelers in all parts of the United States. Seeing the possibilities of such an organization he accepted membership. Only one jeweler in any town or city can belong to this association and the store represented is known as The Hallmark Store.

Standard quality and quantity production is the Hallmark principle of business. Members are furnished they in turn supply the public with merchandise of high grade, and exclusive design, all at low prices.

All merchandise bearing the trade mark Hallmark is sold under absolute guarantee as to service, quality and workmanship.

Mr. Standish, however, was not content to win public confidence through Hallmark merchandise alone and for this purpose he secured a large and varied stock of nationally known merchandise, such as Hamilton, Waltham and Elgin watches; Seth Thoma sclocks; Gorham and International Sterling Silverware, 1847 Rogers Bros. Community Plate; Heirloom Plate; Ivory Pyralin Toiletware; Conklin Fountain Pens and Pencils; Glassware; Welsbach Mantles, etc. He also specializes in fine Diamonds, Watches, Emblem Jewelry and Novelties.

As a side line Mr. Standish carries a large stock of Kodaks, Brownie Cameras; Films, Photo Supplies, Albums and Picture Frames. This store is the sole agency here for the Eastman-Kodak Company.

An extensive business is done in developing, printing and enlarging pictures. The store is also equipped to furnish engraved wedding stationery, calling cards and the like.

The Optical Department which is one of the important features of the establishment, is conducted by Mr. Hudson H. Barrows, a graduate of the Massachusetts School of Optometry and a registered optician. This department has been favored with rapid growth within the last few years. A well appointed fitting room is located in the rear of the store. Modern equipment and machinery for grinding, drilling and edging lenses make possible quick and accurate work in the handling of optical prescription business.

Easter will soon be with us. The last traces of winter will disappear. Green lawns and budding trees will gladden every heart and everyone will begin to dream about their Easter wants. # DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

McGregor Woman's Relief corps observed its 33rd anniversary in the form of Charter Members' night, Wednesday evening. The meeting which was largely attended was conducted by the president, Lillian E. Bailey. The following were admitted to membership by initiation: Mrs. Ethel G. Ingalls, Mrs. Mabel Walter, Mrs. Ida Watson, Mrs. Gertrude Cook, Mrs. Fannie Brown and Mrs. Bessie House. A new feature was a floor drill of the officers, which was well done.

Mrs. Mary Kennedy in her usual pleasing manner gave two humorous readings and the president spoke briefly, giving due credit to those present who thirty-three years ago organized the local corps. She read the following concerning the growth and present standing of the corps:

"McGregor corps was instituted April 2, 1921 with 42 charter members who elected Mrs. Nellie Seaver to serve as the first president. During the first year twelve were added and as the years went on others joined. The records show that from the date of institution to January 1, 1924, McGregor had initiated 86? members. There is also a sad feature shown by the records, that being that more than half the number initiated are not members of our patriotic family today. We have lost by death 33, by honorable discharge 77, by transfer 22, and dropped 24, making a total loss of 155, leaving our membership at the beginning of this year 113. Seven have been admitted since January and at present there are 120 members."

Past President Mrs. Ida F. Thomas, in behalf of the corps, presented the charter members small bouquets, those present being Mrs. Marietta Stone of Willimantic, Mrs. Ella M. Palmer, Mrs. Aurilla Smith, Mrs. Myrtella F. Preston, Mrs. Ellen M. Adams and Mrs. Julia Rapp. The absent charter members, Mrs. Louisa Perkins and Mrs. Susan Armington were remembered in the same way. A. H. Armington is the only charter member left in McGregor Post, No. 27, G. A. R., and regrets were expressed that he was unable to be present. However, McGregor post was represented at the meeting by three comrades.

A very pleasant evening was spent. Cake and ice cream were served by the April committee, Mrs. Edith Jordan, Mrs. Sarah Brearley, Mrs. Elizabeth Burnett, Mrs. Emma Miller, Mrs. Nellie Moran and Mrs. Mary Kennedy.

A New York paper says: Mrs. R. J. Caldwell of 85 Riverside drive became suddenly ill with an attack of acute appendicitis yesterday while attending the luncheon given by the Women's Democratic Union, in honor of Norman H. Davis, chairman of the Memel commission of the League of Nations, at the Hotel Commodore. She was seated beside her husband, who is president of R. J. Caldwell & Co., Inc., 15 Park Row, at a table near the dais.

The house physician was sent for, and Dr. Arthur Stein of 43 East Seventy Fourth street, the Caldwell family physician, was called. Mrs. Caldwell was taken in a taxicab to a private hospital at 667 Madison avenue, where a consultation was held and an operation performed. Later it was said the patient's condition was favorable.

Mr. Caldwell said that the attack was one of several which his wife had experienced and that she had hitherto refused surgical correction for the trouble. She had planned to leave for Europe shortly, he said.

At the annual meeting of the Baptist church Raymond E. Allen presided. Annual reports of the different societies were admitted by the following:

Board of trustees, F. T. Preston; Ladies' Aid society, Mrs. Alton E. Withington; Woman's Missionary society, Mrs. N. A. Jodran; Crusader's report, Mrs. Charles W. Hales; Wide Guild, senior, Miss Mildred Burton; junior, Miss Grace Spaulding; Communion fund, R. E. Allen; Sunday school auditing committee, C. Clinton Cleveland; Sunday school treasurer, Lillian E. Bailey; Sunday school secretary, Marjorie Gaffney.

Brief reports were given for the home department and the cradle roll.

Officers were elected as follows: Trustees, Frank T. Preston, Edward H. Hammett, John W. Gallup, Ernest R. Warren, Raymond E. Allen; deacons, Frank T. Preston, Edward H. Hammett, William J. Craig, Wilfred L'Heureux, Clifford H. Starkweather, Raymond E. Allen, Everett E. Colvin; treasurer, Miss Lillian E. Bailey; clerk, Frank T. Stinson; auditors, Henry E. Burton, C. Clinton Cleveland; finance committee, Frank T. Preston, Edward H. Hammett, John F. Gallup, Ernest R. Warren, Wilfred L'Heureux, William J. Craig, Clifford H. Starkweather, Raymond E. Allen, Frank T. Stinson, Lillian E. Bailey, Walter L. Chase, Walter L. Dixon, Lizzie T. Withington, Grace Spaulding, Nellie V. Moran, Anna B. Conklin; robe committee, Mrs. E. H. Hammett, Mrs. E. B. Wilbur; committee on religious education, Ernest R. Warren, Mrs. Edward Keach, Miss Grace M. Stanton, Miss Grace Spaulding, Miss A. May Hammett; head usher, C. Clinton Cleveland.

The mater of electing a Sunday school superintendent was referred to the Sunday school.

Officials here were puzzling Thursday over what to do with a youth recently committed from Goodyear to the county jail. The boy was untruthful about his age being under 18 when committed, and this fact has allowed of habeas corpus proceedings being instituted to obtain his release, which likely will be brought about.

As the result of recent membership campaign activities there are now upwards of 100 members of Putnam lodge of Elks resident in the town of Killingly, the majority of this number in Danielson.

At this late day, though pelts are of little value, some trappers are allowing steel traps to remain set, trout fishermen who have found them along brooks report.

After this week, the Jacobs Manufacturing company is to operate on a short time schedule for a period. The plant is running four days a week, beginning this week, and this arrangement will continue until business improves. This concern manufactures mill supplies, sold throughout the textile territory of the United States.

Just before 8 o'clock Thursday morning the Captain Put Engine company responded to a "32" call for a chimney fire at the residence of Mrs. George Lloyd on North Main street. No damage was caused by the fire.

As indicating how slow collections are in some lines, one business man told of sending out $3,00 in bills at the first of March and up to April 1, had received only $175 in returns.

More than a score of residents of adjoining states have taken out fishing licenses in the town of Killingly, an indication that what has been done to stock brooks in this territory is appreciated across the state borders.

Continuing to have experience with cars stalled in the mud in an effort to get from East Killingly to Danielson and vice versa, residents of that section of the town are keenly interested in what is to be done about giving them better highway facilities.

A report has been received here of a trout weighing thre pounds that has been caught in the vicinity of Moosup. Rod and Gun club members who are hopping to win one of the prizes the club has offered need not be disturbed by this, as the fisherman who is said to have been so lucky is not a member of the club.

Just in the forefront is the annual borough election, an event that is not receiving any great amount of advance attention from the average citizen, though a few are thinking about it and its possibilities.

James E. Smith of East Killingly was in Boston Thursday on a business trip.

Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Arrigan have been at Providence attending a banquet arranged by the concern which Mr. Arrigan represents in this territory.

Francis W. Know, age two years, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Know, died at their home in Attawaugan on Thursday morning.

Mrs. M. V. Woodworth will have the members of the Ladies' Reading circle at her home for a meeting Monday afternoon next.

Miss Mary Hill of Broad street will have the W. C. T. U. at her home for a meeting Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Mary H. P. Lacas is executrix of the estate of John B. Lacas.

At a meeting of Rose of Lima council, K. of C., held Thursday evening the first and second degrees were conferred on a class.

Mrs. Charles A. Russell remained seriously ill at her home here Thursday.

Democrats of Killingly are to hold a caucus next week to name delegates to the state convention to be held at New Haven in May.

Unusual is the fact that as late as Thursday, April 3, the surface of Alexandar's lake remained covered with ice.

Rural Carrier Arthur W. Logee tells of the drifts he encountered in the eastern section of the town while covering his route after the April snowstorm. Mr. Logee had to shovel considerable distances to make the passage of his machine posible.

James A. Merwin of Fall River was a visitor with friends in Danielson on Thursday.

"Grön vele å clean coben" makes a line for the puzzle hounds to study over. Translated into straight English, as it originally was intended to be, it means Grind valves and clean carbon. It was written in good faith on an automobile repair sheet.

Repairs to the permanent pavin in Main street will be completed when good weather returns. It was under way when the snowstorm came along and gave spring and spring work a backward push.

Forthcoming announcements of engagements indicates that April continues to reign as the diamond month.

Friends of the Service Battery basketball team will be at the state armory Saturday evening to cheer for the local boys when they play their championship contest with the Company B team of Middletown.

PUTNAM

Presented before Judge M. H. Geissler in the city court, Thursday morning, to answer a charge of breach of the peace and creating a disturbance in a place of amusement, Raoul Bricault was subjected to scathing denunciation by the court.

Bricault, 20 years of age, went to the Bradley theatre Saturday evening of last week. Seated back of a young woman resident in Livery street he continued to annoy her, according to the testimony she gave in court, by pushing her on the head and otherwise interfering with her until she turned in anger and slapped his face. Later she made formal complaint to the prosecuting attorney and Bricault was haled to court Thursday morning.

He admitted he has been out of employment and receiving aid from the town, though he is robust and able to work. He has had some employment at the town farm to compensate the town for what it has given to support him during the winter and two days since obtained employment from one of the big manufacturing concerns of the town.

Asked by the court as to how he could afford to attend the theatre when he admittedly was accepting aid from the town, he replied that he had earned some money working about a bowling alley.

What Judge Geissler had to say to Bricault as a husky, healthy young man, capable of earning a living without resorting to town aid constitutes as severe a bit of constructive criticism as anyone before the court in years has listened to and it apparently made a deep impression not only on Bricault, but as well upon all who heard it.

On the breach of the peace charge Judge Geissler placed Bricault on probation for a period of six months.

Later it was stated at the Bradley theatre that such action as Bricault was charged with while a patron of the house will not be countenanced. The police are in accord with this and promise presentation in court for all who while attending the theatre do not conduct themselves decorously.

Once more the case of M. Barlow Diamond, New York gangster, convicted of murder in the first degree and awaiting death at Sing Sing prison, has aroused interest in this territory, where Diamond, after robbing an orchard and threatening those who remonstrated with him with a gun, came into prominence at Labor day, in 1932.

Diamond's counsel are making a desperate effort to same him from the electric chair. The same is true of his brother Joseph and two other young men convicted of murder in the first degree in New York a few weeks ago, for killing two messengers of the West End bank of that city and robbing them of $41,000, much of which afterwards was recovered.

The new and interesting phase of the case has to do with a motion of the district attorneys office that handled the prosecution of Diamond and his pals to delete from the record 860 pages of testimony dealing with the selection of the jury. Coming from the prosecutor's office and before the trial justice that heard the cases, this motion has created surprise in New York, especially in view of the fact that Diamond's counsel are opposing allowance of the motion and contending that Justice Cropsey, who presided at the murder trials, maintained a threatening and intimidating attitude.

An appeal from the convictions has long since been filed. It is pending. In view of this fact the request from the prosecutor's office that certain testimony as to the selection of a jury should be stricken out as unessential is regarded as extremely unusual.

On the other hand, it is contended by counsel for Diamond that the continuous tilts and colloquies between the court and the defendant's counsel seriously prejudiced the rights of the defendant and created an air of hostility toward him. Diamond's counsel further contends that the court of appeals should have a complete record of the proceedings before them when they pass upon the case. Diamond's counsel hold that the question now is "Was it possible for the defendant to be tried by a jury of twelve fair and impartial men in view of the conduct of the court?"

Special interest attaches here and hereabouts to the arrival at his 80th birthday of George Havens Putnam, noted New York publisher, because he is a descendant of General Israel Putnam, whose historical record is closely associated with towns in this section of Windham county, especially Brooklyn and Pomfret, and by reason of the fact that this town is named in honor of the noted Revolutionary patriot.

George Haven Putnam is proud of the fact that he is a descendant of the great general, and has frequently made mention of it to interviewers who have talked with him during the present week.

Mr. Putnam is said to have spent his birthday—Wednesday—with unabated enthusiasm for the publishing of books. He is at his desk at his office at 8:30 every morning. At night, if he has no public speaking engagement, he spends his hours at home reading book manuscripts and passing judgment upon them.

A group of the most prominent publishers in the United States had Mr. Putnam as their guest at a luncheon at the Yale club in New York. In the evening he was again the guest of honor at a dinner giving for him by his publishing staff and the authors and illustrators whose work is published in the house of Putnam.

There is to be no delay in undertaking the work of building the latest addition to the plans of the Putnam Foundry and Machine company. Workers who are to have a part in the construction operations were arriving here Thursday and seeking out boarding places. Some of them were on the job Thursday afternoon. Rapid progress is expected to be made with the construction of the addition, which when completed will make possible the further expansion of one of the most promising industrial concerns doing business in this city.

Lovers of aquatic sports found special interest at the Bradley theatre at Thursday's shows in listening to the talk that Henry Sullivan, of Boston, gave in connection with motion pictures showing in detail his efforts in swimming the English channel—he, the first American to accomplish the feat. Mr. Sullivan came here to fill one of the numbers on the weekly vaudeville bill.

His appearance in person added a great deal to this feature on the bill and what he had to say was followed with the closest attention. Numbers here have seen him while he was engaged in making notable swims near Boston.

Mr. Sullivan made it known during his stay here that his next great swimming stunt likely will be an effort to swim from New York to Atlantic City, a distance of 80 miles.

Miss Elizabeth Byrne will be the organist and Miss Katherine Byrne the soloist at the fourth organ recital given in a series at St. Phillip's church, Sunday afternoon. The program has been arranged as follows

Officers of Putnam lodge of Elks are to be installed by Past Exalted Ruler John R. Edgarton of Willimantic next Tuesday evening.

A formal opening of the new parish hall at St. Mary's church is being planned.

The degree team of Aliapah Rebekah lodge held a rehearsal in Odd Fellows' hall Thursday evening.

A committee of the Congregational church, E. C. Morse, Ralph C. Jenkins, Ray Bosworth, Mrs. Anna C. Child and Miss E. Elizabeth Clarke—has been appointed to interview Rev. S. E. Cozad, the pastor, and ask him to reconsider his resignation, tendered a few days ago. At a meeting of the church there was a unanimous vote to ask Mr. Cozad to reconsider his resignation.

Selectmen C. E. Pierce said Friday that Putnam's outside poor account is not running exceptionally high this year to date.

Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Kenyon, who spent the winter with relatives at Greenville, S. C., have returned to their home here.

Miss Etta Whiting will have charge of an entertainment to be given in the Methodist church parlors.

Democrats of towns hereabouts have called their caucuses for days next week to elect delegates to the state convention to be held in New Haven in May.

Town Clerk David Flagg has given notice that all doll taxes must be paid on or before May 1.

Staff Captain John Waldron was here Thursday evening from Hartford to conduct a meeting for the Salvation army.

The Textile Advance News has the following: It is reported that the syndicate headed by William S. Cherry and William Muir, Providence, and Edwin Livesey, president of the Mt. Hope Spinning Co., Warren, R. I., which recently purchased the Putnam, Conn., property of the Manhasset Mfg. Co. will re-equip the plant for spinning and weaving Rheabat fibre, provided satisfactory arrangements can be made with the Rheabat Corp. East Pepperell, Mass., involving exclusive control of the latter's product for spinning and weaving. The Worcester Spinning Corp., now in process of liquidation, had a five year contract for the Rheabat corporation's product and it is understood that a meeting is to be held in Boston this week for the purpose of abrogating or taking over this contract.

PLAINFIELD

The quarterly meeting of the Plainfield Library Association was held at the Community House Thursday evening. In the absence of the president, Dr. William Wilson, who is spending the winter in Florida, the vice president, Frances Baxter, presided. The secretary, Miss Annie Tillinghast, read the minutes of the last meeting. The librarian, Miss Edith Birtwistle, reported an increased circulation of books, and two orders of new books, numbering about forty, were sent to the publishers. These books will be put into circulation within a short time. Attention was also called to the general appreciation of the large number of interesting periodicals on the reading table.

John L. Chapman, principal of the high school, has been out after trout every day since the season opened, and reports good luck considering the chilly weather of the past few days. Mr. Chapman is one of the most enthusiastic fishermen in Plainfield, not having missed the first day of the trout season in a number of years, and spending a part of his summers in Maine, in search of the best fishing.

Cecil Butler, principal of the Plainfield Grammar school, spent Thursday in Norwich, visiting several of the grammar schools.

Miss Miriam Chapman, Miss Anona Holloway, Marden T. Prentiss, and Charles E. Hopkins, students at the Brown University, are spending the spring vacation at their homes.

The songs of several different spring birds, while three or four inches of snow covered the ground, made an odd contrast noticed by many Thursday morning.

Plainfield High school, after playing a practice game with the Cranska Mill team Friday last, opens its interscholastic schedule Saturday, when it meets the track West Warwick High team. Plainfield showed up well in the game with the mill team, defeating the latter 7-3, and it is hoped that the West Warwick boys will be handed out a dose of the same medicine. The opening at second base has been filled by moving Gallup, a former fielder to that position, and placing two new men, Belknap and Briggs, in the field.

Mrs. Ella Salisbury is spending a few weeks at Fred Haskell's in Packerville.

The cottage services was held Wednesday evening at the homes of Mrs. Henry Fontaine, and Mrs. William Barstow. In the absence of the minister, Rev. Mr. Prentiss, C. L. Butler took charge of the meeting and was assisted by Clarence Winsor. The subject was "Loyalty to Christ." Miss Lillian Heap was pianist.

A military funeral was held in Fair Haven, Mass., Wednesday afternoon for George W. Tyrer, who died at his home in Wauregan Sunday morning after an illness of four weeks. Tuesday, six members of Moosup American Legion escorted the body to Fair Haven, Commander Carl Opperman driving his car. A guard of honor, consisting of three soldiers of Battery D of New Bedford at once took charge of the body, awaiting burial in the home of Mrs. L. A. Chadwick, mother of Mrs. Tyrer, at 224 Adams street, where the service was held at 2:30 Wednesday. Rev. William C. Prentiss conducted the service paying a fitting tribute to Mr. Tyrer who was a member of Battery D, 102nd Artillery, YD and was one of the 50,000 boys who first enlisted. He enlisted in May 1917, going overseas in October. He was in active service 22 months, distinguished himself as a good fighter and had an enviable war record. Mr. Tyrer was in the engagements at Seicheprey in the Toul sector at the Argonne and Chateau-Thierry.

The beautiful flowers at the service included large pieces from the Moosup and New Bedford American Legions and from the Battery D, marked YD, also a beautiful piece, gates ajar, given by shopmates of the Wauregan Mill. The house was filled with relatives, friends, comrades and military officers. Among those coming from out of town were Col. Herbert of Worcester, Mr. Tyrer's commanding officer, Mr. and Mrs. Hary Crowell of Westbrook, Me., Mrs. Sarah Simpson of Providence, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Wignell, Miss Kathleen Riley of Wauregan and Miss Jean Porteous, of Worcester.

After the service the casket was borne by six of the battery men while the legion military band played softly. The casket was placed on the caisson drawn by six white horses. The casket with draped with a United States flag.

The services were in charge of the New Bedford Legion, Norman Renne, commander. Burial was in Oak Grove cemetery, New Bedford, where a squad fired the salute and taps were sounded.

Mr. Tyrer was born in Darwen, England, but came to this country as a boy and grew up in New Bedford, where later he worked in the Bristol Mill. At one time he worked in the Aldrich Brothers Mill, Moosup, and at the time of his death was head designed in the Wauregan Mill. He was a man of splendid character, attractive personality, held an important position in the mill and was an ardent member of the Moosup Legion.

Mr. Tyrer is survived by his wife, Edith Chadwick Tyrer, his mother, Mrs. L. A. Chadwick and three sisters, Mrs. William Mason, Miss Ethel Tyrer and Miss Annie Tyrer.

GALES FERRY

Rev. and Mrs. William D. Woodward returned to the M. E. parsonage Monday, after attending the conference in Providence. Rev. Mr. Woodward was returned to the church here, this making his third year with this parish.

At a meeting of the Village Improvement association in the Country Club house, Monday evening, the president, Rev. Allen S. Bush, preceding the business meeting, read two selections, Grandma's Spring Medicine and The Fisher Boy and the Trout, followed by an article, from the Garden magazine for April, on National Garden Week, which was observed last year, by some states, and will probably become universally observed, beginning on April 21. In concluding, the president called the meeting to order. The secretary, Mrs. Everett Noyes, read the minutes of the last meeting. Mrs. Walter M. Buckingham, chairman of the educational department, named her committees for the year: Miss Laura A. Perkins, Mrs. Carroll S. Hurlbutt and Mrs. Joseph DeRusha. The president named the landscape department chairman, D. R. Povey, Mrs. Buckingham and Everett Noyes, as a committee, to retire, and formulate plans for planting trees, and shrubs, for garden week. It was voted that Walter M. Buckingham, treasurer, be empowered to purchase 13 cedar posts, for the street sign guides. The chairman of the landscape gardening, then came in with the formulated report: First, to plant trees on the Military Highway, or, on the main street of the village; secondly, shrubs of forsythia and sweet fern, on the plot west of the railroad station; thirdly, rose vines, near the highway fence, west of the Country club house and wild shrubs between the railroad station steps, and track, said shrubs to include dogwood. This to be done during the garden week.

At a meeting of the recently appointed scout committee for reorganizing Troop No. 1, Boy Scouts of Gales Ferry, at the home of Walter M. Buckingham, Monday evening, Mr. Buckingham was made president of the committee, with D. R. Povey, secretary and treasurer. Walter T. Clark was elected scoutmaster, Alfred Erickson assistant scoutmaster. The meetings are to be held Friday evenings at the Country club house.

Tuesday evening in the vestry of the M. E. church under the social and recreational department of the Epworth League, Mrs. Nelson Parker, chairman, a program entitled The Procession of the Months was given. Each month was represented in costume by a person or persons, and interpreted were songs and piano selection. Beginning with January, Miss Ida Erickson, song, Jingle Bells; February, Misses Em-Beth Bennett, Helen L. Colver, in colonial costumes; March, Boy and Kite, Richard and Enid Latimer; April, Myrtice Coman and Margaret Parker, under an umbrella, song, If You Had Been Born on April day; May, reading, Flanders Fields, Mrs. C. E. Colver as Red Cross nurse, accompanied by Boy Scouts, C. E. Colver Jr. and Paul Miller; June, bride, Mrs. Alton Stoddard, with little Ruth Hurlbutt as flower girl; music, The Wedding March From Lohengrin; July, America, Laura McGuire with recitation, Independence Bell, by Viola Riley and song, America, the Beautiful, by audience; August, Summer, J. Edmund Norman, Jr., Carol Norman, with Eleanor Smith, song, Good Old Summer Time; September, Schooldays, Margaret S. Colver and William McNaught; October (omitted); November, Puritan maiden, Miss Jennie G. Perkins; December, Matilda Harold, song, Silent Night. Jokes read by Rev. W. D. Woodward.

Miss Rose Norcross in colonial costume announced the program. The pianists were Miss Alice Satterlee and Miss Perkins. Although the weather was most unusual, with snow and thunder showers, about fifty were in attendance. Ice cream, macaroons and ladies' fingers were served.

Alfred Joffa of Hartford and George Cryne of Waterbury, traveling salesmen, were guests Wednesday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Parker.

Orrin S. Bennett, who is ill at the home of his relatives, Frank Davis and sisters, the Misses Davis, in Norwich, is said to be much improved. His mother, Mrs. Emma S. Bennett, is in Norwich with him.

Mrs. Arthur O. Faford and son Stanley of West Mystic, have arrive at the cottage of Miss Laura A. Perkins at Perkins place, which Mrs. Faford has rented and her household goods have arrived by auto truck preparatory to the coming of her husband, Mr. Faford, from Auburn, Me., to assume his duties as first trick operator at the New Haven railroad station here.

Diseases traced to constipation are many —get permanent relief with Kellogg's Bran

Why does constipation breed other diseases? Because it feeds your system with dangerous poisons. And the longer you suffer, the more poisons accumulate. That is why constipation should be relieved at once.

Doctors recommend Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled. They know it brings results because it is ALL bran. And only ALL bran can be 100 per cent effective in relieving constipation.

ALL bran — Kellogg's — sweeps clean and purifies the intestine. It acts as nature acts. It makes the intestine function naturally and regularly. If eaten regularly, it will bring permanent relief in the most chronic cases of constipation—is guaranteed to do so or your grocer returns your money.

Eat at least two tablespoonfuls daily—in chronic cases, with every meal. You will like the wonderful Kellogg flavor—so crisp and nut-like—so different from ordinary bran, which are most unpalatable.

Eat Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, with milk or cream. Sprinkle it over other cereals. Cook it with hot cereals. And by all means try it in the recipes given on every package.

Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, made in Battle Creek, is served in individual packages by the leading hotels and restaurants. Sold by all grocers.

STATE CONVENTION RESULTS.

Connecticut has followed its custom in sending an uninstructed delegation to the national republican convention. There was no question but what the convention had full confidence in the judgment of those selected to represent this commonwealth and there is no doubt but what the whole delegation will be found standing solidly for the nomination of Calvin Coolidge at Cleveland. There will be no mistake made in counting them as Coolidge advocates and supporters.

The state convention was a most harmonious one and the delegates named, including some who have been similarly honored before, are representative of the party.

How Connecticut stands upon national issues was well set forth at length by Lieutenant Governor Bingham who dwelt carefully upon the accomplishments of the administration, made fitting reference to the nation's loss of a great leader and showed that the state of Connecticut was loyally supporting the policies of President Coolidge. He dwelt with much emphasis upon the investigations at Washington, expressed confidence in the president's determination to get back what has been illegally acquired and to punish the guilty, spoke fittingly of the federal financial policies and accomplishments and voiced the sentiment of the state in praising the Mellon tax plan. He likewise dwelt at much length on the subject of education and the importance of leaving it unfettered by government bureaucracy. It was an address that all should read.

In the choice of J. Henry Roraback as chairman of the state central committee to succeed himself there was the logical expression of the various sections of the state as foretold by the caucuses. His guidance is thereby given endorsement. Conditions indicate more harmony than four years ago in the state central committee and augur Chairman Roraback's retention as national committeeman.

TIME FOR SUPPRESSION.

No sympathy can be displayed for those members of the freshman class at Syracuse university who gave an exhibition of sheer lawlessness upon going to the home of the chairman of the sophomore executive committee and breaking in in their determination to obtain him as a hostage.

College stunts are many and curious. They are not fully understood by those who have not participated therein but that doesn't mean that those involved are not disposed to go much farther than they are justified in their efforts to carry out their plans.

The affair at Syracuse was in keeping with the lack of restraint which has been too often disclosed in connection with hazings. They were bent upon carrying out their purpose regardless of what was required, who suffered or the effect it might have upon others. That their acts caused the firing of shots before they stopped indicates the character of their conduct.

It was a case which neither the city nor college authorities can ignore, and when the vice chancellor of the university states that if those responsible can be rounded up and proof of wire cutting and breaking into a residence established the penalty of expulsion will be imposed regardless of what the courts may do. In numerous universities and colleges the practice of hazing has been abandoned because of the dangerous practices of the hazers. In some it has been forced while in others the wisdom of such sensible action has been recognized and such affairs have been voluntarily banned. The same spirit has resulted in the elimination of rushes and fights which have long since gotten out of bounds. If it has not recognized the need of taking action in keeping with this sentiment in the past, there can be no question but what Syracuse has had it brought forcibly to its attention now. The latest escapade is not one that should be handled with gloves and preliminaries indicate that it will not be

AID OUR SHIPS.

When attention is called to the fact that American shipping is being boycotted because of resentment to the preferential rates given American ships in an endeavor to give encouragement to our merchant marine, it is that tit for tat that there was reason to expect.

It is interesting how it works out. The lower rates for goods carried in American bottoms will not go into effect until next month and yet the effects of that advantage is already being felt in the boycotting of American vessels. On the other hand foreign ships have long since been getting the advantages of a government subsidy and yet there has never been much thought directed by American shippers to using American vessels because of such a situation.

Among American shippers the aim has been to get transportation at the lowest figure whether the goods were carried under the United States flag or the flag of some other country. Patriotism seems to be stronger in other countries in this respect. They believe in standing by their merchant marines, and when this country undertakes any legislation that indicates a discrimination in behalf of our ships they are prepared to meet it by making use of their own even though it costs more to do so.

Our merchant marine act has been in existence for four years. The special concession to American shippers has not been put into operation. There have been claims as to how it would operate and what complications would result therefrom but the test has never been made. We have refused to provide a subsidy for our ships the same as other nations do and now there will be an opportunity to note how the decision to encourage American vessels will work out. Whether the ship owners experiences of the past are going to be lightened, or whether they are going to be made worse ought not to remain in doubt very long after the preferential rates go into effect.

CUTTING TAXES.

One extensive national demand is that for tax reduction. Thus when it is declared by Senator Smoot of the senate finance committee that a federal tax reduction bill is sure to be passed before adjournment the reception of such news is bound to be pleasing. The wonder is that there has been so much opposition to a measure that is intended for the general good of the country, so determined an effort to play politics over something that might have been kept non-partisan and so many efforts to throw obstacles in the way of the intended benefits.

Whether congress would have made such a move for tax reduction but for the statement and suggestion by Secretary Mellon of the treasury department is a question. There was, however, no reason for the expression of resentment because he pointed out the opportunity of doing something for national welfare. What seems to be clearly established, however, is that congress had gotten it all fixed to turn this revenue which the secretary of the treasury declared the people were entitled to receive in the way of lowered taxes to the satisfying of a huge gratuity which would prevent tax cutting for a long period of years.

For that reason while the statement that a tax reduction measure will be adopted at this session must be regarded as pleasing, the country will not accept it in the same spirit that it would if it were not followed by a statement by Senator Smoot that there will also be bonus legislation and that the senate is strong enough for it to pass it over a presidential veto. This cannot be regarded as convincing the country that it is going to get all it is entitled to in the way of tax reduction. On the other hand it conveys the impression that added taxes to meet billions of gratuities must be paid for a generation.

BESSARABIA AGAIN.

Possession of territory is one of the great troubles of European unrest. It has been so for years and it seems likely to continue.

According to the decision of the powers following the war Rumania was given that part of southwestern Russia known as Bessarabia. It is a fertile region and one that might be desired by any country seeking expansion. For the same reason Russia could be expected to dislike parting with it.

As a matter of fact Bessarabia is claimed both by Rumania and by Russia. The former claims it as a prize of the war and Russia refuses to part with it. In an endeavor to establish customs lines under such conditions there has been a conference between the countries. Some progress was made only to be overcome by failure to agree and the conference seems destined to failure if it hasn't already reached that point.

Under such conditions the European method of settling the matter is to go to war about it. It is territory that has been under various flags and it is a question whether self determination would be agreed to under the circumstances. For a long time it was held by Turkey but in view of being Russian territory for the last century sentiment there may have crystallized in favor of Rumania.

In the adjustment of certain disputes regarding similar claims in Europe much is claimed for the services of the league of nations. Possibly it can convince Russia that it not only has no claim there but should agree to the award made by the powers.

THE SPIRIT OF GIVING

"This matter of birthday presents is a serious one in a family as devoted as ours," remarked the red-haired girl, plaintively. "I used to make little gifts but since the oculist has told me to save my eyes the family has refused to accept my handiwork. And while I may be a beautiful maiden, I'm by no means a rich one."

"Why don't you bake a cake or make candies?" suggested the girl who liked to cook. "I made a white cake for Nell's anniversary last week. She thought I was a dear to do it, and it only meant making a double quantity, as I'd already promised a cake for the church supper."

"That's all very well, but my talents distinctly do not lie in the culinary direction," mourned the red-haired maiden. "When mother was away last summer and the cook was called home suddenly, I tried my best, but after two days father tactfully suggested that it didn't seem worth getting hot over a cook-stove for just two of us. He declared that prepared breakfast food and fruit was all he wanted in the mornings and we might as well eat our dinners at the country club until mother came back."

"Why not buy something?"

"That's just it. I did. I bought myself a perfectly innocent looking gray coat with squirrel collar and cuffs. And then discovered that not a gown I owned looked well with it and I had to get an afternoon frock in that new green to make any sort of appearance. And then my hats didn't go with the frock and naturally that meant a new hat and I had to have long gray gloves and—oh, well, you know how it is! Until I had all the required accessories that modest little squirrel-trimmed wrap might have been a sable coat for the dent it made in my purse.

"And not only do all our family birthdays come within a month of each other, but here is Cousin Tom getting married next month and I just have to send him a worth-while wedding gift because he used to run around with me a lot and I cannot have people think I am anything but pleased at his marrying Angela. I had planned to give them a bit of old family silver, but Tom spoiled that by remarking that he was so glad he was marrying a girl whose parents had made their money themselves and had none of those out-of-date heirlooms to wish onto their daughter."

"You do seem to be in a bad position," the friend sympathized. "Couldn't you get the family to declare a moratorium on birthdays this year?"

"No, they are too sentimental for that," mourned the red-headed one. "They'd just tell me not to mind getting them anything and then make me hideously uncomfortable by loading me with gifts when my turn comes on my natal day. But I have thought of one scheme. How would it do to tell mother that while I can't use my eyes to make anything I don't approve of letting anniversaries pass unnoticed. So, if she thinks it more seemly I'll go ahead and plunge on father's gift and borrow the money for it from her. And then I can borrow from father to buy mother's. By the time my birthday comes I may have paid my debts and saved enough so they can both borrow from me to buy their birthday gifts for me."

"Sounds sort of complicated and a bit like high finance," the friend complained, "but it might work. What are you thinking of getting them?"

"Well," the red-haired girl confessed a bit shamefacedly, "I am invited to the Towney-Smiths for the last week of the month and I saw the loveliest gray leather suitcase that would look just too stunning with my new coat—and father does need a new suitcase, anyway. And mother has no fan, as I could as well as not get her a lovely jade feather one and then borrow it for that house party.

"The folks do hate useless gifts and I am sure these would be useful enough to please even the most captious. Don't you think they'd have to admit I am getting practical at last?"
—Exchange.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

George Otis Smith, who has been named by President Coolidge as head of a commission to ascertain the best means of conserving the nation's oil supply, is director of the Geological Survey, which is the largest organization of its kind in the world and one of the most important of the scientific bureaus maintained by the United States government. Dr. Smith has spent many years in the service of the Government. A native of Maine, he was graduated from Colby College in 1898 and then went to John Hopkins University for post graduate work. While in college he made geology his specialty and as soon as he had completed his studies he started upon his chosen career as member of a geological surveying field party on the iron range in upper Michigan. Soon after receiving his first gratical experience he joined the Geological Survey and for several years was engaged in field work in various parts of the country. In 1907, when but 35 years of age, he was chosen to succeed the veteran Charles D. Walcott as director of the Geological Survey.

BELL RIDICULED BY THE WORLD

Fortune gave Alexander Graham Bell, a happy boyhood and youth, and a generous education, but in early manhood he frequently had to borrow money to buy food.

His father and grandfather were noted scientists. He was graduated from the University of Edinburgh, Scotland, studied at University College and London University, of London, and was tutored by his talented mother and illustrious grandfather.

While he was achieving fame as a teacher, two of his brothers died of tuberculosis, and the family moved from Scotland to Canada.

Ten months' effort, while teaching in Boston, to transmit many messages simultaneously over one wire, resulted in failure, but brought out the idea of telephoning over telegraph wires.

A trip to Washington revealed that he did not know enough about electricity. A study of that science, more over a wire. Nearly a year's further endeavor, and intelligible sentences were transmitted.

When the success was announced, the world scoffed, technical authorities were skeptical and capital indifferent. Funds dwindled so low that often a friend's loan of a half-dollar provided a meal.

Enough money raised to go to Europe, and England laughed at his offer to sell half the rights to that country for $10,000.

England, at last, became interested and high costs of material, skepticism as to the telephone's usefulness in business, and the failure of some long-distance lines to work satisfactorily, caused more trouble at home. The powerful Western Union Telegraph Company fought every step and succeeded in having invented a telephone service which it installed over its extensive telegraph lines.

A company finally organized, and suits over patents caused years of litigation and a fortune in expenses before his rights were established and success assured.

Today there are 22,000,000 telephones in the world, all based on Dr. Bell's original patents.

Dr. Bell was honored by governments and organizations of the world, his closing years of life were happy, and he died many times a millionaire.

Tomorrow—Madame Curie's Many Trials.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Protest Against Sewer Pipes

Mr. Editor: I think it is time that property owners along the Thames river made a protest against the sewer pipes from the tuberculosis hospital being run into the river.

Any one passing along the river through the summer months, sees a great many children in bathing, who can not get to Ocean Beach or any other place for a cooling dip.

What will happen to those children if that pipe is laid? Will bathing be safe anywhere between Norwich and New London?

Wouldn't it be much better to move the golf ground if they cannot stand odors than to cheat all the children out of their greatest pleasure?

Stories That Recall Others

A Real League of Nations

Two young men were discussing the matter of racial descent, which proved to be an element of international politics.

"I'm English," said one, glancing at his partner's flat feet. He looked up and with a twinkle in his eye asked:

"What are you? Irish?"

"Yes, with a little English, Scotch and Dutch thrown in for good measure."

"Why, you're the whole world, aren't you?"

Difference of Opinion

The children in the infant class at school were talking of the way animals are protected against cold by warm coats of hair, fur, feathers, etc.

They became quite enthusiastic over the fur covered animals, which they knew, naming many. "And the elephant has fur," sang out a little boy.

"He don't either," said his sister, quickly, "he has peeling."

Every woman should remember that the most successful remedy for such conditions is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound which for fifty years has been restoring women to health, strength and happiness.

ALABAMA SOCIETY IN N. Y. HEARS MRS. GARDNER

New York papers note the triumph of Mrs. Leila Troland Gardner, formerly of Norwich, Tuesday afternoon at the Hotel Astor, when one of the smartest Southern clubs in New York, The Society of Daughters of Alabama, celebrated Presidents' Day. Mrs. Gardner had the delicate task of interpreting Negro spirituals to born and bred Southerners, but instantly captured her audience, receiving a full ovation. Mrs. William L. Sands, the president, had announced that there were to be no encores; but the audience was so insistent that the chairman had to yield, allowing Mrs. Gardner to return several times in response to recalls.

Three hundred presidents of clubs were in the audience. Later, when Mrs. Sands entertained the company at tea in the Palm Garden, she declared, "I have heard both Northern and Southern singers give the spirituals —but I think you will agree with me that, as a truly great interpreter of them, Leila Troland Gardner stands alone."

This spring, Mrs. Gardner is singing a new encore song, the ballad, "A Day With You," Fanning-Jordan, which was very well received Tuesday.

One of the artists heard was the famous Jack Niles, the Kentucky boxer, and Albert Rosenthal, of the New York Symphony orchestra, gave 'cello solos.

MAINE REPUBLICANS ARE FAVORABLE TO COOLIDGE

Portland, Me., April 3—The republican state convention today voted to instruct its 15 delegates to the national convention at Cleveland "to use every honorable effort to secure the nomination of Calvin Coolidge for president of the United States."

This action was taken after delegates and alternates known to be favorable to Mr. Coolidge had been selected. Instructions never had been given previously by republican state and F. R. note liabilities combined conventions in Maine except in the Ratio of total reserves to deposit cases of two "favorite sons" and once in the fourth district for former president Roosevelt.

Piles

Can't Be Cured From the Outside

External treatments seldom cure Piles.

Nor do surgical operations.

The cause is inside—bad circulation. The blood is stagnant, the veins flabby.

The bowel walls are weak, the parts almost dead.

To quickly and safely rid yourself of piles you must free the circulation—send a fresh current through the stagnant pools. Internal treatment is the one safe method.

J. S. Leonhardt, M. D., set at work some years ago to find a real internal Pile remedy. He succeeded. He named his prescription HEM-ROID, and tried it in 1000 cases before he was satisfied. Now HEM-ROID is sold by druggists everywhere under guarantee. It's easy to take, and can always be found at Lee & Osgood's, who will gladly refund the purchase price to any dissatisfied customer.

WEDDING

Welch-Decker.

John Welch of this city and Miss Irene Decker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Decker of Mystic, were married Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock at the Baptist parsonage in Mystic, by the Rev. J. G. Osborne. The bride wore a blue traveling gown with hat to match and carried a bouquet of bridal roses. The wedding was witnessed by Miss Mary Decker, sister of the bride, Cornelius Welch of Noank, and Mr. and Mrs. Decker. After the ceremony they went to New London where the wedding breakfast was held.

After a short trip to Massachusetts Mr. and Mrs. Welch will reside in Norwich.

Baribeault-Valentine.

Word was received in this city on Thursday of the marriage of Miss Loretta Valentine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Valentine of 21 Happy street, this city, to Arthur Baribeault of Danielson. The marriage took place in New York Monday evening, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Father O'Neill, rector of St. Thomas Apostle church. The attendants were Miss May Renovand Joseph E. Reilly, intimate friends of the couple. The bride received gifts of silverware, linen and other priceless presents.

Following the ceremony a wedding supper was given at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. B. Palmer of 68 West 116th street. Mr. and Mrs. Baribeault after a short wedding trip will reside at the home of the bride's parents.

OBITUARY.

Sister Mary Pauline.

Sister M. Pauline, 34, died Thursday evening at St. Joseph's hospital, Willimantic, following an operation Monday for appendicitis. She was a teacher in St. Joseph's school, Willimantic, and had taught up to Friday, when she was taken ill. On her removal to the hospital, her brother Dr. William Murray, Good, of Waterbury, was associated with the local surgeons in the consideration of her case and her condition was apparently very favorable. Thursday night a sudden change resulted in her death, about 10 o'clock. Members of her family speeded from Norwich to Willimantic, but before they reached the hospital she had become unconscious.

In the world, Sister Pauline was Miss Agnes Pauline Good, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Good, of Everett street, Norwich. She attended Norwich Free Academy for two years, and was graduated from the Academy of the Holy Family at Baltic. She had early shown a vocation for the religious life, and following a period of study and training at the Baltic convent, she went abroad; to the mother-house of the Sisters of Charity, at Tilburg, Holland.

Terminating a year's preparation and study there, she was professed a nun in 1912, at the age of seventeen and had spent seventeen active and happy years as a religious.

For several years she taught the seventh grade at the Baltic convent school, then was transferred by her superiors to St. Joseph's school, Willimantic, where she has since been a successful grade teacher. She also taught the languages in both schools. The seventeen years of her consecrated life, although spent quietly and unknown to the world, have been far-reaching in their influence, for the holy young nun has left the impress of her beautiful character and zeal for God's service upon the hundreds of pupils whose futures she has helped to mold. While her sudden death has brought the keenest sorrow to her relatives, they are consoled by the thought that in her short life she has accomplished boundless results.

Besides her parents she leaves four sisters, Mrs. Daniel Mooney, of Hartford, Mrs. Vincent W. Weiss, of New York, Misses Mary T. and Julia J. Good—teachers in the Norwich schools—also three brothers, James J. of Buffalo, Dr. William M. of Waterbury, and Richard, of Norwich.

Mrs. Ira J. Hill.

Annie E. Gilmour, widow of Ira J. Hill, died Thursday morning in her apartment in the Shannon building after a short illness. Surviving are a daughter who is teaching school in Pennsylvania and one son of Providence. Mrs. Hill was a woman of kind disposition and her many friends will learn of her death with sorrow.

FUNERALS

John D. Coughlin

The funeral of John D. Coughlin, formerly of Fitchville and Lebanon, was held from his home, No. 183 Read street, Hartford, Thursday morning at 8 o'clock with services at St. Augustine's church at 9.30 o'clock. Rev. M. W. Barry, pastor of the church, was celebrant of the solemn requiem high mass. Rev. Father Burns, deacon, and Rev. Father Eagan, sub deacon. Mrs. James P. Grady who had charge of the musical part of the mass sang "He Leadeth Me" as the body was borne into the church, "Ave Maria" at the offertory, and "Beautiful Land On High" at the close of the service. A delegation from Hartford Council, K. of C., acted as flower bearers.

Burial was in St. John's cemetery, Middletown. The bearers were John Keegan, Joseph Coughlin, Peter Montagna, James Cashman, Thomas Sullivan and Dr. Harry S. Reynolds.

Oscar S. Allen

With a large attendance of relatives and friends the funeral of Oscar S. Allen was held from his home at Hanover at 1 o'clock Thursday afternoon. Rev. Roderick McLeod, pastor of the Hanover Congregational church, conducted the services and Mrs. Frank Smith of Hanover rendered Lead Kindly Light and Until We Meet Again. There was a wealth of beautiful floral forms.

Burial was in the family lot in Scotland cemetery where a committal service was read by Rev. Mr. McLeod. The bearers were Joseph and Henry Smith and Herbert and Frank Anthony.

Undertaker George G. Grant was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

CITIZENSHIP DENIED ALIENS WHO CLAIMED EXEMPTION

New Haven, April 3.—Judge Thomas in the United States court today rendered a decision which denies citizenship to all aliens who claimed exemption from war service under class 5-F on the grounds that they were not naturalized citizens of this country. The decision affects several hundred foreign born residents of Connecticut. Judge Thomas in deciding the point in his court, requested that the decision be brought to the circuit court of appeals in a petition for review.

The case today was a test case brought by Anthony Cenimo, a citizen of Italy and a resident here. The case was argued on the grounds that one federal court held that class 5-F men, seeking citizenship, would have to wait five years after the signing of the armistice and that later, another court held that citizenship could not be granted until five years after the ratification of peace with Germany, July 1, 1921. Higher courts had not rendered decisions. Cenimo, it was claimed, filed his declaration of intention in 1918, and came to this country in 1887. Counsel stated that when Cenimo filed out his questionnaire he had intended claiming exemption because of his wife and child and not because he was an alien resident. The decision today was based on a similar case decided by Judge Morton.

Nathan S. Davis, Sr., was the founder of the American Medical Association.

SHOW G. & E. EXPENDITURES EXCEED RECEIPTS IN PAST FOUR YEARS

Figures taken from the city treasurer's annual report in the printed report of the common council for the last four years show what the receipts and expenditures of the gas and electric department, as recorded in the city treasurer's accounts have been for that time.

The city's fiscal year ends May 15th and the printed reports show that for the four years up to May 15, 1923 the total receipts of the gas and electric department had been $2,742,323.09, total expenditures $2,746,853.53, which is an excess of expenditures over receipts of $4,530.44.

The following are the figures from the city treasurer's printed reports:

| | Receipts | Expenditures | Difference |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1920 | $451,200.00 | $450,252.43 | $947.57 |
| 1921 | 825,000.00 | 828,493.60 | 3,493.60 |
| 1922 | 867,822.22 | 852,748.62 | 15,073.60 |
| 1923 | 598,300.87 | 616,358.88 | 17,052.01 |
| | $2,742,323.09 | $2,746,853.53 | $4,530.44* |

—*Net deficiency.

In 1920 receipts exceeded expenditures and the net income to the city was shown at $947.57. In 1921 expenditures exceeded receipts and the net loss to the city was shown at $3,493.60. In 1922 receipts exceeded expenditures and the city's net income was $15,073.40, while in 1923 expenditures were greater than receipts by $17,052.01.

It is to be noticed that for the two middle years the totals of receipts and expenditures are several hundred thousand more than the years on either side of them. This is accounted for in part by the entry into the accounts of the financing of $225,000 worth of bonds in 1921 and of $371,000 worth of bonds in 1922.

For the same four years, the profits reported by the gas and electric department made a total of $377,090.56. This was made up as follows: 1920—$41,885.75; 1921—$51,095.95; 1922—$132,080.57; 1923—$152,028.26.

According to the report made to the public utilities commission for the year up to Dec. 31, 1923, the net operating income for that year, was $162,583.61. Of this amount, according to the balance sheet published the sum of $44,076.42 is absorbed in betterments and improvements to the gas plant and $52,591.64 in betterments and improvements to the electric plant, while $30,000 is required to be set aside for sinking funds.

ELKS' OFFICERS INSTALLED WITH ENTERTAINING PROGRAM

Installation of officers for the ensuing year followed by a supper and entertainment, made an interesting program for Norwich lodge, No. 430, B. P. O. E., at the Elks' home Thursday evening where an attendance of over 100 greeted the installing officer P. E. R. Abernathy of New London.

Arthur F. Campbell, the retiring exalted ruler, opened the business meeting at which annual reports were made by the secretary, the treasurer, and the trustees, with a quarterly report from the house commitee. The report by Secretary W. R. Balcom showed a membership at the beginning of the year of 575. Additions had been 68 by initiation, one by reinstatement, and decreases one by absolute demit, three by demits to other lodges, 10 by suspension, nine by death, a net gain of 42, making a present membership of 617.

JOHN E. FITZGERALD

The officers were impressively installed as follows; exalted ruler, John E. Fitzgerald; esteemed leading knight Charles W. Cassidy; esteemed loyal knight, Felix P. Callahan; esteemed lecturing knight, James M. Osten; secretary, William R. Balcom; treasurer, L. E. Millas; tyler, Fred W. Hutchinson, trustee, James Semple.

The appointive officers named by Exalted Ruler Fitzgerald were Nicholas Doyle, esquire; William E. Corey, Chaplain; inner guard, William W. Carrigan; organist, Hugh Kinder. The following committees were named:

Auditing, John Young, Henry Gee, William Pitcher; house, J. R. Moran F. C. Aubrey, A. Silverberg; Standing Investigating, James Harrington, Charles Fox W. R. Balcom, Charles Hutzler, Thomas R. Craney, James Purdon, John P. Flynn; flag day, N. J. Ayling, James P. Hayes, Harry M. Land, John M. Swahn, William J. Fitzgerald; Community welfare, officers and trustees; memorial, J. F. Williams, J. H. Carney, Arthur F. Campbell, F. P. Callahan, Charles W. Cassidy.

The business meeting was followed by a fine supper during which an orchestra directed by John M. Swahn played and a programme was given by Hartford entertainers. These included the Carpenter Sisters in snappy singing and dancing numbers, Mazie Scanlon, cabaret singer, who gave several numbers in fine voice, Trixi Pillar, a sprightly dancer in several feature numbers, and Bennett and Nelligan in clever singing acts.

ROTARY CONCLAVE WILL COME TO NEW LONDON

New Britain, April 3—With International President Guy Gundaker, of Philadelphia, International Vice-President Everett W. Hill, of Oklahoma City, District Governor George W. Cooper, of Western Massachusetts and Connecticut, District Governor Daniel J. Sullivan, of Rhode Island, Western Massachusetts and Maine, and District Governor Ray Knoepple, of New York, present the 50th district Rotary International opened its spring conference at New Britain Thursday with the greatest gathering of notables ever assembled at a district conference. Between 500 and 600 delegates are being entertained.

After luncheon at which Rev. Alfred Grant Watson of Stamford, Conn., spoke the delegates went to Odd Fellows Hall for the regular convention business. A number of five minutes talks were given between 2 o'clock and 3:30. A dinner was served at night at the Burritt Hotel at which President Gundaker spoke.

At the afternoon session it was voted to hold the fall conclave in September in New London and the spring conference in Pittsfield, Mass.

FRENCH RADIO STATIONS "GOT" NEW YORK RECITAL

Schenectady, N. Y., April 3.—An organ recital given Tuesday night by Marcel Dupre in the Wanamaker auditorium at New York City, transmitted to this city by land wire and broadcast from WGY, was heard at radio stations in France and England, according to cable messages received here today.

POLICE RAIDED WALNUT AND MYRTLE BEACHES

Milford, Conn., April 3.—Police raids on Walnut and Myrtle beaches tonight netted five arrests and the confiscation of two loads of whiskey, wine, beer and cider, a 50-gallon still and six barrels of mash. Bonds were set at $500 each for trial Saturday morning in the town court.

ADMIRAL LANMAN PAPERS— ADVICE FROM HIS FATHER

(Written by Peter Lanman to his Son, Joseph Lanman.)

Norwich, January 20th, 1854.

My dear Son:

Your valued favour of the 18th came to hand yesterday P. M. I thank you for calling so promptly on the Hon. Mr. Walley—when you see him be pleased to say, that we truly sympathize with him in his sorrow.

You may say also, if you please, that we were very glad to see that he had taken his seat in the House where at the present time our Country seems to need Statesmen of his own School—high-minded and affable. It is now about fifty-five years since I was introduced to his Honoured Father by my friend Wm. Little, of Boston—and it is with great pleasure that I recollect the very many civilities I received in Leghorn, in consequence of those letters.

I have no doubt that the success of my voyage was in a great measure owing to the letters of introduction which I took with me; we were at the time at war with France and when we saw the tri-coloured flag on the ramparts of the City we at first thought our voyage was most disastrous—but on looking at a white flag waving from a Boat in the offing I told my Captain to enter the Port, "come what might come"; we entered and found the Rear guard of the French Army in possession of the City—a General Mastis in command of the City Guard and my friend, to whom I had Letters of Introduction—was the mayor—and although we were at war with France, my Ship sailed from Leghorn with a rich cargo on board in company with a French Privateer. She arrived in safety at New York making in those times—a very great voyage—so much for a reminiscence of by gone days!

I received the Census from your Brother David this P. M. & thank you for it— I have received the National Intelligencer & thank you for it. Old Dr. Johnson, the great Lexicographer, once said that he would walk ten miles to see a man who had seen the walls of China; now if you are acquainted with either of the very able Editors of the Intelligencer say to him that your Hon. Father would walk further to make a very best bow to the writer of a leader of Monday, January 16th it is a high honour to the Editors. Mr. McAdams was a personal friend of mine and I thank Messrs Gale & Seaton for their Noble article. The Intelligencer is in my estimation the most Valuable Paper in our Country & I might say with truth that there is not a paper of the World more honorably conducted.

All the family unite with me in love to the dear ones of your Home.

Affectionately yours,

P. LANMAN.

(Written by Peter Lanman to his Son, Joseph Lanman.)

February 16th, 1854.

My dear Son:

It gives us all pleasure to hear by your valued favor of the 7th. that you are all well. We have experienced a short spell of Russian weather—at our neighbor's Mr. Buckingham's the thermometer was forced down to thirteen degrees below zero and my blood, which is coursing in the veins of the eighty-third winter, was forced nearly in to that particular cavity of the heart out of which it never again shows itself.

I have no doubt of the gaiety of Washington and presume you will make the visit of your New York cousins very pleasant; they will see much more of life in the City of Washington in one day than they would at home in a month of Sundays.

Mrs. Rockwell thinks Washington the most pleasant city in the Union in Winter. The Nebraska Bill will keep your blood on the rapid move until the final vote is taken thereon—for myself I think it rather unfortunate that the Slave question should be again brought up before the People so prominently—it is about thirty-four years since your uncle Lanman was burnt in effigy at Hartford for his vote on the Missouri Bill—a Bill drawn up by Mr. Clay & for which he was awarded by the Sovereign People a higher meed of praise than for any other act of his life—My Brother lived on this side of Mason & Dixon's line—Mr. Clay on the other; they have both gone now to render an account of the deeds done in the body & before a tribunal that is always in the right.

The subject of Slavery was most fully & ably discussed in British Parliament 55 years ago. I then lived in the neighborhood of the "House of Meeting"—Pitt, Fox, Canning & Wilberforce were all of them warm advocates for the abolition of the trade—the Slave trade, & the warmer their zeal for the total abolition—the greater was the zeal of the Liverpool trader—forty thousand a year was the return profit of the African traders & they paid to the Government 4,000 sterling a year to swell the income tax.

I hope you will make your residence at the Navy yard very pleasant to yourself and to all the Dear ones around you—the subject of the Navy is of much more import than the Nebraska Bill—without a Navy we should very soon slide down to the state & condition of the Indians as found by our Pilgrim fathers—

With love to all your Dear Ones I remain

Most affectionately Yours,

P. LANMAN.

DRAGGING CONN. RIVER FOR BODY OF MISSING GIRL

Chicopee, Mass., April 3.—Four boats are dragging the Connecticut river opposite Willimansett tonight for the body of Sophie Kupew, 14 years old, believed to be the victim of one of the most atrocious murders ever committed in this city. Stanley Zalewska, 17 years old, confessed to the police tonight that he threw the girl's body into the river yesterday morning, after an attempted criminal assault.

The girl, who lived with her parents in Clark street, was sent to deliver milk to a neighbor at 8.30 yesterday morning. According to the boy's confession the girl was passing his house on her way home when he enticed her into his house and to the cellar, on the subterfuge that his sister wanted to see her. After attempting to assault the girl, Zalewska told the police that he beat her with a club until she lost consciousness.

Thinking she was dead he tried to dig a hole in the cellar in which to conceal the body but finding that he could not complete the task before his parents returned from their work in nearby factory he wrapped the body in an old carpet and towed it toward the river on a toboggan.

Before he had completed the quarter of a mile to the river the girl showed signs of life and a suspicious passerby was told that the carpet contained kittens which Zalewska was going to drown. Further on the body rolled from the sled and Zalewska was seen to club it with his fists.

Fearing that the carpet might lead to his detection, Zalewska removed the body from its covering at the bank of the river and shoved it into the stream. He then rowed to the middle of the river and sunk the carpet. Suspicion quickly pointed to Zalewska when the girl's disappearance was reported to the police by her anxious parents. Questioning last night was fruitless but after an all day grilling he made a written confession tonight. If the body is found Zalewska will be charged with murder.

Shortly after being locked up this morning Zalewska, using part of a bed spring in his cell, tore away part of the brick wall only to find that it opened into an adjoining cell.

Zalewska was arrested last year for breaking and entering and sentenced to Shirley School for Boys. He escaped and was returned there, where he was released January 27. He has a sister and a brother.

The girl has two sisters and a brother. She was small, fair-haired and pretty. She attended the parochial school.

RIGHTS FOR AMERICANS ARE ASSURED IN SYRIA

Washington, April 3—Full equality of rights for American interests and nationals in Syria and the Lebanon, mandated to France by approval of the league of nations, is assured by a treaty with the French government concluded by Ambassador Herrick which will be signed in Paris tomorrow.

A summary of the treaty made public tonight by the state department shows it to be similar in its principal provisions to the convention recently concluded by the Washington and Tokio governments with respect to islands under mandate in the north Pacific as well as other treaties with France and Belgium, already approved by the senate, covering mandated territories in Africa.

"The treaty as to Syria," the department announcement says, "provides that the United States and its nationals shall enjoy in the mandated territory all the rights and privileges assured to states members of the league of nations under the terms of the mandate.

It also provides that, subject to the provisions of local law for the maintenance of public order and public morals, nationals of the United States will be permitted freely to establish and maintain educational, philanthropic and religious institutions."

WARRANT OBTAINED FOR ARREST OF SIDNEY REIS

New York, April 3.—Assistant Federal Attorney John M. Blake, this afternoon, obtained a warrant for the arrest of Sidney Reis, who is under indictment in Washington, D. C., with Congressman John W. Langley, on the tenth Kentucky district, for liquor withdrawal frauds.

Agents of the depatment of justice were searching for Reis and said that they expected to arrest him later in the day as a fugitive from justice.

BARBER NOSES OUT FILLMORE BY TWO PINS IN MATCH AT DANIELSON

(Special to the Bulletin)

Danielson, April 3—In the closest match ever seen on the local bowling star, nosed out Roy Fillmore of Norwich in the second match between these two in the Eastern Connecticut bowling championship tournament. Barber's victory was by a scant margin of two pins in the last string of the eleven-string match. However, Fillmore beat Barber by 21 pins in the total pinfall and had an average of 109 while Barber had an average of 107.

Fillmore started off in championship form breaking the league record for high single in the first string with 135 and then hung up a high single with 137 in the next frame. The Norwich pin-smasher took the first four strings without the least opposition from the local bowler.

In the fourth string Fillmore showed a complete reversal of form while Barber gained strength and won the next five strings. In the tenth string Fillmore made a strong bid for the match and managed to get away to a good start and led Barber all the way through. Barber, however, made a brilliant try for the game in the tenth box by pulling a strike with a spare losing the game by one pin, the scoring being Fillmore 116, Barber 115. This evened the match at a kill.

With the match tied the eleventh string was a battle for blood. Barber started off with a twelve-pin lead for the first two boxes, Fillmore held this advantage until the tenth box when Barber who had made a spare in the ninth box got four on the spare and eight in the box giving him the match by two pins.

Morin Beats Dodge

In the other match the Eastern Connecticut bowling league rolled at Taftville Mike Morin of Taftville took 7 out of 11 strings from Bill Dodge of Willimantic in the lowest score match of the league. Morin had a total pinfall of 1106 while Dodge toppled the pins for a total of 1075. Only eight of the 33 two strings were over the 100 mark which is most unusual for a championship match.

Dodge, who is a newcomer in local bowling circles, did not show up as well as was expected but this was largely due to being unfamiliar with the Taftville alleys which are considered the hardest alleys to roll on in the eastern part of the state.

The scores follow:

| Barber | Fillmore |
|---|---|
| 100 | 135 |
| 102 | 137 |
| 96 | 111 |
| 100 | 112 |

SHIP AND ENGINE FIVE AT NEW HAVEN SATURDAY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, April 3.—Saturday will be an important day in New London history. But this day will not be important enough to have a whole page devoted to it in a history text book for the future generation to study about. It will not mean that some notable is coming to visit New London or that another twenty million dollars has been given to the city by some business men. The reason for all the excitement will interest the sporting element rather than the people that are not interested in sporting activities of the local teams.

The intention of the New London Ship and Engine basketball team to enter in the state-wide industrial tournament is the real cause for all the excitement. The winner of the New London Industrial league will have a chance to either put the Whaling City on the sporting map of Connecticut of have it remain where it has for the past years. But if the Ship and Engine team can come out of the tournament victorious that trip to New Haven and winning the state industrial title will be a pleasant reminiscence of basketball life to the players that participate. Great things are expected of the team representing the shop from across the river. But in order to come out in front the local representatives will have anything but a soft time of it. Among the teams that have already entered in the tournament are as follows: General Electric Co. of Bridgeport; Underwood Typewriter Co. of Hartford; International Silver Co. of Meriden; The Safety Car Heating and Lighting Co. of New Haven, and the Chase Metal and Brass Works of Waterbury. The ability of the above named teams to give the local team a hot battle for honors is evidenced by the fact that the majority of the players play with some of the leading professional teams in the state. The Underwood Typewriter Co. of Hartford is one of the strongest contenders for the state title. Taking this team in preference to the others entered in the tournament because of the fact that several members of that team make up the Knights of Columbus five of Hartford, contender for the state pro title. Another thing that favors a victory for the teams entered outside of the Ship and Engine, is that some of the players that will be seen in action hold down good positions at the plants to play basketball alone. At the Ship and Engine plant this is not done and an honest day's work must be done by every player that will represent this team in the tournament. If the local team can overcome these obstacles that lie in their path and show their best form, they may make things a little more interesting than was previously expected.

In a practice game played at the Y. M. C. A. Wednesday the Ship and Engine players showed anything but their championship form and consequently went down to a defeat. Their playing will have to improve in general. The defense is especially pointed out as weak. The Ship and Engine back court men are easily sucked down beyond the center of the court which made it easy for the Mohs forwards to shower the basket with goals.

The tournament is to be held at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium at New Haven. The pairings of the teams will be made some time today. This information will be conveyed to The Bulletin readers in Saturday's issue.

DUNGAREE LEAGUE OPENS AT SUB BASE TODAY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, April 3.—The opening of the Submarine Base Dungaree Baseball league which was scheduled for Wednesday afternoon, had to be deferred two days on account of the recent snow storm that hit this city and the vicinity. Besides the snow on the field, there was a cold wind that made baseball almost impossible.

The game that was scheduled to open up the season between the Engineers department and the Submarine Division Two will be postponed until some open date and the next game on the schedule between the Submarine School and the First Torpedo Personnel will be played on Friday afternoon at 4.15. This game will be played providing that the members of both teams find the ground suitable for playing baseball. The Base field is in a muddy condition at present due to the melting of the snow and although mild weather is predicted for the morrow, the field will not be dried off before game time.

It is possible that one of the teams in the Dungaree league will engage the Bulkeley High school team in a game some time next week. Negotiations are under way now, for the Bulkeley team is anxious to play a practice game before it begins on its regular schedule.

New London Sport Comment.

Although Morgan park, the hunting ground of both the Bulkeley and Chapman Tech high school baseball squads, has not completely thrown off its coat of snow that it received earlier in the week, yet the two New London high school squads went through their regular practice that had been interrupted so suddenly by the snow storm. E. Stanley Taylor, coach of the Chapman Tech team was in charge of the men that reported. This was the first appearance of Mr. Taylor this season on Morgan park. The field was muddy and in some places the players were up to shoestrings in mud.

The New London Ranger soccer eleven held a meeting at the Y. M. C. A. Wednesday night.

A large number of rooters are expected to accompany the New London Ship and Engine team to New Haven for the Connecticut industrial tournament. Automobile parties are being made up.

Since the advent of Willie Hoppe, the world's champion billiardist, at the local Y. M. C. A., there has been a notable increase in billiard playing. Many of our young men have been fascinated by this scientific game. The many fine points, the study of the angles, the putting on of proper amount of "English" and the stroke are all part of a well played billiard game. The following men are seen frequently in the billiard room: Al Kiens, Joseph Watterson, William Ryan, Joseph MacInnes, George Sullivan, Kenneth Shea and Maurice Ellonsky.

Manoleum Beats Ferguson

Meriden, April 3—Wop Manoleum, of Boston, won the decision in a 12-round bout here tonight over Tracey Ferguson, of Northford. The decision proved unpopular as Ferguson staged a strong comeback late in the fight.

In the semi-final Young Leonard, of Meriden, knocked out Battling Johnny Sullivan of Boston in the second round.

In the preliminaries Georgie Day of New Haven, won over Frankie Angelo, of Hartford and Maxey Maravnick, Young Stanley Rogers. Both Rogers and Maravnick are from Meriden.

Stone Kayoes Roper

Paterson, N. J., April 3—Ad Stone, Paterson light heavyweight, scored a technical knockout over Tom Roper, Chicago, in the eleventh round of a scheduled 12-round bout here tonight. Roper's seconds threw water on the Chicago battler as he was taking a count, and the referee disqualified him. Stone weighed 176 and 183.

MORE SWIMMING RECORDS BROKEN AT N. A. U. MEET

Chicago, April 3—More world and national A. A. U. records toppled tonight at the third session of the national A. A. U. indoor swimming meet here.

The Illinois Athletic club set a new national A. A. U. record in winning the 200-yard relay in 1:33 4-5. The old record, also held by the I. A. C., was 1:39 1-5. The Olympic club of San Francisco was second and the New York Athletic club third.

Miss Sybil Bauer of the I. A. C. also broke the world's record for women for the 50-yard back stroke, covering the distance in 33 2-5 seconds compared with her old record of 33 3-5 seconds.

Bobbie Skelton of the I. A. C. in an exhibition event shattered the world's record for the 400-yard breast stroke swim making the distance in 5:35 3-5. The old record of 5:39 2-5 was held by Toldi, an Austrian and had stood since 1911.

Johnny Weismuller, record smasher of the I. A. C., won the 50-yard free style event in 24 seconds, two-fifths of a second slower than his national A. A. U. record.

William Wright of Erie, Penna., was second, and D. L. Jones of Providence, R. I., third.

Sybil Bauer also broke her own world's record for the 150-yard backstroke event, doing the distance in 1:58 1-5 as opposed to her old time of 1:58 3-5.

Harold "Stubby" Kruger, of the I. A. C. won the penthalon with Harry Glancy of Pittsburgh, second and Ferdinand Erlich, of Holywood, Fla., third.

At the end of tonight's contests, the A. C. was far in the lead of all competitors with 67 points.

RICKEY TRYING TO ARRANGE DEAL TO GET HENLINE

St. Louis, Mo., April 3—Manager Branch Rickey of the St. Louis Nationals, it was said here today, is in communication with officials of the Brooklyn, Philadelphia and Boston Nationals in an effort to arrange a three cornered trade whereby the Cardinals will obtain an experienced catcher.

Rickey and Manager Fletcher of the Phillies, it was reported, have virtually completed negotiations by which the Cardinals will part with Milton Stock, "holdout" third baseman, and either another player, or a cash consideration for Hank DeBerry and another Brooklynite. Rickey, it is said, then proposes to exchange DeBerry and the other player to the Phillies for Catcher Henline.

Rickey, it was added, is trying to interest the Boston club in a similar deal, in case a "hitch" in the negotiations with either of the other two clubs should develop.

PENN STATE ELECTS BOXING AND WRESTLING HEADS

State College, Pa., April 3.—Boxing and wrestling captains were elected today by Pennsylvania State college letter winners, J. C. Wart, Pittsburgh, intercollegiate 135-pound boxing champion, being chosen to lead the ringmen, while L. A. Cary, of Northeast, Pa., 115-pound intercollegiate titleholder, was elected captain of the wrestling team.

Both are members of the junior class and have been regulars for two seasons. Cary has lost but one bout in his college career, while Wert went through the past season of six meets and three championships without losing a decision.

FINN TEAM STRONG COMPETITORS IN OLYMPICS

Paris, April 3—Finland will pin its entire hopes to victory in the Olympic games on a small representation of 45 athletes, the French Olympic committee was officially notified today. The strictest economy characterizes the arrangements now being made for housing the party of athletes—one of the smallest entered. Three modest little cottages have just been rented within 15 minutes walk of the Colombes stadium and will shelter the team during the games.

The Finnish team is generally regarded here as most likely to give the United States the stiffest sort of an argument for Olympic honors, and many even believing it will prove the winne rof the athletic competition despite America's formidable preparations.

Volleyball Challenge

The Riverview club would like to get a game of volleyball with some fast team. The Riverview club comprises the following: Harry Mills, Jack Sank, Art Couillard, Leo Cimikoski, Eddie Burns and Bill Dennison. This six would like to hear especially from any fast Y. M. C. A. team, or the First Combat Train of Norwich.

Conley Puts Packo Away

Columbus, Ohio, April 3—Billy Conley, Spokane, Wash., northwest middleweight champion, knocked out Joe Packo, of Toledo, in the Fifth round of a scheduled 10 round bout here tonight.

Gibbons Kayoes McFarland

Nashville, Tenn., April 3—Tommy Gibbons, St. Paul challenger of Jack Dempsey, knocked Jack McFarland, of Detroit, out in the second round of a scheduled eight round bout here tonight.

CARPENTIER TO BOX GENE TUNNEY BEFORE TAKING ON TOMMY GIBBONS

New York, April 3—The claims of rival promoters for the services of Georges Carpentier, who plans a comeback campaign in the United States this summer, virtually were settled today when an agreement was reached to have the winner of the proposed match between the Frenchman and Gene Tunney, American light heavyweight champion, meet Tom Gibbons, St. Paul light heavy-weight.

This agreement, which is expected to be closed definitely tomorrow, was reached at a conference between Billy Gibson, manager of Tunney, who holds Carpentier's contract to a bout in New York or New Jersey in June and Floyd Fitzsimmons, Benton Harbor, Mich., promoter, who sought to match Carpentier and Gibbons on July 4 at Detroit, Chicago or Michigan City, Ind. It was brought about after Gibson refused an offer of $50,000 from Fitzsimmons for cancellation of the Tunney-Carpentier contract.

The tangle over Carpentier's services resulted when Fitzsimmons arranged the Gibbons match through Jack Curley, New York representative of Carpentier, while Gibson dealt directly with the Frenchman's manager, Descamps, and obtained an agreement giving him a prior claim.

No progress has been obtained for the Tunney-Carpentier battle but it is understood Ted Rickard is ready to promote the bout early in June at Boyle's Thirty Acres, Jersey City. Gibson today agreed to advance the date of his bout to aid Fitzsimmons' arrangements for an independence day contest.

NINETEEN NATIONS ENTERED IN OLYMPIC FOOTBALL

Paris, April 3—The French Olympic committee has postponed until April 13 the closing of entries in the Olympic association football competition, entries for which were to have closed at midnight tonight, in the hope that negotiations underway with the United States committee will be successful and America be represented in the events.

Nineteen nations are already officially entered, the largest number recorded in any event thus far. They are, Belgium, Bulgaria, Egypt, Spain, France, Holland, Hungary Ireland, Italy, Latvia, Lithuania, Poland, Rumania, Sweden, Switzerland, Czecho-Slovakia, Turkey, Portugal and Uruguay. England will not participate owing to a difference with the French committee over the committee's interpretation of the Olympic rules.

The entry of the United States team in the polo competition has been received by the committee.

HOCKEY TO BE PLAYED AT GARDEN NEXT WINTER

New York, April 3—Amateur, professional and intercollegiate ice hockey championship games will be played on the proposed Madison Square Garden rink next season, according to plans virtually completed by Tex Rickard.

The St. Nicholas and Knickerbocker Hockey clubs, according to Rickard, will represent New York in the eastern division of the United States Amateur Hockey league, which during the past season was confined to clubs in Boston and New Haven. An international intercollegiate league, with Canadian and American colleges represented, also is in prospect.

An international professional circuit, according to Rickard's plans, will include New York and Brooklyn clubs as metropolitan entries, in addition to teams in Pittsburgh, Boston and several Canadian cities.

HARRISBURG FRANCHISE IS RATIFIED AT MEETING

Scranton, Pa., April 3—Ratification of the Harrisburg, Pa., franchise was the outstanding business transaction of the afternoon meeting of the New York-Pennsylvania baseball league in this city today. Harrisburg makes the seventh club in the circuit.

President John H. Farrell and team owners were in session for two hours before announcement of the action on the Harrisburg franchise was made. Adjournment was then taken until 8 o'clock when the eighth team, in the league will be decided upon and a schedule for 1924 adopted.

Scranton, Wilkes-Barre, Harrisburg, York, Williamsport, Binghampton and Elmira teams were represented. No player trade marked the afternoon session.

KNYASTON SPRINGS SURPRISE IN BEATING VOSHELL

New York, April 3—Percy L. Knyaston, of Rockville Centre, N. Y., sprang an upset today in the national indoor tennis championship singles when he conquered S. Howard Voshell, champion of 1917 and 1918, after a brilliant three-set battle in the fifth round. Knyaston's margin of victory was by scores of 4-6, 6-0, 7-5, and gained after Voshel five times had been within a point of victory in the final set.

Knyaston tomorrow opposes Vincent Richards, defending champion, in one semi-final match while Francis T. Hunter and Frank T. Anderson, of New York, both former champions, meet in the other.

RIDER IS AGAIN FORCED OFF YALE CREW BY INJURY

New Haven, April 3—T. H. Rider, who last year gave promise of being one of the best strokes in the Yale crew in many years and who was forced to leave the crew due to an injury to his arm, was again compelled to quit this year when a recurrence of his old hurt set in a few days ago. It was expected that Rider would come back to form this year.

HOPPE PREPARES FOR MATCH WITH HOREMANS

New York, April 3—Willie Hoppe, world's 18.2 balkline billiard champion arrived here today to finish preparations for his match next week with Edouard Horemans, Belgian cue star, in defense of the title. Hoppe has been on an extended exhibition tour with Jake Schaefer, former champion, and will sharpen up his strokes in practice tilts with the latter.

Merriman Has Low Score

Pinehurst, N. C., April 3—Buck Merriman, of Waterbury, Conn., was low medalist in the day's qualifying play of the north and south amateur golf tournament which opened today. His score of 75 for the eighteen holes.

GENERAL THATCHER WINS BOWIE FEATURE RACE

Bowie, M. D., April 3—General Thatcher won the $5,000 inaugural handicap for 3 year olds and up, seven furlongs; Tony Beau was second; Rame, third. Time 1:29.

A $2 mutuel ticket paid the winner $8.10; $5.60 and $4.00; second, $15.40 and $7.90; third, $9.10.

CARDINALS CATCHING DEPT. IS WEAK POINT OF TEAM

By Stoney McLinn

Bradentown, Fla., April 3—The Cardinals, of St. Louis, own the leading one-man batting punch of the National League—Rogers Hornsby. He may well be compared to Babe Ruth as a dangerous club-swinger, feared by opposing pitchers.

In 1923, however, the Cardinals finished fifth in the league race—sixteen games behind the pennant-winning Giants.) This position in the race was generally ascribed to two handicaps— a weak catching staff and the suspension of Hornsby for insubordination, or something of the sort, in the late days of the season.

Hornsby was not the player he was expected to be throughout the 1923 campaign. He smacked the apple high, wide and handsome — led the league in batting. But there was not that camradeship among star player, manager and other members of the team which is essential to success.

No matter how brilliantly and energetically Rogers Hornsby works for his team, his punch on the attack is not likely to overcome inefficiency and inexperience behind the plate on the defense. And there you have the story of the Cardinals.

Among the eight catchers who are toiling twice a day under the watchful eye of Rickey, one 25 year old lad gives promise of future greatness. Charley Neibergall in his name and last season he labored for the Syracuse club of the International League.

Niebergall is a chunky athlete—five feet seven inches tall and weight 185 pounds. He wore the big mitt in 138 game for Syracuse last year. He has a good arm—was second among International catchers in assists—and handles pitchers of all classes competently.

There is one serious drawback which must be mentioned in connection with Niebergall—he lacks the acquaintance with big league opponents and customs, which is of vital importance to a first-string backstop. Furthermore, it is a question whether the lad will hit in the National League.

Last season, with Syracuse, Neibergall had a hit percentage of .280. That would not be so bad if he could do as well in the fast set. But can he do it? Rickey is wondering.

Another youngster who is striving to impress Rickey at Bradentown is Vick, former University of Michigan star. He was with Houston last year. His batting average in the Texas League was .370 and his defensive work fair. He may come through in the future.

Vernon Clemons and Harry McCurdy, catchers who were regulars on the St. Louis staff last season, are likely to be retained for the 1923 campaign because there are no better—men in sight. Farwell, a California semi-pro, and Howe, an Ohio Wesleyan boy, are other backstoppers who may do a good job of receiving after toil in the minors for a spell.

St. Louis has a toppy pitching staff. It may not compare with that of the Reds, but on what the chuckers have shown at Bradentown and what they accomplished in past seasons, they will do their part to land the Cards high in the race.

"Spitin' Bill" Doak—his nickname describes his speciality—is the pitcher most talked about at the spring camp. Rickey mentioned him first in discussing his apple-tossers.

Jess Haines, the tall and burly athlete who employs the right arm, was the leading pitcher for the Cards last season with 20 victories and 18 defeats and the fine record of only 3.11 earned runs per game by enemy clubs. He is in great shape at the training base and should be a consistent winner this year.

Bill Sherdel, who mastered a capital slow ball, won 15 and lost 13 last campaign, and is touted to go strong in 1924. He is a southpaw who is entering his seventh season of big league t. b. chucking with bright prospects.

John Stuart, a husky kid who began to display major talents toward the finish of last season, will be a regular this year and he is going strong at the Bradentown headquarters. He won nine and lost five last year, chiefly as a relief chucker. He uses the right wing.

Jeff Pfeffer, the giant athlete with the deliberate motions, won eight and lost nine in 1923—Rickey opines that Jeff will be "wonderful" this year. He is a right-hander.

St. Louis need have no worry about its infield and outfield, offensively and defensively. With Hornsby to lead the attack and lend his experienced talents to the defensive play, the Cards rank with any team in either league in the in and out departments.

Jim Bottomley, who batted .371 last season and who is a fine fielder, is ranked by some experts at the top among National League first-sackers for all-around skill and spirit.

Hornsby himself will be on the second base. He hit .384 last campaign and was among the leaders in all departments of play. Torporcer, ne of the specs, will be Rogers' understudy.

Polygan has about cinched the shortstop job. He did not whack the apple at a .300 clip last season—his average was .262, to be exact—but the former collegian is a peppy player who fields his position well and is the type of man Rickey likes.

Johnny Kane, last season with Saginaw in the M. and O. League, socked the b. b. for a .336 average, is a fair fielder and probably will remain on the Cards' payroll. Doc Lavan, a veteran, is expected to be utility infielder and coach.

Milton Stock will have first call for third base, although he will have to step at a fast pace all the while. Lester Bell, a kid who hit .315 for Houston last season and who batted .373 in 15 games with the Cards in the fall, is a comer. He has some things to learn about fielding, but is energetic and a good student.

Five outfielders who were with the St. Louis club last season will be regulars this coming campaign. Frisch, Mueller and Smith are left-handed batters who hit .300 or thereabouts, who gather in fly balls in fast-set fashion and who have had the necessary experience.

Blades and Myers bat from the right side, and while Myers is a better hitter of the two, Blades is always dangerous at the plate. A lad named Douthit, who spent last season with Fort Smith in the Western Association, is a rookie in the Bradentown camp. He impresses all who see him at work.

SPORT WORLD BRIEFS

Milton Gaston, the young pitcher with the Giants, is a brother of Alex Gaston, the former Giant catcher, who is with Toledo this year.

Ripley, Ohio, which holds a berth in the Kentucky, Indiana and Ohio League has signed J. F. Taylor, who had a trial with the Reds two years ago, for first base; Brittingham and Pfeffer, pitchers; Klikner and Fitch, catchers; Grassinger, second base and Hammond shortstop. The club is enlarging the stands sufficiently to seat 700 more persons.

The Southern Olympic wrestling tryouts are to be held at Tulane, University, May 2.

Only one player on the Brown trought his wife with him to the training camp in Mobile and who, should that be but Urban Shocker, ly warranted by the facts." The bri-

George Doescher and Tom Ramond, two California youngsters, who were trying out as pitchers with the Pittsburg Club, have been set adrift by Manager McKechnie.

Ike Boone, Boston Red Sox outfielder, who a year ago got a tryout with the Giants, is said to be one of the largest men in baseball. He stands more than six feet tall and weighs 230 pounds.

Mike Sexton, president of the National Association, and, as such, head of the minor leagues, will be the guest of the Salt Lake Club at the opening of the Pacific Coast League season on April 8.

Adolfo Manuel Rafael Argaiz, the pitcher being given a tryout with the Yankees, was a general with the revolutionary forces of Mexico. He was with the Coralcana Club of the Texas Association in 1923.

Bernie Wefers, outfielder and star sprinter; Harry Aurley, infielder, and Dave Thompson and William McAuliffe, pitchers, were the first young Giants to feel the axe at Sarasota, Fla. McGraw shipped them back to New York.

Al Mamaux is still working out with the Brooklyn team at Clearwater. He belongs to the Reading Club of the International League, but is a holdout. Mamaux tried to buy his release from Reading but his offer was turned down.

"No golf for me after April 15," says Bill Klem, the National League umpire. "I used to go out in the mornings for a round, but I discovered when three o'clock came I wanted to lie down for a nap rather than umpire a ball game."

Miller Huggins says he is going to carry six outfielders in the 1924 pennant race. The men he will retain are, Ruth, Meusel, Witt, Hendrick, Haines and Combs. The Mite Manager thinks this is the greatest outfield combination any big league club ever had.

WHITEHURST ACQUITTED BY COURT OF IMPEACHMENT

Oklahoma City, Okla., April 3.—John A. Whitehurst, president of the state board of agriculture, late today was acquitted by the senate court of impeachment on all nine articles contained in the impeachment charges, alleging general incompetency, neglect of duty and moral turpitude, filed by the house board of managers.

Article six, charging diversion of funds to pay certain employes of the state board of agriculture, after the accounts under which they first were employed, had been exhausted, received the closest vote, the ballot showing 19 for conviction and 20 for acquittal.

Members of the house ways and means committee yesterday requested the house agriculture committee to defer action on the McNary-Haugen agricultural export bill until they can complete a study of the measure's tariff provisions.

NORWICH PARTY AT THE PYRAMIDS

NORWICH PARTY SEES NOVEL SIGHT OF EGYPT IN TOUR ROUND THE WORLD

Riding on camels to see the pyramids is one of the interesting experiences enjoyed by the Norwich party who are on a tour around the world as described in a letter from Rutherford C. Plaut to a friend in this city.

Mr. Plaut's letter relates the following incidents in the travels of the Norwich party, which includes Julius W. Cadden and the Misses Carrie and Minnye Cadden besides himself:

At Sea on Steamship "Empress of Canada"

February 25, 1924.

My Dear Ed and All:

When I told you I would write to you often, I really did not mean that every minute of a perfectly good day would be spent in the writing room. Neither did I intend to lose the opportunity of using my steamer chair and the pleasure of conversation with a boatload of good fellows. However, as long as I promised, I shall keep my word, but to write you the sights I have seen and the experiences that I have endured, not saying anything of escapades, would necessitate my whole and undivided attention from now until we arrive at Bombay, which is scheduled for the 4th of March.

One must go to Egypt, Ed. The grand object of all travel is to visit the shores of the Mediterranean and the grand climax of that tour is Egypt. One of our party used a very apropos expression when he said, "One must take all the time there is for that wonderful land and the time would be too short even though it be a lifetime."

When we arrived at Port Said, Egypt, it was not very impressive, but I suppose a good deal depends on the day and one's mental attitude at the time. As usual, when we arrived it was early morning and everything was hazy and misty with sunrise. We were moving slowly and the water was like a mirror. Here and there across the haze drifted a bargelike craft with a lanteen sail or a slow moving boat pulled by men in native dress. I shall always remember Port Said, and I shall always remember the railroad station with its wild "hallaballoo" (I hope I spelled that right) of Arab porters who grab one's baggage and make off with it and sit on it until you produce "Baksheesh" to have it returned to you, and right now I am going to tell you about "Baksheesh," as it plays a big role in Egypt. The minute one sets foot on the shores of Egypt he becomes aware of the fact that beggary is a fine art. In the Oriental countries, such as Algeria and Egypt, "Baksheesh" is a great nuisance. It seems that almost the first word the infant lisps is "Baksheesh" and some of the natives even sleep with a hand extended, so persistent has the habit become. It is useless to try to satisfy the demands of any of these poor creatures. They expect a tip for the most imaginary service. In Egypt some years ago the British Government issued an appeal to the tourists, asking them not to give "Baksheesh," except for real service, as the tourist delights in scattering coins amongst the crowds of natives to see the world scramble which ensues. I enjoyed it but a little went a long way. The government found that many of the natives reaped such a harvest during the tourists' season that they became lazy and would not work the rest of the year.

There was a continous panorama between Port Said and Cairo which was absolutely fascinating to one who has never seen it before and I wonder how it can grow old to anyone.—a man riding a camel and leading another; a boy watering two buffaloes; an Arab walking, followed by his wives and a string of loaded donkeys; a cow grinding an old Egyptian water mill that has been in use since Pharaoh's time; two men turning a screw to lift the water to their fields—and so the picture whirls by. It is funny that, although all these scenes are strange to us, we do not rave over them. I think the movies have spoiled us.

Well, finally our trip came to an end. We all rushed to get out of the train and into a taxi, so as to get to our hotel, but Minnye, as usual, threw a wrench in the gears and prevented progress. Carrie, Cadden and I passed the guard and were in the street when we lost track of Minnye. Cadden had to go back and look for her. In the meantime, Carrie and I drove to Shepheard's Hotel. As there is only one Egypt, so there is only one Shepheard's Hotel. There are other hotels as large and as lavish and with as fair gardens, perhaps, but I believe there is no other hotel in the world where you can sit on such a vast and balmy terrace and look down on such a panorama of nations—American, European, Asiatic, African and what not. It reminded me of a World's Fair Midway of every nationality's costume and language, such as Bill Oat and I saw at the St. Louis Fair and have spoken about, and I might as well tell you here, so you can tell Bill, that there is a Mr. Landon of Buffalo aboard, who is the big noise of the American Radiator Company, and who likes to talk about Scotty Neilson, who is with him in Buffalo, and Norman Whitelan, who took Bill and me through the exposition in St. Louis. He also spoke about Henry Lanz's brother, who he said is now on a pension from the firm and is in the furniture business in Birmingham, Alabama. Well, getting back to Cairo, Cadden found Minnye and brought her back to the fold again, Carrie and I were a bit worried. Thought perhaps the Sheik had grabbed her.

Well, here we are in Cairo, situated like Princess in royal fashion. The girls are in a beautiful, double-bedded room, with all modern conveniences, number 302, and we have a very luxurious suite, number 57, and while the number is like Heinz's Varieties, so is the room, as I have already discovered 57 varieties of mosquitoes and flees, but then we had canopies over our beds and it is our fault that we left them there and did not know until the next day how to drop them down.

"Ring once for the Waiter.
Twice for the Maid.
Three times for the Arab."

The blue lettered card spoke plainly. It was nailed to the door and it sounded like our old story of Arabian Nights. "And what would we do with an Arab?" I said to Cadden. I rang three times, and sure enough, he appeared. I felt like saying, "Drop me in Norwich for an hour." He stood before us smiling. He wore a white robe, which fitted smoothly, a flat red girdle was tied around his waist, and on his head was a red fez. He descended to touch the floor in a perfect circle. "You ring?" he said in very good English. Of course, I could not argue with him and I said, "Ice Water," and then thought that before we left the steamer we were cautioned not to drink water in Egypt unless it was boiled, so I said, "He," pointing to Mr. Cadden, "Wants hot water to shave with." "All right, sir," and he was gone. Just like Aladdin's Genie.

I didn't write you that Joe Kruskall and his wife, who are spending a year in Nice came as far as Egypt with us. They are going to visit Luxor, the place where the famous King Tut's tomb is. Joe's mother was in our party when I went to California with the Kronigs in 1920.

There was not much left of the afternoon when we reached Cairo, but Cadden and I wandered off to get the customs of the place. Then we came home and rested, and I'll tell the world a real bed on land felt good to me. Then, after dinner, Cadden and I decided we would go to see the Pyramids and Sphinx, by moonlight, so we made up a party. Mr. and Mrs. Joe Kruskall, a Miss Green from Boston, Cadden and myself hired a motor and a guide or "Dragonian," as they call them here, and off we went. It is a long way. You pass through streets of many kinds and by houses of many sorts, and then you cross a long modern bridge which spans the Nile and spin over an avenue of palms where there are glimpses of water. Long before we reached them, we saw outlines of the pyramids against the moonlight sky. There is no such thing as a quiet view of the Pyramids, however, for at any hour of the day or night you are besieged by beggars and fortune tellers and would-be guides, and you are pulled and dragged and distracted by their methods until you begin to lose all interest in what you came for. Mrs. Kruskall and I engaged camels but the rest preferred to walk. Well, after several fights as to whose came we were to engage, we were ready. Ed, if you ever saw a funny sight it was I mounting a camel. The old humpbacked boy lay down so I could climb up on him and that was all right but he got up rear first and you should have seen me slide for the home plate. But the Egyptians are foxy. They had a post in front and I came up against that with a bang and then his front legs were up and we were off. I felt quite romantic. Here I was on the Great African desert, on a camel, with a married woman, in the beautiful moonlight. The great pyramid does not improve with close acquaintance. It loses its clear cut outlines as you come near and becomes just what it is—a stupendous pile of rocks. So also in the case of the Sphinx. I was, I will admit, a bit disappointed. It seemed small to me, and it is small compared with the pyramids. Of course, it is no small affair, however, being 65 feet in height. The pyramids are the world's oldest and greatest monuments, although many questions concerning their purpose and construction must remain unanswered. They are primarily tombs for the great and powerful kings of early Egypt. The stones were cut in a quarry ten miles away to the East and floated across the Nile on floats and then dragged to their position. The entire pyramid is of limestone and is 481 feet high and 755 feet on the sides. A native suggested that he could run to the top and back to the ground in eight and one half minutes. If he did not he was to receive nothing for his effort. If he did I was to give him a dollar. He received the dollar and I'll say he earned it. But, Ed, the fleas from the camels! They played baseball on me all night. A full, nine inning game. However, I am very glad I saw the pyramids and Sphinx and that we had such a beautiful moonlight night to do it.

The next morning we sat on the verandah of Shepheard's and watched the procession pass. Vendors of rugs heads, canes, cigarettes, scarabs, artwork, etc., noisy paper boys, young inquisition students in neat lounge suits, students from the great religious university of Al Azhar in white turbans, black djelbas, like cassocks, and white and purple socks and slippers, and who are olive skinned, big boned men; a venerable Sheik with white beard and deeply lined face and eyes, screwed up as if gazing at the distant horizon; British Tommies; Egyptian soldiers and police. There is no end to the variety of dress. Any one of them alone would hold up traffic on Broadway, New York. Here we saw a funeral. The bier is carried at a quick walk to the Mosque and thence to the cemetery, the men chanting their creed, "There is no God but God" to a brisk and rousing tune of ancient origin; Behind the bier are women friends and relatives, followed by professional mourners, who beat their breasts and dishevel their hair. As in Pharaonic times, they splash themselves with indigo as a sign of mourning.

One morning we arose early, as we were going to visit the Mosques. We started in a four seated Victoria, with a fine pair of horses. They sure do have fine Arabian horses here. Well, as I said, we were seated in our carriage and off we went in grand style and all went well until we came to the hill which leads to the citadel where we were headed for. The off horse made up his mind that the day was too hot and the hill too long and then and there he stopped, never to go again. After several ruses were tried on him, such as are generally tried on balky horses, the driver resorted to beating the horse, and then he did start, but the wrong way, and back and back we went until he backed us against a barracks and then his backing was over. We jumped out and lost no time in getting into another equipage and this time we reached the top. Of the numerous Mosques of Cairo, but three or four are noteworthy. The best is the Mosque of Mohammed Ali, built within the last century and modern throughout, being the only Mosque in the world having electric lights. They are all set in fish aquariums and it makes a wonderful effect. It was Mohammed Ali who settled the Mameluke problem by getting them all together at a banquet and then killing them. There were 470 in all and it is said that only one man escaped. This was in 1811. They required us to put slippers on before we might enter. Just to prove to you what a wonderful building it is they give out a story that when the building was finished, Ali was so pleased with the result that he called the great architect before him and congratulated him, and to show his gratitude he had the architect's right arm amputated so that he could not build another one like it. Some gratitude, I'll say.

We took a back track from here and presently were in the street of small sellers or the Bazaar. We had to drive carefully, for there was barely room to pass between displayed goods. Here and there we stopped to inspect and we bought a water jar for one piastre, which is equal to our five cents. The bazaars of Cairo are the great magnet for every visitor, for who does not love to see a display of Oriental wares? Buying is done leisurely. Coffee is served and cigarettes offered before your wishes are made known. The merchant always asks a price in excess of the value of the article and, expects you to haggle with him. On the other hand, one must be careful not to offer a sum far below the market value of the object, for the merchant thereby learns that his customer does not know its real value. There is no doubt, however, that a merchant will sell for five per cent profit after prolonged bargaining.

Cadden bought a wonderful lot of Oriental rugs for the stores and they are being shipped on this boat. After the duty is paid and they are cleared in Vancouver, he will freight them home. They sure are a wonderful lot and he bought them right.

One afternoon, we took a motor ride to the ancient city of Heliopolis, visiting the Virgin Trees, the Land of Goshen and the Obelisk. It was the 22nd of February and that is the day the Mohammedans have their pilgrimage to the cemeteries and we saw thousands of wagons, hauled by buffaloes, the men's wives sandwiched fore and aft and smiling. There were camels with loads of jars heaped high, and wagons of hay and strings of

I Was No Beauty

As a girl—till these ways made me so

By Edna Wallace Hopper

I was not a natural beauty. Many a girl had finer hair, figure and complexion. But my mother went with me to search the world for the greatest beauty helps in existence. Those helps made me a famous beauty, and kept that beauty to my grand old age.

I have seen those helps bring multiplied beauty to countless young girls since then. They have brought to many friends of mine decades of added youth. That is why I now am helping millions to obtain them.

The supreme help

Clay is the greatest beauty help that ever came to women. Famous beauties have for ages used it. Now in every circle you see its marvelous effects.

It purges the skin of all that mars or clogs it. It removes the old skin, leaving one a baby-like complexion. It firms the skin, combats all lines and wrinkles, reduces enlarged pores. No girl or woman who knows its results will ever go without it.

France gave to me a super-clay, white, refined and dainty. It is based on 20 years of scientific study. No crude and muddy clays can bring comparable results. I call it my White Youth Clay. To that I owe my youthful bloom, which countless women envy. Now that White Youth Clay is at your call. The price is 50 cents and $1.

Matchless cream

My Youth Cream is the greatest cold cream science has perfected. It contains products of both lemon and strawberry. Also all the best that science knows to foster the skin texture.

I use it after my clay. Also as a night cream. Also daytimes as a powder base. Never for one hour am I without it, to soften, whiten, feed and protect the skin. Now I offer you that Youth Cream. The price is 60 cents.

My Facial Youth is a liquid cleanser perfected by French experts. Now the great masters of beauty, the world over, employ it.

It contains no animal, no vegetable fat. The skin cannot absorb it. But it penetrates the skin to the depths. When I wipe it off, all the dirt and grime, all the refuse comes with it. I never knew what a clean skin meant until I found Facial Youth.

Now you may use that cleanser. My Facial Youth costs 75 cents.

My beautiful hair

My hair is my greatest glory. It grows finer every year. Falling hair, dandruff or gray hair have never been known to me.

All that is due to my Hair Youth. I apply it with an eye dropper, directly to the scalp. It keeps the hair roots free from hardened oil and dandruff. It stimulates and fertilizes. I have never known anything bring to men or women the results Hair Youth brings me.

My Hair Youth costs 50 cents and $1. No one who tries it for one week will ever go without it.

These four products combine 32 beauty helps. These are, they tell me, the best helps in existence. My own results prove that. Now all druggists and toilet counters supply them. Go try them. Learn what added beauty, what new youth these things can bring to you. Edna Wallace Hopper, 566 Lake Shore Drive, Chicago.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

BREED THEATRE

Commencing with a special screening in New York before high officials of the fire department, continuing in other cities and now due here, the William Fox screen version of Cupid's Fireman has been accorded the most extravagant praise. This picture comes to the Breed theatre today and Saturday with Charles Jones in the leading role and Marian Nixon opposite. The story was taken from Andy McGee's Chorus Girl, by Richard Harding Davis.

Albert E. Guinness, president of the Uniformed Firemen's Association of Greater New York, viewed a special screening of the production in company with other department executives. Their opinion was unanimous that is was the best film drama concerning the life of a fire fighter ever presented.

"Every action is natural and carried us from the Fox projection room back into the fire houses," said Guinness. "My only regret is that the initials on the apparatus in the picture were not N. Y. F. D. instead of Los Angeles."

The story concerns a fireman who is detailed to theatre watch, where he falls in love with a show girl. Thus Richard Harding Davis could weave a plot, the yarn develops rapidly, affording the hero ample opportunity to "show his stuff." As the reckless, life-saving fire fighter Charles Jones is as good, or better, than he usually is in his Western dramas, according to advance announcements.

A capable cast gives the principals strong support. The picture was directed by by William Wellman, who photographed real fires instead of studio arrangements, and caught real firemen in earnest action instead of extras playing a part.

The Los Angeles fire department gave every assistance, so that scenes are real and the life portrayed on the silver sheet is actually that which regular firemen live.

The Way of a Man, the Pathe news and a Sunshine comedy make up the remainder of the bill.

Grotto Play at Broadway Theater.

The curtain will rise promptly at 8.15 tonight at the Broadway theater for the Nemrod Grotto play, Marcheta, a musical comedy that is promised to surpass that of last year.

From every day life in America the audiences witnessing Marcheta will be carried to colorful settings and life in Barcelona, a village in Spain. The spot deals with two adventurous Americans who go to Spain to make their fortune by drilling a well for oil in a section never known to have produced such a product. They meet the family of Don Estaban El Pompo (W. E. Corey), the Alcalde of Barcelona, who aids the boys in selling stock and who later calls down the wrath of his wife, Donna Farina (Mrs. William Crowe, Jr.) and the villagers on his head, when the well does not bring forth the desired fruit. To tell any more of the plot would spoil the evening for those who will attend to see Marcheta. For colorful stage settings, beautiful dancing, tuneful melodies, striking costumes, and real comedy, Marcheta will surpass any amateur production ever presented at the Broadway. The Queen's Court dancers are being trained by Mrs. Edward Andrews.

Nemrod Grotto wishes to assure the public at this time that there are still good seats left for every performance but would advise prompt action in securing seats.

Tickets will be on sale at the Broadway theater after 10 a. m. today.

Organ and Song Recital.

Great interest centers in the unique dual musical recital by Frederick W. Lester and Henry J. La Fontaine next Tuesday afternoon at 4.45 at the Palace theater. This concert is unique as compared with past programmes by these two artists: First, because heretofore the Palace theater organ played by the theater's capable organist, Mrs. MacKenzie, has been heard in strictly theatrical music and that too in accompaniment to an orchestra; occasioning the oft expressed wish that it might be heard in a high class musical programme. The realization of this wish is Mr. Lester's part in Tuesday's programme, when those who attend are assured a musical treat. The other unique occasion is the public adieu of Mr. La Fontaine to his many friends and admirers among music lovers of the community who feel sure that the future holds distinction and success for this talented young man.

In compliment to these two men the following are to act as the ushers instead of the regular theater attendants: Nicholas Spellman, George H. Dolan, Thaddeus Leahy, Dr. Hugh E. Campbell, Alfred Bilyea, John R. Tarrant, Archibald Mitchell 4th, Herbert B. Cary, Jeremiah A. Desmond, John P. Corcoran, E. V. Rose, Arthur M. Thompson.

Those in charge of the recital are Mrs. Charles Tyler Bard, president of the Guild of the United Congregational church, Mrs. Arthur M. Thompson, chairman of the ways and means committee, Mrs. Herbert Dawley, Mrs. Walter F. Lester, Mrs. Edwin W. Higgins and their committees.

An unusually large advance sale has been reported by the chairman in charge.

Manager in Mystic Store.

Percy Miner, who has been in the employ of the Yantic Grain Products company, has been given a position as manager in their recently purchased store in Mystic.

Third Talk By Rev. Danforth.

The third in the series of talks by Dr. J. R. Danforth will be given today, noon, at the Y. M. C. A. building. Luncheon promptly at 12 o'clock. Topic, Christ and Women.

The announced removal on May 14 of twelve trains of the Long Island railroad from the inter-city traffic marks a step toward complete cessation of service to patrons within the New York city limits.

AT THE STRAND

Striking a responsive chord with yesterday's capacity audience at the Strand, the B. F. Keith Vaudeville offered for the last half of this week is certain to draw full houses for the remainder of the stay.

Two pretty misses, Yvonne Verlaine & Katherine Yore in Variety as it should be starts things nicely with their musical singing and dancing novelty.

Paul Murray & Gladys Gerrish offer some clever impressions of stage stars in "Studying Stars." Special electrical effects and trappings greatly enhance this fine offering.

A comedy record breaker was presented by Dan Coleman & Co., in a musical farce "The New Steno." Roar after roar of laughter greeted this excruciatingly funny offering.

Gene Morgan, that boy from Dixie, kept up the comedy with his monologue which was interspersed with a variety of dances. His yarns are worth listening to.

Russ, Le Von [illegible] novelty entertainers kept the audience in their seats to the finish. Song, dance and gymnasts cleverly handled made this a fine closing number.

The photoplay "Condemned" with a star cast furnish good amusement for the screen.

BROADWAY THEATRE

Rex Beach's latest novel, "Big Brother," which ran as a serial in "Hearst's International Magazine," has been produced for Paramount by Allan Dwan.

In commenting upon his picture, Jesse L. Lasky said in part: "I consider 'Big Brother' one of the greatest stories of the season. It was told to me by the author before it began appearing in Hearst's Magazine, and we lost no time in buying it. It is a story of New York gangdom and the work of the Big Brother movement in protecting and rescuing boys from evil surroundings in our big cities.

"Behind the writing of 'Big Brother' is an appealing human interest story. Mr. Beach was in Washington some time ago during a convention. He became acquainted with several leaders of the movement and from what they told him of the work of their organization he was inspired to write his novel. Neither the novel nor the picture which we have made is in any sense propoganda; it is a powerful, colorful story of dramatic action against a background of a philanthropic movement, which embraces the entire country and includes in its membership men from all walks of life.

It will be at the Broadway Sunday night and then at the Strand Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. It is great, so don't miss it.

Carl Bonelli, 27 years old, a joint proprietor of the Robin Hood inn, Meriden, was arrested by State Policeman Neilsen who served a bench warrant, signed by State's Attorney A. A. Alling, in which he is charged with violating the prohibition law.

NUMBER FIVE

donkeys. They had plenty to eat and drink, for they were to spend the night in prayer at the cemetery and the following day would return to their homes. We also went to the cemetery, where we saw the tombs of the Mamelukes.

We visited the museum of Egyptian Antiques, but it would take days, and yes, weeks, to do it justice.

Several evenings we were entertained on the porch of our hotel by the snake charmer who, by playing his little trumpet from which weird music comes and makes them do his bidding. Then there was a traveling magician, who says, "Gala! Gala!" and there you are. He sure is slick and uses a good line of talk in English and then passes the hat.

We saw a parade, headed by a band and a happy throng. It was a wedding. The limousine which contained the bride and groom was covered with what to me looked like a beautiful shawl.

The Greeks are the wealthy people of Egypt now. It used to be the Hebrews who controlled the money there but it has been taken over by the Greeks.

One of the best trips we took was to Sakhara, which is sixteen miles from Cairo by boat. The boat stopped at Bedraschen. Here the donkeys were waiting for us on the bank to take us to Memphis. Cadden chose to ride a donkey. I preferred to ride in a sand car and drive a "mool" as Martin Larsen would say. I think we were no longer very enthusiastic about ruins, but everyone said, "Don't miss Sakhara." Well, Cadden started off on his donkey and I followed behind. His donkey was called Yankee Doodle and had a gait like a steam drill. We first stopped at a statue of of Rameses and I would have been perfectly willing to stay there among the cool palms and watch the little children gather camel dung and put it into cakes to be used for fuel. It was a weary ride across the desert. Cadden and his Yankee Doodle set the pace. We were not alone. There were at least 60 more behind us, getting our dust, as I was driving in a car. I did not get weary, but, oh boy, you should have seen Cadden perspire, but I must say he rode his steed well and sat in it's saddle like Stonewall Jackson. Cadden's donkey boy would occasionally slap Yankee Doodle and then he would go, but at one time I saw Cadden pass over some change to the boy and the donkey was left to the mercy of his driver from then on. Cadden said I was yellow because I would not change on the way back and let him ride in the car while I rode Yankee Doodle. But was he sore the next day? You ask him?

Well, we saw the tombs of the Sacred Bulls and other tombs and we were glad to get back to the hotel, although in the evening ge went to see a game called "Pelote Basque," the same as they call "Highlo" in Havana, and the way the Egyptians gamble on the game is a caution.

Among the distinguished people we saw in Egypt were his Eminence, Cardinal O'Connell, Archbishop of Boston, who was on his way to Syria. Honorable J. J. Astor and Lady Violet Astor, who entertained at Shepheard's.

The Egyptian woman's face veil, or burko, of the common type is made of a kind of course black crepe, which a little gilt cylinder keeps from the nose and mouth. The thickness of the veiling seems to vary with the social status of the woman. Women walking in the streets are often impenetrably veiled, whereas those seen driving in smart victorias on the road to the pyramids frequently wear only the lightest of gauze, which scarcely conceals their features and leaves their lustrous eyes entirely free.

For over 5,000 years the Egyptian plough has remained unaltered. It consists of a piece of wood bent inward at an acute angle and it is shod with a three pronged piece of iron attached to a beam with a handle at one end for the ploughman and a yoke at the other for the "power." have seen a camel or donkey hitched up doing the work but oxen or buffaloes commonly draw the plough and we sometimes have seen the native's wife with another woman and a donkey harnessed together.

The rainfall in Egypt is practically nil and they depend entirely on the Nile for irrigation canals to the regions still uncultivated.

POLICE BELIEVE MISSING WOMAN HAS BEEN KILLED

Chicopee, Mass., April 3.—The police late today let it be known that they had reason to suspect that Sophie Cupek, 14, who had been missing since last night, had been killed and her body, wrapped in a rug, thrown into the Connecticut river.

The Springfield police were asked to bring grappling irons to assist in the search for the body and State Detective D. J. Manning, Assistant District Attorney C. R. Clason took part in the investigation.

At a late hour today the police were questioning a young man said to have been the girl's companion on a coasting party last night. His name was withheld.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT
by DAVID CORY

Getting His Fortune Told

Well, it wasn't long before something happened as Lucky, Little Jack Rabbit and the Yellow Dog Tramp drove along in the Luckymobile. But, thank goodness, this time it was something nice, and I think they deserved it, don't you—that is if you remember what happened in the last story?

"What's that?" asked Uncle Lucky.

"You are very rich"

all of a sudden, just like that as a great big tent wagon with yellow wheels almost ran into them.

"It's a gypsy wagon," answered the Yellow Dog Tramp. Of course he knew, for he had tramped over the whole wide world.

"Let's have our fortune told," suggested Uncle Lucky.

Jumping out, the Yellow Dog Tramp stopped the big white tent wagon and asked an old gypsy woman to read his paw.

"I'm a gypsy, gray and old,
Many fortunes I have told;
I will tell what will befall
While the little bell doth call."

Just then, a little bell inside the tent wagon began to ring, ting-a-ling, ting-a-ling.

But instead of telling the tramp dog's fortune, the old gypsy woman beckoned to Uncle Lucky, who hopped up the little steps on the back of the wagon, and pulling aside the tent flap, hopped in. It was very dark for there was only one candle near the little ringing bell.

On the woman's head was a red bandana, great big gold earrings in her ears and from the chain around her neck hung a tremendous big locket. Her green dress was dotted with red stars and in the sash around her waist was a big knife. On her fingers were great big rings, and, Oh, dear me, I can't remember what else she had on, for her eyes were so big and black they frightened Uncle Lucky. As he held out his front paw he wished he'd never come inside to have his fortune told.

"You are very rich," said the old gypsy woman, "and you have a little white house on the corner of Lettuce avenue and Carrot street, and you're president of the Rabbitville bank and the Welsh Rabbit Club. And you own a circus with thirteen clowns and one elephant, and a hippotamus, and a white horse and a circus queen and three monkeys."

Then, turning Uncle Lucky's paw over, she added:

"You have a ten-carrot gold piece in your pocket," which made the old gentleman rabbit jump out of the wagon, having forgotten about putting that gold piece in his pocket some three or four stories ago.

"Well, what do I owe you?" asked dear, kind Uncle Lucky, keeping his paw over his right coat pocket for fear, perhaps somehow or other, she might get hold of that ten-carrot gold piece. But just then there came a loud noise outside the wagon, and in the next story I'll tell you what it was.

CONTEST OVER SECTION 28, MERCHANT MARINE ACT

Washington, April 3 —Enforcement of section 28 of the merchant marine act, which would provide for preferential railroad freight rates on products carried in American vessels, was both opposed and advocated before the house merchant marine committee today.

Representatives of shipping interests protested a resolution introduced in the house today by Representative Newton, republican, Minnesota, to defer enforcement of the section to July 1, 1924, instead of May 23, 1924, as ordered by the inter-state commerce commission. Commissioner Thompson of the shipping board opposed the resolution and also the bill previously introduced by Mr. Newton, which would make enforcement by the commission of the section optional instead of mandatory.

Opponents of the section declared enforcement would discriminate in favor of some ports at the expense of others as the shipping board did not have sufficient tonnage to handle exportable products. Commissioner Thompson contended that the board did have sufficient tonnage to handle consignments to ports that would be affected by the commission's order.

Mr. Thompson said postponing enforcement, as advocated by shipping interests pending an investigation of the effect the section might have on commerce, would not be satisfactory. "If we don't get the benefit of section 28," Mr. Thompson said, "before the new fiscal year goes into effect there will be a forced reduction in operation of American flag ships."

George H. Ingalls, vice president of the New York Central railroad, testifying as an individual declared operation of the section's provisions would tend to divert much freight over Canadian railroads even if adequate American tonnage were available. He said an exporter would prefer a port, even if rates were the same, wher she was not compelled to use only American ships.

William C. Dufour, representing independent fruit interests said the shipping board did not have sufficient tonnage nor the kind of vessels needed for all commerce.

PERSHING SAYS SITUATION IN EUROPE IS IMPROVING

New York, April 3—General John J. Pershing, chief of staff of the United States army, returned today on the United States line steamship George Washington from France where he has been since last October decopied mainly in writing his memoirs of the world war.

The situation in Europe is improving, he said, although he made it clear that his observations were circumscribed by the small area in which he spent his vacation. Most of the time he was along the riviera, but he first visited the battlefields and just before leaving, inspected the American cemeteries.

General Pershing said he was convinced the Dawes committee would "turn out something that will be very constructive and very beneficial" to the reparation situation, but beyond that he refused to be quoted directly on any subject except his admiration for the George Washington and her commander, Captain Harold A. Cunningham. He urged that Americans travel by American ships in order to aid in the upbuilding of the Merchant marine.

General Pershing was met at Hoboken by Major General Robert Lee Bullard and staff. He left later in the day for Washington.

REPRESENTATIVE LANGLEY TO PLEAD NOT GUILTY TODAY

Washington, April 3—Representative Langley, republican, Kentucky, will appear tomorrow in the District of Columbia supreme court to plead not guilty to indictments charging him and five others with conspiracy to violate the prohibition laws through illegal withdrawals of liquor.

This announcement was made today by his counsel who said they would request an early trial.

The house committee authorized to investigate charges against Mr. Langley and Representative Zihlman, republican, Maryland, continued its examination today of witnesses who are said to have made statements uttering Zihlman. The day was given over entirely to examination of Edward Robinson, former proprietor of the federal drug and chemical company of Baltimore.

The committee tomorrow intends to question George J. Ettenberg, who was one of Robinson's employes and to examine documentary evidence.

IT IS THE KNOWING AND DOING WHICH COUNT

(Written Specially for The Bulletin)

"Hell," said Dr. Johnson, "is paved with good intentions."

"Yes, yes," said Uncle Ike, when asked if the hired man he had hired didn't mean to do about right. "Yes, yes, he means well enough, but he don't know anything or do anytning except to mean well."

If you will take your own list of acquaintances, one by one, and think them out, as they manifest themselves after a due course of summering and wintering, I suspect you'll usually come to the conclusion that nine-tenths of them mean well enough: are well enough intentioned; are willing enough to do about the right thing, so far as they can see it.

Also, I think you'll usually come to the conclusion that altogether too many of them are either too ignorant or too lazy or too hoggish or too short-sighted to carry their admitted good intentions into effect.

They mean well but act ill. Nevertheless, they expect you to overlook their bad conduct and beslobber them with compliments because of their good intentions. Their favorite Scripture is that which proclaims that the spirit is willing but the flesh is weak. They seem to expect that a persistent parotting of this sentiment will excuse all their shortcomings and carry them triumphantly to the thirty-second story of paradise by an express elevator.

Now, I want sedulously to avoid all theological side-issues. I would as soon think of stamping on your sorest corn as touching with so much as a finger-tip any of your theological or ecclesiastical notions.

But I can't help remarking that, in farming, we reap that which we have sown. Not that which we meant to sow; not that which we knew we ought to have sown; but that which we did sow. If we sow oats we reap oats; if we sow wild mustard we will get wild mustard.

It doesn't make any difference even if we actually thought we were sowing oats; not even if we bought the seed for oats and paid full oats price for it. If it isn't really oats neither our good intention nor our trust in the seller nor the good money we've paid out will produce oats. That which will actually grow will be that the seed of which we actually sow.

If we want crops all the good intentions that ever went into Dr. Johnson's pavement won't bring us a single result,—unless they are translated into terms of intelligence and industry.

Well say, for illustration, that a market gardener intends to raise a crop of muskmelons. Well enough, so far. But his intention won't even get far enough to produce a single melon, if it isn't made the basis for knowing and doing some fifteen dozen practical stunts. He must find out if his soil and climate will stand for melons. He must find out whether they will grow into pumpkiny disappointments or luscious offerings to the breakfast gods. He must find out at what time and under what conditions to plant. He must find out what fertilizer to use and what cultivation to carry on. He must find out when they are ripe enough to pick and not too ripe to carry to market. He must find out what variety he can grow profitable and sell remuneratively. And various other things.

But even when he has learned all these things they will avail him nothing if he stops there. Neither the intention to raise melons nor the knowledge of how to raise melons will ever grow a single one if intent and knowledge are not translated into action.

He must plow and harrow and fertilize and fit his ground. He must get the right seed,—and make sure that it is right, both as to germinating quality and name. He must watch the signs of the sky, the movement of the migratory birds, the prevalent courses of the wind, the "feel" of the moist soil to tell him when to plant. He must allow ample time for the seeds to sprout, but not till after reasonable danger of late frost has passed. He must protect the little plants from cut-worms and striped beetles and black fleas. He must thin out the hills when the youngsters have developed vigor enough to make their own fight. He must care for them, day by day and week by week, stimulating the slow and pruning back the too ambitious. When they begin to mature he must fairly hover over the patch, catching up one here and one there as it gives its first faint show of ripeness, leaving others for a day's or a week's longer sun to develop.

If he has omitted or slighted a single step in the long, seasonal campaign the omission or neglect will register itself in the crop. If the neglect has been serious the result registered will be failure. If only some minor detail has been omitted, the crop may be passable, though falling below its best.

In any case, the crop you'll get will be barring weather conditions, not the crop you may have intended to raise, but the crop you've planned and schemed and dug and drudged to raise. Your intent, no matter how good, will never produce a melon or a melon vine, except in just so far as that intention has been carried into knowledge and work. The intention may be excellent as a lantern to show you where to go. But it's no good beyond that. If you want to raise melons you've got to know several things and do several more.

And, considering the crop solely as a crop, it's the knowing and doing which count, not the intention to know or the intention to do.

Now, I'm constrained to believe what is true of fields and crops on the farm is likely to be in a measure true of many other things. Politics, for one. Business, for another. Transportation. Labor. Education. Most of us, in our relations to these and kindred subjects, mean well. And there we stop.

If you'll pause long enough to give your brains a fair chance, they'll tell you that ten million people who mean well, but are all sound asleep, can't stop one scalawag who means mischief from setting the barn afire or stealing the chickens. While they're self-contentedly snoring, he's filling his bag or throwing a match into the hay-mow.

When the damage is done the ten millions are awfully sorry. They didn't dream anybody would do such a thing. They're shocked beyond measure. And they're apt to get very mad, — after it's too late for even righteous anger to save the barn.

"It takes a mighty smart man to tell the truth," said some philosopher whose name I can't recall. There are those who are not philosophers who think any fool can tell the truth. Humph, so he can,—if he knows it. But it takes more than a fool to find it out, even about so commonplace a matter as a melon patch. No man, fool or otherwise, can tell the truth till he knows what the truth is. And the man who has brains and energy and industry and fairness enough to track truth down to its hiding place is far from being a fool.

A long-time resident of Washington, who has seen congresses come and go for a generation, broke his usual silence when the present political hysteria broke out at the capitol. "If I had my way," he said, "I wouldn't punish any of the feeble-minded senators and representatives who let themselves get caught in the craze, but I'd disfranchise the fool voters who sent such weaklings here."

That certainly would be drastic enough. But it would reduce the electorate tremendously, and would be sure to cause hard feelings among those disfranchised. I fear it is not a practical remedy.

There is one other way which occurs to me, though I do not know that it is any more practicable. I suggest it with much humility and some foreboding. It is to educate and train fools out of their folly and into useful intelligence. Considering what has been done in such cases as those of the race-horse, the collie dog, the dairy cow, the garden strawberry, etc., it might be thought possible to achieve comparable results by comparable methods in the desert of humanity.—But I'm too regardful of my scanty scalp-lock to dwell on that dream. The danger in arguing for it is too imminent. Nevertheless, the vision sometimes comes. Perhaps, a few hundred years hence, it may be translated into waking fact. And perhaps not.

The trouble isn't that the nut is too hard to crack, but that is it so confounded mushy it can't be cracked. It can only be "squashed."

Most of us old farmers have our ideas and our opinions. Long addition and habit have harnessed us to them with tugs too strong to break. We drag them with us wherever we go. And a good many of us actually take a sort of pride in them. We sometimes brag about them. We are inclined to exhibit them as the truth though, in fact, they are never anything but our opinions; too often nothing better than our prejudices.

We might, some of us, begin the needed reformation of the world by reforming ourselves in this particular. We might stop saying, "I know," when in truth our wrongly styled knowledge is only a guess. We might try the plan of finding out what the truth actually is by observation and inductive reasoning, in place of the popular method of guessing what the truth ought to be—according to our ideas,—and then denouncing as anathema all who question our inerrancy.

The Pharisee, you'll remember, held his head up high and candidly admitted that he was a little bit of all right. The Publican, on the other hand, bowed his head to the dust and prayed, "Lord, be merciful to me, a sinner." We have excellent authority for believing that the latter attitude was found most acceptable in the highest quarters.

When we think we know the most and feel the cockiest about it, is exactly the best time for us, too, to bow our heads in the dust and cry, "Lord, be merciful to us fools!"

It needs but a fragment of yeast to leaven a mass of dough. Perhaps we simple farmers, if we have the leavening power in us, might prove enough to save the bread of life for the future.

Two more in the series of games remain to be played in the four-club bridge tournament, April 10th and April 17. The standing of the clubs, including the play of Thursday night, follows:

| | Total No. of Pinfall. | Games P.C. |
|---|---|---|
| St. Mark's | 3089 | 12 674.08 |
| Congregational No. 2 | 6376 | 10 637.60 |
| Incognitos | 6372 | 10 637.20 |
| Congregational No. 1 | 8557 | 14 611.21 |
| Baptist | 7089 | 12 590.75 |
| Methodist | 6907 | 12 575.58 |

In White Rock, Thursday night, a grass fire was started when burning rubbish in the rear of the White Rock mill houses on Wall street got beyond control. The adjacent wood lot was burned over, causing a considerable blaze and much smoke. No buildings were damaged.

MYSTIC

At the meeting of Fanny Ledyard chapter, D. A. R., Wednesday afternoon in Masonic Temple, interesting reports of the state conference recently held in New Haven were given by Mrs. Frank W. Batty and Mrs. Newton A. Dickinson, delegates from the local chapter. An invitation was received from Lucretia Shaw Chapter, D. A. R., to attend the annual luncheon at the Mohican hotel Monday, May 5th. One new member was received at the meeting by transfer from another chapter. Following the business session refreshments were served.

Pupils of Broadway school have been engaged in building bird houses in a contest arranged by Secretary Willett of the Community House and these were inspected and judged on Wednesday. Eight bird houses have been built by pupils of the three upper grades and announcement of the awards will be made today (Friday).

Mrs. Frances M. Aiken was in Stonington Thursday.

Archdeacon J. Eldred Brown, of Norwich is to be the preacher at the Lenten service at St. Mark's church this (Friday) evening.

Rev. Omer G. Buddington, 73, died Wednesday night at his home on West Mystic avenue, following a lingering illness. He was born May 20, 1850, at Center Groton, the son of Gilbert O. and Hannah Holdredge Buddington. He was a graduate of Mystic Valley Institute conducted by the late Professor John K. Bucklyn and of Crozier Theological seminary, Chester, Penn. His first pastorate was in Florence, N. J., and his second was in Wilmington, Delaware, where he was a pastor of Bethany Baptist church for twenty years, during which time a new brick church was built. Mr. Buddington has resided in Mystic for about twenty years and in that time has twice served as pastor of Poquonnoc Bridge Baptist church. He was a genuinely good man, of high ideals, kindly and gentle in manner, yet a forceful and interesting preacher, ever zealous for the welfare of his people. In his home he was a devoted father and by precept and example gave evidence of the faith he professed. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Ella Buddington, three sons, Ormore W. of New Haven, Dr. Arthur S., of the faculty of Princeton university, and Walter T. Buddington, a student at Princeton, and a daughter, Carlene H. Buddington, of Mystic.

In the bowling contest between the teams composed of women from the various churches the women of St. Mark's church had the highest percentage of any of the contesting teams. In the figures given below the differences in the amount of the total pinfall is due to the variation in the number of games bowled by the individual teams:

| | Total No. of Pinfall. | Games P.C. |
|---|---|---|
| St. Mark's | 3089 | 12 674.08 |
| Congregational No. 2 | 6376 | 10 637.60 |
| Incognitos | 6372 | 10 637.20 |
| Congregational No. 1 | 8557 | 14 611.21 |
| Baptist | 7089 | 12 590.75 |
| Methodist | 6907 | 12 575.58 |

The highest individual scores were: Mrs. Leonard Hermes 77.26, Miss Edna L. Wheeler 77.09, Mrs. William Donsbach 78.03, Mrs. C. C. Dodge 71.58, Mrs. Leslie Harrison 70.63, Mrs. A. H. Meyers 70.07, Mrs. O. A. Wilcox 67.38, Mrs. Robert Nichols 66.18, Mrs. Fred Godfrey 65.63, Mrs. Conrad Kretzer 65.50.

Monday evening a picked team of six women from the above teams will bowl against the Robinson Silk company team which will also be composed of six women. Following the game a collation will be served and a social hour enjoyed by the contestants.

The Methodist people are pleased that Rev. J. Garfield Sallis, who has just closed his first year as pastor of the local church, is to remain in Mystic this year as announced at the conference in Providence. During the past year Mr. Sallis has done splendid work and has been a very helpful and inspiring leader in the various activities of the church, and his friends outside of his own denomination are pleased to know that he is to continue his residence here.

Word was received in the village today of the death in New London Wednesday afternoon of John B. Colegrove, 94, a former resident here. Mr. Colgrove had been in feeble health for some time.

Euphemia B., 84, widow of Calvin Sutton, died Wednesday night at her home on Stonington road from pneumonia following a few days' illness. She was born Nov. 20, 1839, in Lee, Mass., the daughter of Amos Barnes and Sarah Tuttle. Mrs. Sutton had been a resident of this section for a number of years and soon after coming here joined Fanny Ledyard chapter, D. A. R., being faithful in her attendance at meetings in spite of her advanced years and keenly interested in all that pertained to the welfare of the organization. She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. W. L. Cottrell, who was with her mother during her last illness.

The funeral of Deputy Sheriff James E. F. Brown was held Thursday afternoon at 2.30, at his home on High street and was largely attended by friends and business associates. The stores of the village were closed from 3 until 4 o'clock. The service was conducted by Rev. J. P. Beauchamp, of St. Mark's Episcopal church, of which Mr. Brown was a member. Burial was in Elm Grove cemetery.

WILL FILE BRIEFS IN SUIT OVER DOG BITE

Briefs are to be filed in the damage suit brought in superior court at New London Wednesday by Mrs. Calla M. Exley of Groton against Mrs. Margaret L. Cooper, a fellow townswoman. Arguments in the case, in which the plaintiff is asking $3,500 for personal damages incurred when a dog alleged to be owned by the defendant, bit her, were heard by Judge L. P. Waldo Marvin, late Wednesday afternoon. The judge then took the papers and asked that briefs be submitted.

When A Woman Forgets

HUSBANDS often forget their wedding anniversaries and other marital celebrations—a fault corrected only by tearful wives. But sentiment in wedded life is more injured when a woman forgets—when she forgets the importance of those refinements in her personal appearance—such as keeping her hands attractively smooth and clear.

Since red, rough and coarse looking hands result from the use of inferior soap, you should be as careful about the kind of household soap you use as you are about toilet soap.

• • • •

THINKING women insist on Kirkman's Soap because they know it is as harmless to their hands as is the most exquisite toilet soap.

Its ingredients are guaranteed to be the purest and no adulterants such as starch, talc or water-glass, which have no cleansing value, are ever used.

And no soap is made that will wash and clean more easily and thoroughly than Kirkman's.

For the sake of your hands insist upon Kirkman's Soap.

YOUR HANDS WILL BE GRATEFUL

Red Seal Records

| | | | DOUBLE-FACED Number | List Price |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Christ the Lord is Risen Today / Ring Out, Wild Bells | Louise Homer / Louise Homer | | 971 | $1.50 |

Charles Wesley's famous hymn paired with Tennyson's "Ring Out, Wild Bells" in Gounod's familiar setting. Appropriate to the Easter season, but a record you will want to hear all through the year.

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Love Sends a Little Gift of Roses / The World is Waiting for the Sunrise | Violin Solo Fritz Kreisler / Fritz Kreisler | | 994 | 1.50 |

Kreisler in this record has taken two of the best of recent ballads, added the magic of his own genius, and made two important works of musical art. Music-lovers everywhere will enjoy their beauty on this record.

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Forza del Destino—Pace, pace, mio Dio (Force of Destiny—Peace, Peace, Oh My Lord) (Verdi) / Ernani—Ernani, involami (Ernani, Fly With Me!) (Verdi) | In Italian / In Italian | Rosa Ponselle / Rosa Ponselle | 6440 | 2.00 |

Both numbers from Verdi operas. Magnificent examples of this great soprano's art—and of the art of Victor recording.

Sacred Selections

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Sanctus (Holy, Holy, Holy) (Gounod) / Agnus Dei (O Lamb of God) (Gounod) | | Trinity Choir / Trinity Choir | 35732 | 1.25 |

Two majestic numbers for the Lenten season from Gounod's Solemn Mass. Both are sung in Christian churches of many denominations. They make records of thrilling beauty.

Melodious Instrumental

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Hawaiian Medley Waltz ("Lahilahwai"—"Waipio") Hawaiian Guitars / Hawaiian Melodies ("My Waikiki Mermaid"—"Hula O Mahu") Hawaiian Guitars | | Warren B. Patterson-Nicholas A. Barberito | 19260 | .75 |

First record by two new Victor artists on the Hawaiian guitar. Characteristic and finely played numbers that will be well received by Victor audiences.

Light Vocal Selections

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Wonderful One / Land of My Sunset Dreams | | Henry Burr / Wendell Hall | 19282 | .75 |

This time Wendell Hall presents a ballad record, of his own composition. On the other side a Henry Burr solo with Rudy Wiedoeft's saxophone and Frank Banta's piano. Here's record enjoyment for you.

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| London Bridge is Falling Down / Colorado | | Effett Shaw / Albert Campbell-Henry Burr | 19283 | .75 |

An interesting song number introducing "Ring-around-a-Rosy" and other childhood favorites; and a duet in sentimental waltz style. A vocal record for your collection of popular music.

Dance Records

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Ain't You Ashamed!—Fox Trot / Maybe—Fox Trot | | Paul Whiteman and His Orchestra | 19284 | .75 |

Equally good for the newest fads in dancing or for the good old standard fox trot. Both are blazing with color and have the newer Whiteman orchestration. Recorded as only the Victor can record them.

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Not Yet, Suzette!—Fox Trot / Lonesome—Fox Trot | | Brooks Johns and His Orchestra | 19285 | .75 |

Two fox trots with vocal refrains by Brooks Johns himself. The second is his own composition. When your feet like dancing, you'll want this record handy.

WILL OF MRS. EUGENE TO KIRKLAND FILED FOR PROBATE AT NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, April 3.—The will of Mrs. Lucia Louisa Stephens Kirkland, widow of Col. Eugene Thorn Kirkland, whose death occurred at her home in the Pequot colony last Saturday, was admitted to probate today at a hearing before Judge of Probate Arthur B. Calkins. The document was drawn Jan. 8, 1924, and was witnessed by E. C. Winchester, Gladys E. Fitzgerald and Carrie Ackerman. The will provides for the following bequests: To Alice Fawcett of New York, the sum of $500; to Carl Moline of New London $250; Mrs. Kirkland's chauffeur, Thomas Coates, is bequeathed $500 and the testator's Airdale dog. The rest and residue, no matter of whatsoever nature of wherever located, is bequeathed to the testator's two sisters, Misses Anna Livingston Stephens and Amelia Lloyd Stephens of New London, each to share alike. What the estate will inventory has not been determined. The testator's two sisters are nominated executrices of the estate, without bond.

Byron E. Wilkinson has sold a house and lot on Broad street to Margaret Flannagan.

Manuel J. and Mary J. Sousa have sold a house and lot on Denison avenue to Antonio and Julia Faria.

John Sullivan of Bank street, Miss Mary Priola of Center street, and Mrs. Clarence Beebe and infant daughter of Alger street, patients at Lawrence hospital, were discharged today.

John Bagge, aged 9, residing with his parents at 7 Huntington street, was struck but not seriously injured by an automobile owned by the Plaut-Cadden company and operated by Stuart L. Caulfield, of 18 Morse avenue, Groton Park, this afternoon at the corner of Washington and Huntington streets. The boy was rushed by Caulfield to Lawrence hospital where an examination revealed that the youngster had sustained only cuts and bruises and was not seriously hurt. The boy's mother, who had followed her son to the hospital, had the child taken home after the wounds had been dressed.

The child had been standing on the corner of Huntington and Washington streets. Just before the automobile approached he went into the street and before Caulfield could reduce the speed of the car to any extent the child was struck by the fender and hurled with considerable force to the highway. He was picked up cut and bleeding and after being placed in the machine was rushed to the hospital.

The funeral of David Dillon, son of the late Jeremiah and Johanna Dillon, was held this morning at 9 o'clock at St. Joseph's church and was attended by a large throng of relatives and acquaintances. A mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. William C. Fitzsimons, the pastor. The bearers were James R. May, Charles J. Ducy, Owen O'Neill, Francis Corcoran, James Spellman and Charles Hullivan. Burial was in the family plot in St. Mary's cemetery.

New London's fire alarm system is receiving an overhauling as since the severe storm of two weeks ago the system has not been giving efficient service. An electrician from the Gamewell Fire Alarm company is in New London perfecting the repairs, which work will probbaly occupy several days. During the progress of repairs today the alarm sounded several times. The alarm was in each any of the fire companies to turn out. instance irregular and did not cause

Charles Nigrelli of 59 Truman street complained to the police today that he had been the victim of a fraudulent check forger. Nigrelli stated that March 24th a man representing himself to be Albert E. Loring tendered him a check for $25, which Nigrelli cashed. The check was drawn on the Woodsville, N. H., National bank and endorsed by Loring. Today Nigrelli was informed by the bank that the check was worthless and besides losing the face value of the check Nigrelli had to pay the protest fee of $1.75.

A certain New London physician should heal himself if he has the power so to do.. He was presented in the police court this morning and was fined $10 for intoxication.. In charity toward him the reporters did not mention his name in the newspapers that he might avoid the disgrace of his conduct and not lose his prestige as a physician.

Former City Manager James E. Barlow and Councilor William C. Fox are in a controversy as to the rate of taxation in this city, the latter declaring that the rate at present is the highest the city has ever had, considering that the assessed valuation of property has been increased. Mr. Barlow denies this rather forcefully, Mr. Fox made the claim that were not the back taxes, long due and being collected, being used for the payment of expenses, the tax rate would be still higher. Mr. Barlow takes exception to this statement and replies that the unpaid taxes collected during the past two years have been used to wipe out bond issues that were acquired from previous administrations. Mr. Barlow declares that were these bonds not taken care of the debt of the city would be greater than it is at present. The controversy is one that will go on indefinitely if the parties to it persist in the line of argument followed.

A committee which was selected, by whom is not stated, to make a survey of the schools and report the result of their observations has made a report to the effect that "the schools are comfortably crowded," whatever that may mean, but the committee makes no recommendation as to any course to pursue. It was expected that the committee, when it was learned it had been appointed, would suggest a remedy for the "comfortably crowded" condition, but the committee has made no recommendation and everyone is free to think for himself or herself there should be any more school building.

A traveling representative, guest at a local hotel, reported to the police this evening the loss of a pocketbook containing $17 and his license to operate an automobile. The police could not help him, but they did caution him that he must not operate a car without the requisite license.

Samuel Cooper, who comes from Waterbury, is a prisoner at the local police station this evening with a charge of embezzlement against him. William Lina came here this afternoon from the Brass City and requested the apprehension of Cooper That sent Sergeant Murphy out to find Cooper. He found Cooper had left a pair of horses at the barn of the Soltz company and left his brother there also. Sergeant Murphy was in civilian attire and obtained the information that Cooper had gone to a restaurant. Some officers started after him. He met him on the street and nabbed him. It is understood by the police that Cooper sold horses that were in his charge for $400, and that the embezzlement charge came from that act. He is to be taken back to Waterbury, Friday.

Buster Dunmire, a child of five gave his parents a fright this evening for he strolled away from home, at 311 Williams street. He was reported as missing at 7.30 when the information was given to the police that Buster had not been seen since 3 o'clock in the afternoon. Several officers were sent to look for the child, but between the information that he had been seen dragging a little cart on Bank street no tidings could be gleaned concerning him. At 8:55 this evening the police learned that the child had returned home.

William G. Murphy, 239 Causeway street, Boston, communicated with the New London police today, stating that he had a dog in his possession that the license on the animal's collar denoted that the dog was licensed here in 1923. The license number was C. T.-41822. Inquiry at the office of the city clerk revealed that the dog was listed in the name of Thomas Olsen, of 175 Shaw street. At the Olsen home it was stated that Mrs. Olsen had gone to Boston, to which city she was called by the illness of her sister and that the dog accompanied her. It is supposed the dog strayed away from the owner and was picked up by Murphy. Mrs. Olsen has been notified how to recover the dog and Murphy has been given the Boston address of Mrs. Olsen, which is 23 Lawrence street.

Solly Tobias, a former resident of New London, now residing in Hartford, is spending a few days in town with friends.

John G. Colgrove, 94, who died late yesterday at his home, 20 Nameaug avenue, is survived by his widow who was Miss Minnie Elizabeth Gracey of Mystic. Six children also survive, John C. Colgrove of Taylorville, Ill., Miss Elizaeth Colgrove of Masons Island, Mystic; Daniel M., James E. and Edward W. Colgrove of Taylorville and Miss Ellen A. Colgrove, also of Taylorville.

Ruth, the two year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tanzetter Brown, died Tuesday following an illness of but a few days.

The officers of New London lodge of Elks were installed at a regular meeting of the organization this evening. The installation ceremony was conducted by Past Exalted Ruler James Harrington of Norwich lodge and a large number of members witnessed the ceremony. A class of candidates was initiated and following the meeting a repast was enjoyed and a vaudeville entertainment was provided.

Mr. and Mrs. George Whittlesey have returned home having spent several days in the south.

John Troland, a student at Amherst, who has been visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Troland, has resumed his studies.

Miss Hannah Josephson of Waterford, has moved to Brooklyn, N. Y., where she will reside with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Josephson, formerly of Waterford and who moved to Brooklyn several months ago.

A special meeting of the city council is to take place Friday afternoon in the council chamber for the purpose of considering a recommendation of City Manager William A. Holt that a protector board be purchased by the city for the fire alarm system. If purchased the board will be erected at the central fire station. The exact cost of the board is not known, but it will be such that a special appropriation will have to be made. Since the last severe storm the system has been practically out of commission. If board is purchased, it will be installed between the switchboard and the current carrying wires and will be of such a nature in construction as to prevent its becoming out of commission through coming in contact with high voltage wires.

CROWDED SCHOOL BUS AIDS DISEASE SPREAD

When an epidemic of some disease occurs, and grows in proportions, steps are immediately taken to locate the source of infection and the factors in its spread, says the weekly bulletin of the state department of health.

Recently such an epidemic of scarlet fever occurred among a school group in the state. In the search that was made for the possible sources of its spread—it was found that the children were transported by auto bus to their respective schools. In rural sections this has proven an effective means of reaching the school—but, unless an adequate number of busses is available for this purpose, this may prove a source of danger.

In the above instance it was clearly demonstrated that an over-crowded bus was an important factor in the spread of scarlet fever, since six children out of fifty riding on the bus contracted the disease while only three out of one hundred and thirty not using the bus had scarlet fever.

One recalls very vividly a ride on such a crowded school bus when the capacity of fifteen was stretched to thirty. Needless to say, conditions in such a bus are deplorably unhealthy.

One case of severe cold is an effective means of spreading colds among such a group, who are standing or sitting in such close proximity that infection cannot be avoided. With a disease of more serious nature, such as scarlet fever or measles, the results are even more serious.

Responsibility for transportation of school children should not end with the procuring of the busses, but arrangements should be made to secure adequate seating capacity for the school children so transported.

Good Smelt Catch.

Smelt were running good in the Shetucket river Thursday and Theodore Church made the best catch of the season recorded so far. He scooped in about 100 pounds of the toothsome little fish.

More than 400 operators in the filling mill of the Bigelow-Hartford Carpet company, Thompsonville, were temporarily thrown out of employment when between 40 and 50 reelers refused to work in protest of the proposed wage reduction posted by the company.

ALONE IN THE HOUSE

There isn't a sensation in the world that I like more
Than to turn my lonely latch-key in my very own front door—
To close it fast behind me, and to leave the world outside
With its worry, work, and hubbub and the folks I can't abide!

I love my quiet fireside—I love my rows of books—
My pleasant rooms—my pictures with their well-remembered looks;
If I'm tired, or cross, or hungry, I only long the more
To get behind the shelter of my very own front door.

I'm glad to thing that nobody can rob me of the peace
I find when once the door is closed and outside noises cease.
Believe me, O my sisters, nor waste time making moan—
There are many compensations if you have to live alone!

ALEX M. PASNIK

POLISH SPEAKER HERE KNEW PASNIK ANCESTERS

When Dr. Osias Thon, the famous Polish speaker was here on Sunday to speak at the Keren Hayesod meeting, he brought some information from the Old World that was as enlightening as it was unexpected to the Norwich man whom it concerned. Alex M. Pasnik of 79 Williams street.

As a party of about twenty were at lunch with Dr. Thon after the meeting, the distinguished visitor inquired if any one present came from Cracow, Poland, the city which Dr. Thon comes from. Mr. Pasnik acknowledged that Cracow was his native place to the great interest of Dr. Thon who immediately inquired his name and was delighted when he heard it for he said that he knew well the grandfather and the great grandfather of the Pasnik family, both of whom had been among the most trusted and influential Hebrew men of the city who held the confidence of the governing authorities in the highest measure.

MR. AND MRS. H. G. CAMPBELL TO RETURN TO CALIFORNIA

Norwich friends learn that Mr. and Mrs. Harry G. Campbell (Evelyn Nash) plan to leave their beautiful home in Evanston, Ill., a suburban to Chicago, late in April, to return to California, locating in San Diego.

They will go first to Berkeley, also visiting friends at Colorado Springs, then will visit George Norris Nash Mrs. Campbell's brother, a Norwich boy. Afterwards they will make a visit to Mrs. Campbell's sister, Isabel, wife of Prof. James Corbett, professor of chemistry at the University of Stockton. Following a visit with other friends at Anaheim, near Los Angeles, they will continue to San Diego, a city having a delightful climate the year around.

In former years, Mr. Campbell's business interests took him to California. For four years also, Mr. and Mr. Campbell resided in Winnipeg, the capital of Manitoba, in the Dominion of Canada. Their return to Chicago was brought about by Mr. Campbell's returning to the grain business, when he was on the Chicago Board of Trade. They have made four trips abroad, as Mr. Campbell's business required.

There is local interest in their change of residence, as their marriage took place in Norwich, at the home of Mrs. Campbell's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. John Irish, of Laurel Hill avenue. Mrs. Campbell, Mrs. Corbett and George N. Nash are children of the late Asa and Carrie Hathaway Nash and were born in the Nash mansion, on the site of the present Norwich Post Office building. Their grandfather was of the firm of Nash, Brewster & Company, lumber merchants whose yards on Central Wharf are now occupied by the coal and lumber business of the Edward Chappell company.

DISCUSS REBUILDING OF DOCKS IN HARBOR

At the meeting of the directors of the Norwich Chamber of Commerce, held Thursday noon at the Wauregan hotel, reports of progress were approved concerning equitable taxation and industrial matters. The March statement of finance was also approved.

Present at the meeting were Lucius Briggs of the Edward Chappel Co., and Samuel Goldberg of the Max Gordon Corp., who discussed with the directors the project of rebuilding their docks to a sufficient depth to meet the requirements of the proposed deepened channel of the Thames river. As the rebuilding of docks along the water front is an important question owners have been approached and it is now assured that the Uncas Paperboard Co., H. F. & A. J. Dawley, Thames River line, and Edward Chappel Co. will rebuild their docks. The Max Gordon Corp., not yet having received estimates of the cost, have not agreed definitely to change but it is expected they also will rebuild.

Speaking for the company he represented, Mr. Goldberg said the Max Gordon Corp. stood ready to aid in the progress of this community but as figures were not available no action could be taken as yet.

The development of the Thames river channel primarily benefits Norwich and Eastern Connecticut through the competition of freight rates by water and rail, and cities everywhere having water and rail facilities are trying to develop this type of project.

NORMAN HIMES RECEIVES SCHOLARSHIP AT HARVARD

The many friends of Norman Himes will be pleased to learn that he has been honored by the faculty of Harvard university, and has been appointed to the Robert Treat Paine Fellowship in Sociology, the largest and most coveted fellowship in the department.

Mr. Himes intends to remain at Harvard for another two years. He will receive his Master of Arts this year and hopes to get his general examinations for the Ph D. next year, then write his thesis.

He spent last summer in Europe studying economic and socialistic conditions and has delivered numerous addresses on economics in Massachusetts and New York cities since his return. His friends here wish him every success in his chosen field.

INCOME TAX PAYMENTS $7,354,847 IN MARCH

Income and excess profits taxes amounting to $7,354,847.78 were collected in Connecticut in March, according to the internal revenue bureau. Of this amount, $6,777,013.80 represented current returns and $347,089.98 the additional tax levied on last year's returns. Assessments made by the Washington bureau of internal revenue totaled $230,734.81. These figures are slighly above those of March, 1923.

Gifts to Ex-Service Men.

The sick committee of Richard E. Hourigan post auxiliary, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Mrs. Lewis Hall and Mrs. Victoria J. Plante, visited the State Tuberculosis sanatorium Thursday afternoon. Fruit, sleeping garments and bed slippers were distributed among eight ex-service men who are at the sanatorium and two nurses who had seen service in the world war also received similar presents.

The work of the committee was greatly appreciated by the men and women receiving the gifts.

MARKET WAS ACTIVE

New York, April 3.—Strength and activity of the railroad shares, particularly those of the larger western systems, was the outstanding development in today's irregular market. The advance in the industrials, which started three days ago, was halted around noon when selling broke out in General Electric and some of the standard shares in that group.

Buying of the rails was influenced by two important considerations—the unusually good February earnings statements and the statement by Interstate Commerce Commissioner Esch before the house rail committee that the proposed plan for revision of rates might prove disastrous to business and that in his opinion rates should not be altered to meet price fluctuations. Possibilities of special dividend distributions were a factor in the demand for some issues.

Southern Pacific was the individual feature, being pushed up 4 1-4 points to 93 1-4 on total transactions of more than 75,000 shares. Union Pacific climbed more than 3 3-4 and then reacted. Atchison, Northern Pacific, Northwestern, Chesapeake & Ohio, Missouri Pacific, Louisville & Nashville, Southern Railway, Kansas & Texas and Erie also advanced a point or more.

Dispersion of [illegible] into the railroad [illegible] profit-taking in [illegible] industrials. General [illegible] and more than 5 points from its opening price to 227, and then rallied to 230 1-2. U. S. Steel moved [illegible] a fraction of 1 point, closing [illegible]. A sudden burst of [illegible] Studebaker just before the close put that stock up more than 1 point to 95. Baldwin closed a point lower at 117 1-4 and American Can was off 3-4 at 105 1-4.

Cable reports that France would undertake [illegible] was her [illegible] the Dawes report [illegible] result of the [illegible] had a good effect on [illegible] undoubtedly was responsible for the temporary display of strength in the copper group. Oil shares held relatively firm. Strength of Marine preferred, which moved up more than 1 point apparently was due to the announcement of President Rhoads of the American International Corporation, that its holdings of Marine stock would not be liquidated.

Call money opened at 4 1-2 per cent, and then dropped to that rate for business in the time money market was of a restricted nature. Quotations for short term loans reported at 4 1-2 per cent but with 4 1-2 the ruling rate for loans up to 90 days and the longest maturities commanded 4 3-4.

Foreign exchanges developed reactionary trend on heavy profit taking in the French and Belgium currencies. Demand sterling was slightly lower at $4.50, while the French francs ruled around 6 3-4 cents. Selling of the French francs may have been influenced by the increase of 300,000,000 francs in the French government's borrowings at the bank of France.

BOND MARKET.

New York, April 3.—Under the leadership of speculative railroad issues and standard public utility liens, bond prices today worked into higher ground. While changes generally held within narrow limits, the market responded readily to lower rates for money which was in plentiful supply, and buying was well distributed throughout the list.

Obligations of the carriers were the favorites in trading, with substantial gains recorded by Southern Pacific collateral 4s, Missouri Pacific 6s, Louisville and Nashville 5s, Atlantic Coast Line 4s and International and Great Northern adjustment 6s. Brisk activity again developed in the St. Paul issues, which moved into new high ground although the advances were small.

Recovery of Wickwire-Spencer 7s, which moved about 4 points above yesterday's close, was attributed to the support of interests close to the company which absorbed the few bonds which were offered. Copper bonds displayed an improved tone and International Mercantile Marine 6s moved up more than a point on the strength of shipping stocks.

Reports were current that financial assistance to Belgium would take the form of a long-term loan instead of a temporary credit. While J. P. Morgan and Company, and the Guaranty Trust Company were named as likely bankers in the case, another syndicate was said to be preparing to bid for the business. Local bankers have been awarded $3,000,000 South Carolina 10-month notes on a 3.50 per cent basis.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

Chicago April 3.—New upturns in the price of corn together with active buying here resulted today from persistent dearth of receipts, but slowness of shipping demand east served to temper the enthusiasm of holders. Corn closed unsettled, 1-8c to 1-2@ 5-8c net higher, May 79 1-8, with wheat easy a shade to 3-8c down, May $1.03 1-8 to $1.03 1-8@1-4 and July $1.03 5-8, oats varying from 1-4@ 3-8c decline to 1-8@1-4c advance, and provisions 45c off to 7@10c gain.

Corn showed a decided tendency to climb higher in price till the May delivery had reached about 5c above last week's lowest level and July had overtopped 80c. Some dealers regarded this ascent sufficient for at least the moment, May having risen to within 3 1-2c of the best figures on the group.

Increasing offerings followed brought about something of a reaction in price, but failed to force the market down again to yesterday's finish. Meanwhile industries here were picking up at advanced premiums the fresh arrivals of corn, totalling only 31 carloads. On the other hand, re-sellers in the east were said to be supplying corn much cheaper than would be possible from Chicago.

Selling of wheat against purchases of corn was a good deal responsible for the comparative weakness of the wheat market. The fact, however, that mills were buying more wheat here than for some time past helped to sustain values and even to bring about an advance at times. Besides, primary receipts of wheat were hardly half as large as a year ago.

Oats were eased a trifle by reports that Illinois seeding would become general if weather continued good a few days.

Little desire to sell provisions was apparent, despite lower quotations on hogs.

CURB MARKET.

New York, April 3.—Speculative interest in today's irregularly higher curb market again centered in the oil shares with the strength and activity of the South American issues featuring that group.

Creole Syndicate, which overshadowed all other oils in the point of activity, touched a new high record at 5 3-8 on rumors that the Gulf Oil Corporation was negotiating for concessions on some of its Venezeulean properties. Gains in most of other active shares were limited to fractions while Standard Oil of Ohio, South Pennsylvania and Magnolia Petroleum advanced 2 to 3 1-2 points on odd lot transactions.

The outstanding development in the industrial group was the trading in the new Studebaker stock on a "when issued" basis, about 2,000 shares changing hands between 93 1-8 and 98 1-4, the stock closing near the top. Dubilier Radio and Lehigh Valley Coal rights each dropped more than a point on profit taking.

Principal activity in the mining list centered in the newly listed Kay Copper, which closed slightly higher at 1 1-8 on total transactions of more than 25,000 shares.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

Your son must be the idol of the family.

Yes, He has been idle for 21 years. —Rehoboth Sunday Herald.

Coatroom Boy (eagerly) — Check anything, sir?

Crusty Gentleman (passing by)—Yes, your enthusiasm.—Boston Transcript.

Many an orator has the crowd with him.

Well?

Only they don't know what he wants, and neither does he, apparently.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Richard finds it much easier learning figures than letters.

What is this? asked the teacher, pointing to the letter B.

That, replied Richard, proudly, is just 13 jammed together.—Exchange.

First Student—That girl is always borrowing books. Do you think she's clever?

Second Ditto—Well, she's not much of a mathematician, but she certainly is an expert book keeper.—New York Sun.

Apple—You have actually sent a bill with my cloths. What an insult! How dare you?

Tailor—It was all our new bookkeeper's fault, sir. He got you mixed up with those who pay.—Pearson's Weekly.

There's a man outside who wants something to eat.

Give him some bread and coffee, Jane.

He seems to have seen better days, mum.

That so? Then give him a napkin, too.—Boston Transcript.

It was at the altar.

Do you take this woman to be your lawfully wedded wife; to have and to hold, forsaking all others——"

One moment, parson, said the groom-to-be; and, stepping aside, he bent over a gentleman in the second row and held a whispered conference.

All right, go ahead, he said, when he returned, I just wanted to put that up to my attorney.—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

HEARING ON ALLEGED LAND FRAUDS IN TEXAS

Washington, April 3.—Charges were hurled today in the senate committee investigating alleged land frauds in the lower Rio Grande valley of Texas that "influence" was used by R. B. Creager, republican national committeeman from Texas, to halt trials of land companies in which he was interested.

Senator Heflin, democrat, Alabama, committee prosecutor, made the charges after reading into the record of a letter from Mr. Creager to Attorney-General Daugherty, dated November 14, 1921, in which the former asked that action against the companies be delayed pending a second investigation by the post office department.

There was also read into the record today a report on the first investigation made by Postal Inspector J. M. Donaldson, at Kansas City, Mo., dated May 14, 1921, in which he asserted the "land companies" have "intimated that the post office inspector could get nowhere with the investigation, as R. B. Creager would be appointed minister to Mexico and that the influence would outweigh the facts produced."

Issuance of a subpoena for John W. H. Crim, former assistant attorney general and now special prosecutor of the veterans' bureau cases, was requested by George A. Hill, Creager's counsel, after James R. Page, Kansas City attorney who is assisting Senator Heflin in the investigation, read into the record a telegram from Mr. Crim to Chief Post Office Inspector Rush D. Simmons dated March 1, 1923, concerning the alleged land frauds. Mr. Simmons again remained on the stand throughout the session today.

BOBBED HAIR BANDIT HELD UP RESTAURANTEUR IN BRONX

New York, April 3.—A bobbed hair bandit, believed to be the daring Brooklyn highway woman wanted by the police for a series of sensational crimes invaded the Bronx tonight, held up a restaurant keeper and escaped with jewelry and money totalling $400 after locking the victim in his place of business.

Accompanied by her inevitable male companion, a sleek haired youth in well fitting clothes, she entered the restaurant of Felix Dimalda, seated herself at a table and ordered dinner. After dining leisurely, the two started for the cashier's desk, where Dimalda sat alone.

As she advanced the girl thrust the muzzle of a small automatic pistol toward Dimalda and held it there while her companion robbed him of jewelry worth $250 and took $150 from the cash register. Smilingly ordering the restaurant man to keep his mouth shut if he knew what was best for him, the pair walked out and the girl snapped a padlock on the door. They escaped in a taxicab.

Dimalda released himself after half an hour's effort and gave the police a good description of the pair. That of the girl—22 years old, five feet four inches in height, with blonde bobbed hair and modishly dressed—corresponded, the police said, with that of the Brooklyn bobbed-hair bandit whose exploits have baffled the efforts of 250 police detectives for the past weeks.

TAFTVILLE

Mrs. Delvida Corneaux and Mrs. Raymond Girard of Pratte avenue are spending today (Friday) in Providence, R. I.

The Thursday Evening Basketry class met in the Red Cross rooms in the Ponemah building.

The final game in the pool tournament play between the Chippies of the Taftville Football and Social club and the Lafayette club, resulted in a victory for the latter, who took two out of the three games. They won by a margin of 41 balls, Arthur Trehan being high with 23 balls. Next Thursday the Lafayette club will play the Occum club.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Moreau of North A street have purchased the Fink farm in Lisbon and are moving there this week.

Mrs. Joseph Lucier of North A street was a visitor in Willimantic Thursday.

MAY SEEK MISSING BOY IN THIS CITY

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, April 3.—F. P. Pyne, of 1961 Westminster street, Providence, is seeking to locate his son, Francis, missing from home about a week, and who is known to have been in New London recently. The father was in New London earlier in the week and after searching the city throughout the day posted a letter containing money and addressed to the son at the post office, general delivery. Today it became known that the boy received the money and departed for Norwich. The father has been notified that the boy is no longer here and will probably seek to locate the wayward youth in Norwich.

THREE PRIZE WINNERS IN EAGLES' PINOCHLE

At the weekly pinochle tournament held in the Eagles' club Thursday evening, the following were the prize winners.

First, George Nadolny, 7555; second, Henry Clement, 7380; third, J. Sautter.

The loving cup which is to be given away tonight (Friday) in the contest between the Moose and Eagles is now on exhibition in Ferguson's show window. Although the Moose have a slight margin in the tournament, the Eagles are confident of being victors after this evening's play. This contest is to start at 8 p. m. in the Eagles' club.

ADOLPH SENAY KILLED AT BALTIC WHEN DITCH CAVED IN ON HIM

Too late to save himself but in time to call a warning to his companion, Adolph Senay, 55, of Baltic was instantly killed Thursday afternoon at 3.45 o'clock when the sides of a ditch in which the two men were working, caved in, burying Senay alive. People nearby assisted by Mr. Dutremble, the companion of Senay, quickly seized shovels and worked frantically in hopes to save Senay's life but his skull was crushed and death was instantaneous.

Senay and Dutremble had been engaged by the town of Sprague to excavate on Railroad street and locate a break in a sewer main and had dug down about 9 feet and then started to cut under one side of the ditch to locate the break in the main. The earth suddenly began to sag and Senay realising the danger of a cave-in shouted for Dutremble to jump. Dutremble stepped back just as the sides to go and fell in, crushing Senay and burying him under its weight. Dutremble was buried to his waist but succeeded in struggling free and assisted by Joseph Polank tackled the job of clearing the dirt and rocks from the body of Senay. He was dead when found, the heavy earth having crushed his head and the skull was broken.

Word was sent to Norwich for the coroner and as he could not be reached Dr. Napoleon B. Lewis was called and after viewing the body gave permission to Undertaker George G. Grant of Taftville to remove the body to his establishment.

Senay had resided in Baltic for over 35 years and has many friends in that village who learned of his tragic death with sorrow. He is survived by his wife and one son in Masonville, R. I., a step-son of Patchogue, R. I., a niece, Mrs. Rose Paradise of Central Village and three nephews in New Haven, Worcester and New Hampshire also a brother in Canada.

When a young man Mr. Senay was a well-known semi-professional baseball player.

FRANKLIN CHAPTER, R. A. M. ... ELECTS OFFICERS FOR YEAR

The annual convocation of Franklin Chapter, No. 4, R. A. M., was held at Masonic Temple Thursday evening. The report of the treasurer and the trustees showed the Chapter to be in fine financial condition.

The secretary's report showed a total membership of 640. During the year there were 19 new members admitted, 4 withdrawals and 7 deaths as follows: Henry Hovey, April 26, 1923; Charles E. Blumley, June 6,

Paul H. Zahn, high priest; Frank B. Lathrop, king; Robert Cochran, scribe; P. H. P. Albert S. Comstock, treasurer; P. H. P. Walter M. Buckingham, secretary; William Avery Gallup, C. of H.; William A. Buckley, P. S.; Richard P. Grerson, R. A. C.; Kirk F. Ricketts, M. 3rd V.; Henry Follenius, M. 2nd V.; Lawrence G. Drescher, M. 1st V.; P. H. P. Herbert R. Kind, chaplain; P. H. P. James C. Fitzpatrick, sentinel; P. H. P. Albert S. Comstock, Frederick W. Lester and P. H. P. Herbert R. Kind, trustees.

The committees appointed were as follows:

Standing committee, P. H. P. Julian L. Williams, Peter S. Wilson and Herman Stetzner.

Committee on dues, The High Priest, secretary and P. H. P. Albert S. Comstock.

A past high priest's jewel was presented to P. H. P. Herman Stetzner as a mark of esteem and another year of prosperity is looked forward to under High Priest Zahn.

Displayed One Pound Trout.

Edward Harper of Huntington place had good luck on the brooke Thursday and returned with a good catch of trout, including one weighing a pound which was on display in the window of Jacks' sport shop on Ferry street.

NEW HAVEN RECTOR PREACHES LENTEN SERMON

The story of the woman who asked Jesus to heal her sick child was the topic of the sermon given by Rev. Charles D. Scoville, D. D., rector of Trinity church, New Haven, at the united lenten service at Christ Episcopal church, Thursday evening. There was a good sized congregation and the service was led by Rev. J. Eldred Brown, rector of Trinity church. The first lesson, read by Rev. Mr. Brown, was taken from the 32nd chapter of Jeremiah and the second lesson from the 15th chapter of St. Luke.

Rev. Dr. Scoville took his text from the 15th chapter of St. Luke, the story of the woman who asked Christ to heal her sick child. Although a Gentile and not a follower of the Master, the woman went to Christ and asked the aid she wanted. Her faith in Him was wonderful, said the preacher and He answered her plea by granting her request. Some of the best work done in theology has been to bring out the human nature in the New Testament. The expressions in the Testament come very nearly being scientifically true.

Regarding repentance and conversion Rev. Dr. Scoville said: I am rather an emphatic believer in repentance as the beginning of a Christian life. In concluding his sermon, he said: Just use these words, Lord help me, use them honestly and with faith and this is enough to gain the end sought.

The final service in the series will be held next Thursday evening at Trinity church when the sermon will be delivered by Rev. George H. Heyn, rector of Trinity church, Portland, this

DOROTHY LORD ELECTED SENIOR CLASS PRESIDENT

Elections in the senior class at the Norwich Free Academy resulted as follows Wednesday: President, Dorothy Lord; Historian, Miss Purdick; Prophet, Miss Frank; Poet, Storrs Lee; Secretary, Miss Driscoll. The following candidates will be voted upon at the next election to be held today: Vice president, Miss Sterry, C. Pitt; treasurer, Philip McNamara; George Risley; prophet, Cramer and Kilpatrick; prophetess, Miss Bellows Mary Thune.

The election of Miss Lord as president marks a new era in history at the academy as it is the first time in the history of the school a girl has had the honor of being elected class president. This is no doubt due to the objections to fraternity versus independent elections, and the change to making candidates for office file their name and office with the office. The office seekers now must have ten seniors sign their petition and the candidate must receive a majority of all votes cast to be elected.

Dempsey-McIntyre Photograph.

A full length photograph of Jack Dempsey, shaking hands with John McIntyre, is attracting considerable attention as it is displayed in the window at Madden's cigar store. The picture is owned by Officer Barney Keenan and was presented to him personally by Dempsey. Mr. McIntyre, who was formerly of this city, is now on the New York police force and at the time the picture was taken was in uniform.

LIONS HAVE NEARLY PERFECT ATTENDANCE

Almost a perfect attendance was the record of the Norwich Lions club, in session Thursday noon, at the Wauregan house, a fine start in the International Lions Club Attendance Contest. President George A. Finn presided and Lion Fred Watson was song leader in the absence of Frank Sisk who is ill. Visiting Lions included Bill Burdick of New London who brought a guest.

President Finn on behalf of the club spoke of the withdrawal of Lion Bill Harding. Mr. Harding is to leave the town shortly and the club extended well wishes for his success in life. The members of the club as a tribute then sang Till We Meet Again, indicating the song to "Bill."

After a short business meeting President Finn announced the following entertainment committee for April: Fred Watson, Frank Rinella and George Madden. Committees appointed were as follows: Publicity, Benedict C. Pullen, Max Hanover and Herbert Corey; civic committee, Herman Gibbs, John Barry and George Fullerton; welfare committee, Edward Carpenter, Rev. R. B. Day and Dr. Clarence G. Thompson.

All members were urged to support as far as possible the organ and song recital to be given by Frederick W. Lester and Henry LaFontaine at the Palace theatre. Several signified their intentions of attending the charter night celebration of the Lions club in the Bronx on April 23rd.

The prize which is to be awarded each week during the attendance contest was awarded to Herbert Corey by Louis Fontaine after which Lion Tyler Stanton was appointed song leader for next week. The meeting closed with the singing of the Star Spangled Banner and the salute to the flag.

CATHOLIC WOMEN'S CLUB COMMENDED BY RECTOR

Thursday afternoon a business meeting of the Catholic Women's club of St. Patrick's parish was held at the rooms of the Ladies' of Columbus with a large attendance. The president, Mrs. James J. Dutton presided. Following the business session the club gave a rising vote of thanks to Mrs. Nelson C. Disco for the use of her home for a very successful St. Patrick's Day party. The sewing committee reported 52 blouses completed, also 24 skirts and 21 nightdresses, with work still to be finished.

It was decided to hold a banquet to mark the twenty-fifth anniversary of the club's existence, the date being set for April 19th. The officers and the executive committee were made the committee in charge of the arrangements.

The club also voted to have a rummage sale, the proceeds to be used for the poor. Mrs. N. C. Disco and Mrs. Frank T. Sylvia were appointed a committee for this project, all members assisting in their respective districts.

The club had as its guest of honor during the afternoon Rev. M. H. May, rector of the parish, who cordially commended the organization for the vast amount of good which it accomplishes in a quiet way, making it such a valuable asset to the parish.

Throughout Lent, the club is omitting the usual afternoon tea which generally follows each formal meeting.

Schooner Bound Here Leaking

In the list of marine disasters given in a New York newspaper Thursday, the schooner Esther from Tampa for Norwich was reported as being in latitude 35 33, longitude 75 01 leaking. A cutter will probably be sent to her assistance.

Elected to Skull at Worcester Tech

Russell H. Webster of Willimantic is one of ten juniors at Worcester Polytechnic institute who has been elected to Skull, the honorary senior society.

Wire mesh linings for the bottoms of cooking utensils have been invented to prevented food burning.

PROF. HONLINE PROMISES TO RETURN NEXT YEAR

Over 400 people were present at the Central Baptist church Thursday evening to hear Professor M. A. Honline, of Pasadena, California, delivery the last of his inspiring lectures on the Bible and religious work, which was the final one in a series delivered by him during the past five weeks under the auspices of the Connecticut Sunday school associations, which have been well attended.

The subject of the lecture was What is the Bible, How Should it be Studied, and How Should it be Interpreted? Prof. Honline urged a liberal use of the word education, that which means "change", not that narrow use of the word which refers only to education as used in teaching. Prof. Honline also spoke of points in the Bible, not agreeing one with the other, yet all true.

For his second lecture Prof. Honline spoke of Religious Educational Needs, informing his audience that the average child in the Sunday school received but 13 hours of study a year. How, asked Prof. Honline, can the young people be expected to profit from this sort of religious education? He also stressed the importance of trained religious teachers for the Sunday schools.

Before closing Prof. Honline said the day was coming when children in public schools throughout the country would with the permission of their parents, be excused from public schools for a period each day to enter classes for religious education, taught by trained teachers.

In Gary, Ind., he said, this plan has been carried out for years, children of all creeds attending the classes. While juvenile crime has been on the increase throughout the country it has declined in Gary. The character of the next generation will be developed from what it feeds upon, he said, and religious training is the best means of bettering conditions and character.

In closing he urged the formation of religious council among the churches of Norwich for the purpose of holding religious study classes in Norwich taught by trained teachers. The cost, he said, would be not over $15 per child a year and would be money well spent.

Previous to adjournment Wallace I. Woodin, of Hartford, general secretary of the Connecticut Sunday school association, announced that the association had the promise of Prof. Honline to return to Norwich next year for a course of ten lectures extending over a period of ten weeks.

Secretary Woodin suggested the appointment of a committee of three to act with the state association with regard to meeting next year and Rev. Alexander H. Abbott, chairman; appointed Rev. David A. Pitt, Rev. Harlow Graham, and Rev. Gurdon P. Bailey as the committee.

The meeting adjourned after a rising vote of thanks was tendered Prof. Honline for his inspiring lectures.

DAUGHERTY COMMITTEE FLOUNDERS INTO RECESS

rHeard Witnesses Tell of Drug Selling at Federal Penitentiaries, Refer to Bootlegging Investigations in New York, and Relate Alleged Instances of Liquor Supplies Being Brought to "the Little Green House"—Committee Declines to Give Mr. Daugherty's Counsel Any Definite Promise of Time When His Client Might Put in a Defense to the Series of Charges.

Washington, April 4—A wide array of new charges was thrown into the already crowded records of the senate Daugherty investigating committee today.

Witnesses spoke of drug selling, the paroles at federal penitentiaries, referred to bootlegging investigations in New York, crossed the continent to tell of munitions being furnished revolutionists in lower California, and came back to relate alleged instances of liquor supplies being brought to "the little green house on K street," in Washington, mentioned many times during the progress of the investigation as a rendezvous in recent years of high government officials.

Faced with the mass of material the committee, already deeply occupied with executive session inquiries into war contract questions, decided to recess until Monday.

The investigation is directing us, rather than we directing the investigation, Chairman Brookhart remarked.

During intervals in the examination of witnesses the committee decided to send two of its members, Senator Wheeler, democrat, Montana, its prosecutor, and Senator Moses, republican, New Hampshire, to Washington Court House, Ohio, with power to hold either open or executive investigations into the affairs of the Midland National bank, operated by M. S Daugherty, brother, of the former attorney general.

Two letters were received by the committee today, one from Secretary Weeks transmitting war department records of investigations into war contracts for the air service, which it examined behind closed doors, and one from Acting Attorney General Beck asking delay in complying with requests for files of the bureau of investigation bearing upon records of drug investigation at the Atlanta federal penitentiary and saying that President Coolidge desired first to obtain the opinion of his new attorney general on the question.

Rapid fire testimony was heard during the day from witnesses who included J. E. Dyche, one warden of the Atlanta prison; W. J. Burns, director of the bureau of investigation of the department of justice, and Daniel Smith, a former negro butler at "the little green house on K. street."

Dyche was the first to take the stand and declared that he had instituted an investigation into extensive supplies of narcotic drugs to convicts, obtained the aid of "under cover men," from the department of justice, and had four prison guards indicted. Sidney H. Votaw, federal superintendent of prisons, ordered the investigation suspended, Dyche said, adding that later he received a hint to resign, and did so, subsequently accepting an appointment in the prohibition service.

Senator Wheeler flashed on Dyche a photostatic copy of what purported to be a letter from Charles Vincente, of Baltimore, transmitting a note for $50,000 payable to E. H. Mortimer, in case of Vincente's release from serving an 18 month sentence at Atlanta for violation of the prohibition law. Mortimer has been named in recent investigations affecting Charles R. Forbes, former head of the veterans' bureau, and others, and Mrs. Mortimer stepped out of the committee room audience to identify her husband's signature on the document.

Dyche said Vincente served out his term, notwithstanding, but named one "Dyer," who he said was a convicted Buffalo, drug seller, as having been paroled and there was "prison talk," that he paid $2,500 or $5,000 for release. The witness expressed himself as having been "dumfounded," when Superintendent Votaw a brother-in-law of the late President Harding, suspended the drug investigations.

Investigation of the drug supply to the Atlanta penitentiary Dyche said, might have disclosed its sources through "men higher up," and W. J. Burns, chief of staff of the bureau of investigation, agreed with the statement when called a moment later.

Senator Wheeler led Burns through an examination which switched around dazzlingly. Former Attorney General Daugherty, Burns said, "knew the situation," at Atlanta, but Burns did not take the drug smuggling matter himself to Votaw. Two of the indicted guards were found not guilty on were dismissed. The supply of drugs, trial, and cases against the other two the witnesses said, was still going on at Atlanta and at Leavenworth prison.

Burns denied that he knew that "oil men" had sought to ferment revolutions in Mexico, but said that leaders of the Cantu rebellion in lower California, which "blew up" did obtain guns and ammunition which had been once seized by the government agencies but was turned back by order of Mr. Daugherty. His agents had begun investigating a bootlegging ring involving "very prominent people," in New York, Burns stated naming Gaston B. Means, now an assistant to the committee, as one of the secret service force. He told also in this connection of an order from Daugherty to the investigation force to quit butting into treasury department matters and a later compromise between the prohibition enforcement unit of the treasury department and his own agency.

Daniel D. Smith, formerly a negro servant to Howard Mannington of Ohio, who lived in "the little green house," testified that on two occasions in 1921, "about 20 cases of liquor" had been delivered there by a Wells-Fargo express wagon, with "a swagger man along." He had identified the revenue man, he explained, by his possession of "a badge and a gun," and named Mr. Daugherty, Jess Smith, Will Orr, and Harry F. Sinclair, as among the visitors to the house.

From Mr. Burns the committee learned that Fred W. Upham, treasurer of the republican national committee, was a $1 a year man on the department of justice investigation service staff, and that R. B. McLean, the Washington publisher, had recently resigned such a commission. Both men were of service, Burns said, resenting a statement by Chairman Brookhart that these agents, "were a part of the millionaire bunch most dangerous" to the country.

Paul Rowland, attorney for Mr. Daugherty, during the hearing sought information as to the series of charges which have been adduced but received no definite promise. Senator Wheeler said the committee might finish putting in its own evidence, "in a month or six weeks," and Chairman Brookhart declared that the investigation "might run until Christmas."

Notwithstanding the many questions explored to date the committee is said to have new material in prospect. The prohibition enforcement record during recent years has been suggested as a fertile field for further work.

DAUGHERTY LIKENS PEPPER TO BURCHARD

Washington, April 4.—Former Attorney General Daugherty in a statement tonight attacked Senator Pepper, republican, Pennsylvania, for his speech at Portland, Maine, yesterday, in which he said the selection of Mr. Daugherty for attorney general seemed to him a mistake on one now dead.

"Blame it all on Harding," is the keynote which the Pennsylvanian would have the republican party adopt for the presidential campaign, Mr. Daugherty declared, adding that any such "cowardly cry," will "sound the death knell of republican success in the coming election."

"I recall that many years ago," the statement said, "a man of self-assumed and unctious rectitude defeated the republican party by sounding a keynote speech which was resented by thousands of republicans. Senator Pepper makes a strong bid in his so-called keynote speech to become the Burchard of today, and to outshine his famous predecessor in the Blaine campaign."

Pointing out that he had had no opportunity to present his defense before the senate investigating committee, Mr. Daugherty charged that Senator Pepper, who would vote on the question of adopting or rejecting the committee's report, "prejudges the case, throws me and my honor to the wolves, undefended, unheard, and condemned."

"He stands me on the scaffold," the statement added, "and in full view of the American people places a responsibility for me and my record on the dead president and attempts to use me to point a moral and adorn a tale.

"When reason is restored, and motives, actions and judgments are weighed with deliberation, it will be found that the record of my administration of the department of justice will be one of which the American people will be proud."

Mr. Daugherty declared that Senator Pepper had desired appointment by President Harding as solicitor general of the United States, but Mr. Daugherty after receiving adverse reports from both the late Senators Knox and Penrose, of Pennsylvania, recommended against the selection.

"They (Knox and Penrose)," the statement said, "refused their endorsement on the ground that he had not qualified by legal experience or temperament * * * and on the further but less important ground that he had no claim on the party for political honors."

In the latter connection, the statement declared that Senator Pepper had been active in the fight to drive Secretary Ballinger out of the Taft cabinet.

Declaring that he had always been a loyal republican, Mr. Daugherty said he was standing "as a candidate for delegate-at-large in Ohio for President Coolidge, at his request and with his approval and I am content that the people of Ohio * * * shall pass upon my claims as a man, lawyer and republican."

FEAR ALL HANDS WENT DOWN WITH SCHOONER

St. John, N. B., April 4.—The body of George E. Smith of Ingraham's Hill, Rockland, Me., washed ashore near Chance Harbor, confirmed today the fears of mariners that the missing schooner Nellie Eaton foundered with all hands off Nan rock in last Tuesday's hurricane.

The Nellie Eaton carried a crew of five men. Smith's body was the first to be recovered.

In a pocket of his clothing was a card which read: "This is to identify George E. Smith, Ingrahm's Hill, Rockland, Me. Father, Richard Smith, of Rockland."

VATICAN TO DISCIPLINE SUSPECTED MODERNISTS

Rome, April 4.—Severe disciplinary measures are expected to be taken by the vatican authorities shortly against suspected modernists, following the recent ex-communication of Abbe Ernesto Buonaiuti, professor of church history at Rome university, says the Giornale D'Italia in an article today which is attributed to a reliable source.

The Osservatore Romano, organ of the vatican, says Abbe Buonaiuti was ex-communicated because, despite canonical reprimands, "he continued to spread doctrines frankly modernistic in character." His books accordingly were placed in the index expurgatorius.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

Blew Up Burning Steamer.

Port Sudan, Egypt, April 4. — The British submarine K-26 this morning in the Red sea, blew up the British steamer Frangestan, the cotton cargo of which caught fire Wednesday morning, threatening the lives of 1,300 passengers who, however, were taken off by vessels summoned by wireless distress calls. When the Frangestan was sent to the bottom she was still blazing fiercely and ultimately would have been a total wreck.

GANG OF BANDITS HELD UP BANK IN BELLMORE, N. Y.

Bellmore, N. Y., April 4.—A gang of armed bandits held up the First National bank here shortly afternoon today, drove the assistant cashier and a clerk into the cellar, and shot and killed Ernest L. Whitman, a bond salesman of Patchogue, who entered the doorway as they were making their escape with $6,000 in cash.

Running to an automobile which was standing nearby with a confederate at the wheel, the bandits fired a fusillade of shots to discourage pursuit and dashed toward the outskirts of the town.

Within a short time Nassau county police had placed guards on each outlet from Long Island, had formed strong posses for combing the country, had obtained license number of the automobile and had sent fingerprints to the New York police for possible identification.

Miss Mary Umhauer, assistant cashier, who was alone in the front room of the bank when two of the bandits entered, gave the following account of the holdup:

"One of the men came to the cashier's window and asked me to change a $20 bill. Just then another man walked passed the window and I became suspicious and moved by foot toward the burglar alarm. Before I could step on it I saw the man at the window draw a revolver. He said 'Step back, don't step on anything or I'll shoot you.'

"I turned around and found the other man in the cage with me. He had a revolver, too, and ordered me to sit in a chair while the first man went into a back room where Rudolph Jowalke, the bookkeeper, was working and brought him out with his hands up. Two more men there came into the bank and while one began putting bills from the cash drawer into a black handbag the others ordered the bookkeeper and myself into the cellar. While we were going downstairs I heard several shots."

A revolver, which one of the bandits dropped in his flight was found near Whitman's body. This gave rise to the report that he had endeavored to stop the bandits, but the Nassau police said apparently he was entering the bank on business and was not aware of the robbery until the bandits fled through the doorway and opened fire on him. Two bullets struck him, one in the head and the other in the chest.

The bandit's automobile was found a few miles from Bellmore tonight. A glass in a window had been broken and blood was found on the seat. Police believed one of the robbers had been cut by falling glass. Finger prints were also found on the car.

A high school girl said she saw the men jump from the car into another that was waiting which whisked them away.

WOULD EXTEND PRESENT IMMIGRATION QUOTA LAW

Washington, April 4.—One the eve of house consideration of the Johnson immigration bill Representative Sabath, democrat, Illinois, introduced a resolution proposing extension of the present 3 per cent. quota law, based on the 1910 census, to December 31, 1925, and creation of a commission to study the immigration problem. The existing law, unless extended or supplanted by other legislation will automatically expire June 30 next.

The commission suggested by Mr. Sabath, who is one of the members of the house immigration committee opposed to the bill sponsored by Chairman Johnson, would be composed of two senators, two members of the house, and three others to be appointed by the president as representative of industrial, labor and agricultural interests.

The Johnson bill which would fix immigration quotas at 2 per cent. based on the 1890 census, provide for examination overseas of prospective immigrants and practically bar Japanese form entry into the United States, will come up in the house tomorrow under rules limiting general debate to ten hours. Those in charge of the measure do not expect a final vote before the latter part of next week.

Late today Representative Parks, democrat, Arkansas, put in a bill to prohibit immigration entirely for five years.

LODGE FOR QUOTAS BASED ON THE CENSUS OF 1920

Washington, April 4.—Immigration quotas based on the census of 1920 were proposed today in the senate by Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, the republican leader. He declared that this basis would remove all objection raised to both the proposed 1890 and 1910 basis, as it would be entirely fair to all races concerned.

THIRD PARTY MOVEMENT MENACES THE NORTHWEST

Washington, April 4.—The political situation in the northwest was canvassed today by President Coolidge at a luncheon conference with Governor Preus of Minnesota.

"The greatest danger to the success of the republican party in November, in the northwest is a third party movement," Governor Preus said after his call at the White House. "Senator La Follette, as the third party candidate need mak no campaign. A party headed by him would carry Minnesota, Wisconsin, the Dakotas, Montana, Colorado, probably Nebraska and perhaps Iowa."

ANDERSON HAS BECOME TEACHER IN SING SING

Ossining, N. Y., April 4—A teacher for other convicts was the task assigned today to William H. Anderson, former state superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league now serving a term in Sing Sing prison for forging the league's books.

Anderson has finished his work with the "reception company," made up of new prisoners, which included shoveling coal and scrubbing floors.

His assignment to the faculty also answered a question as to whether he should be called "Mr. Anderson," as he was called by Dr. Squire, prison physician, or just plain "Anderson," as the guards called him. He will be known as "Professor Anderson."

The subjects "Professor Anderson" will teach were not announced.

Slander Suit Filed Against Gov. Small

State Senator Charges That Governor of Illinois Slandered Him in Address Made in Chicago.

Chicago, April 4.—A suit for $50,000 damages for slander was filed in the superior court against Governor Len Small, by State Senator James J. Barbour today. Senator Barbour charges that Governor Small slendered him in an address delivered here today.

Senator Barbour alleged that Governor Small in his address said that the senator was on the payroll of Attorney-General Edward J. Brundage and had taken money illegally from the state treasury.

GOV. TEMPLETON ADVOCATES MUNICIPAL AVIATION FIELDS

Hartford, April 4.—Governor Templeton, in a letter to each of the mayors of the nineteen cities of Connecticut has recommended that municipal aviation fields be made a part of any plan for municipal development, saying that, 'it would appear desirable to look into the future and arrange proper landing places as part of any scheme of municipal development." The governor adds that the plan has the support of Motor Vehicle Commissioner Robbins B. Stoeckel, as well as of many municipal officers and civic organizations throughout the state.

"It seems to me," the letter concludes, "that the matter is of great potential importance and that the need may develop with unexpected rapidity."

The commonication, a copy of which has been sent to each mayor, is as follows:

"It has been suggested that I call to your attention the advisability of the establishment of municipal aviation fields with a special view to providing proper landing places for aircraft.

"Considerable progress has already been made in this direction, but the development of air traffic is bound to be considerable, and it would appear desirable to look into the future and arrange proper landing places as a part of any scheme of municipal development. It might add that this plan has the support of the commissioner of motor vehicles, the Honorable Robbins B. Stoeckel, as well as of many municipal officers and civic organizations throughout the state.

"At all events, it seems to me that the matter is of great potential importance and that the need may develop with unexpected rapidity I, therefore, take this opportunity to call the matter to your attention and to urge respectfully that you take whatever steps are appropriate in your community.

"Very truly yours,
"CHARLES A. TEMPLETON,
"Governor."

CASS IDENTIFIED AS PIRATE WHO SHOT SKIPPER MOORE

Boston, Mass. April 4—Captain Arthur Moore of the British schooner J. Scott Hankenson and Harry Harms, cook on board the vessel today identified Ray Cass of Somerville, a sport skipper of the Hankenson when pirates promoter, as the man who shot the boarded her off Cape Ann last August. The identification was sworn to at a hearing before United States Commissioner Wheeler on an application by Nova Scotia authorities for extradition of Cass. The hearing will be continued Monday.

Counsel for the Canadian authorities failed in an effort to have Cass held without bail on the ground that the offense charged against him, piracy on the high seas, did not admit of bail. Commissioner Wheeler fixed $10,000 as bail but it had not been furnished tonight.

Moore said he recognized Cass as a he had known as Frank Davis. He said that Cass or Davis was the first to board the schooner.

Harms said that he did not recognise Cass as the man who shot him, and was unable to identify his assailant but testified that Cass had shot the captain. Moore was shot twice in the abdomen and Harms was wounded in the shoulder.

TWO YALE STUDENTS HELD FOR DISORDERLY CONDUCT

New York, April 4.—Two Yale students, Theodore Bates and Stanley Gildersleeve, both of New Haven, were held in $500 bail each for special sessions court today on a charge of disorderly conducts at the Fakirs' ball, Hotel Astor, early last Saturday.

When arraigned before a magistrate they pleaded not guilty.

It is alleged the youths attended the ball dressed as cowboys, and that they stood on a balcony above the dance floor on which about 1,500 persons were dancing and hurled down parts of electric light fixtures.

He remained at the speakers' table listening intently to all that went on.

The address of the veteran head of the A. F. of L. recounted what had been accomplished to prolong the lives and insure the health of workmen since he, a union cigarmaker, helped ban sweatshop and tenement cigar manufacture and institute the first rules for shop sanitation in this city, 60 years ago.

He concluded by advocating, as a further step in all that had been accomplished since then, the establishment of workers' clinics, to be maintained since then, the establishment of workers' clinics, to be maintained jointly by employers, workmen and federal or state health departments, "clinics where professional services could be had for charges that would not debar the poor."

OPPOSITION TO RELEASE OF HARRY K. THAW

Philadelphia, April 4—Opposition to the release of Harry K. Thaw, slayer of Stanford White, from the Pennsylvania hospital for mental and nervous disease will be presented by the committee of Thaw's estate when the trial for his release begins here next Thursday. Former Judge John M. Patterson, counsel for Thaw, said tonight that he had been informed that alienists who examined Thaw at the asylum had prepared a report declaring his present mental state is unsound and that they would so testify at the hearing.

Thaw's mother, Mrs. Mary Copley Thaw, committee of his person, joined in the petition for his release.

SLAIN BANDIT IDENTIFIED AS NARCOTIC SMUGGLER

San Francisco, April 4—Harry Stone, bank bandit, killed in the robbery of the Bank of Hochelaga, Canada, last Tuesday, was identified by S. E. Armstrong, special agent of the federal narcotic bureau here, today, as Conrad Johnson, narcotic smuggler of international repute. Johnson disappeared from San Francisco in 1918 after he had been arrested on a charge of smuggling narcotics into the city. He forfeited $10,000 bail.

WHILE DESTROYING LIQUOR ANOTHER SEIZURE MADE

New York, April 4—While customs agents today were destroying 50,000 cases of seized liquor at the army base, South Brooklyn, the coast guard cutter Gresham captured the sea tug Timothy for the third time, arresting her crew and confiscating on this occasion 1,000 cases of rum row whiskey.

RECOVERY OF MORE THAN $200,000 STOLEN BONDS

Edmonton, April 4.—More than $200,000 in bonds, stolen in a series of bank robberies in the last few years, were recovered by provincial police today as a result of revelations by "Smiling Johnny" Reid, 26-year-old bandit, said to have an international criminal record.

FEAR MOB VIOLENCE OF CONFESSED SLAYER

Spokane, Wash., April 4—A crowd estimated at 200 persons is reported assembled at the Lewiston court house where Ralph L. Waller, alleged confessed slayer of two Pomeroy people last night, is confined and the officers, it is said, fear mob violence.

Attack of Vertigo In Making Address

Samuel Gompers Was Stricken While Making Address Before a Board of Physicians.

New York, April 4.—Samuel Gompers, aged president of the American Federation of Labor, who was reported today to have been stricken with vertigo during an address before the conference board of physicians in industry, declared through his secretary tonight that he had not been ill—that his throat had merely become husky and that he wanted to save his voice for a speech at Bethlehem, Pa., next Sunday.

Mr. Gompers was listed as principal speaker for a two-day session of the conference board designed to promote the reduction of preventable deaths injuries and diseases in industry. Physicians in his audience at the Hotel Astor noticed that he appeared fatigued and ill as he rose to read his address.

"Gentlemen," he began, grasping at the table for support. "My own physician has told me that I ought not to speak. Nevertheless, I intend to go on with this address."

However, those at the speakers' table insisted that Mr. Gompers should sit down. He permitted them to lead him to a chair, and handed his address to his secretary to be read.

REAP THE ADVANTAGES

When you hear an old timer sigh for the days of his forefathers, smile quietly to yourself and think of this:

The ancients got along without automobiles, soap, stoves, toothbrushes, windowglass, breakfast foods, telephones—without practically all of the things we consider the bare essentials of life.

There never has been a time when life bettered itself so rapidly and so consistently as now. New conveniences and new comforts are continually being thought out and brought out for your benefit.

In order to reap the advantages that are yours today, you must read the advertisements. They bring you news of all that the world of invention and discovery is doing to make work easier, your home life more pleasant, your clothing and your food problems less difficult. They tell you not only about the goods, the styles, the varieties and prices but also where and when these things are to be had.

The advertisements are messages of the business world to you. Heed them.

B. & M. SHOP MECHANICS CALL OFF LONG STRIKE

Boston, April 4—The strike of six crafts of railroad shop mechanics of the Boston and Maine railroad, which began July 1, 1922, has been called off by the union of the federated crafts, effective April 7, it became known tonight. Financial inability to prolong the struggle further was given as the reason for the union's action.

Less than a month ago the members of the crafts on strike rejected by a 10 to 1 vote an offer made by the railroad company for their return to work. When the result of this vote was announced March 11 union heads said that more than 4,000 ballots had cast in the referendum.

COOLIDGE ANNOUNCES HIS OPPOSITION TO NEW TAXES

President Indicates That He Will Approve New Levies Only if Designed to Shift the Tax Burden From Heavily Laden Class to a Class Which Might Without Injury Bear Additional Taxation—Senate Committee is Studying Means of Raising New Revenue—Senate Committee Later Restored to the Revenue Bill Taxes on Telegraph and Telephone Messages.

Washington, April 4.—While the senate finance committee, warned of a $75,000,000 deficit as a result of reductions now carried by the revenue bill turned to means of raising new revenue, President Coolidge today announced a general policy of opposition to any new taxes.

Mr. Coolidge while not expressing any specific attitude on the new taxes voted last night by the committee on radio and mah jong sets, indicated he would approve new levies only if designed to shift the tax burden from a class or interest now heavily taxed to a clearer interest which might without injury bear additional taxation.

Obtaining the consent of the senate to adjourn over until Monday, Chairman Smoot outlined a program for a full day of meetings tomorrow at which he plans to conclude consideration of the bill. If completed tomorrow, Mr. Smoot assured President Coolidge today, a report of the measure would be made to the senate Monday, Mr. Smoot was one of the group of senators invited to the White House today for a breakfast conference to consider the legislative situation.

Several days would be given, after the measure is actually reported, for study of the bill by members before it is taken up for debate, Mr. Smoot said.

Chairman Green of the house ways and means committee, today issued a statement replying to Secretary Mellon's attack on the increase in the estate tax voted by the house and which was turned down last night by the senate finance committee.

"The extraordinary statement by Secretary Mellon with reference to the effect of the inheritance taxes in the house bill should not be allowed to pass without comment," Mr. Green said. "If the secretary is correctly reported in the newspapers, he stated that the federal tax, with the addition of the various state taxes, would not only in many cases take more than half of the estate, but in some instances consume nearly all of it. How far this is from being correct, will be seen by a cursory examination of the provision of the bill under which instead of its being possible to add the state taxes to the federal inheritance taxes, these are to be deducted, so that the total tax can in no event exceed the amount of the federal tax.

"The secretary also speaks of the property of an estate being forced upon the market to pay the tax. The house bill allowed more than six years in which to make the payments. The secretary is also in error as to there having been no hearings on the inheritance tax.

"Secretary Mellon refers to the provisions of the house bill as an attempt to break up large fortunes. Had this been the object it certainly could not succeed, as the total annual tax received by the government is only a small percentage of the aggregate annual increase in the estates that are subject to the inheritance tax. One estate alone is generally believed to be increasing at the rate of nearly $100,000,000 per annum. It is obvious that the great estates will continue to grow in the future as they have in the past, notwithstanding the tax.

SENATE TAX COMMITTEE RESTORES MESSAGE TAXES

Washington, April 4.—Facing a declaration by President Coolidge against any new tax levies, the senate finance committee tonight restored to the revenue bill the taxes on telegraph and telephone messages as a step toward meeting an apparent deficit of $75,000,000 in revenue under the bill as passed by the house.

The committee action restoring these taxes was taken after President Coolidge today had let it be known that he was opposed to any new levies unless they were designed to shift a tax burden from one class or interest now heavily taxed to another better able to bear additional taxation.

The message taxes, repeal of which was recommended specifically by Secretary Mellon would bring in about $34,000,000 annually, it is estimated. They were repealed by the house but Chairman Smoot has said the house bill would fall by $75,000,000 of raising sufficient revenue in the next fiscal year, including previous changes made by the finance committee.

Despite the restoration of some other minor excise taxes the bill with the rate scheduled as completed tonight still will fall about $47,000,000 short of raising enough money to operate the government next year on the basis of estimated receipts and expenditures made by the treasury, Chairman Smoot declared. He predicted, however, this would be met by increases in revenue returns over those estimated.

Before taking up the remaining excise and miscellaneous tax rates in the bill, Chairman Smoot called attention of the committee today to estimates which he said showed the bill as now framed would fall by about $75,000,000 to raise sufficient revenue in the next fiscal year.

This did not take into account $3,-000,000,000 in special appropriation bills which have been introduced in congress and of which about $600,-000,000 already has been approved by one house or the other. In this group he included the soldier bonus bill.

Republicans and democrats of the committee held separate meetings this afternoon at which was considered the problem of where to place the amount of reductions in excise taxes already approved by the house, and the necessary increases in taxes. No definite conclusions were announced.

At an earlier session, however the committee, upon request of Senators McCormick and McKinley, republicans, Illinois, and Representative Madden, republican, Illinois, did agree to the house action in cutting in half the tax on produce exchange sales amounting to two cents for each $100. The full tax previously had been restored to the bill by the committee. The cut involves a reduction in revenue estimated at $4,000,000.

JOHNSON STILL HOPEFUL OF REPUBLICAN NOMINATION

Chicago, April 4.—Declaring that "this fight is just begun—the primary campaign is only in its open stage," Senator Hiram Johnson, of California, tonight delivered a campaign speech here. He had read newspaper reports from Washington stating that William M. Butler, chief of the Coolidge campaign forces, was turning to thoughts of post-convention activity.

"Those with whom the wish is the father of the thought boldly assert, in the hope, of course, of influencing the vote in the primary states, that there is no contest in the republican party," the senator said. "They say the nominating of President Coolidge is assured; that it is ridiculous for one to think of contesting the nomination. Why such views are necessary becomes immediately apparent when it is recalled that Mr. Coolidge lost South Dakota, the only state in which the contest was clean cut, that he was the minority candidate in North Dakota, and that administration delegates were swamped in Wisconsin.

"I recognize full well the difficulties of a campaign where all political power and all concentrated wealth, every boss, big and little, every influence seeking special privilege, and every newspaper subservient to big business, are on the other side.

"But never in the history of American politics has there been a time when there was less politics in the great manufacturing mass, and more independence of judgment. Politics may delay the needed house cleaning in Washington, but it cannot prevent it. The American people themselves will do it this year."

SUMMARY OF YESTERDAY'S EVENTS IN WASHINGTON

President Coolidge announced a general policy of opposition to any new taxes.

The independent officers appropriation bill, carrying $395,000,000, was passed by the house.

The senate legislative program was discussed by President Coolidge with republican senators at another White House breakfast conference.

The senate oil committee subpoenaed additional witnesses to be questioned about reports of "oil deals," at the Chicago republican convention in 1920.

Three members of the tariff commission were charged by Senator Robinson, democrat, Arkansas, with being or having been representatives of special interests.

Representative Langley of Kentucky, pleaded not guilty of charges of conspiracy in connection with alleged illegal liquor withdrawal permits and asked an early trial.

Retention intact of alien property held by the American government was favored by President Coolidge for use to satisfy claims or for return entirely to the former owners.

Shipping board officials and representatives of shipping interests presented conflicting views before the house merchant marine committee on section 28 of the merchant marine act.

William M. Butler, Coolidge campaign manager, predicted that by April 22, President Coolidge would have 60 more delegates to the Cleveland convention than necessary to nominate him.

Representatives Connally of Texas and other democrats in the house launched an attack on republican congressional leadership and were answered by Representative Tincher, republican, Kansas.

Senator Robinson, democrat, Arkansas, assailed the republicans in a senate speech, defied the democrats were delaying legislation, and charged Senator Lodge with pigeon-holing the world court proposal.

The senate Daugherty committee went over a varied array of subjects, including charges of air service frauds, drug smuggling, federal paroles, and reported liquor drinking at "the Little Green House," on K street.

ALLEGED BANDITS HELD FOR TRANSPORTING LIQUOR

Waterbury, April 4.—Gabriel Palmiere, of 91 Saltonstall avenue, and Anthony F. Camera, of 34 Franklin street, both of New Haven, were arrested this afternoon after Adam Andelovitz, proprietor of a store at 682 North Riverside street, claimed the two men had attempted to hold him up. The fact that a bobbed-haired girl had driven to the scene with the men and was taken into custody with them gave rise to a rumor that the bob-haired bandit who has been active in New York city, had transferred the scene of her activities.

The two accused indignantly denied that they had attempted to rob Andelovitz and claimed they had merely tried to collect for two cases of whiskey delivered two weeks before. As a result they were held on a charge of transporting liquor. The girl whom it developed had merely ridden up from Derby, was released.

DEATH OF MRS. CUMMINS FULFILS SUICIDE PACT

Richmond, Va., April 4.—Mrs. Tula Cummins died late tonight, one result of a bullet wound which she had told the authorities was inflicted in carrying out a suicide pact with her husband, Holmes Cummins, insurance broker and clubman. Holmes was found dead and his wife seriously wounded in their apartment here Wednesday.

Stories that have been in circulation for the past six weeks to the effect that Samuel Porcaro had received Black Hand letters, threatening his life if he did not place money in a certain spot have been published in a local weekly printed in the French language. Mr. and Mrs. Porcaro emphatically deny that they have received any such letters. The local police state that about six weeks ago Mr. Porcaro gave them a letter, the language of which they could not understand and turned it over to the Federal authorities at New London. Up to the present no word has been received from the latter. Porcaro denies the published reports that he has been given police protection or that the rear of his store on Union street has been barricaded, as if for a seige.

J. E. Carpenter has brought civil action against Thomas Browne, of Brown Avenue, for damaged for $250 for work alleged to have been performed and goods furnished. Constable Roderick Lussier has attached property in the name of the defendant to the amount of $300. The case is returnable before the Windham county superior court on the first Tuesday in May.

A small boy was the cause of a truck and an automobile coming together on Valley street Thursday when the urchin ran in front of the truck owner by the Willimantic Lumber and Coal company, driven by Joseph Prue, causing the driver to bring his machine to a sudden stop. An automobile driven by Robert Gardiner of Mansfield which was following closely, struck the rear of the truck damaging a fender and the front of the Gardiner car. Gardiner said that Prue failed to give any sign that he was going to stop and Prue said that he was so intent on avoiding striking the child that he did not have time to give a signal. The parties finally came to a satisfactory settlement.

Edward Willis of Columbia was brought before the local police court Friday morning to answe rto a charge of intoxication. He pleaded guilty and was fined by Deputy Judge Curtis Dean $10 and costs amounting to $17.15. Willis said that he worked at a saw mill-camp in the town of Union but could not return there because of the condition of the roads. During his brief vacation he renewed acquaintances with his arch enemy and was defeated.

Arthur McKinley Hurley won high honors at the last of a series of the church jubilee whist parties given this week at St. Joseph's hall. Other prizes were awarded Miss Thersilla Sullivan, Helen Curran, Helen Dillon, Harry Sullivan and James Snortell. An auction prize was awarded Mrs. John Hargreaves.

Connecticut Agricultural College players ably interpreted the two act play "Suppressed Desires," at a meeting of Lyceum of Windham High school this week. The cast comprised Misses Marie Bronson and Dorothy Stellenwerf, and Russell White. This play which has a mystifying plot has been presented on several previous dates and has always pleased the audiences.

Employes of the local post office have been affected by grip and colds the past month. Letter Carriers Clarence O. Barrows an dWilliam Harold are confined to their homes. Substitute Carriers, William Geer and Norman Fults are covering their routes.

The Comians, a body of Windham High school players will present "Daddy Long Legs" at the Congregational church house next week.

JEWETT CITY

The fifty-second annual ladies' night of Mount Vernon lodge, No. 75, A. F. and A. M., was given in Rioux hall Friday evening. This event, always one of the leading social functions of the season, was not allowed by the committee in charge to lapse in any particular from its usual standard of excellence. It is the signal for the gathering for a general social good time, of representative Masons, their wives, daughters and sweethearts.

At seven o'clock the assemblage, numbering close to two hundred, enjoyed the splendid banquet spread in the Baptist vestry by the Ladies' Aid society. The menu:

Tomato Bouillon Saltines
Roast Spring Lamb
Roast Native Chicken
Giblet Gravy Rolls
Mashed Potatoes Green Peas
Pickled Beets Relishes
Assorted Cake Ice Cream Coffee

The table decorations were carnations.

At Rioux hall a novel and entertaining program was presented which gave much pleasure, as was amply evidenced by the merited applause. Herbert J. Ferguson, of Norwich, gave radio concert programe from a number of distance broadcasting stations, his Tuska Superdyne set, picking up with pleasing distinctness.

Miss Irene L. Stewart proved her skill in piano playing with the selection, Mazurka Caprice, by H. Sylvester Knouse. Miss Stewart responded to the encors with Prelude, by Sergei Rachmaninoff. Claude Loathers of Plainfield gave a selection on the saxophone, My Heart at Thy Dear Voice, by Charles Camille Saint-Saens. His encore was Happy Day, by Anton Strelevski. Herbert Thompson and Everett Hiscox, Jr., in the closing number delighted the audience with a screaming sketch, in which the former as the city chap, and the latter impersonating a rube, struck twelve with bells on. Their local comic hits, their songs, "Kokomo," and "It Ain't a Gonna Rain No Mo'" if taken with their evident adaptability to the requirements of their skit proved them a combination hard to beat. Miss Ethel Thompson was their accompanist. Taken with the smart frocks and other attractive features, the grand march has been seldom more pleasing.

The dance hall was fairly transformed by the long crepe festoons and pendants of purple and orange, while Masonic emblems were displayed to advantage on the stage. The grand march of 90 couples was led by Worshipful Master and Mrs. Frank D. Browning.

The dance program was selected with care, that the fancies of all might meet with pleasure. The cards with fraternal embossings were dainty and attractive.

Crandall's orchestra of Westerly, with Prof. F. H. Gilbert as prompter left nothing to be desired by those who enjoyed the figures of the dance. All through the evening Mr. Ferguson entertained with the wireless.

The efficient committees who had only the success of the event in view were: Master of ceremonies, Frank D. Browning, W. M.; floor director, Robert J. Guy; aids, Raymond F. Cheney, Robert W. Robertson, Norman B. Parkhurst; reception committee, Arthur M. Brown, Fred L. Kanahan, Wm. T. Crumb, Everett H. Hiscox, George T. Bell; committee of arrangements, Wm. McCluggage, Herbert Wyatt, Harold Field, Tyler Gilbert, Lawrence Drescher.

A birthday dinner was served Thursday at 5.30 p. m., in the dispensary of the Aspinook company in honor of four of the young ladies, Estelle Jodoin, Edna Sharkey, Marjorie Leyden and Sadie Thompson. Each were presented a beautiful basket of sweet peas and pansies. The following menu was served: Chicken salad, potato salad, rolls, pickles, olives, lemonade, coffee, assorted cakes, ice cream and cake. There was a birthday cake in the center of the table on which were lighted candles. At each plate there was a small basket of lavender and white paper, filled with candy and dates. Each one received a hat, all being of different colors. After dinner games were played. Those present of the Aspinook office force were Misses Annie M. Gorman, Doris M. Myott, Verna L. Tarbox, Clara L. Adams, Irene L. Stewart, Irene M. Havey, Bessie L. Thompson, Nellie E. Thompson, Marjorie K. Leyden, Estelle M. Jodoin and Edna A. Sharkey.

Mrs. John McBrome, who would have been 96 if she had lived until Sunday, died on Friday. Mrs. McBrome fell a week ago and broke her hip and has failed rapidly since then. She was born April 6, 1828 in Belfast, north of Ireland, the daughter of James and Elizabeth Houston Beggs. The family came to Brooklyn, Conn., 8 years ago, and lived there twelve years. After living in Wauregan nine years, they came to Jewett City, where Mrs. McBrome has lived 53 years. Her husband died 27 years ago. She seldom left her home, as she was always frail in health. She is survived by two daughters, Miss Ellen McBroome and Mrs. Sarfah Prentice of Jewett City, and by three sons, Gilbert of Fall River and William and Thomas McBrome of Jewett City.

Mrs. Ellen Connell, 70, died late Friday night after a week's illness with pneumonia. She was born in Portland, Me., and has lived in Jewett City 49 years. She is survived by three daughters, Mrs. William Raille, Mrs. Adelard Du Frense and Miss Nellie Connell of Jewett City, and four sons, Thomas of Lowell, Daniel of Plainfield, William of Norwich and Edward of Jewett City. She leaves one sister, Mrs. Mary Riley of Norwich.

Mrs. John Perkins has returned from New Haven hospital.

Miss Helen Hull has gone to Charlestown, West Virginia, to visit Mrs. Marian Robinson Ricketts.

Mrs. A. M. Clarke goes to Jamestown, R. I. today where her new home is to be. Mr. Clark will remain here until May 3.

Mrs. Harriet Hyde Zumbro, of Norwich is to speak at the meeting of the Congregational Y. P. S. C. E. on Sunday evening. This is a Missionary Sunday, which is planned to be held each month. A missionary tea is to be served.

Edward Blanchard has a four room flat to rent.—adv.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Baptist church served the supper for the Masonic Ladies' Night. Mrs. Francis Campbell was chairman, assisted by Mrs. E. M. Swift, Mrs. John Harris, Mrs. Robert Wilde, Miss Ruby Thornton, Mrs. E. E. Scates, Mrs. J. H. Kennedy and Mrs. W. J. Babcock. Mrs. C. F. Gardner was in charge of the dining room. The waitresses were Mrs. Robert Willis, Florence Quimby, Mrs. Otis, Minnie Tyndall, Doris Burr, Violet Harris, Doris Bliven, Verna Tarbox, Priscilla Scates, Mabel Frink, Winifred Scates, Alice Brown, Alice Barber, Susie Morgan, Marian Frink, Tessie Raney, Margaret Jordan, Ethel Morgan, Georgiana Campbell, Ruth Davis and Doris Carpenter.

George Rochleau and Louis Cyr were visitors in Providence Thursday.

Refreshments instead of basket lunch will be served at Ruthie Rebekah anniversary Tuesday.—adv.

"The best programme ever promoted by the Ashland club," was the opinion of the big crowd of members who turned out Thursday night. A varied list of entertainments to please both male and female members was on tap. Eddie Connelly of Norwich, made a big hit with the audience with several song selections and some funny stories.

Misses Mary and Agnes Bresnahan, also of Norwich, met with instant favor with piano and violin numbers.

It is doubtless if Jewett City has ever witnessed the equal of the toe dancing by Miss Mary Driscoll and one of her pupils, Miss Almeda Cranston, age six, both of Westerly, R. I. They took the crowd by storm and the applause accorded both was insistent. Miss Hughes of Westerly accompanied them on the piano. Numerous requests have been received for a return engagement of this act.

Four fine boxing bouts furnished the last half of the programme, and these went over big with the crowd.

The first bout between Irish Billy Glynn of Norwich and Young Devine, also of Norwich, was of four rounds. Both boys weighed 136 pounds and there was plenty of action with Glynn showing a slight advantage.

The second bout of four rounds was between George Jarvis and Frank Perint, both Ashland operatives. It was a thriller, affording every kind of boxing known to the game, and had the crowd guessing every minute.

The third bout of four rounds brought Young Kobb of Jewett City and Al Reech of Norwich together. Both men weighed 136 pounds. Kobb the local boy put up a wonderful exhibition holding his experienced adversary to a hard earned draw.

The last bout of the evening was between Tom Hartley, amateur heavyweight champion of Rhode Island, and Frank Busch, of Norwich. There was action every second of this bout and opinions varied as to which had the edge. A draw would be the fair decision. Both men shaped up well.

Jack Pott, of Jewet City, refereed the first bout, and Rainville, of the Lorraine club, Westerly, refereed the second. The other two bouts were handled by Hal Chase. Doc Gingras was timekeeper for the evening.

After the last bout lunch was served. The whole affair was under the direction of the entertainment committee and was a big success.

TEN YEARS' TROUBLE GONE, SAYS DeSARNE

Rheumatism and Stomach Troubles Gone, Says Portland Man.

"I have been repaid a dozen times over in improved health for every dollar spent for Tanlac, and the medicine is still building me up every day." is the striking statement of Joseph DeSarne, 91 Pore St., Portland, Me.

"Tanlac has driven pains from my body that had troubled me for ten years. Besides backache, which almost killed me at times, I had rheumatic pain and swelling in my hands and legs my circulation was poor, feet always cold, nerves undone, my stomach didn't feel right, I had regular headaches and I was a discouraged man.

"I have never seen the equal of Tanlac in my life. It has more than doubled my appetite, my stomach feels great and my general health is so improved that I am like a new man. I can not praise Tanlac enough for what it has done and is still doing for me."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggist. Accept no substitute. Over 40 million bottles sold.

Take Tanlac Vegetable Pills.

O'Meara, has arranged to have a Polish-speaking priest at St. John's Thursday afternoon and evening next, to hear confessions, that the people may receive Easter holy communion the following day.

Annoying.

It is annoying to a modest man to ask anything of value from one on whom he thinks he has conferred a favor, lest he should seem to demand it as a right rather than ask it as a favor.

New England has more than 1,500,000 French-speaking people.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Bradley Theater, Putnam—Orpheum Theater, Danielson.

Playgoers whose liking for dramatic fare runs to thrills, chills and spirited fun, together with acting of exceptional worth, will find something distinctly worthwhile when John Willard's very successful thrill play, The Cat and the Canary, is presented at the Bradley theater, Putnam, Wednesday evening at 8.15 p. m., and at the Orpheum theatre, Danielson, on Thursday evening, at 8.15 p. m.

When Kilbourn Gordon, Inc., produced this exciting drama it received the whole hearted praise of the critics in New York, Philadelphia, Chicago and other cities. However the most interesting endorsement of The Cat and the Canary comes from the large public which has ever crowded the theatre in which the play appears.

Although the success achieved by The Cat and the Canary is founded on the faithful presentation of theatrical thrills, the play is also deliciously humorous. For every intense, gripping moment there is said to be a laugh which will lift one from the seat. Unique in more ways than one the story may not be told in this brief notice. The Cat and the Canary, however, presents modern melodrama in a new and satisfying form. As a thriller it is said to be irresistible and as a play it has excellent quality. The most important element of The Cat and the Canary, however, is its power as an entertainment, for it is reported to hold audiences at close tension from the rise of the curtain until its final fall.

Seats now on sale at the respective box offices.

ANNOUNCEMENTS AT BROADWAY

The Allen Dwan Paramount production of "Big Brother," a Rex Beach novel, which will be shown at the Broadway Theatre on Sunday next and remain for four days, is supplemented by a cast of worthiness and repute.

Heading the list of popular players, who bring the famous story to the silver sheet, is Tom Moore in the role of Jimmy Donovan, the leader of the Car Barn gang on New York's east side. It is doubtful if Moore ever had a more appropriate role. Edith Roberts, whose recent return to the studios after an illness finds her in greater popularity than ever, plays the feminine lead. Then there is Raymond Hatton; also featured in the role of a dope fiend; Mickey Bennett, the talented seven-year old player, Charles Henderson, Joe King, Paul Panzer, Neill Kelley, William Black, Milton Herman, Florence Ashbrook and Yvonne Hughes play in support.

"Big Brother" is a penetrating story of the lower East Side, realistically and adroitly done. In Jimmy Donovan the author, Rex. Beach has painted a character humane and lovable. The story concerns the resolutions of the gang leader to correct his ways after his lieutenant had been killed by the bullet from the gun of a leader of a rival gang. In dying the lieutenant had asked his chief to take care of his little brother and bring him up 'different.'

The elements working against the gang leader, the depth and sincerity of his love for Kitty, the angel of the district, the machinations of Cokey Joe, the dope fiend, and the final triumph of Jimmy Donovan provide sympathetic and convincing entertainment and true testimony of the genius of Mr. Dwan and Mr. Beach.

BROADWAY THEATRE

"The Gingham Girl," this season's "queen" of musical comedies produced, under the management of Lawrence Schwab and Daniel Kusel will come to the Broadway Theatre Friday night, April 11.

This charming play ran a solid year at the Earl Carroll Theatre, New York, and is conceded to be by far the best musical comedy seen in New York in many a year.

The secret of the success of "The Gingham Girl" is the clever book by Daniel Kusell which is rich in witty lines and a score overflowing with catchy lilting music by Albert Von Tilzer. "The Gingham Girl," in a nutshell, is the capitalization of youth, pretty girls, romance, speed and clean wholesome comedy.

A chorus distinctive for its youth, beauty and daintiness will form a most pleasing background for the distinguished cast.

Palace to Show Powerful Story of Cowboy Life Tomorrow Night

"Water stuff" is usually beyond a star of the western range, but Jack Hoxie, in his new Universal starring vehicle, Men in the Raw, proves himself the exception to the rule. His latest thriller features one of the most remarkable "water shots" in the history of filmdom. A desperate battle is waged under the surface of a river, and caught clearly on the film. The new play will be seen at the Palace theatre Sunday night only.

Hoxie battles Tex Parker under water after a thrilling horseback chase over a high cliff, into a river. The two men leap from their horses to battle in mid-stream. This is only one of the exciting details of the picture.

Another striking scene is the bulldogging of a giant steer. Marguerite Clayton, who plays the heroine of the story, attempts to lasso the animal. Is pulled from her horse and dragged by the infuriated beast. Hoxie, riding after, leaps from his horse to the steer's horns and succeeds in bringing it to the ground.

Neither used a double, and the "closeup" views are so remarkably made that every expression of actor and actress can be seen in the closeup.

The cast supporting Hoxie is elaborate. Besides Miss Clayton, Tex Parker, Sid Jordan, Tom Kerrick, J. Morris Foster, William A. Lowery and a score of cowboys from the Hoxie ranch appear. The play was adapted by George Hively from a recent magazine story by W. Bert Foster and also Weekly News and comedy.

Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, at the Palace you will see a bill of five superior vaudeville acts most of them direct from Keith's Palace in New York and Boston, featuring The Sensational Duponts without a doubt the worlds greatest and most sensational exposition of fearless mid-air athletism in their original novelty On the Eiffel Tower.

From musical comedy to us. Barry and Lancaster the two phoolish phunny phellows in a comedy scream entitled Yes, We Have No Bologna.

Mlle. Latoy and Co., vaudevilles most beautiful offering.

The bright star of minstrelsy Mr. Manuel Romaine and the Romaine Twins in harmony songs and novel dances.

And the record breaking comedian Phil Romano in songs a la carte etc.

In conjunction with our big vaudeville bill you will also see the funniest of all comedies, Conductor 1492 featuring Johnny Hines in a seven reel side splitting comedy of a conductor who couldn't keep his sense of humor in captivity, etc.

BREED THEATRE

One of the most marvelous as well as most beautiful photoplays of all time is coming to the Breed theatre Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. It is Metro's production of The Uninvited Guest.

Every kind of photography known in the motion pictures has been used in this photoplay. There is the ordinary black and white photography that is used for almost all pictures. There is colored photography, made possible by the Technicolor Motion Picture Corporation, which shows all the beauty of the tropical waters and luxuriant growth of the South Seas. And there is the undersea photography, rarely used in moving pictures, and showing with realistic vividness scenes under water.

Ralph Ince directed this J. E. Williamson presentation which is based on Curtis Benton's story, The Uninvited Guest.

Topics of the Day and an Educational comedy make up the remainder of the bill.

Today's bill consists of Charles Jones in Cupid's Fireman, The Way of a Man, the Pathe news and a Sunshine comedy. Continous show today from 1:30 to 10:15.

St. Andrew's Church

At St. Andrew's church, Greeneville, Wednesday, Morning prayer 9, Friday morning prayer 9.00. Evening prayer and sermon 7.30.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

This town is well within the zone that evidently has been selected for the distribution by some unknown parties of counterfeit $10 Federal Reserve bank notes. A secret service agent who has been in Putnam investigating as to the circulation of these notes there, where three have been found, asks publicity relative to the matter, that all may be on their guard against this bad money. The bills bear a likeness of Jackson and are numbered on the face A43703136. Business men particularly are warned to guard against the counterfeits being passed, as the practice seems to be to pass them in stores. All of these bad bills when discovered should be immediately turned over to the police. Attempting to pass them is an offense that can be severely punished.

Paul Bigood of Connecticut Agricultural college basketball team will come over from Storrs this (Saturday) evening to referee the championship basketball game to be played by the Service battery team and the B company team of Middletown. This game is regarded as deciding the military team championship of Connecticut, and be it said, the Service battery outfit expects to win it. The decisive defeat of the Battery B team of Norwich Thursday evening may be taken as indicating the power, skill and drive now represented in the Service battery lineup.

In addition to the big game there will be a preliminary between Middletown's second team and the Service battery second team.

In the championship game the Service battery will present Armington Gale, Williams, Keech, Gaudreau and Poirier.

This game is expected to attract the largest attendance that has seen such a contest this season.

Members of the Windham County Medical society will come here April 17, for the 131st annual meeting of the organization. The usual dinner will be served, officers elected and scientific papers read.

Dr. Frederick E. Wilcox will present a paper on The Diagnosis of Pelvic Diseases. Indication for Tonsillectomy will be the subject of a paper by Dr. R. C. Paine. Mastoid Conditions will be the topic of a paper by Dr. William E. Hendry. An address will be given by Dr. Arthur D. Hampton, president of the society.

You have all the security afforded by the national banking system when you deposit in our savings department. Deposits made on or before the 5th of April draw interest from April 1. The Windham County National Bank.—adv.

Interesting in an unusual degree is the unanimity of opinion of members of various political parties in towns hereabouts that the goings-on at Washington are in large measure responsible for the continued failure to improve. Democrats are sharing the blame about equally with the republicans at Washington for not getting down to business and one man summed up the entire situation as to lack of constructive progress by declaring "there isn't ten cents' worth of difference between them."

The fact that business has slowed down brings home to the average man working for a living that he is being penalized because of political tomfoolery.

This is spring opening day in Danielson. To make it an impressive event business men have gone to considerable lengths to have their stocks replete with the newest offerings of the vernal season. The spring opening day represents a cooperative effort. It has been arranged in anticipation of attracting large numbers of patrons as well as others who may merely come to look. It is in no sense a mark down event, though every effort has been made to show many special values for the occasion. There will be much in the stores to interest all who go shopping in Danielson today.

Following are the newly elected officers of the Fortnightly Club: President, Mrs. E. H. Keech; vice president, Miss Helen Perkins; secretary, Mrs. Edward Bottomly; assistant secretary, Mrs. Harold Greene; treasurer, Miss Jane Mendell; assistant treasurer, Mrs. John M. Howe; auditor, Mrs. A. H. Armington; purchase committee, Miss Emma Pilling, Mrs. J. H. Milligan.

Work on the construction of the high pressure gas line between Danielson and Putnam may be undertaken as early as the 15th of the present month. It is anticipated that the work can be accomplished within nine weeks after it is in full swing. The gas mains are to be of 4-inch steel pipe, welded, and they will be put about three feet underground. It is likely that mechanical excavators will be used in doing the digging over the nine mile route to be covered.

Remnants of the snowbanks accumulated in the great storm of March 11-12 remain in this territory, especially to the east of here—but they are only remnants and in no way interfere with traffic.

Stories relative to people's experience in the great storm continue to come in. One pertains to a man whose car was stalled on what is known as the Fairbanks hill road, leading from Scituate into the town of Sterling. This man spent the entire night in a curtained car, and suffered bitterly from the cold and exhaustion, due to his efforts to get his car through before it finally was definitely stalled. At mid-forenoon the next day—not a soul having passed in the meantime—he tried to make his way to a farmhouse, but now admits he never would have been able to make the trip had not two men who knew the territory came along and assisted him—for a stipend of $5.00 each. Arrived at the house a kindly woman there made him comfortable and administered restoratives. So severely had he suffered that he was unable to proceed for 48 hours and has not yet recovered from his hardships.

Rev. Elbert E. Gates, pastor-at-large, of the Baptist state convention, is to preach at the service at the Baptist church Sunday.

Officer Merrill Keith, of the Danielson barracks apprehended two men with a Ford truck in Quinebaug, town of Thompson, the machine loaded with whiskey and alcohol.

Rev. C. J. Armstrong of North Billerica, Mass., has accepted a call to the pastorate of the Danielson Baptist church and will take up his duties here in May. The church has been without a pastor since last September.

Everyday Magic is the title of the play to be given at the Congregational parish house by the members of the Mayflower band.

Henry Sullivan, first American to swim the English channel, appeared in the vaudeville program at the Orpheum theatre Friday evening.

There is interest here in the announcement that the property of the late Judge Milton A. Shumway on North Main street here is to be disposed of at private sale today at the office of an attorney in Norwich.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman M. Coulter have returned from a stay of a week in New York.

Mrs. E. H. Keech had the members of the Samaritan association at her home for a meeting Friday afternoon.

Members of the Pathfinders have a hike planned for next Tuesday afternoon.

Muddy highways are handicapping many business operations in the outlying sections of this part of the county. Getting a motor vehicle through some roads under its own power is next to impossible.

PUTNAM

A representatative of the United States secret service has been in this city investigating the circulation of spurious $10 bills, of which mention was made in this column earlier in the week. To date three of the bills have been detected in bank deposits and in each instance the depositors have been the victims of some swindler.

Again publicity has been asked on the subject of the circulation hereabouts of this bad money. The secret service agent is authority for the statement that Connecticut is being flooded with these bad bills.

The bills that have been picked up here are all counterfeits of the Boston Federal Reserve bank issue and bear a likeness of President Jackson. The numbers do not vary on them, each of the bills being numbered A 457.3126.

Business men particularly are warned to be on the lookout for these bills. They are quickly distinguished from the genuine issue if one is looking for counterfeits, but are a sufficiently clever initiation to be readily accepted by a person not on the lookout for them. As illustrating this, one of them was handed out to a local business man, with a view to testing his keenness and he readily accepted it.

Attention of the public also was called by the secret service man to the fact that knowingly causing these counterfeit bills to circulate is a punishable offence. All of the counterfeits that are recognized as such by anyone should be turned over to the police. It also has been suggested that persons who receive $10 bills of the issue mentioned should make a mental note of where they get them in order that the source of circulation may be traced if possible.

It is possible that during the busy week end shopping period, especially as this is spring opening day, more of these bills may come into circulation here. This also might be true of any nearby town or of any place in eastern Connecticut.

A careful watch of the bills mentioned might lead to a clue that eventually would result in the arrest of those circulating them. Incidentally, keeping tabs on the $10 bills one receives may save a number of persons from losing that much money, as the bills are really worthless.

The following from a Boston paper is relative to the husband of former Miss Alice Heath of this city, a sister of Sidney Heath, for years resident at what is now the Putnam Country club property.

Dr. Arakel H. Nazarian, a Methodist clergyman for 32 years in Greater Boston, died last night at his home, 211 Audubon road, Back Bay. Until his retirement, five years ago, he had held the pastorate of People's Temple for seven years.

He was born in Armenia and came to this country 40 years ago, speaking no English. In 1885 he was graduated from East Greenwich academy with honors and four years later completed his course in the B. U. theological school.

His first church was the Dorchester Street M. E. church in South Boston. After five years he was sent to the Bethany church in Roslindale, where, aided by his wife, in five years he doubled the church membership and raised more than $4,000 to free the church from debt. His congregation presented him a silver tea service as a token of appreciation.

In 1905 he was transferred to the Mt. Bellingham church in Chelsea, where he remained 10 years. It was during his service there that the Chelsea fire destroyed all the church property, but the pastor worked so ably that within a very short time a new stone church and parsonage was erected, free from debt.

Following are the cases on the criminal list of the Windham county superior court for the April term, which opens at Willimantic during the coming week:

Continued cases: State vs Mabel Minor, female minor leading vagrant life; C. Allison Potter, non-support; Raymond Green, assault on female child; William H. Horton, violation motor vehicle law; Milton Rogers, burglary and assault; John Haran, reckless driving; Stanley Wojcik, rape; Fred Mignault, reckless driving; Albert Kruppowits, violation liquor law; Cyrus H. Greene, obtaining money under false pretenses; Joseph Gurka, incorrigible child; Samuel Margolis, reckless driving and manslaughter; Louis Delorme, reckless driving; John A. Connolly, abandoning wife and living with another woman; Harold Church, reckless driving; Lawrence Galliot, reckless driving; Thomas Brondeau, reckless driving; Joseph Moriarty, intoxication; H. C. Doorin, embezzlement; Frederick I. Racine, embezzlement; Alexander B. Klotz, violation of motor vehicle law; Albert Kruppowitz, violation of liquor law; Anna Kruppowits, violation of liquor law; Thomas Killourey, embezzlement; George Beno, violation liquor law; Walted Broadhurst, theft.

New cases—State vs Robert W. Boys, reckless driving; Fred Morin, violation of Sec. 6340; Manuel Peno, refusing to assist officer; Stanley Toper, violation motor vehicle law, Anastasia Labor, personal tax, Stanislas Milas, theft; Henry Guertin, violation liquor law; Morris Griffin, Daniel Brennan, Daniel Killourey, Jr., breach of peace and statutory burglary; William E. Jackson, assault, Philip Pagano, violation liquor law; Augustus Warren, abuse of female child; John B. Morin, indecent assault.

Probation cases—State vs Sidney R. Evans; John Desrosiers, Sliva Tetreault, Charles Carpenter, Eugene Baribeault, Howard Stone, Henry Breault, Arthur Fournier.

Putnam is honored in the selection of Miss Katherine Byrne as one of the delegates-at-large from this state to the republican national convention to be held at Cleveland in June. Miss Byrne is president of the Putnam Republican club and a member of the republican state central committee for the 28th senatorial district, of which Putnam is a part.

Making what was said to be only their second trip, Henry Ledoux and Frank Reneault, Southbridge men, were apprehended by State Officer Merrill Keith of the Danielson barracks while they were running a load of booze through Quinebaug, in the town of Thompson, en route from Providence to Southbridge. Their cargo, carried on a Ford truck, consisted of three dozen bottles of what is alleged to be whiskey and 20 gallons of alcohol.

It was stated Friday that Rev. S. E. Cozad has declined to reconsider his resignation as pastor of the Second Congregational church of this city and has given to a committee of the church, invited to confer with him, relative to reconsideration, a statement setting forth why he cannot recede from the action he has taken. In view of the fact that this statement will be presented to a church meeting called for next Monday evening to hear the report of the committee relative to its conference with Rev. Mr. Cozad, the statement is not now available for publication. The committee, it is understood, met Rev. Mr. Cozad Wednesday evening, following a church meeting Monday evening at which there was a unanimous vote asking him to reconsider.

Rev Boynton Merrill of Boston, a former pastor of the Second Congregational church of this city, will come here on the evening of April 22, to be the speaker at the annual meeting and banquet of the Putnam Men's club, to be held at the Congregational church. A male quartet will supply some of the musical numbers to be given during the course of the evening.

Records of the assessors show that there are 1,027 motor vehicles owned in Putnam, as compared with 160 owned here in 1914. That shows what war can do to a country. The assessed valuation of these cars is $418,376, and assessed valuations are not generally regarded as representing full value. It is believed that the value of the motor vehicles owned in this town is close to $750,000.

One more of Putnam's new business structures is being occupied by tenants. This is the new Seder block—owned by Charles Seder—and built during the winter period. Some of the offices in the building already have occupants. Lessees of stores will be in their new quarters in the building within a week. Mr. Seder said Friday that he will have his store ready for public inspection next Friday evening between 7 and 10 o'clock. The new building is a two-story brick structure, opposite the Congregational church. The first floor is arranged for stores, the second floor for offices.

This is the day of the first big onslaught of the season along the trout streams. A full or a half-holiday for many and with warmer weather prevailing, many of the fishermen who have not been out so far this season will try their luck today.

WEST KINGSTON

Mrs. Thomas T. Knowles who has been very ill for several weeks does not seem to improve.

Richard H. Barstow has began work on the state road at Moore Neck Hill.

The West Kingston, W. C. T. U. met Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. W. H. Dawley, president. There was a good attendance.

Mrs. Roy Knowles who attended the convention, in Providence had a very interesting article to read at the meeting. One new member was added.

Mrs. Mary McElroy spent a couple of days in Providence this week.

Charels Stone and son, of Matunock, were callers here Tuesday.

Fred K. Crandall with his family spent Sunday, with his parents near Westerly. His father, who has been in feeble health for several weeks, does not improve.

Dr. Kenyon spent Wednesday in Providence.

Mr. and Mrs. Greesough of Acton, Mass., visited Wednesday with Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Dawley.

William Clarke is spending a few days in Acton, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Sheldon of Glenrock were callers, in this village Wednesday.

Harry Taylor and family have moved from Usquepaugh, to Narragansett Pier.

Mrs. Susan Whitford and son of Shannock were recent callers in this village.

Friday evening of last week a birthday social was held at Richmond Grange hall, to celebrate the natal day of several of the grange members. It was a private affair, but well attended.

Mrs. Baker was here Saturday afternoon. She has gone to Boston, housekeeping and her pupils will have a new instructor. Mrs. Baker had been staying a few months, with her parents, at Kenyon and formed a class here. She was very well liked and her pupils regret her leaving.

She was in very poor health when she came to Kenyon, but had recuperated during the last few months.

Is Your Back Giving Out?

ARE you lame every morning, tired all day; tortured with throbbing backache and sharp stabs of pain? Do you feel weak, nervous and dispirited — utterly worn out and miserable? Then why not look to your kidneys as so many Norwich folks have done? The kidneys, you know, are the blood-filters. Well kidneys do their work thoroughly. But weak, sluggish kidneys allow poisons to accumulate in the system and upset the whole bodily machinery. Then is apt to come backache, rheumatic twinges, headaches, dizziness and annoying kidney irregularities. One feels constantly tired, lame and achy; nervous, irritable and depressed. Don't wait! Help your weakened kidneys with a stimulant diuretic. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have helped thousands. Are recommended by many Norwich people. Ask your neighbor!

Read How These Norwich Folks Found Relief:

CALVIN L. BRIGGS, Carpenter, 37 Penobscot St., says: "I think my work had a great deal to do with my trouble as over-lifting aggravated the sore, aching pains that were in my back almost constantly. They would get so bad I couldn't rest at all, as sharp pains would catch me and I would hardly straighten up. It never took long to get to the bottom of the trouble as Doan's Pills gave me great relief."

OVER FIVE YEARS LATER, Mr. Briggs said: "Doan's are a reliable remedy for weakened kidneys for they cured me."

MRS. E. H. CHAPMAN, 12 Stanton St., says: "A few years ago I was feeling miserable with my back. I didn't know what caused the trouble but I made up my mind that it came from my kidneys. Every move I made felt as though a knife were cutting into my back. When I would move quickly I felt dizzy. Doan's gave me relief in a few days. I finally got such great relief that I haven't had to use them only once in awhile since and they have always given the same good benefits."

GEO. CONRAD, Motorman, 211 Palmer St., says: "Some mornings when I first wake up, my back is lame and sore and I can hardly get out of bed. I have severe pains that feel as sharp as a needle cutting through my kidneys. I have dizzy spells, too. A friend advised me to try Doan's Pills. Doan's have always cured such attacks and I wouldn't be without them as they do their work quickly. I know that if more people troubled with kidney ailment would use them, they would be helped as I have always been."

Every Druggist has Doan's. 60c a box.

HALTING LEGISLATION FOR JOHNSON.

For some little time now the country has been aware of the fact that congress has been in session. It has been no secret, though slight progress has been made. Some of the members have been conspicuous by their absence, and among that number is Senator Hiram Johnson of California. He is interested in the furtherance of his own personal campaign for the nomination by the Republican convention as president of the United States. He has gotten the impression that there is a big demand for him, but not so big but what he considers it advisable to get out and do truck horse work in behalf of himself. His time is in fact devoted entirely to his own campaign, though the results thus far obtained cannot be regarded as displaying any very encouraging prospects.

The country has been conscious of the fact that Senator Johnson has been neglecting the work for which he was sent to Washington and that he has been devoting the time for which he is paid to represent California in the senate to representing his own political interests elsewhere. Perhaps it will not be surprising when it is told that Senator Johnson has sent the request to Washington asking for the holding up of action on the immigration bill until he can get there. In other words he desires the wheels of legislation to be stayed for him, instead of permitting business to interfere with his ambitions except when he is willing.

Just how long a delay he desires is not indicated. Possibly he is going to pull up stakes and dig into Washington in the belief that his campaigning has failed. That isn't believed, but there cannot fail to be surprise manifested at the disposition of the senate to accede to his request. This may be that powerful and mystifying senatorial courtesy about which so much is said, but it brings to mind the fact that it was but a few days ago that those, who are so anxious to hold up legislation for the senator who is serving his own interests, coldly told the president that they could not hasten action in behalf of a bit of tax reduction that would benefit millions throughout the country.

PERSHING'S ADVICE.

General Pershing has returned from a vacation trip to Europe, and in the course of remarks made upon arriving and about his visit he advises the use of American ships by those going abroad. It is no more than might have been, or ought to have been expected. It was a display of the American spirit that is too often missing. He was of course putting in a good word for our merchant marine, for which so much expense has been incurred after long years of effort, and to which there is good reason for giving loyal support in order to retain it. It cannot be expected that American ships can be operated if the business in which they are engaged is handed over to competitors, which are being handsomely supported in their respective countries and by others as well.

What General Pershing has to say is pertinent in view of the course followed by the American Bar association in selecting a British ship to carry the members of that organization to Europe this year. Whether all the facts in connection with the arrangements have been brought to light, it doesn't appear that full advantage was taken of the offer of those operating the American ships to meet any terms furnished by foreign lines.

The future of American shipping doesn't hinge on the patronage of American ships by the American Bar association. The failure to do so, however, furnishes the basis for no little criticism in view of the struggle that is being made to keep the American flag on the high seas. It in fact stands out in marked contrast to the position taken by General Pershing and to others who recognize the importance of an efficient merchant marine and are anxious to do what they can to make it the success that is desired.

General Pershing knows what a factor such vessels are in the defense of a country or the support of the army and he speaks as a patriotic American when he directs the Americans to what does not appear to be an unreasonable duty.

THE ISLE OF PINES.

For the past two decades the Isle of Pines has come in for much publicity in other than the usual press agent manner. The question has been raised as to whether the island belongs to Cuba or to the United States but there has been no definite settlement.

The island is located near Cuba and had before the Spanish war been considered part of Cuba. It is an attractive island, fertile and valuable, and Cuba naturally wants sovereignty over it. Just about 20 years ago there was drawn up a treaty confirming that sovereignty but it was never ratified. Nothing has been done about it since. This year that treaty which had the approval of President Roosevelt, has been brought forth from its resting place, received the consideration of the senate committee and been acted upon favorably by the committee.

The opposition to the ratification of the treaty comes from those Americans who have purchased land in the island until they own practically nine-tenths of it. They maintain that it is not and should not become Cuban territory. They have made large investments there, but apparently spend but little of their time on the island. The residents are mostly Cubans and Spaniards and the flag of the Cuban republic flies over the public buildings on the islands. The American object to the Cuban rule and have petitioned the president in behalf of their desire that the island be declared United States territory.

It doesn't appear that the making of this island a part of the United States should follow just because Americans to the number of 10,000, more or less, have acquired the major part of it. It is to be expected that they would be protected in their rights there at all times, but the mere possession of a large part of the property doesn't make it territory that can be torn away from Cuba and made a part of this country without the consent of Cuba, and Cuba isn't disposed to relinquish sovereignty.

CONNECTICUT FORESTS.

In the appeal which has been made by the secretary of agriculture to the governors of all states to issue proclamations for the observance of April 21-27 as Forest Protection week, there must be recognized an effort to bring about a reduction in the number of forest fires and the cutting of the losses that are sustained thereby each year.

Connecticut isn't regarded as a leading timber producing state. It doesn't begin to meet the requirements within its own borders. Its demands for lumber are in fact such that it pays $3,000,000 annually as freight charges to bring the material from other states. But there is need of protecting the woodland that does exist when it is stated by a bulletin from the Connecticut Agricultural experiment station that "fire, inequitable taxes and poor forest practice have been the chief causes for the present run down condition of Connecticut forests."

Furthermore the fact that the annual consumption of sawed lumber in the state is 350,000,000 board feet, that the forest land in the state is capable of producing 450,000,000 board feet annually but that the present forests are producing annually only 65,000,000 board feet should make it clear to the people of this state that there is not only need for the urging of a Forest Protection week, but that there should be a better response to the opportunity for maintaining more productive forests. That problems exist in connection therewith should cause them to be tackled in a manner that will result in the needed solution. Lying down under such conditions just because they exist, simply contributes to waste and lost opportunities.

UNIFORM SIGNAL LIGHTS.

That there is an agitation by many safety organizations for the limitation of red lights to danger signals only cannot cause surprise. There has been excellent reason for conformity in connection with other matters concerning safety provisions and there is no reason why the good effects of it should not be obtained in regard to signals.

At the present time much aid is given to the automobile driver by the "slow" or "stop" lights on the rear of the car ahead. It gives warning as to what the driver of the car is doing in the way of checking the speed of his car, whether it is a case of actually stopping, or slowing down to take a corner or respond to traffic conditions.

Under present conditions these signal lights are for the most part red or green. There is no uniformity. Some preference is indicated for green because when it lights it attracts attention in contrast to the regular tail light, which might not always be the case if the signal light is the same color as the necessary tail light.

The bright signal may serve its purpose whatever the color. It gives warning that the brake of the car is being applied for some reason, and the foot has been removed from the accelerator. This should serve to inform the driver of the car at the rear to be on his guard and govern himself accordingly. Instead of having all colors of the rainbow for these signal lights there can be no objection to agreeing on a color that will be uniform. Yellow being the caution color on the railroads and trolley lines seems more fitting than the red which means danger or the green which indicates safety.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

April has plenty of time in which to redeem the ill favor created by its chilly entrance.

It will not be very long now before proud gardeners will be bragging about their radishes.

Hartford apparently knows when it is in need of better city government, and also how to get it.

Buildings and trees that stood up under the March and April blows ought to be good for the rest of the year.

The demonstration of what one good street light can do, simply shows what others ought to do on Franklin street.

Being in session for weeks without accomplishing anything is getting to be a habit with the Rhode Island senate.

The man on the corner says: Even the fellow who can talk in six languages and use his hands and shoulders isn't always rated as noisy.

The excellent reception accorded the appointment of the new attorney general is both complimentary to the appointee and the man who selected him.

When New York traffic courts send violators to the workhouse at the rate of ten a day during March they have come to understand what conditions call for.

Now that it is declared that there is per capita wealth in this country of $3918 there are those who will never be satisfied until there has been a distribution.

THE MAN WHO TALKS

One of the most vicious and harmful expressions is in vogue today, and probably was in vogue ten thousand years B. C. The blood-curdling saying in this: "They say." It is the most intangible and illusive bit of poison that was ever allowed to float in the air we breathe. It is more plentiful than "pizen" ivy, and more deadly than corrosive sublimate. It is the subterfuge behind which the coward hides that protects him from the pursuit of those whom he has maliciously defamed. It makes it quite possible for a man, and, in rare cases, a woman, to hide after he, or she, has deluged the whole community with idle gossip. You can trace typhoid fever and diphtheria back to some cesspool and you can banish the cesspool. You can trace malignant gossip back to "they say," but when you go to touch the cesspool there is no cesspool to be touched. It has quietly slipped to other quarters ready to do business at a moment's notice.

There are doubtless times when men may be honestly said to be wise. They are not as frequent as is desirable, nor as long continued as is possible. On the whole they may be wiser than they look and we certainly hope that they are wiser than they act. It is however true that along some lines they are reasonably wise all the time. They get into other conditions when wisdom comes and goes by fits and starts. They sometimes get into conditions where they border on idiocy until they get out of them. Take the average man when he is sick, unless he is seriously sick, he is a mighty hard animal to manage. One needs to have more sympathy for his poor wife than for him. The doctor tells him to stay in bed for three days, and he says it is all nonsense, because if he doesn't get up his business will be ruined. If he goes to a lawyer for advice he will go by it, but he pays for the professional advice of a doctor and then turns it down.

If a straw vote were to be taken on Secretary of State Hughes' stand in refusing to recognize the soviet government of Russia, it would probably be found that the country was solidly with him. It is quite difficult to see how a country that believes in the freedom of speech and action under law can acknowledge any form of government where men are ruthlessly murdered or sent into exile for exercising this freedom. The soviet experiment of Russia has shown conclusively that it makes little difference whether despotism is in the hands of one man called a czar or by another man called a dictator. There was never more misrule and crime and disorder and suffering in unhappy Russia than today. The people were never more miserably governed, never so badly off, and their country never more approaching universal chaos. The condition of Russia under Lenin's dictatorship will be his lasting monument. It is not much of an honor in naming Petrograd after him when we consider that in population it has decreased from 2,000,000 to 600,000.

Harold Bell Wright in his most excellent story, When a Man's a Man, makes one of his characters, speak after this fashion: "Gethsemane ain't no place; it's somethin' that happens. Whenever a man goes up against himself, right there Gethsemane is. And right there, too, is sure to be a fight. A man may not know about it at the time; but he'll know about it afterwards." According to this idea, Gethsemane, or the Garden of Suffering is not so much outside of a man as inside. It is a bitter experience which the individual has with himself. When a man realizes that before him is an experience that will seemingly crush him, and that his honor and manhood tell that he must meet it or lose his manhood, the place where that battle is fought is Gethsemane.

The oil scandal still going on in Washington reminds one of a kaleidoscope in that it is constantly bringing into view new phases of deuravity. That it is a nasty blotch on the political map is beyond all reasonable doubt. But one is led to ask if these men who have dabbled with oil illegally are much worse than the professional politician who is in the game simply and solely for what he expects to get out of it. We have a spasm of indignation only when crooks are found out, while our reason (if we would only use it) must be telling us that they are at it all the time. For the sake of variety let me put it in another way: Suppose it was the custom for only those men who were without sin to cast the first stone at others, do you really think there would be such a frantic desire on the part of congressmen to institute inquiries about others—even against those who might belong to the other political party?

That April has really arrived we have indubitable evidence that rarely makes any mistakes. I am not referring to the green tinge that is coming to our front lawns, giving them a velvety sort of appearance. Not that, because this green tinge is not infrequently nipped in the bud. One makes a mistake if he puts too much stress upon the instinct of our migratory birds. The same instinct that tells them to come north in springtime, not infrequently tells them to turn right around and go back. No, bird instinct is not quite equivalent to scientific knowledge. Neither can we put too much faith in the swelling bud because a swelled bud like a swelled head is apt to have a sudden setback, and in both cases it is a hard frost that does the trick. But when you see the small boy squat down in the mud and play marbles, you may say, "Lo, spring is here!"

There has been suggested a plan of cooperation in religious work that for the first time in the world's history bids fair to really cooperate. I quote the following from a statement recently sent broadcast by The Homiletic Review: "In New York city, for the first time in the history of the world, Catholic prelates, Jewish rabbis, and Protestant clergymen meet for joint conference and action, speaking from the same platform to 3,000 Catholic, Protestant, and Jewish school teachers in support of a cooperative plan to teach religion to public school children as the only way to save them from the corruption and outlawry into which they are fast falling." Is not this an entirely reasonable and feasible plan for making plans carry? Let one voice—however great that voice—be lifted up anywhere in the world against corruption and outlawry and it will only be a "voice crying in the wilderness." But when all the voices of all the churches of all the denominations speak against wrong then the results will be far-reaching.

The name of Washington is frequently quoted by those who are incorrigably opposed to any form of a league of nations. The Father of his Country is referred to as urging this nation against any "entangling alliances" with the old world. No doubt Washington was right as to such alliances in his day. But that is the reason after the lapse of a century and a quarter why with changed conditions we should be gripped with a hard hand. But ought we not to make a distinction between the "entangling alliances" which Washington had in mind and protective alliances such as the league of nations calls for? Let the United States, Great Britain, war, and war would be impossible. Something of the sort must be done. France, Italy and Japan unite against

MADAME CURIE'S MANY TRIALS

Russia ruthlessly ruled Warsaw, Poland, when Madame Curie was born there. She was nine months old when her mother died, and her childhood was darkened by spies and teachers who regarded Polish pupils as enemies.

Finishing high school, when 15, she broke down in health. Recovering, she desired to teach, but family finances forced her to leave home when 17, and become a governess.

Deciding to devote her life to mathematics and physics, she studied at night, and saved, to go to Paris, then had to wait three and one-half years to help her sister study there.

In Paris she studied day and night, carrying coal to her tiny, cheerless room, six flights up, and cooking meals over an alcohol lamp.

With marriage, at 28, came household duties in addition to scientific work. Two years later the care of her baby girl and her husband's father were added. Far from relatives back home, and weighted with duties, there was no opportunity even for friendship.

Preparing for her doctor's thesis, months of close study of uranium brought the discovery of "polonium" and "radium."

Then four years of heartbreaking effort, with crudest of instruments, in a shed that was sickly hot in summer and bitterly cold in winter, and she made a ton of raw material yield, in 1898, a decigram of pure chloride of radium.

Her husband died and she succeeded him as instructor of physics at the Sorbonne, the first woman to occupy such a position. With scanty means, the effort of supporting and educating her two daughters caused her serious illness. A trip to Stockholm to be awarded the Nobel prize forced her to bed for months.

Ordered by the government during the war to take her priceless radium to Bordeaux, she made the trip alone.

Her achievements have benefited the world. She has been honored by it. Her visit to America was an ovation, and more than 100,000 women united in presenting to her, in the interests of humanity, a gram of radium.

NITRATES AND WHERE THEY COME FROM

Nitrates, given prominent place in a recent report by the Department of Commerce listing the most important raw materials for which America now must look to the outside world, make up one of the groups of non-precious minerals with which nature has been most stingy. Again nitrates have been in the public eye in connection with the Muscle Shoals dam where the government planned during the World war to produce them artificially. Where nitrates come from and why they are of extreme importance in modern civilization are told in a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

"For ages man did not realize how keenly he needed nitrates," says the bulletin. "The plants he grew demanded nitrogen as they do today and their roots foraged for it as best they could. Early farmers and gardeners were not chemists; but they were good observers, and they found that manure added to the soil helped their crops. So, quite without knowing it, they fed nitrogen to them.

Population Pressure Causes Scramble For Nitrogen

"Manure met the needs of the early farmers; but in recent generations the pressure of population became so great in some countries, such as Germany, that there was grave danger of famine or at least the necessity for importing food, even though the land was kept continually busy. Scientists looked into the situation and found that every plant that grows takes certain minerals out of the soil, and that, in amounts removed, nitrogen leads all the rest. A ton of wheat, for example, removes from the soil 47 pounds of nitrogen, 18 pounds of phosphoric acid, and 13 pounds of potash, as well as smaller quantities of perhaps a dozen other minerals. It became apparent that manure alone could hardly furnish enough nitrogen to land on which crops were grown continually, and from which greater and greater production must be had. The realization opened up the fundamental demand for nitrogen fertilizer—and that put nitrates on the economic map.

"No deposits of soluble nitrogen materials of any importance had been found in Europe, where the greatest pressure was felt, nor in Asia nor North Africa. But beds of sodium nitrate had come to light in the narrow strip of desert in northern Chile, between the Andes and the Pacific ocean. First opened up in 1830, when the region was under Peruvian and Bolivian ownership, the mining opportunities until after Chile annexed the nitrate operations did not reach a great magnitude in 1880. Since then the world's demand for nitrates has grown so great that by 1913 Chile was exporting between two and three million tons. The World war increased the demand for nitrate is the chief raw material for explosives as well as for wheat and cotton; and Chile's desert deposits kept the guns of the Allies booming.

Mining the Air

"No nitrate mined to compete with those of Chile have ever been discovered in the ground of any country. But strangely enough Chile's supremacy has been threatened from the air. Nitrogen is one of the most elusive of the elements. The air all about us as rich in it: four-fifths of the air is nitrogen and only about one-fifth oxygen. But although our lungs utilize the oxygen, we can do nothing with the nitrogen we breath it in, and it is expelled unaltered. It baths animals and minerals and most organisms continually without combining with them.

"Science, however, has gotten its fingers on the elusive nitrogen of the air in the last quarter century, and is able to imprison some of it in forms that make it about as convenient for use in agriculture, industry and war as Chile's product. As in many other recent scientific accomplishments, electricity has been the agent, and some of the most successful "fixation plants"—factories for fixing or binding nitrogen to other substances—have been set up near large water power developments. America tried nitrogen fixation at Niagara Falls about a decade before the World war but was not wholly successful. Norway and Germany fared better and turned out some thousands of tons of synthetic nitrogen compounds in prewar days.

Germany Produced War Nitrates

"During the war Germany was completely cut off from the Chile nitrate fields and necessity compelled her to develop the artificial nitrogen industry if she were to have enough explosives to keep up the fight. Counting old synthetic nitrate and ammonium sulphate from the coke industry, Germany produced in 1918 nitrogenous materials with a nitrogen content of slightly more than 100,000 tons. By the end of the war the country's output of nitrogenous materials, mostly synthetic nitrates, topped over 500,000 tons of nitrogen. Tremendous plants were built and operated by steam power near coal fields. But most of the precious output went into explosives while crops got one-half their usual ration. In final analysis it was nitrogen starvation that brought Germany to her knees. The insufficiently fertilized fields produced smaller crops and there was not enough food to go round.

"By the end of the war the amount of nitrogen manufactured in Europe and the United States about equaled the entire world production, including Chile's, before hostilities began. If the world now wanted only its prewar supply of nitrates it might be satisfied from sources wholly outside Chile. But the nitrogen hunger has grown. Each year sees an increased demand, so that Chile is still the important factor. Since, in fact, it supplies the world's deficiency, Chile has the whip hand and the price of the Chilean product dominates the whole industry.

"It costs comparatively little to dig up, wash out, and crystalize the sodium nitrate from Chile's vast beds. If lowest cost of production ruled, the price might be only a few dollars a ton. But the cost of production at the poorest mines really sets the starting point for the price, and thus the Chilean government raises it greatly by putting on an export tax of about $12 a ton. Manufacturing synthetic nitrate with electric power and expensive machinery is rather a costly procedure. If Chile suddenly took the export tax off nitrates it might come close to wrecking the entire authentic industry unless a protective tariff were applied by the countries whose plants were imperilled."

SUNDAY MORNING TALK

THE GREATNESS OF SERVICE

Not with eyeservice, as men pleasers; but as the servants of Christ, doing the will of God from the heart. Eph. 6:6.

The secret of the universal homage paid to the life and character of Jesus of Nazareth is not far to seek. It lies revealed in the word "service." One man may feel the attractiveness that inheres in His unstained purity. Another is drawn inesistibly by His gracious compassion. Another confesses to the magnetism of His self-forgetfulness. But we comprehend the fullness of His power to elicit the homage of men when we say that in every sense and in the completest degree He made Himself man's servant. In Him humanity's ideal life is perfectly realized, and, becoming a servant of all, He has become the Lord of all.

Thus He has set before us once and for evermore the true conception of life. Worldly wisdom says to us, "You are in this world for what you can get out of it." Jesus Christ says, "You are in the world for what you can put into it." In its moments of clearest vision the world, forgetting its own word, bows to His, and carries highest in its temple of fame the names of those who have really served.

We are, then, to have this word "service" writ large before our mind's eye. The summons that lies in it we must ever hear. Every temptation to forget it must be vanquished. Nobility of character can be attained only as service becomes the keynote of life.

Service is to be rendered in and through the performances of our specific tasks. Each of us has his vocation. We are serving our fellowmen when we do our work faithfully. Every faithful life, no matter how limited its sphere or how obscure its work, is really serving. The dull routine faithfully gone through, the dreary drudgery faithfully performed, is service in the best sense. We see this clearly in some crucial moment, when faithfulness to a common task counts for much. There is constant opportunity for rendering service through our words. "Words are cheap," Yes, but often "words are mighty." Speech may be as the sting of the asp or as the carol of the lark. It may fill the blood with venom or inspire the soul with cheer. Pure, kindly, heartening words, words of hope and faith, if our lips be often filled with these, we shall thereby serve.

Never a word is said
But it trembles in the air,
And the truant voice has sped,
To vibrate everywhere;
And perhaps far off in eternal years
Its echo may break upon our ears.

The service of deed stands next to this, "Lend a hand," is a precept with which we have grown more or less familiar. Opportunities for "little deeds of kindness" are numberless. As we use them we serve. The cup of cold water is neither valueless nor despised. Opportunities for larger deeds are less frequently within our reach. The true spirit of service is tested more strongly by the former.

There is also the service of character. We cannot all do, especially large deeds, telling deeds. We can all be. The chance for highest and most constant service lies here. What I am affects my fellowman more than what I say, even more than what I do. "What you are sounds so loud I cannot hear what you say," Emerson once wrote. The utterance of character drowns the utterance of speech and deed. It is articulate when our lips are silent, active when our hands are at rest. He serves best and most whose inmost being has been so touched and transformed by love for Him who "came not to be ministered unto but to minister," that even its unconscious outgoings radiate purity, peace, hope, faith, and love.

New Youth

For women—new beauty for girls
By Edna Wallace Hopper

I found in France, many years ago, the supreme aids to beauty and to youth. I was a plain girl, and they made me the rage of New York. And now, after 40 years in the limelight, they keep me a beauty still. All who meet me on the stage or elsewhere marvel at my youthful bloom.

I have brought the same results to many. So I know these same helps can bring millions multiplied beauty and perennial youth. Now I have arranged so all who wish may get them. And I am taking time to tell the facts about them.

My White Youth Clay

This is a white, refined clay, amazing and delightful in results. It has been perfected by 20 years of scientific study.

Many of you know what clay does. Even the crude and muddy clays so many are still using. They purge the skin of all that clogs and mar it. They bring a new complexion, rosy, clear and clean. They firm the skin, combat all lines and wrinkles, reduce the pores. You see everywhere the youth and beauty that results from clay.

But my white Youth-Clay is vastly more efficient. It is the last word in facial clay. Many women, with one application, seem to drop ten years. The cost is 50 cents and $1.

My Youth Cream

My cold cream was perfected by French experts. I call it my Youth Cream. It contains products of both lemon and strawberry. Also all the best that science knows to foster the fine texture of the skin.

I use it after the clay. Also as a night cream. Also daytimes as a powder base. Never is my skin without it. It softens, whitens, feeds and smooths. My Youth Cream costs 60 cents.

I clean my skin with a liquid cleanser, called my Facial Youth. That also is a French creation. The leading beauty experts now employ it, but they charge too high a price.

My Facial Youth contains no animal, no vegetable fat. The skin cannot absorb it. So it cleans to the depths, then departs. All the refuse comes out with it, all the dirt and grime. You will never know what a clean skin means until you try Facial Youth. The cost is 75 cents.

My Hair Youth

This is another French creation. It embodies all that aids hair health and growth. My hair is my greatest glory. It is heavy, thick and lustrous. I have never had falling hair or dandruff, never a touch of gray.

I apply Hair Youth with an eye dropper, directly to the scalp. It removes the hardened oil and dandruff which stifle the hair roots. It stimulates and fertilizes. All in one minute daily, without mussing the hair.

My hair shows what Hair Youth does. I would not for a fortune go without it. It comes to you at little cost—50 cents and $1 with eye dropper.

All druggists and toilet counters now supply these very helps I use. They offer each under guarantee. I urge all girls and women to learn how much they mean. No other methods that I know can bring so much of added beauty or continued youth. Edna Wallace Hopper, 536 Lake Shore Drive, Chicago.

Stories That Recall Others

Wise Assortment

A sweet faced elderly woman took her place in the crowd in the lunchroom and gave her order.

"And I want some kind of pie, too. Now let me see," she said musingly.

"We've got apricot, peach, butterscotch, chocolate, mince and pineapple," the waiter droned.

"Well, well, well," the old lady smiled. "You've got pretty nearly every kind there is, haven't you? I guess I'll take a chocolate soda."

A Ready Solution

A mother was planning a party for her six year old son Robert and she was discussing with him what to serve for refreshments, when he said emphatically:

"Mother, why don't you have pancakes? All boys and girls like pancakes."

The new world's record for motorcycles over dirt track for one mile is 44.05 seconds.

Today's Anniversaries

1817—Chilian patriots defeated the Spanish royalist at battle of Maypu, which sealed the independence of Chili.

1824—Convention concluded between United States and Russia fixing northern Pacific boundary claimed by the United States.

1837—Henry G. Thomas, the first regular officer to command a negro regiment in the civil war, born at Portland, Me. Died in Oklahoma, Jan. 23, 1897.

1874—John W. Edmonds, the New York jurist who founded the prison reform association at Sing Sing, died in New York City. Born at Hudson, N. Y., March 15, 1799.

1876—The nomination of Charles A. Dana as United States minister to Great Britain was rejected by the senate.

1901—Philander C. Knox of Pennsylvania was appointed attorney-general in the cabinet of President McKinley.

1910—Transadine railway tunnel, linking Chili and Argentine Republic, was formally opened.

1916—In fierce fighting at Verdun the Germans stormed and captured the village of Haucourt.

1923—Earl of Carnarvon, financial backer of the explorations of the tomb of King Tutankhamen, at Luxor, died at Cairo, from the bite of an insect.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Clark Howell, who is to married today to his son's mother-in-law, Mrs Julian S. Carr, Jr., of Durham, N. C., is about the biggest man in Georgia and certainly one of the most popular. No journalist or public man in the south has worked harder and more successfully for his section than has Mr. Howell. When a mere boy he went to work in earnest to equip himself for the profession to which he had decided to devote his best energies. After leaving the University of Georgia in 1883 he served his journalistic apprenticeship in New York and Philadelphia. When he was 21 he accepted the night editorship of the Atlanta Constitution, and three years later Henry W. Grady made him his assistant managing editor. With the death of Mr. Grady he became managing editor and later editor-in-chief. Early in his career Mr. Howell had practical experience in public life as a member of the Georgia legislature. For more than 30 years he has been Georgia's member of the National Democratic committee.

POETRY

A Song of New England

I love—I love New England,
I love her root and bough,
From Plymouth Rock to Lexington—
Ay, even on till now;
Her liberty of old was bought
With blood she gladly gave;
I love her, too, because she fought
Again to free the slave.

I love—I love New England,
I love her sea wind's tune
Lilting along her lilac lanes,
And pasture boulder-strewn—
Her daisies that the meadow-lark
Low builds his nest among,
And sings until the starlit dark
The sweetest song e'er sung.

I love—I love New England,
That love will never wane;
Hereditary memories
Are echoing in my brain,
And as I list their music sweet
As any flower that blows,
The fragrance waft with every beat
Clings to my heart—and grows.
—Samuel Minturn Peck in Boston Transcript.

The Laggards

Scorners of earth, you that have one foot shod
With skyward wings, but are not flying yet,
You that observe no goal or stalling set
Between your groping and the towers of God
For which you languish, may it not be odd
And avaricious of you to forget
Your toll of sin accumulating debt
For dusty leagues that you are still to plod?

But many have paid, you say, and paid again;
And having had worse than death are still alive,
Only to pay seven fold, and seven times seven.
They are many; and for cause not always plain.
They are laggards among those who strive
On earth to raise the golden dust of heaven.
—Edwin Arlington Robinson in Yale Review.

HAD TO LET HOUSEWORK GO

So Ill Husband had to do the Work. Completely Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

South Bend, Indiana.—"I was all run-down, tired out, and had pains in my back and bearing-down pains. I was so sore I could hardly drag myself around and was not able to do a bit of housework. My husband worked all day in the shop, and then came home and helped me at night. The doctors said I had female weakness, and there was no help but to be operated upon, and of course that would cost us a great deal. My husband heard about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at the factory and one night he stopped at the drug store and bought me a bottle of it. I had begun to think there was no help for me, but I took three bottles of it and now I feel like myself once more. The price for three bottles wasn't so much as the doctor had charged. I cannot praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound enough."—Mrs. DORA OSBORNE, 430 Sherman Ave., South Bend, Indiana.

Women troubled with female weakness should give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial.

New System of Fat Reduction

Here's a new way for all fat people to laugh together at that old bugaboo—Obesity. The saying that "there is nothing new under the sun" does not now apply to fat people any more! Here is something new for them—new sensation, a new pleasure, a new and graceful figure, easily found by anyone who is passing beyond the limits of slimness. Everyone has heard of the Marmola Prescription; that harmless combination of fat-defying elements perfected by one of the foremost physicians. Now, from the same high authority, there comes another idea—the idea of condensing these same, pure, harmless ingredients into a pleasant little tablet. Taken after eating and at bedtime, they help the stomach to dispose of all the fatty foods, converting them into compact, solid flesh, muscle and energy, without dieting or exercise. Marmola Prescription Tablets regulate the entire system—do for you what bodily exertion and self-denial cannot do, and the fat once routed is gone for good. You can prove all this at a trifling cost. Marmola Prescription Tablets are sold by all druggists or sent postpaid by the Marmola Co., 4612 Woodward Ave., Detroit, Mich. A box—sufficient to bring results—is but one dollar.

After we have examined your eyes, they are TESTED with proper lenses—then we supply and FIT GLASSES with which you can see clearly. Let us work for you at our NEW LOCATION. Rooms 201-204, Disco Building.

EAGLES WIN SILVER CUP FOR RPINOCHLE

Entering into the final game of the pinochle series between the Norwich Lodge of Moose and Norwich Aerie of Eagles held at Eagles' hall, Friday evening, the members of the latter organization overcame a lead of 1575 points and won the game by a margin of 11,490 points.

The lead had been changed twice before during the tournament but the Moose had held an edge. The Eagles outplayed their rivals nearly 1,000 points a man, completely submerging them in the attack, winning the game Friday evening by a total of 112,230 to 100,740.

The total scores for the tournament were: Eagles, 545,050 and Moose 532,-790, giving the Eagles a margin of 10,300 points for the entire series. Individual high scores for the tournament was taken by John Leirick of the Eagles with a score of 26 605. For the Moose "Rudy" Krohn finished first with 24,590.

By their comeback the Eagles won a beautiful silver loving cup which had been displayed in the window of Ferguson, the jeweler. Other series are planned between the rival organizations and the Moose are only waiting to get their revenge.

Totals for Friday night's games follow:

Moose: H. Bronson, 7365; F. Beckman, 6970; G. Heibel, 6790; G. Seidel, 6725; G. Kaplan, 6660; W. Pianka, 6630; P. Carolina, 6585; B. Wunderlick, 6570; J. Lawdone, 6465; J. Mehrhais, 6100; C. Wright, 6020; J. Kirchner, 5990; F. Mehsholz, 5885; G. Geopfert, 5855; R. Krohn, 5320; I. Maynard, 5305.

LITTLE HOPE OF SAVING THE STEAMSHIP ADMIRAL RODMAN

Seattle, Wash., April 4—There apparently is little hope of saving the steamship Admiral Rodman of the Pacific Steamship company which grounded in a blinding snow storm early today at Point Calvert on the British Columbia coast near Queen Charlotte sound, according to radio advices received from the steamship Queen, a sister ship.

Captain Samuel Glass, master of the Admiral Rodman, has remained aboard the vessel with part of the crew of 33. Other members of the crew have been taken off by the Queen.

The Admiral Rodman is a wooden vessel of 1101 gross tons.

Dr. John Bobstick, and Englishman, designated hay fever as such in 1819.

PERSONALS

Mr. and Mrs. Edward D. Tarbox motored to New Haven, Thursday to attend a banquet held by the Fuller Brush Co.

Mrs. Ella Gager, who has been spending the winter with her son in Wisconsin, returned recently to her home at North Franklin.

After a visit of ten days at the home of his uncle, Stephen Austin of Mystic, Clarence Lillibridge has returned to his home on Scotland road.

Charles Lillibridge, a student at Putnam trade school, arrived Friday afternoon to pass the week end at the home of his mother, Mrs. Susie Lillibridge, of Scotland road.

Mrs. B. H. Evans, who has been suffering from a severe attack of neuritis for two weeks, much of the time not able to leave her room, was reported Friday to be improving.

Mrs. Annie Smith, who visited recently for a few days with her niece, Mrs. Byron H. Evans, of Court street, had returned to her home, in New London, since which time, she has been confined to the house by illness.

OBITUARY.
Charles D. Geer

When it was believed that he was on the road to recovery the condition of Charles D. Geer took a sudden turn for the worse early Friday morning and death followed about 8:30 o'clock despite the work of the doctors to save him. Prof. Geer was operated on for a severe case of appendicitis last week but he was rapidly recovering and several of his friends had permission to visit him during the day Friday, physicians believing him sufficiently improved to allow this.

Mr. Geer was born in Plainfield, July 20, 1869 the son of David and Eunice Orenda Witter Geer. He attended the public schools in that village and graduated from the Norwich Free Academy. On June 30, 1903 in St. Louis, Mo., he was united in marriage with Ora Lee Owen, and the couple had resided in Ledyard for many years.

Professionally Mr. Geer had followed the study and teaching of music. He studied extensively in New York and at one time was vocal teacher at a Texas college. From 1901 to 1909 he directed and taught music in church choirs and musical organizations in St. Louis. Following this he came to Norwich where he established a business and became widely known in his profession. He organized the Bass-Clef of Norwich and directed it for several years, was for two years director of the choir of the Central Baptist church, directed the Boys' Glee Club of the Norwich Free Academy, conducted a community chorus at Mystic, and was interested in everything musical in this section of the state.

For many years he was a member of the Norwich Musical association and during the war he supervised the community singing at different times in this vicinity, especially during the several Liberty Loan drives. At Christmas time he was interested in church singing in several local churches. He was always ready to assist whenever called upon and in his death the community has lost a citizen whose place will be hard to fill.

Surviving Professor Geer are his wife, three sons, Charles David Geer, Jr., George Owen Geer and Richard Witter Geer; one daughter, Marian Geer; one sister, Mrs. Mary L. Knight of Romney, West Virginia; and one brother, Isaac W. Geer of St. Louis, Mo.

Sister Afra

Word has been received by Mrs. J. E. St. John of New London, of the death of Sister Afra at Covington, Kentucky, on February 20th, 1924.

Sister Afra's worldly name was Miss Annie St. John, and before entering the religious life more than forty years ago, made her home in the city of Norwich with a brother, John E. St. John, since deceased, and two sisters, who entered the convent at about the same time as Sister Afra. Since entering the convent, Sister Afra had been located at LaSallette Academy, in Covington. Sister Judith, whose worldly name was Miss Mary St. John, and a sister to Sister Afra, was with Sister Afra at the time of her death.

Sister Afra is survived by two sisters now in the convent, Sister Judith, of the Immaculate Academy, of Newport, Kentucky, Sister Afra of St. Magdeline, of the Monastery of St. Magdalena Troy, New York, two nieces and a nephew of New London, and a cousin, Miss Mary St. John of Norwich.

James Yereance

East Orange, N. J., April 4—James Yereance, president of the Lord's Day Alliance of the United States since 1909, died suddenly at his home early today. He was a former vice moderator of the general assembly of the Presbyterian church.

ATTACK ON REPUBLICAN LEADERSHIP IN CONGRESS

Washington, April 4—Democrats in both the house and senate today let loose an attack on republican leadership in congress.

They directed a verbal bombardment at Senators Lodge, and Pepper, Speaker Gillett, and Representative Longworth and hurled charges on the world court issue, brought into play the senatorial investigations and motives behind them, and evoked a cross fire from the republican ranks.

In the senate, Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the minority leader, in the forefront of the assault, accused Senator Lodge, republican floor leader, of pigeon-holing the world court proposal in the foreign relations committee. He also took Senator Pepper, republican, Pennsylvania, to task for his speech delivered Thursday at the Maine republican state convention, and assailed Representative Longworth, of Ohio, republican leader in the house, for remarks to made before a group of republican women in Philadelphia last night.

Entire Company

The scene of the comedy is laid in Farcelona, Spain, where a young American has involved the Alcalde in an oil well venture that is barren of results until an unexpected result from the villain's plot to win the Alcalde's daughter brings in a "gusher". foils the villain, who is really a brigand posing as a Russian nobleman, endows the young American with riches and makes him an acceptable suitor for the hand of the Alcalde's daughter, who was prepared to follow the commands of her motner and the customs of the country rather than the dictates of her heart.

The leads were in admirable hands, Maida Wright in the title role in which she gave a sincere characterization of the Alcalde's daughter, and Lyle Fillmore as the young American, who portrayed the part with ease and naturalness. They scored a hit with their solo, More Beautiful When It Fades, and were called back for encores.

No better selection could have been made than Edithe Crosby, the foster-sister of Marcheta, and Tyler Stanton as Chuck McCracken, the slangy American friend of the oil well promoter, who carried the audience with them by the snap and spirit they put into their acting and showed professional finish in their song dance number, I've Lots of Kisses Left, which was one of the favorite numbers of the evenings.

Mrs. William Crowe, Jr., as the domineering wife of the Alcalde made her characterization a pronounced success and William Corey as her subservient husband furnished the comedy in capital form through his handling of his lines.

Mabel C. Buckingham made a charming appearance as the American widow and won warm favor from her hearers for her solo, Talk, Talk, Talk, which was sung in fine voice and spirit. Bruce Rogers, as Sam, a colored man, made his part a distinctive contribution to the success of the production, and Archie H. Perry was well cast as the pseudo-Russian noble, a suitor for the hand of Marcheta.

Individual dancing honors of the evening went to Florine Scofield in her Spanish dance which was the embodiment of grace and shiness as she floated with the lightness of thistle down through the pretty steps, and the prize-dancing choruses of the evening were the Russian ballet which did this distinctive dance with great success and the Spanish peasants who were admirable, both being called back for repeated encores, as was the case for all the other chorus numbers.

Two pretty dance specialties that were introduced and given with graceful effect were The Scimeter by Suzanne Higgins and The Moment Musical by Dorothy Prentice and Marion Mitchell.

The children provided a pretty part of the comedy when the stage was filled in the second act with the attendants at the court of the Muchachos over which little Dolly Edmond presided with queenly command and William H. Prothero as captain of the guard did excellent work. A clever drill by the boy soldiers made a feature in the scene.

Bouquets for all the young lady principals went over the footlights as they answered to encores for their well rendered song numbers and the pretty stage settings and varied and appropriated costumes for the chorus numbers made the comedy a succession of beautiful stage pictures.

Home made candy was sold through the audience during the evening by Mrs. Helen Zabriskie, Mrs. Harry B. Ford, Mrs. Richard P. Gregson, Mrs. Avery Gallup, Mrs. H. C. Mosher, Miss Beatrice Sharp, Miss Ruby Vaughn, Miss Winifred Zahn, and Miss Barbara Allen. Those acting as the committee on candy were Mrs. Harry B. Ford, chairman, Mrs. George E. Zimmerman, Mrs. Herbert R. Kind, Mrs. Hugh Finlayson, Mrs. Edmund Hindle, Mrs. Alexander Finlayson and Mrs. Clarence Barber.

Members of the Grotto patrol in their brilliant Turkish uniforms acted as ushers.

The comedy is promised two more big houses when it is given again at a Saturday matinee and an evening performance.

The Grotto committee in charge of the details of the production follows:

General chairman, Alexander Finlayson; talent, Fred G. Prothero; publicity, Wilbur F. Williams; tickets, Louis Brown and R. Day Fillmore; details, Harry W. Carlson; treasurer, W. Manley Eastwood; accompanist, Olive Linton.

F. Steven Wilkinson has been the local director for Marcheta, which has been rehearsed, staged and equipped by Harrington Adams, Inc., Libretto, lyrics and music by Frederick G. and Larry E. Johnson; costumes by Lester; scenery by Tiffin Scenic Studio; orchestrations by Alferd; dances by G. Quinlin Spaeder and palms loaned by Smith the Florist.

MRS. GOSS NOT GUILTY OF MURDERING HER HUSBAND

New York, April 4—Mrs. Essie Gross was found not guilty tonight of the charge of murdering her husband several months ago. Mrs. Gross declared her husband was killed while they struggled for possession of a pistol in their up-town home. The jury was out one hour and five minutes.

Irving Gross, her husband, a postal clerk was shot on the morning of December 11, last, soon after he and his wife had finished breakfast. Mrs. Gross ran to the street, screaming, "I killed him because I love him." Later she declared they had quarreled and her husband had gone into another room to obtain a pistol which she said she tried to take away from him.

Trial on the murder charge started on March 18 on the eve of what would have been Mrs. Gross's fifth wedding anniversary.

PRESTON CITY GUILDS GIVE CLEVER PLAY

At the Preston City Congregational church Friday evening the three scene play, Willing Captives in Japan, was given to perfection by members of the World Wide Guild of the Congregational and Baptist churches. The play was given before a large and attentive gathering who also were favored with orchestra music and vocal solos.

The case of characters was as follows: Gertrude Bean by Gertrude Slater; Nancy Bean, her sister, by Cynthia Crary; college girl, Edith Pierce.

Friends of Nan—Grace by Florence Kennedy; Dot by "Jean"; Ruth by Edith Bennett, Mrs. Bean by Mrs. Nathan Hall, Aunt Gertrude by Marian Pierce, Mary Drake by Harriet Bennett, Miss Fass by Edith Pierce, Japanese Servant by Dorothy Bennett, School scene. A number of children dressed in Japanese costumes.

Following the play cake, ice cream and coffee were served and a social time enjoyed. A goodly sum of money was realized.

MAN SHOT DOWN IN STREET IN BRIDGEPORT

Bridgeport, April 4—Shortly before midnight tonight an unidentified middle aged man was shot down in a dark spot near Congress high school on Arch street, one block from the heart of the city, by an unknown gunman who escaped with a companion in a fast touring car before an attempts towards their apprehension could be made. At St. Vincent's hospital where the victim was taken and where police are attempting to discover his identity, it was said that no hope for his life was held. Four bullets, it is believed, were fired into his body.

YEARS IN CONGRESS OR THROUGH HELL AND BACK

Perry, Okla., April 4—"Two years in congress, or through hell, and back again," will be the subject of the opening campaign speech of Manuel Herrick, who has announced his candidacy, for another term in congress as a representative of the eight Oklahoma district. Herrick formerly served a tempestuous term in congress, during which he conferred on himself the title of "aerial daredevil". At his first speech, to be delivered here, April 12, Herrick has promised, "sensational revelations."

HIGHWAY ROBBERY CHARGE AGAINST HIGH SCHOOL BOY

St. Louis, Mo., April 4.—Edward G. Dillon, 19, high school fraternity boy, was arrested on a charge of highway robbery today at the inquest into the death of his fraternity chum, George W. Barnett, who was killed Wednesday night when attempting to hold up City Detective J. E. Carten. Testimony showed that the boys had used a stolen automobile in four hold-ups within twenty minutes, and that Barnett was shot when they attempted to rob the detective.

Sure Was Hazy.

A Richmond banker was approached by a negro minister whose father had served his family in slave days. The old man was a little more progressive than the ordinary negro pastor of the South and interested himself not only in the spiritual welfare of his flock, but in their worldly welfare as well. It was his custom, therefore, to lecture weekly on current events and his next talk was to deal with the subject of investments and securities. "Marse Henry," he said, "I'se goin' to talk to mah congiation on de ebils ob de bucket shop what's agitatin' folks so much all 'round de country, but I'se a little hazy on mah definitions. Could you tell me, please, what's de diffrence between a common, a preferred an' a rollin' stock?"—Wall Street Journal.

FIRPO IN GOOD CONDITION FOR HIS BOUT WITH AL REICH TODAY

Buenos Aires, April 4.—(By the A. P.)—After two weeks of the hardest training since he prepared for his fight with Jack Dempsey in New York last summer, Luis Firpo, Argentine heavyweight champion, enters the ring here tomorrow night with Al Reich, American boxer, in what he says will be his last fight. Firpo has trained faithfully for this fight because he believes Reich is superior to both Weidner Lodge and Erminio Spalla and says he does not intend to be remembered as having ended his career ingloriously.

Firpo told the correspondents here today during his last training session that he would finish the fight in the first round if possible, in order to show the world that I am quitting as good as ever." Firpo's fine condition was evident as he danced about his sparring partner lightly and fast. His spirits were buoyant.

The Argentine said that his left arm, which troubled him after his bout with Spalla, is now entirely well.

The sporting public generally is skeptical that Firpo will remain firm in his intention to retire after this bout, while the sporting writers have predict that he will be found boxing again in the United States before the end of the year. It is noted that he still maintains business relations with his manager, Hugh Gartland, who has supervised his training for tomorrow's bout.

Reich finished his training this afternoon. The critics have been impressed by his showing and predict that the American will weigh in at 92 1-2 kilos (about 217 pounds) and Reich, 96 kilos (about 211 pounds).

COMMISSIONED MEN BEAT TORPEDOES IN OPENER

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, April 4.—The opening of the Duggaree Baseball league at the Submarine Base this afternoon, found the First Lieutenants of the Submarine school and the First Torpedo Personal eager to take the field against each other. Both teams were primed for the contest and for seven innings the teams battled with varying results.

The commissioned men kept right on plugging along and gathering a run here and there were able to win the first contest of the year by a 13 to 7 score. Both teams erred frequently and clean hits sandwiched in between accounted for the majority of the scoring of both teams. The Lieutenants were more proficient in the art of smacking the old apple when there were men on the paths. This was one thing that the men that manned the Torpedoes failed in. Two hurlers were used by both teams, the first shukker of the baseball from the elevated plateau did not fare very well and had to retire early.

There was a large crowd present for the opening contest and with the weather almost ideal for baseball a good day's excitement was had by all that attended.

TABS DEFEATED IN CLOSING GAME OF THE SEASON

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, April 4.—The Tabs five of the Military league closed its season in this league tonight at the state armory, losing to the Headquarters by a score of 44 to 33. Headquarters completely outplayed the Pemperance men in the first half but in the second half Jim MacDonald's men outscored and outplayed the league leaders.

CHAPMAN TECH HAS STIFF BASEBALL SLATE

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, April 4.—The Chapman Technical high school baseball schedule was made public today. A total of nineteen games make up the schedule of the Red and Black for the present season. Of the nineteen games, nine have been definitely scheduled to be played at New London and eight to be played away from town. Two games on the pending list to be played at New London.

The Tech team may play its first game with Wheeler high school at New London on Saturday, April 5. However definite arrangements have not been made and in case that the Wheeler nine is unable to play the Red and Black, the first game of the season will be played on Thursday, April 17 with Plainfield at Plainfield.

Almost every team that Chapman Tech will engage on the diamond will be in a home and home series. As in previous years the Tech is again planning herself to engage in games with teams only in the eastern section of the state. Not one high school team appears on her schedule of the Class A type. Windham High, Plainfield High, Norwich Free Academy, Westerly High, Old Saybrook High, Morgan High, Pratt High, are each scheduled for a home and home series. The first four named schools are most feared by the local team.

If the Tech team does open up its season Saturday afternoon, it will almost be a foolhardy stunt. For the Tech team has not even had infield practice and the first team has not yet been selected. Though Wheeler High will furnish the Tech nine little or no opposition.

The Chapman Tech schedule for the season of 1924 is as follows:

Saturday, April 5—Wheeler High school at New London (pending.)

Saturday, April 12—Plainfield High at Plainfield.

Thursday, April 17—Old Saybrook High at Saybrook.

Tuesday, April 22.—Pratt High school at Essex.

Saturday, April 26.—Stonington High school at New London.

Monday, April 28.—Morgan High school at Clinton.

Saturday, May 3—Westerly High at Westerly.

Tuesday, May 6.—Old Saybrook at New London.

Saturday, May 10.—Norwich Free Academy at Norwich.

Tuesday, May 13.—Stonington High at Stonington.

Saturday, May 17.—Windham High at Willimantic.

Tuesday, May 20—Lyman Memorial High at New London (pending.)

Friday, May 23.—Norwich Free Academy at New London.

Saturday, May 24.—Eastern Connecticut interscholastic track meet at Morgan Park, New London.

Tuesday, May 27.—Plainfield High at New London.

Thursday, May 29.—Morgan High at New London.

Saturday, May 31.—Windham High at New London.

Wednesday, June 4.—Pratt High at New London.

Saturday, June 7.—Westerly High at New London.

Wednesday, June 11.—Madison at New London, (pending.)

The season opens on Saturday, April 5 and ends on Wednesday, June 11.

TRYING TO PREVENT PROBATING OF BULGER'S WILL

Newark, N. J., April 4. — Papers seeking to prevent admittance to probate of the will of Jack Bulger, late manager of Mickey Walker, world's welterweight boxing champion, were filed with Surrogate Howard Isherwood here today by Mrs. Kathryn Bulger of Brooklyn who claimed to have married Bulger 20 years ago and to have had two children by him.

At the time of his death, according to Mrs. Bulger's affidavit, Bulger was living in an apartment here in Newark, with a woman known as Mrs. May Burke Bulger. Mrs. Kathryn Bulger further declared that she and her husband were separated six years after their marriage.

The domestic relations court in Brooklyn allowed her $6 a week, she said, but she received only $460 from her husband. The children, she asserted, are living.

CARPENTIER TO BOX TUNNEY DURING WEEK OF JUNE 9TH

New York, April 4.—Georges Carpentier, French light-heavyweight champion, will meet Gene Tunney, American light-heavyweight champion, in New York or New Jersey the week of June 9 and the winner will meet Tom Gibbons in Chicago, Detroit or Michigan City, Ind., on July 4. This was announced today by Billy Gibson, Tunney's manager, after a final conference with Floyd Fitzsimmons, Benton Harbor, Mich., promoter, who came east to straighten out the tangle over the Frenchman's engagements here.

The Carpentier-Tunney match originally was set for the week of June 16 but in order to give Fitzsimmons more time to promote his show, Gibson agreed to hold his match one week earlier. This agreement was reached after Gibson refused Fitzsimmons' $30,000 offer to give up his contract with Carpentier.

The Carpentier-Tunney match will be held at Boyles' thirty acres in Jersey City or at either one of the metropolitan baseball parks, Gibson said. It was understood that Tex, Rickard sought the match as an attraction for his milk fund show this summer but Gibson refused to consider such a proposition.

Baltic "Y" Defeats Versailles "Y."

Versailles Y. M. C. A. was defeated by the Baltic Y. M. C. A. in an interesting indoor contest by a score of 41 to 20, Thursday evening. The contest was held in the basement of the Versailles Methodist church. Keen competition was shown between the two groups. For Baltic Massey was the feature of the evening with a high dive over the bar of 5 ft. 3 in. Phillipps also did some very neat all-around work. For Versailles "Peanut" Stenard and Mell did the featuring.

The results were:

Dart-throwing—Baltic 38, Versailles 38; sack race (seniors), won by Baltic; sack race (juniors), won by Versailles; potato race (juniors), won by Baltic; potato race (seniors), won by Versailles; standing broad jump (juniors), Massey, B., 1st; Fine, V., 2nd; Stanard, V., 3rd; standing broad jump (seniors), Ashworth, B., 1st; Phillipps, B., 2nd; Niles, V., 3rd; running dive (juniors), Massey, B., 1st; Stanard, V., 2nd; Fine, V., 3rd; running dive (seniors), Phillipps, B., 1st; Crippa, B., 2nd; Mell, V., 3rd.

ARMY-NAVY FIVE HAD MOST SUCCESSFUL SEASON

The Army-Navy basketball team was the outstanding basketball five of Eastern Connecticut during the past season. The team under the management of Johnny Murphy went through the season with 13 victories against 4 defeats. This record is the best of any semi-pro fives in this section of the state.

The Army-Navy team played a stiff schedule going up against some of the fastest teams in the state. Practically all the games were fast and interesting and much credit is due Manager Murphy in keeping up the interest in basketball here.

The individual scoring honors go to Harry Mills who played seventeen games and during these shot 39 field goals and dropped in fourteen fouls giving him a total of 192 points. His nearest rival for individual honors was Cardie who played nine games scoring 103 points with 48 field baskets and 6 fouls. The season's record and individual scores follow:

INTERCLASS GAMES START AT CHAPMAN TECH

(Special to The Bulletin).

New London, April 4.—Taking advantage of the first warm day, the Chapman Tech inter-class baseball series got under way officially this afternoon at Morgan park. The interclass games are only a part of the daily work out.

Two games were played in the inter-class series, and the seniors defeated their most hated class rivals—the juniors by a 5 to 1 score and in the second game the sophomores gained a 3 to 0 decision over the freshmen. Both games were well played although they were the first baseball games played on Morgan park this year.

In the senior-junior grudge game, the seniors with several first team men in their lineup got away to an early lead. This lead which they held throughout the five inning of play was never threatened to even be tied. Courbois, a youngster who hails from Norwich and who comes to the Whaling City each day to attend Chapman Tech, was the only player for the juniors to put up any kind of a fight. He not only scored the only run made by the third year men, but also played a fine game in the field. His efforts were for naught, however, for his team mates failed to follow his example and a defeat was registered for the third year men. The battery for the seniors was Cruise, Linkletter and Cerette. For the juniors Dabail, Courbois and Booth made up the battery.

The second game between the sophomores and the freshmen turned out to be a pitchers' battle from the very start. Richard and Streeter the yearling hurlers received poorer support than did the Sophomore, Gero. The freshmen infield cracked at times when a score was imminent and path runs hung up by the team was the result of errors and one hit.

It is most likely that the inter-class games will be held all next week. It is one of the best ways to uncover new material and also get a line on the players of the previous season that have not been lost through graduation.

INDOOR TENNIS FINALS TO BE PLAYED TODAY

New York, April 4.—Vincent Richards, the defending champion and Francis T. Hunter, 1922 titleholder, monopolized honors today in the national men's indoor tennis championships. For the second straight year they won the right to battle for the singles title in the final round tomorrow, while, paired in the doubles, they also advanced to the finals and will defend their title against R. Howard Voshell and Frank T. Anderson, two metropolitan rivals.

Tremaine-Villa Bout Off.

Cleveland, April 4.—Negotiations for a bout here April 18 between Pancho Villa, flyweight champion, and Carl Tremaine, local bantamweight, were cancelled today when Tremaine declined to box for the amount of money offered. The American Legion is trying for a substitute for Tremaine to box Villa in the main bout of the show, which will re-open the boxing game here.

PITTSBURGH HOCKEY TEAM WINS THE NATIONAL AMATEUR TITLE

Pittsburgh, Pa., April 4.—Pittsburgh tonight won the national amateur hockey championship of the United States by defeating the Boston A. A. team in the fifth game of the title series. The score was 5 to 1. Pittsburgh scored three goals in the first period, two in the second and one in the last, while Boston scored in the third period.

The Pittsburgh team had little difficulty in vanquishing the easterners, the locals playing faultlessly on defense and in the early stages of the game having little trouble in penetrating the visitors' defense. Drury's work was the outstanding feature of the contest. With a rare display of skill he scored two goals within two minutes in the second period.

Pittsburgh, representing the western group of the United States Amateur Hockey league, won four games of the championship series, while Boston, representing the eastern group, was victorious in one game.

The summary:

| Pittsburgh. | | Boston. |
|---|---|---|
| Worters | Goal | Lacroix |
| Conacher | Right Defense | Small |
| R. Smith | Left Defense | A. Smith |
| Cotton | Center | Knight |
| McKinnon | Right Wing | Morrissey |
| McCurry | Left Wing | Harrington |

Goals: Conacher, R. Smith, Sullivan (sub for R. Smith), Drury (sub for McCurry) (2), McKinnon, Pittsburgh; A. Smith, Boston.

Score by periods:

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Pittsburgh | 1 | 2 | 2 | —5 |
| Boston | 0 | 0 | 1 | —1 |

Time of periods: 15 minutes.

BULKELEY SENT THROUGH PACES AT MORGAN FIELD

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, April 4.—With the first real warm weather of the season, the Bulkeley baseball squad in charge of Robert T. Aldrich went through its first real workout of the season on Morgan Park today. With the reporting of Harold Hutchison, regular third sacker last season, for the first time today, Coach Aldrich was able to have the first infield practice of the season.

With the reporting of Hutchinson, the last man of last season's team has once again donned the Bulkeley uniform. Coach Aldrich extends hopes for some more weather like today. He said: "If the weather man behaves himself and complies with our wants, we will have the Orange and Black squad rounded into shape in another week."

At Morgan Park at 9.30 Saturday morning a seven-inning practice game will be played between the first and second teams. It will be the first game of any sort that the Bulkeley team has participated in since the first day of practice.

CHILEAN HEAVYWEIGHT ARRIVES FOR TOUR

New York, April 4.—Quintin Romero Rojas, Chilean heavyweight, and Luis Vicentini, lightweight from the same country, arrived tonight on the steamer Tano from Valparaiso. Vicentini has been matched with Pal Moran of New Orleans for a 12-round bout at Madison Square Garden on May 3 to determine a probable outdoor opponent for Benny Leonard later in the season. Rojas, one of three foreign candidates to meet Harry Wills, negro aspirant for the heavyweight championship, probably will make his debut in a match with Floyd Johnson of Iowa at the Garden on May 9.

WILLS TO FIGHT MADDEN BEFORE TACKLING DEMPSEY

New York, April 4.—Harry Wills, negro, who has been signed by Tex Rickard to battle Jack Dempsey, for the heavyweight title if he survives a preliminary test, has agreed to fulfill a long deferred engagement to fight Bartley Madden, New York heavyweight, at the Queensboro stadium, May 16.

The match originally was arranged to be held in February at the First Regiment armory, Newark, but was postponed several times because of an injury to Wills' hand. Newark promotors today agreed to turn over the contract to the Queensboro A. C.

ENGINE CO. FIVE TO PLAY G. E. TEAM

New London, April 4.—The New London Ship and Engine basketball team has been paired off to meet the General Electric five of Bridgeport in the second contest of the elimination tournament of the Industrial winners of the state. The first game which gets underway at 8 o'clock will find the International Silver quintet of Meriden and the Safety Car Heating and Lighting Co. of New Haven playing the opening game of the tournament.

The rest of the teams that have been paired off are as follows: The winner of the Meriden-New Haven game will meet the Chase Metal and Steel Works of Waterbury at 5 o'clock. The winner of the second contest which is the New London and Bridgeport game, will meet Hartford. The last named game will get under way at 6 o'clock. The victors of the last two games will meet at 8.30 in the final contest that will decide the winner of the Connecticut Industrial basketball title. During the intermission of games the Safety Car Heating and Lighting Co. of New Haven will act as hosts to the players of the various teams. Refreshments will be served.

Because there are only six teams entered in the tournament, two teams had to draw byes in the first round. The lucky teams that will be credited with a victory although they will not have to play are the Underwood Typewriter Co. of Hartford and the Chase Metal and Steel Work of Waterbury. It is the opinion of the committee in charge that the games can be played in one day so that another delay to decide the state industrial champion will not be necessary. Only the final game will be played in twenty-minute halves. The preliminaries and semi-finals will be in 15-minute halves.

The services of men who are capable to referee the games have been secured. One of the men who will act as an official is Morris Touchton, coach of soccer, lacrosse and gymnastics at Yale university. He will share the referee's burden with Robert L. Coutts, a central board official. This will not be the first time that Mr. Coutts has officiated for New London teams. His first appearance was a year ago, when he refereed the Chapman Tech and Stonington championship basketball game at the New London Y. M. C. A. He also acted in the capacity of umpire in the Chapman Tech-Westerly championship baseball game.

The New London Ship and Engine team will leave by train from New London at 12.36. Several automobiles of rooters, admirers and girl friends will also make the trip.

BIG BASKETBALL GAME AT WESTERLY TONIGHT

Basketballdom of New London and Washington counties will assemble on this (Saturday) evening at the armory of Battery E, 243 Field Artillery, on Dixon street, Westerly. Manager Simeon Shortman has made all arrangements to care for the record-breaking crowd which it is certain the double-header card will draw. The Madison Square Garden Whirlwind basketball team of New York is to clash with Washington or South counties' own South Kingstown team. The semi-final will be between the Battery E and Stonington teams.

Application for tickets for this game have been received from Norwich, Plainfield, Baltic, Jewett City, New London and many other places, but preference will be given the Westerly fans, who have helped build the sport up in that town.

Alterations have been made to handle a crowd of 1200 for Saturday's game. Some tickets are on sale by members of the Battery E team and can be purchased if desired, but no great effort is being made to sell them as it is desired to give everybody an equal chance. The doors at the armory will be open at 6.15 Saturday night for the sale of tickets.

Battery E and Stonington will play the semi-final. This game will start at 7.30, and the big game will start at 8.15. Stonington will be strengthened by Harris and O'Hara of the Sub Base. The usual dance will be held after the game.

MISS CUMMINGS WILL NOT COMPETE IN BRITISH GOLF

New York, April 4. — Miss Edith Cummings, of Chicago, national women's golf titleholder, has abandoned plans to compete this year in the British women's championship. This was disclosed today in word received here from Miss M. M. MacFarlane, secretary of the British Lady Golfers' union.

America will have at least one representative in the title event, however, for Miss Audrey Faust, of St. Louis, one of the leading younger stars of the middle west, has filed her entry.

Miss Cummings was the only American player in the British tournament last season. She was eliminated in the third round. This year's championship will be played beginning May 9 at the Royal Portrush Golf club, county Antrim, Ireland.

JOHNSTON AGREES TO MATCH DUNDEE WITH LOMBARDO

New York, April 4.—Before relinquishing his role as manager of Johnny Dundee to become matchmaker of the Cromwell Athletic club, James J. Johnson today agreed to match the featherweight and junior lightweight titleholder with Jose Lombardo, Panama featherweight champion, at Panama City on May 11.

Johnston came to terms for the match, in which only Dundee's junior lightweight crown will be at stake, with Edward Roberts, Panama promoter, who came to this country to arrange the bout after Dundee, because of an injured arm, cancelled a date to fight Lombardo in Panama last February.

The issue was carried before the state athletic commission, which today approved the agreement reached. Under the contract, Dundee was guaranteed $12,000, with a privilege of 35 per cent. of the gate receipts, while Johnston will name the referee. Dundee expects to sail May 1 for the Canal Zone.

Johnston's withdrawal as Dundee's manager was done to comply with the ruling of the state athletic commission which prevents any fight manager also acting as a promoter or matchmaker. He also relinquished management of Harry Mason, British holder of the European lightweight title who is now campaigning here, and Augie Ratner, New York middleweight.

STRIBLING CAN FIGHT ONLY SIX ROUND BOUTS IN N. Y.

New York, April 4. — William L. (Young) Stribling, Macon, Ga., schoolboy light heavyweight, must confine his boxing in New York state to six-round encounters, the state athletic commission decided today in refusing a request of "Pa" Stribling, his manager, to match his son in a 12 round bout at an Olympic fund benefit show here. Stripling is but 19 years old and the state boxing law prohibits boxers under 21 from competing in exhibitions of more than six rounds.

In refusing to waive the law, Chairman George E. Brower said the commission did not wish to establish a precedent.

"Pa" Stribling announced he would not allow his son to compete in six round bouts and told the commission he would not take out a license in the state on the basis permitted. Promoters of the Olympic show on April 29 had sought to match Stribling with Mike Burke, New York light heavyweight, for a 12-round contest.

"Pa" Stribling also declared his son was ready to meet again Mike McTigue, world's light-heavyweight champion, whom the Georgian outpointed decisively in 12 rounds at Newark last Monday night. Newark promoters have begun negotiations to bring the pair together for a third time in an outdoor contest June 2.

FEATURE TENNIS MATCHES AT AUGUSTA POSTPONED

Augusta, Ga., April 4.—Rain fell all day today causing the feature events in the singles finals of the South Atlantic states tennis tournament here to be postponed until tomorrow. Hundreds of out-of-town fans were disappointed at not getting to see William Tilden, II, of Philadelphia, in action.

Tilden was matched to play in the finals of the men's singles with Lawrence Rice of Boston. All finals in both singles and doubles will be played tomorrow beginning in the morning if the weather permits.

JERSEY CITY CLUB IS SOLD FOR $85,000

Jersey City, N. J., April 4.—Following announcement today that the Jersey City baseball club of the International league had been sold by Joseph V. Moran to former City Clerk John H. Morris and Patrick J. Donnally, a former fire commissioner here, the new owners immediately commenced plans for the 1924 season which will get under way April 21 with Rochester as the opposing team.

It is authoritatively reported that the consideration in the deal was $85,000 which sum is said to include both the franchise and the players.

MURCHISON TO TRAIN UNDER CARL ANDERSON

New York, April 4.—Loren Murchison, of the Newark Athletic club, national sprint champion, announced today he would train for the Olympic tryouts under the direction of Carl G. Anderson, Newark A. C. coach. He denied reports that he would place himself under the tutelage of Lawson Robertson, head Olympic track coach, at the University of Pennsylvania.

Murchison explained that he gave much credit for his success to Anderson and intended to rely on the latter's coaching until he had gained a place on the Olympic team.

Havers-Jones Match Today.

Atlanta, Ga., April 4.—Rain today was not expected to interfere with the 36-hole exhibition match tomorrow at East Lake Country club links between Bobby Jones, American amateur champion, and Arthur Havers, open champion of Great Britain, in what is regarded as an unofficial world championship exhibition.

Francis Quimet, former national open and national amateur champion, will be in the gallery when the titled opponents tee off.

George J. McBride, the old big leaguer, who has been living in retirement for some time, may return to the diamond as coach for the Washington Senators.

WINDS AND WAVES HOLD UP K-371, RUM CRAFT FROM NEW LONDON TO N. Y.

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, April 4.—Men from the customs house department in New York find it more difficult to get up sound than did the rum-runners who are alleged to have had a cargo of booze had in navigating outside the sound before the coast guard steamer Seminole came upon the K-371, the boat which the New Yorkers are to leave here. The boat has been at this port a week or more, awaiting weather that would enable her to get to New York, where her case and that of the crew found aboard will be disposed of. Today the craft made a start, but the sound was found to be so rough that she turned back. If the sea quiets down and the wind abates, another start will be made Saturday. The Seminole towed four boats. One of them is still held here, two have been released on payment of fines by their masters for violation of the navigation laws and the craft that is to go to New York is the last of the group to be treated by law.

Miss Gladys Strickland of Quaker Hill came to New London today and is sorry she made the trip for she returned to her home minus $80. Miss Strickland made the journey here by automobile, but when she reached State street she discovered her Boston bag missing and in it was the money. A report of the loss was made to the police, but no trace of the finding of the bag and money was obtained. It is supposed that the bag was dislodged during the trip to New London.

The fire department was called out at 2:45 o'clock this afternoon in response to an alarm rung in from Box 516, corner of Ocean and Gardner avenues, by some excited person. A stretch of dead grass of a tract near where the fire alarm box is located, became ignited, presumably by boys and an alarm was sent in, summoning practically all of the city's fire fighting equipment. The first of the companies had extinguished the blaze with chemicals before the other pieces of apparatus arrived. Who was responsible for the ringing of the alarm was not ascertained.

A still alarm was sent to fire headquarters about 2 o'clock when the stairway leading from the first to the second floor of the residence occupied by Harry B. Sloan, 9 Union street, was discovered ablaze and with the flames licking the side of the structure. The Niagara and Nameaug Engine companies and Thomas Hose company were dispatched to the fire and it was subdued quickly with chemicals. The fire originated in a garbage barrel beneath the stairs, but how it became ablaze could not be explained.

An automobile owned and operated by Frank Miller of Orchard street, Stonington, struck Amelia Wojcoski, 6, of 28 North Bank street, this afternoon on Main street. The child was not seriously injured for only bruises resulted. The child had been standing alongside the curb apparently waiting an opportunity to cross the street at the corner of Church street. As the machine operated by Miller, which was traveling in a southerly direction approached the intersecting streets, a machine going in another direction passed. As the car passed the corner, the child ran into the highway and in front of the Miller automobile. Before the driver could bring the machine to a stop the youngster was hit by the fender and knocked to the pavements.

Patrolman Walter Rehn resumed his patrol at Ocean beach today, having been absent from duty several weeks because of a bone-felon.

Samuel Cooper, who was taken into custody last night at the request of the Waterbury police, who held a warrant charging him with embezzlement, was returned to Waterbury this afternoon when Sergeant Carman of the Waterbury department arrived here for that purpose.

It is alleged that Cooper was entrusted with 15 horses owned by William Link of Waterbury and that during the absence of Link, Cooper sold some of the animals and then left for New London where he had arranged a sale scheduled to take place tomorrow.

Miss Annie Geminde of Groton, and Paul Gray of Truman street, patients at Lawrence hospital, were discharged today.

The funeral of Arthur H. Gager was held this afternoon at 1 o'clock at the Quaker Hill Baptist church, and was attended by many mourners. The services were conducted by Rev. Walter P. Buck of New London. The bearers were Thomas Crawford, of the Gager-Crawford company, of which Mr. Gager was the senior member; Walter Brown and Frank Byer, employes of the company, and George S. Goldie, William H. Nott and Clarence C. Comstock, members of Nameaug Boat club, of which organization Mr. Gager had been a member for many years. Burial was in Johnson cemetery, Bozrah.

Funeral services for Mrs. Frances Moshier, wife of George H. Moshier, of Waterford, were held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at 48 Shapley street. Rev. Joseph R. Elder officiated. The bearers were Erastus Beebe, Monroe Beckwith, Charles A. Phillips and Herbert D. Utley, all of Waterford. Burial was in Yantic cemetery, Norwich.

The funeral of Ruth, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tannetter Brown, was held this morning at 10 o'clock at the A. M. E. Zion church, Rev. Sinclair Brimstead officiated. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

It is improbable that the petition circulated by residents of Groton recently, requesting the treasury department at Washington to relieve the city of New London of the responsibility of conducting the affairs of the Groton post office and permit a borough post office on the east side of the Thames river to be managed by Groton's own postmaster and a working force of residents of the borough, may be granted. The postal authorities have anticipated such a request for some time and have already come to the opinion that the office can be best operated as regards efficiency by being a sub-station of the New London office. The petition was circulated last week and was generally signed by taxpayers and voters, several hundred signatures having been obtained.

Probation Officer Richard W. Mansfield has another charge for today that official was notified by the New Haven police that Samuel Delinsky of that city had been sentenced to six months in jail on a charge of breach of the peace by Judge Allyn L. Brown in the New Haven superior court, following Delinsky's pleading guilty. The sentence was suspended as Delinsky claimed to have employment in New London. Delinsky, it is claimed, quarrelled with his wife several weeks ago and drawing a pistol, fired at her, but the bullet did not strike the woman. The couple have already arrived in New London to begin their matrimonial life anew.

There was no production of pictures at the Lyceum theatre this evening when "Hunting Headhunters," was scheduled to be produced. The reels for the films did not arrive. The showing of the pictures had been widely advertised.

But two cases of contagious disease in this city and vicinity were reported to the state department of health the past week. One case of measles was reported in New London and a case of diphtheria at Groton.

Dr. and Mrs. George M. Culver have returned to their home in Jersey City, N. J., having visited Mrs. Culver's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fitch L. Comstock of the Ye Faire Harbour apartments.

Two more New London automobile operators have been deprived the privilege of operating machines, for this afternoon Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel suspended the licenses of John Tobin of 4 Bulkeley place and Edwin F. Dunn of 35 Waller street.

Edward Belland, 46 Montauk avenue, and Carlisle White, of Broad street, will be in the police court tomorrow morning charged with violation of the automobile law as a result of the machine, owned by Mrs. Sarah Jane Phillips of 64 Bank street and operated by White colliding with an automobile operated by Joseph Greenough of 88 Ocean avenue, several days ago. The machine was a public service car and neither White nor Belland possessed a public service operator's license, although Belland did have a license to operate a pleasure car. What disposition will be made of the case, it is not known. Both White and Belland have been arrested before, White for intoxication and Belland for theft. Belland was arrested February 26th charged with the theft of spark plugs from B. Kosakow, a Bank street merchant and his case was continued until May 5th. When arrested by Sergeant Frank Howard, Ernest Cole was in company with Belland and his case is also scheduled for hearing next month. Both Belland and White are minors, each being 19.

A still alarm late yesterday caused the Thomas Hose company and Nameaug Engine company to be dispatched to the garage of Water & Wolfe, corner of Main and Richards street, where a quantity of oil that had been taken from motors and deposited in the street gutter became ignited by a passerby dropping a lighted cigar or cigarette in the fuel. The fire caused a great volume of smoke, but was extinguished in a brief time.

James E. Jeccy, gunner, stationed at the submarine base and Miss Winfred E. McNaughton of this city, were joined in wedlock yesterday afternoon, the nuptial ceremony being performed by Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth, pastor of the First Church of Christ, at the residence of the clergyman on Federal street.

MY DADDY

My daddy's awful funny.
Every time there's company
My mother says, "Now listen, pa, I wish for once you'd see
How well you can behave yourself
And not disgrace us all.
Just pretend the meal with dignity, and Help me when I call."
My daddy always promises, "I'll do my best."
And I can always see a funny twinkle in his eye.

And each of every one of us is seated in his place
And bows his head
And takes the plates before him and,
after saying grace,
He heaps the mashed potatoes with a spicy zeal upon the plate
And sprinkles no awful funny that I scarcely hesitate.
Then everybody laughs but ma, though
she, too, has to smile,
And then she says, "With such a man
how can you put on style?"

Sometimes my fatherhood mother tells me today on the sly,
She'd get a single soul to have a second piece of pie.
They haven't enough to serve, as they can plainly see."
And daddy always promises as faithfully
as he can be.
Then, yes! I guess his memory is small or awful poor,
For every time he's sure to ask the same as have some more.

Sometimes mother has an awful time to keep cool nice, for she's Scared to death someone will scream, "I think I will, yes, please."
But she can't ever gets a chance for, in the hubby way,
Each course, "Oh, I forgot! Ma says we can't have no more today."
I always laugh at that, but just the same
I secretly take for more;
And ma says later that she felt she'd sink right through the floor.

On common days we always eat out in the kitchen, where It's easier for mother, and we'd rather eat out here,
As they're company our cat comes in and begs
By purring loud and walking round and rubbing on our legs.
Then dad looks down at him and says,
"He eat is worried, dear;
He cannot understand it why we should be eating here."

Whenever he says that to mother she gets awful vexed
And says, "I wonder what on earth that man will think of next!"
Sometimes she gives my dad a kick,
and then he yells ou "Wow!
Why, mother, are you kicking me?
What have I done wrong now?"
The men folks always laugh at that but mother looks at me
And says she trembles when she thinks what kind of man I'll be.

When time comes for the folks to go,
the women and the men
Both keep repeating "Come see us" and
"Now, do come again."
As soon as daddy shuts the door he says, "Well, ma, I guess
They had a good time. Anyway, they know our street address."
Ma, suppress him quite sharply, "I think they surely do;
And when they want amusement they can come and look at you."

But dad pays no attention; with a kind of funny look
He always kisses her and says, "Gee, ma, but you're some cook!
There men were jealous of me; I could see it in their eyes."
I don't know why ma does it, but most every time she cries.
And then she puts her arm round
dad and sort o' heaves a sigh;
But I can't see what I can see—the twinkle in his eye.

THEIR WORRIES

She met him at the door and frowned.
Her heart was full of woe;
She was child of trouble, and
She freely told him so.
The gown that she had hoped to wear
Would not be done that night;
She fretted, and she fumed, and there
Were tears that blurred her sight.

She wanted him to sympathize;
Alas! the man sat down
As though there was no such a thing as
An uncompleted gown.
He merely gazed away at space
And twirled his thumbs, nor saw
The bitter tears that streaked her face.
Nor pended to care a straw

She left the heedless wretch and threw herself upon her bed.
And mourned that she was treated so
And sighed that she were dead.
"All men are selfish brutes," she sighed;
"Who neither think nor care!"
And with a breaking heart she cried
More than she could bear.

He sat and twisted his thumbs, and looked
At something far away.
Tomorrow there would be a note
They'd mail to him to pay.
A note for thousands more than he Could hope to steal or borrow.
Elsewhere alone, mistreated, she Kept pouring out her sorrow.

BE ON THE ALERT FOR HELPFUL SERVICE

Dear Sisters of the Social Corner: Glad to see so many nice letters in last week's paper, and especially from those who have not written lately. As our letters go forth from time to time we can never realize, by whom, or where, they may be read. However, the variety of subjects seem to find a place of interest and a welcome, scattered broadcast.

The experiment which we find on the Corner page last week, contributes one thought to be on the alert at all times, is helpful service to others. I am reminded of a little verse that I learned years ago, which means so much, in and between the lines.

This world is full of beauty,
As other worlds above,
If we would only do our duty,
It might be full of love.

So it is often the neglect to say the right word, at the right time that has prevented a ray of sunshine, but again, when just the smile or touch of a pleasing eye, has been received. Oh! how it helped at the supreme moment! It seems a very seldom disposition for any one to say that they do not ask any odds of anyone else, conveying the idea they do not care to be called upon for favors from others. We are none of us so wise as to know, what our failures or weaknesses will be sooner or later. Without any argument, we certainly are dependent on one another for mutual helpfulness in this field of life. The extras, outside the actual necessities, are what we are apt to observe the most. It requires much patience, with kindness, to converse with people who are hard of hearing to be obliged to repeat for their benefit, but those of us, who have normal hearing now may come to realize some later day that others must repeat for us, or we fail to understand. I have heard some people say they would not help a certain person, for they know it would not be appreciated, or not returned, but, the returns do come four-fold, from the least expected source. There was a time a few years ago, when I had two little boys to look out for and getting on or off trolley cars or on trains, it meant much to me if some person, angel handed, helped me a little. Aside from the conductors or train men, there is ample opportunity for others to give the helping hand. I especially notice these cases myself nowadays, for I realized what it means, and I find pleasure as well as duty.

Papa's Boy: Yes, I remember you very well at the picnic in June 1917, with the baby in your lap. Was pleased you reminded me of it. Thank you. Hope to meet you again at another pleasant gathering.

Sister L. H. K.: I appreciate your little note of reminiscence, and hope we may be partners again.

Kentucky Wonder: Thank you for the courtesy regarding my letter of March 1st.

I enjoy Trottie's letters from Florida. Can't we hear from North Dakota, or why not from Enid?

Best wishes to each and all.

JENNIE.

CLUB NO. 3 HAD FINE TIME

Dear Social Corner Members and Friends: No doubt many were disappointed not to see an account of the meeting of Club No. 3 in last Saturdays paper. That only carries out the old saying "what is everybody's business is nobody's."

We certainly had a fine time. As usual, men, women and children all seemed to enjoy it. So Mr. Foxglove don't wait for the summer picnics, but if you want to come to a Social Corner meeting just come to Club No. 3's.

After the blessing had been asked by the pastor of the church all sat down to tables loaded with good things and such a variety, baked beans escalloped potato, salads, meat loaf, pickles, rolls, pie, cake, doughnuts, cheese, coffee, oranges and music. One sister remarked she thought it would be a good plan to have the programme first as it was such hard work to sing after such a dinner. Then one of the hostesses had provided a number of humorous clippings from the paper which were read by different members. About 50 were present. There would have been a larger number but the town caucus was held that afternoon. Some of the sisters felt it was duty before pleasure and that they could not attend both. Others left the meeting in time to attend the caucus. We will hope at the April meeting there will be nothing to keep folks away, and the traveling should be good by that time.

I think one trouble with Lebanon is that there are so many things going on all the time that people get tired of going so much. I have had people from the city say to me, "Don't you find it so lonesome in the country winters" would like to have them try a few weeks here and see for themselves. Well winter is gone and I hope the sick and shutins may soon be able to get out of doors once more.

Will close with just a suggestion. I think it would be nice if the chairman would appoint some one at the meeting to write about it. In that way everyone can know that Club No. 3 is alive. Best wishes for the success of the Corner.

DORINDA.

GOOD CROWD, GOOD DINNER AND GOOD TIME

Dear Social Corner Sisters: Well, we had a good crowd, a good dinner and a good time, Wednesday, didn't we?

Bonie: We were all glad to see you back again. And that lovely fat baby was good as gold—wasn't he? The babies all seem to enjoy coming to the meetings, anyway, at least they never cry while there.

Bobby: How about it? Are we going to see that letter soon I'll be looking for it.

We also had quite an entertaining program, but am sorry to say it ended with quite a few "spicy" stories. We mustn't let that happen again. We all think too much of the Corner to lower the standard of it in any way.

One lady told me afterward she had intended bringing her daughter that day but was glad now she hadn't. And I hope the visitors we had that day won't form any wrong opinions of us, as I can assure them it was the first and only time I know of that anything of the sort has happened.

Of course the stories weren't bad or suggestive in any way, just plain vulgar.

And with all the jolly, fun loving women we have in our Corner we can surely get along without anything of that sort. Can't we? How about it sisters?

Your's for the good of the Corner.

TRIPLETS.

PLEASED WITH QUICK RESPONSE

Dear Social Corner Sisters: Just a line. It is half after eleven—time all good people were in bed. Have just returned from attending a lodge meeting where several candidates were given a chance to ride the goat. They did fine, all are safe and no bones broken. We had refreshments afterwards to help them forget their fears and they seemed to enjoy it all.

C. E. S., and Arin Teek: Please accept thanks for the remedy for warts. I am using both and it sure does the work. Now that's what I call a friendly act. It was so promptly and kindly given. It was worth a year's subscription to The Bulletin.

I was glad to see a letter from Mavis. Hope she will write again soon. Hope to see her and Twice Twenty, Just Me, and Maybe, all at the next meeting of the Social Corner.

What a mountain of pies Ma of Green Gables made! Wonder if she ever kept count of all the pies she baked in one year. Put them in a row and they would reach from her home to California. They are good pies too for I have sampled not one but ever so many in my young days. Of course they would grow better every day in the making with all the practice she has had.

I wonder if all the sisters do their washing on Monday. I don't. I like best to wash on Tuesday. Monday I straighten the house putting away things that have been used on Sunday. Our clothes for church have to be brushed and hung away, papers, magazines, toys, and other things that have been used to amuse, instruct and enjoy, all have to be put away making Monday a busy day. We shall all be busy very soon cleaning house, Sisters, it can be done without much trouble. Just take one room at a time, try to get that room done in one day's time of say nine hours and don't work overtime. It can be done and not upset the whole house. Some men folks don't like to see our rooms so upset. Just try and have it all in order when they are home.

I hope all the sisters are planning to enjoy the summer by a vacation of at least a few days.

I think our paper just the best in all the world. Why it couldn't be any better. It comes every day and very early in the day so one can know all that's going on. I like the way it handles news in a condensed form and keeping to the facts. I am sending a recipe for dark cocoa cake hope you will like it, also this little verse that for years has been in one corner of my mirror where I can always see it and wish I knew the name of the author. Perhaps some one does.

God hath not promised skies ever blue.
Flower strewn pathway always for you.
God hath not promised sun without rain
Joy without sorrow, peace without pain,
But God has promised strength from above
Unfailing sympathy, undying love

Dark Cocoa Cake: 1 cup sugar, 1 1-2 cups flour, 1 teaspoon soda sifted together. Break egg in cup, fill with sour milk, 1-2 cup cocoa, 1 tablespoon butter, 1-4 cup of hot water, put cocoa, butter and hot water together on stove and when hot put with other ingredients. Flavor, bake in loaf or layer.

Will close with best wishes for all the shut ins, the sick and all who are in trouble. May they all be restored to health and happiness is the wish of,

KINGSTON BROWN.

TWO RECIPES WANTED

Dear Editor and Social Sisters: Among the many letters we write probably not one of them is read by so many persons as when we address our Social Corner sisters and friends to be.

Some of us let them come free hand, to free the mind. While others write and rewrite and at last feel, the first was better than the last. So it goes forwarded for perchance to be. Sometimes really hurry and get busy quick when I know that the good sister has proved her labors and not copied it in the dark. I have heard so many say "I never have good luck."

I am wondering if some good sister could give us the directions for a Washington pie. The top and bottom being like a hot water sponge cake. Also a real good raise doughnut recipe.

Being acquainted with so many of the sisters, may I be numbered among you as,

AUNTIE BEE?

GREETINGS FROM RHODY LOUISE

Dear Editor and Sisters: I am going to write a few lines to let you know I am all right. I hope all are enjoying good health.

Kitty Lou: Hope you are all right. I would like to see your sisters garden but would rather see her.

Mr. Dooley: How are you? Are you interested in radio?

Aunt Sarah: I think your heliotrope tree must be lovely. When I go by next summer I hope I will see it.

Joan: I am in Rhode Island but some time when I am up to Connecticut would be glad to come and perhaps meet old friends and acquaintances.

Hope everybody will have a pleasant Easter. Best wishes to all.

RHODY LOUISE.

PLEASED WITH CARDS

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I'll just write a few lines although rather late to thank the sisters for the pretty birthday cards received. It's nice to receive cards from the sisters but it would also be nice to know who is who.

Best wishes to the Corner.

MIDGET.

GATHERING HEPATICA IN OTHER DAYS

Dear Social Corner Sisters: On reading Hepatica's letter a week ago Saturday, I am moved to reply, the letter, I hope, to be "short and sweet" this time, for I fear I took too much space with my last effort.

I wish I might talk with Hepatica and tell her of the sweet memories of childhood her name aroused.

What is more beautiful than the spring flowers? Where is there a fairer blue, a blue verging on purple? Where, a more soulful flower? May I say that I think your pen name well chosen Friend, Hepatica?

My childhood and youth were spent in a mill city about thirty miles from Boston. After a number of years spent in the heart of the city, my family moved into the suburbs. Rome was built on seven hills, I am told, but this city was built on three, great hills, so large that when you were on top of one of them you did not know you were on a hill unless you were at the point where the land began to fall away.

It was just at this point that we lived for three years, when I was from five to eight. Every Sunday, weather permitting, our father, a man devoted to his children and a lover of nature and all beautiful things, took his two little girls and baby boy for a country walk.

The view from the back of our house was beautiful. We was the Merrimac about a mile away, woods, mostly scrub pines, between, across the river, berry fields, a sort of low plateau raised above the river where parties went in the summer to spend the day, coming back with blue and huckleberries in large quantities. My ambition as a child to join one of these parties was never realized, but a shining pint pail given to me by my Aunt Martha was one of my valued possessions. My sister and I filled this pail from the big patch of bushes directly back of our fenced yard. I mention the fence because these picket fences were common at that time and are now, apparently, a thing of the past for keeps.

I am coming, though slowly, to the point of my letter.

Our Sunday walks were mainly in the direction of the river. There was between our house and the river a fascinating brook which we called "Sour" brook but which I learned later was really slow brook because a cow with a litter of pigs was found there dead.

Crossing this brook on stepping stones the pleasant brown water beneath, the sandy bottom showing, pebbly and rock strewn, was one of the pleasures of the walk.

As spring advanced, we went always to Carlton's gulley where a tiny stream flowed through steep and narrow banks into the lovely Merrimac.

On the banks of the gully, banks so steep as to seem almost dangerous to our childish vision, grew hepatica and bloodroot. We always found there these two, but by no means profusely. Gathering everyone we could spy out with the bright eyes of childhood we had among us only a dainty bunch which was always put in an egg cup of delicate china, the remnant of my mother's wedding china, I believe. Anyway we had come on days when we had to make out with coarser dishes, coarse and less easily broken than this delicate creamy cup which had survived to be a receptacle for these dainty first visitors of the blithe springtime.

I am going to stop not even waiting to ask Hepatica of she knows where to find her name-flower in Norwich, for now-a-days, our page is filled to overflowing and I don't want to outwrite my welcome. Au revoir!

THE MUCH USED SEVEN

Dear Corner Sisters: Howdy this nice morning! How many know the different uses of the number seven? Seven is frequently used as a symbolical number in the Bible, as well as among the principal nations, such as the Persians, Indians, Egyptians, Greeks Romans, etc. In the Bible we have the creation completed in seven days. Every seventh year was the Sabbatic year, and seven times seven ushered in the jubilee. We have the seven altars, seven green witches, seven locks, seven troubles, seven eyes which are the seven spirits of God who is the perfect holy spirit, and we have the seven years itch. In light we have the seven prismatic colors which make the pure white light. We have seven sleepers, seven wise masters, seven wise men of Greece, Bias Cleobulus, Chilo, Pitticus, Periander, Solon and Thales. We have the seven wonders of the world. First, the pyramids of Egypt, second, the tomb built for Mausolus, King Caria, by Arthimisia his Queen; third, the temple of Diana at Ephesus, supposed to have been 220 years in building. It was supported by 127 columns of Parian marble, 60 feet high, each weighing 140 tons; fourth, the walls and hanging Gardens of Babylon; fifth, the Colleosis at Rhodes, a bronze statue of Apollo 70 cubits high; sixth, the statue of Jupiter at Olympia in Ellis, sculptures in ivory and gold by Fidlias, the most eminent among the ancients; seventh, the Pharos or watch tower at Alexandria, built by order of Philadelphus about 280 years before Christ of white marble and could be seen at the distance of 100 miles.

We have the seven dolours of the Virgin Mary. It is a feast in the Catholic church and while it bears the name of devotion to the Virgin Mary, it is in reality those incidents in the life and passion of Christ with which his mother is most closely associated. The seven incidents are as followd: First, the prediction of Simeon; second, the flight into Egypt; third, the loss of Jesus in Jerusalem; fourth, the sight of Jesus bearing his cross towards the Calvary; fifth, the sight of Jesus nailed upon the cross; sixth, the piercing of His side with the lance; seventh, His burial.

I wish to thank all who sent me St. Patrick's day cards, too numerous to mention for lack of space.

Kitty Lou: Are you the guilty one writing for Miss L. Now I know several by that name but of different addresses. Which one is this card intended to be from?

CRIMSON RAMBLER.

BIG SHOWER OF CARDS AND REMEMBRANCES

Dear Editor, Social Corner Sisters and Friends: As it would cover too much space to mention all the names of those who kindly remembered me on my birthday with cards and letters I will here thank you all through the Corner page. I certainly enjoyed them all and looked forward all the week before the 23rd and there never came a mail to the house that I didn't receive something. I certainly had a lot of nice birthday wishes from all my friends and I wish they might come true.

I received 70 cards, lots of letters of sympathy from friends I have not seen for years and I also received quite a few nice gifts from my friends who live so far away they could not be with me in person, but would be with me in spirit, which makes it seem almost as if I had seen them. There was a time about three months ago when I never expected to see another birthday but here I am. I was taken sick November 5 and have not been downstairs since. I go out in the hall but not any farther. They say I have a weak heart and stairs are bad for it. But it gets so monotonous here in my room. It was five months yesterday since I was out on the street. They tell me State is changing so I will need a pilot if I ever do get out.

I forgot to mention that one morning I received 28 pieces of mail at one delivery which astonished the people here and at the postoffice.

One day last week I received a call from a Social Corner sister, Stranger in the City. She said she was here for medical treatment and would drop in to see me again soon. I used to know some of her people in North Stonington years ago but never met her before.

Aunt Sarah: I thank you for suggesting the shower of cards. I wish you would come to see me when you come down to see your mother.

Belinda: I certainly do remember pop corn and the potatoes. But weren't they good? Wish I had some now.

Fritzie: I thank you for your sympathy. I am gaining strength, but only go out in the hall. You surely have my sympathy. I wish you would send me your address. You say your home is in New London. What hospitals are you in? I should like to hear direct from you.

Best wishes for the Corner.

DOM PEDRO.

A GOAL TO AIM FOR

Dear Social Corner Friends: I still have my hat off to you Kentucky Wonder for your kind words in the Corner in regard to my letters and hope I may improve as time goes on. While I do not piece bedquilts and am not cleaning house I hope to write some little item of interest to help fill the Corner page. The month for blowing off hats in gone and let us hope the spring time will soon be here with the song bird and the early flowers in bloom.

Crimson Rambler: You must have missed one copy of The Bulletin of March 28th, which will explain why the bedquilt piecing letter also the Moosup meeting was credited to me which should have been Rural Aunty. How we miss many of the old writers. Potlatch, of the far west, let us hear from you. Glenwood's weekly letters are always welcome, and many others we sadly miss, who have passed on the journey we all must travel sooner or later. The young writers are doing fine and will never let the Corner die. It will soon be spring time and everything coming to life and let us hope the Social Corner will come out like a new flower the coming spring with a crop of the best writers there is in New England. The old saying is that printers ink makes men think. It also makes the sister of the Corner think of something to write to interest the many readers of The Bulletin. It is time to ring off with best wishes to all from RURAL DELIVERY.

A CLEVER ARRANGEMENT

Dear Editor and Social Cornerites: There is a little device I have to help me in mending and darning. In the right broad arm of the rocker in which I sit my husband has bored a hole one-half inch in diameter near the front in which I drop my scissors. Now I always have them near me.

I have also had two holes placed in the right hand side of my sewing machine, one being a little larger for the heavy cutting out scissors. They are a convenience. Back of the machine hanging on the wall is a large black stocking cat filled with pins and needles of all sizes and kinds.

Got a lovely Easter card from C. R. The last lines of L. H. K.'s writing is lovely and true. He faileth never. No one is ever poorer by giving to a worthy cause or person. Got a nice card from L. H. K. Wonder who she is.

BANISH PETTY THINGS

Dear Social Corner Editor and Sisters: The art of remembering is a blessed art—but the art of overlooking is quite as important. I am quoting the above from some one, but I don't know who, but I know I have read it somewhere. If we should take time to write down the origin of the progress and outcome of a few of our troubes it would make us so ashamed of the fuss we make over them that one should be glad to drop such things and bury them at once in eternal forgetfulness.

Life is too short to be worn out in petty things like worries, fretting, hatred and vexations. Let us banish all of them and think of whatsoever things are pure and lovely and gentle and of good report.

ETHELYN.

CLUB NO. 1 MEETS THE NINTH

Dear Social Corner Editor and Sisters: What a mess of snow for the third of April. Hope it will be gone before next Wednesday, our Social Corner day, the 9th, so all can come.

Bring plate, cup, fork and spoon and something to eat, as usual and we will try and have a good time.

ALFAKA.

MORE FLORIDA ATTRACTIONS

Dear Corner Sisters: In my very last letter I told you I would write about Ponce de Leon Springs. As Dr. Mulley of the Stetson university described them in an address at their opening recently, I am going to send that along.

He said:

"Here in Volusia county Fla., we have one of nature's most wonderful handiworks. Boiling up from unseen subterranean caverns more than thirty million gallons of water rush out as though a mighty Niagara somewhere under ground was the source of supply. Very likely in the hills of Tennessee or Georgia one must look for the reservoirs that supply the subterranean rivers of this fairy land.

Florida is the land of enchantment. Some magician waved his wand over her in the beginning and forthwith she bloomed with palms and wild orange trees and all the beautiful flowers and pines and ferns and live oaks and grasses and gum trees and other beautiful plants that carpet the earth and trees that raise their foliage to dust the skies.

DeLeon Springs was not left out of the magician's enchantment. Here he did his best to combine the beauty's of nature with health giving waters in a tract of woodland where the birds make their nests, the wild creatures of the woods dig their furrows and man comes in search of the healing giving waters of the spring.

On the second expedition of Columbus to the new world Ponce De Leon, a grandee of Spain, was one of his companions. This man spent some time on the island of Portorico, the capital of which bears his name. An Indian there, told him of the healing waters in the land to the north and west. Setting sail Ponce De Leon came to this peninsula. He landed at a spot which late became St. Augustine. It was near near Easter and so the name of Florida was given to this peninsula.

Sailing up the St. Johns river still in search of the healing waters he came in due time to this very spring. To him it was the end of the rainbow and a pot of gold was at the bottom of it. The old grandee gave the spring his own name by right of discovery and it has continued to bear it to this day.

The country all around here is rich in Indian and Spanish traditions. On the ridge just above us the Indians had their village. These were their "happy hunting grounds." Down this river they fished. In these woods they hunted. On these hills they pitched their wigwams and held their Indian council. Arrow heads are found around here in quantity. Specimens of pottery of Indian make have been found and remains of boats built out of logs from these forests.

The Spaniards took the land away from the Indians. They brought from the old world bricks and machinery to construct mills and later made their own bricks from Florida clay. The Spaniards held the country for two hundred and seventy years. The history of that period has never been published in English. It is buried in reports made by pious monks to the heads of their order in Spain and in reports made by the governor of this peninsula to the official head of new Spain whose capital was the city of Mexico. From Mexico these reports were sent home to Spain. They lie buried in the archives of Saville Madrid and other places. The Florida Historical Society has set itself the task of digging out this original source of material for publication.

England then got hold of Florida giving Cuba in exchange for it to Spain. England brought the Minorcans who cleared the land above this spring. Who built a corduroy road which lead all the way to Savannah. Fragments of that road still exist. They cut out wild orange trees to make a clearing for Indigo plants.

The Indians drove the English out and held this locality till the Seminole war came on. The Dade massacre belongs to this war. One result of it was the clearing out of the Indians from this country.

After this the owners of the tract sold it to a man named Tom Stark, who paid for it with fifty negro women. It is singularly interesting to notice that not only have gold and silver been money but corn, potatoes and cotton have been money and in this case fifty negro women were money. This was a common occurance all through the Spanish new world and belonged to that period of the world's history almost everywhere.

At the time of the civil war the mill at DeLeon Springs was a source of supply to the southern armies and a force of Union troops got in and destroyed it.

Best wishes to the Corner.

E. M. R. C. P.

EASTER SALE.

Dear Social Corner Friends: Just now I am very busy getting ready for an Easter sale, and as time and tide wait for no one I must make my fingers fly faster than I have since I started to plan for the sale. There is much pleasure in making the fancy articles, such as pin cushions, crocheted yokes, lunch sets, guest towels and pillow slips, as each article must have a basket of flowers in cross stitch or French knots.

Why can't we all make some article in this line for different clubs as Mayfare suggested and that would help to fill the treasury? I have samples of crocheted edging which I would be willing to send. Who would care for them? It only takes a few minutes to make a sample. I think Mary Gusta suggested having a Social Corner needlework book. I think that would be just what the sisters would like. If Primrose had returned from her outing will she let us hear from her in reply to the suggestions.

SATURDAY EVE.

SINCERITY

Dear Social Corner Sisters: The question, What characteristics do you admire most in a woman? was asked at a social evening and a man very promptly replied, "Sincerity."

When the rich men of Rome were building costly marble mansions along the Tiber, they vied with one another in the magnificence and value of their construction. The best of marble was selected, but sometimes even in the best, there would be tiny niches, or cracks, small in themselves. Yet they detracted from the magnificence of these mansions, the owner of which wanted nothing less than perfection. When the contractors came across blocks of marble with tiny bits knocked out, what were they to do? Throw out these blocks? That would cut down their profits.

So a very fine wax was used to fill in the broken places so that the imperfections might escape detection. True, the wax would wear out in time, and then the flaw would be apparent. "But it will last for years," the contractors said. But the owners objected. So when they made a contract with a builder for the erection of a mansion the words "Sine Cera" were included, which means "without wax". That would safeguard the owner and guarantee perfection. "Sine Cera" It was not enough that the marble should appear perfect; not enough that the wax should conceal the flaw "Sine Cera."

And it is from these two words that our word "Sincere" has come. It means that things are just as they seem: that there are no hidden imperfections. It means the building is without wax. How lightly we write in our letters "Sincerely yours", and how lightly we speak of it, when we say, "I am sincere!" It means that our building is just what it seems. Our aims, our intentions, our hopes, our affections and our plans are just as we have set them down. They are without wax."

There are sometimes "little niches" in our characters that we think can be safely covered over, waxed, so that all seem smooth and perfect. But seeming is not sincerity. It will not do. The block of marble with the tiny flaw must be set aside. Our building must be as nearly perfect as we can make it.

Sincere, means more than a formal ending for our letters. Everytime we write it—every time we say it, knows the "eye of our heart," should come a vivid picture of our building. Is it sine cera?

U. C. R.: Come anytime. Welcome. This is sine cera.

HELPFUL SUGGESTIONS BY WINNIE.

Dear Editor and Social Corner: Someone said that advice is an acceptable gift but I gave my advice and it was not accepted. I advised two English sparrows which began to build their nest last January not to build so early. There have been but a very few days since then that they did not come and look after their home. The female bird sits on the rest and the male bird does not dare to come near; if he does she pecks him and talks in bird language very angry as much as to say "Do not bring any more straw. Our nest is all ready."

This last snow did not bother them. The nest is in a broken pipe within two feet of my window. They do not seem to mind me: they don't care if I watch them. I have fed them all winter.

Selinda: Try this for cramps: Upon retiring tie a piece of cloth, quite tight below the knee. I have known it to help. Perhaps it is an old fashioned whim but all old fashioned things are coming in style again.

To get rid of warts take one-half olive oil and one-half kerosene. Rub freely. I have known it to cure them. Castor oil has cured them, too, but I never tried it.

Children like so many changes in their lunches that I am suggesting a few kinds of sandwiches, such as sweet pickle, sardines, tomato and onion, fig filling, beef, veal loaf, mustard, chili sauce, lobster, fig, lettuce, nut filling, peanut butter, ribbon, onion, cheese, cheese olive, roquefort cheese, chopped hard egg, chopped meat and pickles, chopped nuts and dates, chopped olives and celery, chopped ripe olives and walnuts, chopped cheese and pimento, sliced ham and mustard, sliced beef and dill pickle, chopped chicken tomato, cubed cucumber and radishes. These last ten can all be used with salad dressing if desired, except the ham and mustard, beef and dill pickle.

Children do not like their food cooked too much. Much good food is spoiled in cooking. In order to have good results in cooking reliable recipes should be followed accurately. Correct measurements are absolutely necessary to insure successful results. Here is a good time table for baking, the figures referring to minutes: Muffins, 12 to 25; ginger bread, 25 to 45; baking powder biscuits, 12 to 15; cookies, 6 to 15; layer cake, 12 to 20; raised biscuits, 12 to 30; loaf cake, 40 to 60; white bread, 45 to 60; rye bread, 60; beaten bread, 45 to 60.

These hints may help some of the young housekeepers.

As ever,

WINNIE.

"HAPPY RETURNS" TO APRILITES

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: Just a few lines to wish each and every sister who has a birthday in April many happy returns. I wish I had all your addresses to send a personal message but as long as I have not I will take this way of letting you know I think of you all.

Just been over to Whirlwind's to tea, hubby and I, and we also listened to a concert on the radio.

Am sorry to say we can't visit No. 1 this month as I have to take four delegates to the state convention in New London that day, but we will try Oh so hard to be with you in May on the 14th. I have a birthday the 10th and Free Air the 12th, also Necia. So we must meet and say "Howdy."

I am going to try the recipe for hot cross buns one of the sisters sent in two weeks ago and I hope they will be as nice as those were we had at Club No. 2 last month.

How is Dom Pedro? Can anyone tell me as I have seen nothing about her in the Social Corner lately? I hope all the sisters and their families are well.

Crimson Rambler: Your card received and many thanks. Yes, the address is right and Stonington was the town you could not read.

Joan: I certainly enjoyed your long letter and trust by this time you have received mine. The folks you speak of live in Mildale. It is Clyde Ray instead of Charlie Ray.

Mayfayre: I see you too have muddy roads out your way. Wish you could see ours. Can't keep my sedan in my own garage till the road dries. So rather than not use it this nice weather I keep it in the barn of one of my neighbors.

Twice Twenty: When are you going to venture to the Social Corner again? Whirlwind and I both would like to see you again.

Must stop writing and give some one else a place too in the Social Corner columns. Am so glad to see everybody helping. Good night.

FOXGLOVE.

ENJOYS LETTERS

Dear Social Corner Sisters: Did you get fooled by the editor? I read the Corner page of the Courier over, and it was fine. So much valuable information, turned to page four, looked over everything on the page, turned the page over and over, but "nothing doing." No more Social Corner news did I find. I was quite disappointed as I do enjoy every letter so much.

I happened to glance at the date of the paper, April 1st and I concluded I had been April fooled, a good joke.

It made me think of the skunk on the Corner page last fall. Am wondering how many were able to go to the meeting of Club No. 2 at Buckingham Memorial Wednesday. Some snow storm.

Best wishes for the Corner.

MAVIS.

(In the making up of the Courier the last part of the final letter in the Corner page was unfortunately omitted. It was a mistake and not intended. S. C. Editor.)

CAPTURING IDEAS

Dear Social Corner Editor and Social Corner Sisters: I think I have tried to answer the sisters questions too quickly in other words I have been too previous.

I think it quite easy if you have an idea to put it on paper, but you know a great many times we can't think of one idea, we've got to range around for different ones. We are like the old woman that Horace Henry

UNCLE JOHN STUDIES ENGLISH

Sarah says I mustn't say ain't any more for there ain't—Oh shucks! I mean because there are not, am not. Oh dear, none of those sound right. Well any way that word don't appear in the dictionary. There I think I slid out of that pretty neat.

Sarah is doing some studying this winter so when Mrs. Social Hopper invites us over to her house she can talk like the other women.

For the life of me I cannot see why Mrs. Social Hopper invites us for I was never out out for society, but if it makes Sarah happy, I suppose I shall have to endure it. Sarah is pretty smart, she used to teach school, so I guess she can fit in all right but as for me I don't believe I can ever learn to talk their language. There is too much hah de dah in it; but to please Sarah I will try and learn what not to say even if I cannot learn what to say.

It sure makes me feel silly though when I am introduced to one of those swell society dames and she takes a pair of glasses hitched onto the end of a long stick and looks me up and down like I am a horse she is going to buy and she is looking for spavins or blind staggers or something.

Then there was an Englishman at one of Mrs. Social Hopper's swea-rs; when I was introduced to him he put the end of a telescope in one eye and held his hand up so high that though he wanted me to kiss it, but I'll be darned if I would; and he said: "Chawmed, don cher know," and I said, "just so, just so, Mr."

Oh dear, Sarah says I mustn't say darned any more, either. Now I thought I was being real polite and ladylike when I said darn and gee whiz instead of the he man swear words I feel like saying. I don't see any way to relieve my feelings except to go out and chop wood.

But if Sarah expects me to learn all the English I heard at one of the blue jay and barn swallow parties I went to I am afraid she will be disappointed. I heard a couple of the young fellows talking and this is the conversation as near as I can remember it.

"Hello, kiddo, how's everything and what do you know?"

"Oh, so so, and I don't know nothing."

"Oh boy look at what's coming. Isn't she the giraffe's cocktie?"

"Yeah, but look at the lemon with her. Isn't he the elephant's trunk?"

"Tas, but I suppose she thinks he is the cat's pajamas."

Help, help! Throw me a life preserver. I am drowning in a flood of words." What an amazing "dumbblasted, ding-foozled" language our English is and it is such we are handing our babies with their botties. And if you don't believe the preceding sentence is modern, up to date language just read the Sunday papers and see how behind the times you are.

One day I was sitting on the porch reading and resting when Sarah came out and said, "Don't sit still too long, John, or you will be afflicted with embonpoint." I dropped my paper and asked her if she was sick or had been out in the sun bareheaded. She said, "Of course not, why do you ask?" I said she was making such a funny noise I was afraid her mind was affected. She said that funny noise was a polite Frenchman's way of saying, "You are too fat."

But, say, you will get fooled on that word for it don't sound like it looks. It sounds like a Chinese sewer society. I looked through all the first part of the dictionary before I found it.

I am really learning quite a lot though, but I am having a hard enough time with English with out trying French too, so, I wish when Sarah wants to use French words she would practice on someone else besides me, for I ain't (oh, drat that pesky word anyway) I mean I am not quite up to French yet. If Sarah piles this language business on too fast I shall have dyspepsia of the brain.

IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

The love of the out of doors gripped the fishermen of Norwich just as strongly in 1874 as it does today and April 1st found many out seeking a catch of trout. No large catches were reported however.

News for the week interesting people a half century ago in part follows:

Monday, March 30, 1874—With the arrival of spring fishermen will soon be out whipping the streams around Norwich in hopes of landing record catches. The biggest catch of pickerel reported was made yesterday. This local party landed a pickerel weighing nine and one half pounds and it is now on exhibition on Main street.

At a meeting of the Baptist Ecclesiastical society held last evening at the Central Baptist church the following officers were elected; President, L. W. Carroll; vice president, Edward Ray; clerk, John H. Powelson; treasurer, John C. Perkins; society committee, Charles F. Setchell, James A. Brown, James H. Arnold. Seats are to be sold on April 8th.

A Voluntown charcoal man came into the city yesterday with a horse so shadowy and debilitated that when he arrived at Franklin Square he had to prop it up between two teams to enable it to stand and eat its dinner.

Tuesday, March 31, 1874—Attention has been called to the extensive carriage manufactory of Hilton & Bidwell on Bath street. This firm have now on hand as extensive a line of carriages, phaetons, and business wagons as ever presented in this city. Besides these they are manufacturing several beautiful carriages for local people and they anticipate an increased business during the coming months.

A number of local people who have seen the Bible at Noank, which is over 150 years old, pronounce the printing to be in a wonderful state of preservation.

Norwich people who know John Maher are pleased to learn that he has been awarded the contract to build the passenger depot at New Haven.

Four of the halibut fleet arrived in New London yesterday, all reporting big catches. Other boats of the fleet are expected daily.

Wednesday, April 1, 1874 — The dummy, that dreadful thing which caused the horses of Norwich to act as though possessed of an evil spirit was shipped out of town yesterday, and from now on the travelling public must be content with the horse railroad. In Newark, where horses are not so much afraid, the Dummy will at last find peace.

The Jewett City savings bank has declared a dividend of 5 per cent, making a divident of 6 1-2 per cent declared during the twelve months just passed.

There was a meeting of the members of the Reading Room committee last evening at the office of the mayor, when it was voted to continue the room for another year. About $300 has been subscribed to the fund for the Reading Room and it is hoped the public will use the room more than in the past.

The number of paying visitors at the state prison last year was 6,000 bringing in a revenue of $600.

Thursday, April 2, 1874—Mrs. G. R. Mantor has opened an up-to-date laundry on Franklin street, one which ranks with the best in the country. The building is devided into three sections, one each for washing, ironing and starching, and prices have been made far below the ordinary.

At the C. B. Rogers company plant they have a cat which stays downstairs in the engine room until the whistle blows. Then she takes her tail in her arms and walks upstairs where the men are eating their meals. When filled she returns to her old stand.

The itinerant lotterymen have appeared and have set up their delusion tables at street corners downtown.

W. W. Kinne fell and broke his leg yesterday when he slipped on the icy sidewalk in front of the store of E. A. Bill on Water street.

Adam C. Roach was instantly killed yesterday when struck by a train near Spooney lane in Greeneville. Pieces of bloody clothing found on the train led people to search for his body, and the mutilated remains were found shortly afterwards.

Charles Prentice, 2d, has been appointed agent of the Norwich & New York Transportation company in New London.

The three masted schooner Uncas arrived yesterday at New London from Porto Rico. Her cargo comprises sugar and molasses much of which is for Norwich dealers.

The meanest man in the world lives not far from Norwich. This man borrowed $500 from a friend, now has $15,000, yet refuses to pay back the amount he borrowed.

Friday, April 3, 1874—Charles D. Noyes, formerly with Safford & Co., and George A. Davis are soon to open business in the store formerly occupied by H. Bishop on Main street. They will make their stand a general news office and depot for stationery and school books, and with their well known reputation for energy and enterprise are bound to succeed.

The arrival of a big yacht in the harbor yesterday afternoon, followed by the sound of guns led people to believe the British were attacking the city.

B. C. Rand, one of the most popular conductors on the New London Northern road has resigned his position to take a similar position with the Cincinnati, Sandusky & Cleveland road in Ohio. George T. Benedict, formerly superintendent of the New London Northern road is general manager of that division on the C. S. & C. R. R.

Theodore Raymond and M. L. Parker were first and second representatives, respectively, at the Democratic caucus held last evening in the town hall.

Saturday, April 4, 1874—Col. Selden called the republican caucus to order last evening in the town hall and the caucus speedily nominated Allen Tenny, first representative and Will. R. Austin, second representative. The justices were also appointed at the meeting after which adjournment was taken.

Capt. Jerome Williams will return from the Pacific coast tomorrow and immediately take his post as captain of the City of Boston, which boat arrived here yesterday.

The pleasant weather yesterday gave a fine start to the great sport of boating on the Thames, and numerous parties were out during the day. The only thing that in any way marred the day was a slight snow squall at noon, just a reminder that winter is not very far away as yet.

Banks and many local stores were closed yesterday, Fast Day. Those not closing all day stopped doing business at noon.

Two Groton cows which were sent to New London by ferry yesterday caused no little trouble. They became frightened and butted several people, one man who became too venturesome performing several acrobatic stunts before landing in the harbor.

SOCIAL CORNER

Turner tells about. He says, "I saw an old woman trying to catch a goose. There was a big flock of geese waddling leisurely along. She made a dash into the midst of them missing her victim of course. The flock scattered in all directions and she began to chase them making at one goose then at another, until the flock had ceased to be a flock, having flown hither and yon, and she dropped down out of breath and out of reach of them all." If the old woman had known goose nature a little, she would have picked out her goose, then quietly maneuvered it into a corner by itself and stayed with that one goose until she had run it down.

The same thoughts and ideas. In running down best thoughts on writing for the Social Corner, too many of us are like the woman. We see a whole flock of thoughts, we drive into them and chase first one then another. We never capture a good idea because we don't pick out one we wish to pursue and then run it down. If we run the ideas down one at a time disturbing the flocks as little as possible in the process we will capture a fine lot of choice ones.

Then of course the next thing to do after capturing a goose or an idea before going after another, is to put it in a pen where it can not escape—while you are chasing the others. "Notes" are pens for "ideas," just as coops are pens for the "geese."

CORN COBS FOR STARTING FIRE

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: We have been having such a nice lot of letters lately, I think it makes us all rejoice. I wonder sometimes at the editors generosity in giving us so much space instead of limiting us to a certain amount. I did enjoy that little poem about the crocus, that Palmleaf sent last week.

I wonder if Wee Wifie ever tried using corn cobs to build a coal fire. I am an expert in letting my coal fire go out but when I have some cobs I don't mind as it is no trouble to start a new fire. After cleaning out the stove I just put in some paper, some dry chips, a layer of cobs—and then some coal, then light the paper and in a short order I have a nice coal fire again. I use nut coal. I don't know how it would work with the coarser grade.

Judging by Kentucky Wonder's name she must know beans. Of course she will be welcome in Club No. 4. We have been wondering who she is, and where she lives, but she certainly succeeded in not making her identity known.

Hope Bee True will send in another of her interesting letters about South Dakota. Am sure we all enjoyed it very much. Have you ever started that book about the pilgrims of the middle west? Twice Twenty's gaing cream of wheat for butter made me think of the time I flavored a cake with some kind of medicine but as it was harmless and tasted good the cake was eaten just the same.

EASTER COSTUMES

READY NOW — GLORIOUSLY COLORFUL

Every Lovely Mode of the New Season Is Featured In Our Display.

Delightfully individual and distinctively fashion right are the Easter modes as expressed by the garments with which our Apparel Shop is filled. The urge of Spring is at no time felt so forcefully as in the demand for the brilliant apparel for Easter, and at no time have we been in better position to show such beautiful garments as now.

Select The Coat, The Suit, or The Frock Now!

Handsome Coats and Wraps—$19.75 to $85.00

Graceful Coats and Wraps for Spring wearing have been developed in many picturesque designs, and at numerous smart gatherings there have been shown evidences that the lovely Flamingo, Teddy Bear and Velvetone weaves, soft downy wools, are the most in favor. Fine Poiret Twill, too, are greatly in demand. You should see them—you cannot fail to be interested.

Suits Which Are Smart and Trim — $29.50 to $59.75

A suit, of course, for Easter. These of this Spring flatter—add flavor to the season's fashion, and bring comfort in their chic simplicity. Mannish effects, the double-breasted in particular, made of fine Poiret Twill have received much attention and are very interesting. Vogue says "suits for Spring."

CHARMING FROCKS

SILK, OF COURSE

$14.75 to $59.75

Many New and Pleasing Conceits

Color is the keynote of the Spring symphony. The new Powder Blue and Almond Green are more than pleasing, and many shades of tan being very prominently in the foreground. Navy and Black, too, suitable for all occasions are shown in great numbers, with many smart beaded models for dinner or evening wear. This season's frocks are very wearable.

SMART BLOUSES

$5.95 to $13.95

Swagger, Mannish Overblouses, in all the shades of Spring, emphasize the long, slender lines which fashion demands. With the new collar, and their long sleeves they are very stunning for wear with the Spring Suits.

Skirts With Character

$4.95 to $12.50

Interest in sports has made the place of the skirt a very prominent one. Tweeds, fancy plaids and Roshanara silk come in for much favorable mention, in wrap-around and pleated models. All very smart with the new sweaters.

Handsome New Sweaters of Unusual Design $2.95–$12.50

THE FASCINATING MILLINERY MODES

Many Exquisite Models From $5.00 Upward

No longer does Fashion say, "this way shall it be, and no other." You may suit your own taste, and consult your own individual requirements, as to shape, size and color. Of course, the little cloche shape is most strongly in favor, and narrow, closely turned up brims are seen on every hand, but the large ones, too, are many in number and very beautiful.

THE VIVID COLORS OF SPRING ARE CHARMING AND OUR EXHIBIT IS WORTHY OF YOUR INSPECTION.

ECHOES FROM THE LODGE ROOMS

DAUGHTERS OF AMERICAN REVOLUTION.

In her report at the 31st annual state conference of the Daughters of the American Revolution, held at Hartford, the state regent, Mrs. Charles H. Bissell, said that 34 new chapters had been organized since the last annual meeting. That the state membership had increased from 5,930 to 6,016. She spoke with feeling of the late Mrs. John Holcomb of Hartford, who for 18 years was caretaker of the Ellsworth Memorial Home. She said that $3,172.10 had been raised for the Sarah Thompson Kinney memorial and in reporting the work of the various chapters, said that Eve Lear chapter had made a gift of some valuable papers to the national library and that the largest amount spent by any chapter in restoration, was by the Norwalk chapter which spent $144.39 in restoring the old town house. She also said that seven chapters had located 134 new graves of Revolutionary soldiers.

A number of resolutions pertaining to the stand the D. A. R. should take against socialism, communism, etc., were introduced. The only one permitted the press was as follows: "Resolved: That we, the representatives of six thousand Connecticut Daughters of the American Revolution in annual state conference, assembled, March 27th and 28th, 1924, do affirm their faith in Calvin Coolidge, president of the United States, and express their profound admiration for his honesty, his sane common sense, his patriotism and his courage under all circumstances, but more especially under the present trying circumstances and scandal and political hysteria.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS.

Plans are now nearly completed for the Easter holy communion and the communion breakfast for White Cross Council, Knights of Columbus. Members will go in a body to St. Patrick's church at 7.30 o'clock to attend service and there is to be special music during the mass by a choir composed of members of the council.

Immediately following the service at St. Patrick's church the council will proceed to the Wauregan House where the communion breakfast will be served. The council will be addressed by former Congressman Augustine Lonergan of Hartford, his subject to be the Work of the Diocesan Bureau and the St. Vincent de Paul Society. In his address Mr. Lonergan will explain the importance of laymen taking an active interest in the work of these organizations. During the breakfast there will be special music and singing.

It is expected that the church service and breakfast will be largely attended and plans have been made to accommodate all who desire to attend.

PATRONS OF HUSBANDRY.

Six tables were playing when the Norwich grange pinochle afternoon was held Wednesday at the home of Mrs. William S. Murray, 70 Prospect street, and those to take the prizes were Mrs. Edward Crowell, fern basket and fern; Mrs. George Stevens, embroidered towel; Mrs. George Breen, silver pepper and salt shaker; Mrs. Winslow Murdock, consolation, powder puff doll. The date for the next meeting was left undetermined.

When Norwich grange, No. 172, meets next Wednesday evening in Steiner hall the third and fourth degrees are to be conferred on a class and the meeting will be preceded by a supper for the members at 6.30. The lecturer's hour will be occupied by Professor Charles Wheeler of Storrs who will speak upon Fraternity.

JUNIOR AMERICAN MECHANICS.

Buckingham Council, No. 14, met at Buckingham Memorial Wednesday evening, April 2. Regular routine of business was transacted followed by a social hour, including a snappy boxing match put on by the order. The council expects to go to New London to visit Roosevelt Council soon.

V. F. W. AUXILIARY.

The regular meeting of K. E. Houlgran Auxiliary, V. F. W., was held on Wednesday evening in the post rooms in the Venice building, with Vice President Mrs. Elizabeth Kendrick presiding. Business of importance was transacted. Members of the sick committee reported on visits to the ex-service men in the institutions.

REBEKAHS

Hope Rebekah Lodge, No. 21, met Wednesday evening at Odd Fellows' hall with Noble Grand Mary Adams in the chair. Routine business was transacted after which practically all the forty members present signified their intentions of visiting Violet Rebekah lodge of Willimantic on April 16th. The Rebekah State Assembly is to take place at Willimantic on that day and a special program has been arranged for the evening session. The trip will be made by automobile.

DAUGHTERS OF VETERANS

Clara Barton Tent, No. 7, held its regular business meeting in Buckingham Memorial Tuesday evening. The meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. Genie Evans. One application for membership was accepted. General Orders No. 4, were read. The president, Mrs. Evans, in behalf of the tent, presented Buckingham Memorial a new flag. Orrin M. Price, commander of Sedgwick Post, G. A. R., accepted the gift in behalf of the post, and thanked the members of the Tent.

The members of the Tent meet in the Buckingham Memorial for a sewing session on the afternoon of each meeting night, basket lunches being in order. The Tent is planning a baked bean supper to be held in the near future. There were fourteen present at the meeting, including Commander Orrin M. Price. The meeting was brought to a close with the salute to the flag.

MACCABEES

The W. B. A. of the Maccabees held their regular meeting Wednesday evening at Buckingham Memorial with Commander Mrs. C. Eckstein in the chair, and the records of the last meeting were read and accepted.

District Deputy Miss E. Hass of Hartford was a visitor and spoke briefly to the members. Reports of the food sale were made by Mrs. Riley, chairman of the committee. It was voted to hold a whist at the home of Mrs. B. Mullins, of 51 Spring street next week, after which the review closed in form.

Following the meeting the members enjoyed dancing, music being furnished by Miss G. Wilcox and Mrs. Helen Fitzgerald.

A. O. H. AUXILIARY

The millinery class of Division No. 13, Ladies' Auxiliary A. O. H., met Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Chester Ryan on Central avenue. There was a large attendance and a social time was enjoyed. The next meeting place of the class will be announced later.

ODD FELLOWS

The regular meeting of Shetucket lodge, No. 27, held Tuesday evening was well attended and considerable business was transacted with Noble Grand Walter Kelly presiding. Arrangements have been completed for the raising of money for the building of a new stage in the assembly hall and a solid gold triple link charm will be awarded to the winner.

Announcement was made that during April an open meeting would be held when members would be allowed to bring their wives or lady friends. The entertainment committee has secured a noted mind reader for that evening and the fortunate guests will have an opportunity to learn their past, present and future.

Plans are also underway for a smoker to be held later in the month when a number of prospective members will be guests of the lodge. An entertainment is also being arranged for this event.

RED MEN

Mohegan Tribe, No. 64, Red Men, held a meeting Wednesday evening in Steiner hall, Sachem George F. Farrell presiding. Past Sachem D. A. Dean presented the tribe a new council brand and a new set of tepees. The membership drive was reported as being a success so far. Three applications were voted upon, two others were read for the first time. It was decided to have initiation on April 30, when the Great Sachem of Connecticut and his staff are expected to visit the tribe. It was announced that the degree work would be performed by degree teams from Naugatuck, Essex and New London. It was also announced that Great Sachem John Morrison of Westerly would also be present.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT
By DAVID CORY

THE CIRCUS

Now, you remember in the last story suddenly came a dreadful loud noise, while Uncle Lucky was having his fortune told in the gypsy wagon. And what do you suppose it was? You'll never guess, so I'll tell you right away. It was a circus parade. Yes Sir!, Uncle Lucky's circus was coming to town. You see, the old gentleman rabbit, although he owned the circus, didn't have much to do with it, having hired a good manager to take care of all the animals and clowns.

"Goodness gracious meebus!" exclaimed Uncle Lucky, "if that isn't my circus!" And handing the old gypsy woman a fifty carrot gold piece he and Little Jack Rabbit hopped into the Luckymobile and followed the long line of circus wagons.

"Yankee Doodle Do,
My friend the Kangaroo
Is soon to sail across the sea
To buy a gown in gay Paree."
sang the clown.

Well, by and by after a while, the circus parade stopped at a big field, and in less time than I can tell it, the great big white tent was set up, and the wagons placed in a row all around it. Then the big elephant came out to shake hands with Uncle Lucky and Little Jack Rabbit.

"I think we'll have a full house tonight," he said, "for it is a year since we've played in Rabbitville and there must be lots of little boys and girls who are crazy to see the clowns!" and, with a wink at the bunny boy, he whispered something to Uncle Lucky's ear, but what he said, I'm sure I don't know. But, anyway, the old gentleman rabbit smiled, so I guess all the tickets were sold and the circus was making lots of money.

Pretty soon, after a while, all the Little People of the Shady Forest and Sunny Meadow came, one, two, three at a time. Professor Crow and his family sat near the center ring and Squirrel Nutcracker and his family in box 12. And would you believe it? The Miller's Boy was there too, but he didn't bring his gun. No siree mam. If he had he never would have been admitted, let me tell you.

But, oh, dear me. Just before the circus commenced the Elephant manager whispered to the little rabbit:

"I don't know what we're to do. Our beautiful white horse has the mumps!"

Then, what do you suppose the little rabbit did? Why, he telephoned to the Old Brown Horse to come right over, and, hopping on his back, the bunny boy rode around the ring just like a regular circus performer.

When You Buy Furniture, Remember That Quality Is as Important as Price

There are two kinds of furniture. In the making of one kind, price alone seems to be given the principle consideration. To the inexperienced this may seem a better "buy" than some other furniture of similar design and finish. But price alone means nothing. The other type of furniture—the kind that is a real investment, paying you large dividends in pride, comfort and satisfaction for years to come, is made up of a real standard of quality and not down to a price. True, the initial cost may be a little bit more for this better kind of furniture, but in the years of extra service you will get out of it, you will find it the least expensive in the long run, and you will certainly take more pleasure in it than the cheaper kind. Come in and see how this is exemplified in our showing of quality furniture. Right now we are featuring many distinctive new arrivals at prices surprisingly low for such worth while furniture.

Although Friday morning's session of the Third District court was not long, two judges sat upon the bench in the morning sessions, Judge Michael J. Turano and Acting Judge M. Walter Flynn. Clerk M. Walter Flynn read the following:

New writs—William H. Rhodes vs. Charles H. Broomfield et al, answered by Rathbun and continued for two weeks; Charles Goldberg vs. Henry Farrons, answered by Ferguson and continued two weeks.

Civil docket—Whitten Machine Co. vs. William McKenzie, continued one week; Cornelius Conway vs. Thomas A. Eual, continued one week; Edna M. Gregory vs. Joe Stedman, announced as ready; Charles Goldberg vs. Antonio Antoch, placed on nisi docket; G. P. Tuscano vs. Capalbo, continued one week; Westerly Light and Power company vs. the Mystic Manufacturing company, continued two weeks.

Following the reading of the docket, Judge Turano came in and announced that in the case of Ledyard S. Anthony vs. LaRoy Talbot, he had looked over the briefs, also looked up some of the references and that he would render decision for the plaintiff to recover $83.30 with costs, the sum asked.

Announcement was made that a criminal case was to have been returned this day but that it was continued two weeks, to allow Attorney Ledwidge time to prepare the case.

The court session was then declared adjourned.

The court sitting was resumed after a short time, with Acting Judge Flynn on the bench and the case of Gregory vs. Stedman was called.

The defendant identified books and accounts submitted and the manner in which time was kept was detailed. The plaintiff was on the stand but a short time. After reviewing the dates with payments, credits, etc., Judge Flynn announced "I will give decision for the plaintiff $68.40, and costs. Court adjourned.

The Heroine of Ava, a missionary play and pageant, issued by the Baptist Board of Education in the department of missionary education, is to be presented Sunday evening in the Westerly High school assembly hall on Broad street by a cast in costume from the various Protestant churches in Westerly. The cast has been under the direct supervision and training of Mrs. Ernest H. Morrill, wife of Rev. E. H. Morrill, pastor of Pawcatuck Congregational church. In dealing with the missionary field of Burma, the bravery of Ann Hasseltine Judson during the terrible prison experience of her husband is portrayed.

The cast follows: Governor of Ava, Ralph H. Koelb; governer's wife, Ellen Randall; Mrs. Judson, Mary C. Wilcox; the princess, Mrs. Franklin C. Smith; the Pakan Woon, Mrs Ernest E. Morrill; the wife of Bandula, Mrs. Lewis K. Greene; Mount Ing, Mrs. Paul W. Munsell; Lalla, Emily Dixon; Mai Lone, Mildred A. Palmer; Myaung, G. Edward Spargo; lady in waiting, Alice B. Fiddes.

The Westerly teacher training school which began Feb. 14th and has held meetings in Christ church school room on Broad street every Thursday evening, has completed the course of eight lessons. There has been an average attendance of 60 during the courses and much interest is taken in the work. The faculty has been made up of Mrs. Ernest H. Morrill, Pawcatuck Congregational church; Mrs. W. C. Murdock, Sunday school specialist, Norwood, R. I.; Vernon Rice, general secretary Rhode Island Sunday School association, Providence, and Rev. G. Edgar Tobin, rector of Christ Episcopal church. Next Thursday evening at Christ church school an examination will be given on the work covered by those who have taken the course. Isaac G. Smith of the Broad Street Christian church has been the efficient director of this training school, which has been held under the auspices of the Westerly District Sunday School association. The association officers are: President, Dr. William C. Thompson; vice president, Isaac G. Smith; secretary, Mary L. Burdick; treasurer, Albert R. Bailey.

AGRICULTURAL INTERESTS

RED CLOVER SEED SHORTAGE

America's 1923 red clover seed crop is more than a million bushels short of the 1922 supply and the 1924 prospects point to a further reduction of 45 per cent this year.

On the top of a singularly bad season last year, with spring drought and cold weather, there was need for cutting the early clover crop for hay in many sections, and the second crop was a failure in many districts.

The shortage of native seed coincides with a widespread propaganda against foreign seed which has been circulated during the last year, and there is danger that many farmers have been frightened out of growing their usual clover average in the established rotation.

Experts of the Department of Agriculture are now reassuring farmers as to the value of foreign red clover seed with the exception of the Italian and south European stock.

Dr. A. J. Pieters of the United States Department of Agriculture told members of the Wholesale Grass Seed Dealers' association in Chicago recently that experiments under the direction of the department had proved that red clover seed from northern Europe, England and France and from Chile will give fair crops except in our extreme north.

No crop is more greatly needed for the welfare of the agriculture communities than the red clover. The farmer is assured by government experts that it is better to plant imported seeds, excepting Italian, secured from reliable firms which know the source of their seed, than to plant none at all and add to the general disastrous situation.

On present indications and until the farming population of the United States becomes familiar with the exact results of government tests, farmers are faced with a shortage of 700,000 bushels of seed, which would make conditions another year still worse and practically drive red clover off many farms.

The government experts have notified seed associations and have issued bulletins that imported seed generally, except that from Italian sources, will give food crops, and not over 1 per cent of all imports are from Italy.

SOME OF THE CAUSES OF CLOVER FAILURE

That the decline in red-clover culture is no myth becomes abundantly evident when one reads the agricultural literature of the past 40 years. Letters from farmers to the agricultural press and articles by farmers and by the experiment station workers in the press all express concern regarding this condition and offer various reasons and remedies. The United States department of Agriculture has set forth its observations as to the causes as well as suggestions for more favorable results, in Farmers' Bulletin 1365, Clover Failure, just issued.

Causes of clover failure, says the department, are to be sought in improper soil conditions, in disease, in the use of nonadapted seed or in improper methods of seeding, and in the use of harmful nurse crops. Improper soil conditions result from constant cultivation and the consequent loss of lime, phosphates, potash, and organic matter, making the soil unsuited to the growth of clover. Such conditions can be remedied by applying the elements lacking in a field and by working in manure and other forms of organic matter.

In some cases clover failure is due to diseases, and then a disease-resistant variety must be used if available, or some other legume substituted for red clover. Alsike clover, hairy vetch, or annual summer legumes, such as soy beans, should be used when for any reason land that needs lime can not be economically limed. When red clover fails on land well supplied with lime, sweet clover can often be substituted to advantage.

A copy of the bulletin may be secured, as long as the supply lasts, from the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

REASONS WHY SPRAYING IMPORTANT

To get a high percentage of perfect fruit is the aim of the intelligent fruit grower. To attain this, proper control measures for the various fungous and insect pests are very important, and succeed best when the following points are taken into consideration:

Know your troubles. One must determine as accurately as possible what pests will probably attack the fruit before planning the spray schedule. The Experiment Station will gladly assist in this determination. After determining your common troubles remember that arsenical poisons, as arsenate of lead, control chewing insects and must be applied before or soon after they start feeding, that contact poisons, as nicotine sulphate, control sucking insects and must be applied to the insects themselves; that fungicides prevent but do not cure injuries by fungi and so must be applied before infection takes place.

Know your varieties. Varieties vary in susceptibility to different injuries especially fungous, and it is important to know the troubles to which each variety is subject. Ab, for instance, scab is bad on McIntosh, and red mite is most serious on Baldwin.

The environment. Environmental conditions are often determining factors in the severity of injury. Dry or moist localities cause variation in fungous attacks. In the case of cedar rust, nearness to cedars is the important consideration. Many insects are worse on trees near to woodland or brush and rubbish along fences. The age of the trees, the method of cultivation and pruning, the location as to air drainage and extreme temperatures are also important factors. The latter, as regards winter injuries, is not subject to control by spraying.—Connecticut Agricultural College Experiment Station.

TIMELY INFORMATION ABOUT FUNGICIDES

Bordeaux mixture is recommended for use on potatoes, muskmelons, grapes, cucumbers and seedbed tobacco, sometimes for pink and prepink spray on apples. Fresh home-made mixtures are most effective, though commercial preparations are often used successfully. Either stone or hydrated lime may be used. Spray should contain 4 pounds lime and 4 pounds copper sulphate in each 50 gallons water.

Lime-sulphur, dormant or winter strength. Recommended for use on apples (dormant or delayed dormant), peaches (late dormant), and pears (delayed dormant) for control of peach leaf curl and such insects as San Jose scale, pear psylla, blister mite and aphis. Strength 1 gallon lime-sulphur in 9 gallons water. Dry lime-sulphur may be substituted at the strength recommended by the manufacturer.

Lime-sulphur, summer strength. For use as a general fungicide on apples and as an insecticide for control of the European red mite. Usual strength applied, 1 1-4 gallons to 50 gallons water. Dry-lime-sulphur may be substituted with good results.

Dry mix, self-boiled and "atomic" sulphur. Successfully used on peaches. Strengths recommended: dry mix, 8 pounds superfine sulphur, 4 pounds hydrated lime, and one-half pound calcium caseinate to each 50 gallons water; self-boiled lime - sulphur, 8 pounds stone lime, 8 pounds sulphur, to each 50 gallons water; "atomic" or "colloidal" sulphur, 5 pounds to each 50 gallons water.

Dusts. Sulphur dusts are satisfactory for use in control of peach scab and brown rot. Pure dusting sulphur is recommended and should be as fine as possible to obtain.—Connecticut Agricultural College Experiment Station.

INSECTICIDES AND HOW TO USE THEM

Miscible oils. Valuable for control of the European red mite when used as a late dormant spray as the buds swell; will also kill scale insects. Strength recommended 1 gallon in each 15 gallons of water. Scalecide or Sunoco spray oil are suitable. Do not use on peach trees.

Lead arsenate. Used for control of chewing insects such as canker worm, codling moth, apple and thorn skeletonizer, Colorado potato beetle and others. The dry form of the arsenate is preferable, but the paste may be used. In each 50 gallons of water used 1 1-2 pounds of the dry powder or 3 pounds of paste.

Calcium arsenate. Should not in general be used on fruit trees, because of danger of burning the leaves, —but may be used on potatoes for control of the Colorado potato beetle; 1 pound in 50 gallons water is the proper dilution. Sometimes used in dust form on apple trees.

40 per cent nicotine sulphate. Recommended for control of red bug, aphis or other sucking insects, at the rate of 3-8 to 1-2 pint to each 50 gallons of spray. Commercial preparations are known as Black Leaf 40, Kalk Nicotine, and N. F. C. Nicotine Sulphate.

Dusts. Nicotine dusts are successful in control of sucking lice on vegetable crops and the arsenical dusts may be used on fruit trees. Sulphur-arsenate dust may be used on apple varieties that are not subject to serious scab infection.

SPREADERS

Any product containing soluble casein and lime, 1 part of casein to 8 parts of lime, may be used to increase the adhesiveness of the above sprays. The most widely known product now on the market is sold under the trade name Kayso.

CAUTION

If necessary to combine such sprays as nicotine sulphate, lead arsenate and lime-sulphur, combine in the following order: 1, lead arsenate, 2, nicotine sulphate, 3 casein lime, 4, lime-sulphur.

Oil sprays should be thoroughly mixed before dilution, and should not be used unless a complete emulsion is formed. Do not apply in freezing weather.—Connecticut Agricultural College Experiment Station.

HOW TO DO YOUR SPRAYING

Use the materials recommended for the particular pests to be controlled. Usually several materials are combined to control more than one pest in a single application.

The machinery. Use a spray outfit to fit the work at hand and do not expect a worn outmachine to give the best results. Do not wait until the outfit is in the orchard to find out what is the matter with it—know beforehand and fix it. Many growers are turning from the spray gun to the rod and nozzles and we believe this is good sense unless experienced men are handling the gun. High pressure is the latest notion, but we contend that excessive pressure frequently wastes material and causes injury, and that 200 pounds or less, with proper nozzles will do the work. Clean the spray tank frequently.

The method. Make your sprayings thoroughly and timely. This does not mean drenching the bottom and missing the top, but just enough to cover all over, inside and out. Do not wait until the aphids have curled the leaves so that the spray will not reach them.

The weather. For control of fungi try to plan the spraying ahead of a storm, especially the early sprays for scab. This prevents the spores from germinating on the tender young leaves. Most sprays will stick if they may dry an hour before it rains. Avoid spraying in big winds and do not dust in more than a gentle breeze—better no breeze at all. With the late summer sprays do not apply them during very hot periods, preferably doing the work in the morning or late afternoon, to avoid burning of the foliage.

Number of treatments. The number of treatments will depend on the pests to be controlled—usually five or six as a maximum and three as the minimum; for fungi. In most seasons we cannot control apple scab with less than five sprayings, but varieties that do not scab can be handled with three, the calyx and two later sprays, unless some other pest becomes serious, when an extension of the schedule is necessary. Insects, especially chewing insects, can be controlled with one or two sprayings even if applied after they appear, but fungi must be controlled by spraying before they get a start and the plants need to be protected with a spray coating during the entire season of their infection, which means more careful and frequent sprayings.—Connecticut Agricultural College Experiment Station.

HOUSE PASSES $340,000,000 APPROPRIATION BILL

Washington, April 2.—The independent offices appropriation bill carrying $340,000,000 for the Veterans' bureau and $30,000,000 for the shipping board was passed late today by the house and sent to the senate.

As approved the bill totalled approximately $369,000,000 or $29,000,000 less than last year's appropriation.

Amendments approved by the house included one by Representative Hull, republican, Iowa, which would require the shipping board and other government agencies provided for in the bill to call for bids from navy yards for supplies and repairs and to award them contracts if their estimates were lower than private concerns.

Another amendment approved, offered by Representative Varner, democrat, Oklahoma, would limit salaries of shipping board officials of $10,000 or more to one at not more to one at not more than $20,000 and four not to exceed $15,000 a year.

By a vote of 196 to 170 the house kept in the bill an amendment adopted yesterday increasing the allotment for the federal trade commission from $600,000 to $940,000.

The United States flag is to be shortened about 1½ per cent in order to attain more artistic proportions.

MARKET WAS ACTIVE.

New York, April 4. — Constructive forces were at work in today's more active stock market, continued strength of the railroad shares being accompanied by bullish demonstrations in the oils, steels and public utilities. So brisk was the demand for railroad shares that the average of 20 leading stocks established a new high record for the year.

Operations on the long side, while more aggressive than on any other day this week, were restricted somewhat by the apparent disposition of several large operators to await publication of the Dawes report and senate action on the tax reduction bill before extending their commitments. Short covering, apparently based on the belief that the recent reaction had been overdone, was particularly noticeable in the industrials.

U. S. Steel common crossed par for the 30 appearances during January, closing 1 1-4 higher at 100 3-8, its best price of the day, despite predictions that the tonnage statement for March to be issued next week would show a reduction in unfilled orders. Gulf States Steel advanced 3 3-4 and Crucible 1 1-2, the other independents improving fractionally.

Buying power in the railroad group was well distributed, New Orleans, Texas and Mexico touching a new high for the year at 178. "Big Four" jumped 3 points and Omaha 3 3-4, while Rock Island, Erie first preferred, Delaware and Hudson, Western Pacific preferred and Wabash preferred B, advanced 1 to 2 1-2 points. Southern Pacific, the strong spot yesterday, dropped back more than a point on realizing sales.

Oils were bought on reports that consumption was rapidly overtaking production, gains of a point or so being recorded by the Pan-American issues, Houston, Standard Oil of California, Mexican Seaboard and Phillips. Strength of Utah securities, which jumped more than 4 points to 28 1-4, featured the public utility list.

Buying of Marine preferred was in expectation of benefits likely to accrue from the increase in freight rates from United States ports, which will be put in effect May 1 by European shipping companies. Declaration of the regular dividend on U. S. Rubber first preferred, which previously had been reported in danger, resulted in that stock being pushed up more than 3 points to 48 1-4 on active short covering.

Call money opened at 4 per cent., advanced to 4 1-2 and then to 5 when an increased demand developed for funds over the week end. The ruling rates for time money and commercial paper were 4 1-2 per cent.

Foreign exchange trading was quiet. Demand sterling held fairly steady just above $4.30 and French francs ruled around 5 3-4 cents. Spanish pesetas jumped 32 points to 13.37 cents.

BOND MARKET.

New York, April 4.—Under the leadership of the New Haven issues, railroad bonds staged a spirited rally in today's active trading. Improvement was general in a variety of liens, with the average of high-grade investments showing the best gain for the day.

Ten of the New Haven mortgages, a number of which ordinarily are inactive, were dealt in, with unusually brisk activity in the five leading issues which advanced 1 to 3 points. Buying was based on the announcement of E. J. Pearson, president of the road, in his annual report to stockholders, that plans were under consideration for refunding or extending maturing obligations.

Investment buying of railroad stocks also was accompanied by a wider inquiry for bonds, reflected in rising prices for Denver & Rio Grande issues, International & Great Northern 6s, Erie General 4s, Great Northern 7s and Northern Pacific 4s. Wickwire Spencer 7s recovered an additional three points and copper bonds displayed continued improvement.

Huge transactions in Liberty bonds, including the turnover of two $1,000,000 blocks of the fourth 4 1-4s, were credited to institutional buying. Prices in the government list generally tended lower.

Reports were current that the Pennsylvania soon would enter the market to borrow $50,000,000 for construction of a new Philadelphia terminal.

CURB MARKET.

New York, April 4. — Pronounced strength developed in several sections of today's curb market, which was one of the most active in recent weeks.

High priced oils were bid up vigorously, net gains of 5 to 12 points being recorded by Swan and Finch, Solar Refining, Borne and Scrymser, and Standard Oil of Nebraska, the last named touching a new 1924 high at 247 1-2. South American oils were again active. Creole Syndicate touching a new top at 5 5-8.

Coal, which touched a new high for A 4 1-4 point jump in Glen Alden the year at 93, was one of the outstanding developments in the industrial group. Repetti Candy, another active feature, was run up from 50 to 94 cents a share on reports of a substantial increase in sales in the first quarter of this year. Lehigh Power securities climbed nearly 3 points to 60 3-4, also a new 1924 top, and Durant Motors moved up a point to 23.

Kay Copper was again the most active feature in the mining group.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

Chicago, April 4.—Increased selling pressure together with lack of sustained demand led to a setback in price today for future deliveries of corn. Closing quotations were unsettled, 1-2c to 5-8 @ 3-4c net lower, May .78 1-2 @ 5-8 to .78 5-8.

Wheat also settled, -8 to 1-2c down, May $1.01 3-4 to $1.01 7-8 and July $1.03 1-8, with oats 1-4 @ 3-8 to 5-8 off, and provisions unchanged to 15c higher.

For a while after the opening, corn showed something of an upward tendency in response to liberal buying of the May delivery and as a result of continued smallness of receipts, arrivals in Chicago today amounting to only 47 carloads. However, the fact that the market was up 5c from the recent low point led many traders to look for at least a temporary reaction, and operated as a deterrent against purchasing. Eastern shipping call was said to show some improvement, but this circumstance was more than offset by enlarged offerings of future deliveries as the day wore on. A little rally in futures, though, was apparent at the last.

Notwithstanding estimates that 1,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat had been taken for shipment to Europe, wheat values here sagged throughout the day. Fine weather and the fact that United States wheat was held at above a world parity appeared to be more or less responsible, offsetting the influence of further buying on the part of domestic mills. Seeding of spring wheat was reported as more than half complete in parts of Southern Minnesota and South Dakota.

Word that oats were being seeded at some points in Illinois had a bearish effect on the oats market. Higher quotation on hogs gave a lift to provisions.

ROCKS AND R. I. REDS BEST IN 22ND WEEK

Plymouth Rocks and Rhode Island Reds were the two best performing breeds in the twenty-second week of the Storrs egg laying contest. The odds were about eight to three in favor of the Reds that got first, second and fourth places while the best the Rocks could do was one-third and one-fourth. Two pens of Rhode Island Reds owned by Red Mount Farm from Franklin, Mass., and Fernside Farm at Attleboro, Mass., won first and second for the week with 57 and 56 eggs respectively. H. B. Spangler's pen of White Rocks from Matunuan, N. J., was third with a score of 55 eggs. W. J. Arenholt's pen of Barred Rocks from Freeport, N. Y., and Deer Brook Poultry Farm's pen of Rhode Island Reds from Short Hills, N. H., tied for fourth place with 53 eggs each. The total production for all pens was 4045 eggs or a yield of nearly fifty-eight per cent. This is 135 eggs better than for last week and 213 eggs more than for the corresponding week a year ago.

The total of more than 4,000 eggs noted is the best weekly score since the contest started last November. For a period of eight years the hens averaged to reach this point in the twentieth week or just a fortnight earlier than it is now reported. Last year the 4,000 egg mark was not reached until three weeks later. It will be remembered that during these last two years electric lights have been used in the laying contest and while they have greatly increased winter egg production it is equally apparent that the use of this stimulus postpones the zenith of spring prdpuction. This fact, however, will not deter commercial poultrymen from the continued use of artificial lights in winter since the price of November eggs is usually double the price of May eggs. Lights in the laying contest were discontinued on the first of April.

The four leading pens in each of the principal breeds are as follows:

SHOWS WHY STATE SHOULD HAVE BETTER FORESTS

Bulletin No. 258, better forests for Connecticut issued by the Connecticut agricultural experiment station, describes the present deplorable conditions of the forests of the state, the reasons for that condition and gives suggestions for improvement. Some points brought out in the bulletin are:

The annual consumption of sawed lumber in the state is 350,000,000 bd. ft.; the forestry land in the state is capable of producing annually at least 450,000,000 bd. ft.; the forests of the state are now producing annually 65,000,000 bd. ft.; the cost of transportation on lumber from other states is annually more than $3,000,000.

Fire, inequitable taxes and poor forest practice have been the chief causes for the present run-down condition of Connecticut forests. With better tax laws, better protection from fire and the use of reasonable methods in handling and cutting, the forests of the state will be a source of pride and revenue instead of an eyesore and a liability.

AIKEN RETIRES FROM NATIONAL SHAWMUT BANK

At a meeting of the board of directors of the National Shawmut Bank in Boston Thursday, Alfred L. Aiken, formerly of this city, resigned as chairman of the board and from the board of directors of the bank. Louis J. Hunter, who has been assistant to the president, and George E. Pierce, assistant cashier, were elected vice presidents.

John F. Dyer, who was already connected with the bank, was elected to the office of assistant cashier. Harold P. Perkins, cashier of the National White River Bank, of Bethel, Vt. and treasurer of the Vermont Bankers' Association, was elected an assistant cashier.

PLUMBERS' WAGES RAISED TO $1.00 PER HOUR

The journeymen plumbers of Norwich received an increase in wages at the same time as the carpenters, it was announced Friday. Negotiations were underway during March for the advance and after two conferences the master plumbers agreed to a scale of $1 an hour. The new scale went into effect on April 1 and is an increase of 8 cents an hour over the old wage scale.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear husband and father

JOHN H. KANE

Who passed away April 6, 1923

MRS. KANE AND CHILDREN

IN LOVING MEMORY

Of Our Dear Son,

HERBERT T. SPEARS,

who left us so suddenly one year ago April 6, 1923.

Had He asked us, well we know
We should have cried, "Lord, spare the blow."
Yes, with tearful eyes would say,
"Lord, we love him, let him stay."
Yes we loved him well, but Jesus loved him best.

MOTHER AND DAD.

TAFTVILLE

David Murphy is recovering from a bad knock received last Saturday while tending goal for Taftville against New London. The Taftville fans were sorry for him after the splendid exhibition he gave including the saving of a penalty kick.

Marcheta, the Nemrod Grotto musical comedy, attracted a number of local people to the Broadway Theatre Friday evening. Several local young ladies took part in the production.

A number of bowling fans accompanied Chip Dugas to Willimantic where he bowled against Dodge in the Eastern Connecticut championship series.

Troop 3, Boy Scouts met Friday evening in the recreation rooms of the Taftville Congregational church, with Scoutmaster Victor H. Davis, in charge.

Lisbon members of Mount Vernon Lodge, F. & A. M. attended the social for members and their lady friends and wives in Jewett City Friday evening.

I will give a $35 tailor made suit April 8th to advertise Edward Adam's store.—adv.

Five new members were initiated at the monthly meeting of Council Gagnon, No. 208, Union St., Jean Baptiste, held Thursday evening in St. Louis hall with J. C. Marsan presiding. Delegates to the 26th annual convention of Franco-American societies of Connecticut in Putnam, June 1 and 2 were elected as follows; J. C. Marsan, J. O. Tellier, Sr., E. E. Prunier, John Bissonette. A committee of ten men and ten women has been appointed to have charge of a membership campaign that is soon to start.

OLD FOLKS CONCERT BY SEDGWICK RELIEF CORPS

TWO DIVORCES GRANTED WITH DESERTION AND CRUELTY CAUSES

Before Judge L. P. Waldo Marvin in the superior court at New London on Friday morning, two divorces were granted, both the petitioners being from New London.

Mary Vera Sullivan of New London secured divorce from Jeremiah L. Sullivan of the same city on the ground of intolerable cruelty since Jan. 1, 1920. They were married Feb. 19, 1917. The divorce was granted on an amended complaint in which the petition for alimony which had appeared in the original complaint was withdrawn.

On the ground of desertion since May 15, 1919, Gordon F. Whittlesey of New London, was granted a divorce from Frances Edwards Whittlesey, formerly of New London, now of parts unknown. They were married Dec. 2, 1917.

The case of Mary Heaslip Gottchalk of New London against Henry C. Gottschalk, now of parts unknown, went off the list.

On a motion for allowance to defend in Manning M. Thomas, Jr., vs Viola Merritt Thomas, the court ordered an allowance of $50, of which $25 is to be paid in two weeks and $25 at time of trial.

In Angelina M. Mersicata vs James Mersicata, motion for alimony pendente lite was postponed, and there was also postponement on a motion to modify judgment in Regina B. Pensalfini vs Gino Pensalfini.

Motion for disclosure of defense or judgment in Abraham I. Feingold vs Lena Kaplan Feingold went off.

In Jonathan Starr vs Alice C. Marbray Starr, $350 was allowed to defend and a motion for alimony pendente lite went off.

No defense was disclosed in National Bank of Commerce, trustee, vs Pequot Casino Association, but judgment by foreclosure was granted. This is foreclosure of a $30,000 mortgage on the Pequot Casino property in New London.

The judge took the papers after hearing the arguments in the application of Robert W. Perkins, receiver of the Shore Line Electric Railway, to confirm an agreement with Harry L. Midler.

Allowance of receiver's final account, decree dissolving corporation and discharge of receiver were postponed in Andrews vs Puritan Maid Bread Co.

The following assignments were made:

Court Cases

Tuesday, April 8th at 11.30 a. m. Amedee Nadeau vs. Pauline Nadeau; Hopkins vs. Washburn.

Wednesday, April 9th (nisi) W. Searle vs. Farrell, et al, (nisi); W. L. Searle vs. Farrell, et al.

CHRIST AND WOMAN IS SUBJECT OF LENTEN TALK

At the lenten luncheon at the Y. M. C. A. Friday the subject of the talk by Rev. J. R. Danforth of New London was Christ and Woman.

He makes a mistake who regards woman as a problem, whether he feels that he can solve that problem, or whether he regards it as impossible of solution said the speaker in opening his talk. A problem is not a person. A woman is.

In the days of knight-errantry there were those who talked and wrote of woman as if instead of being a little lower than the angels woman was much higher than angels ever dreamed of being. This theory had its rise in courtesy, but it expressed a fancy rather than a fact. Does it not seem strange that other religions than ours, great though the truths they teach, do not teach, do not reach the truth about woman? Some of them regard women as animals. But how a man can feel sure that he himself has a soul, and at the same time doubt that his mother has one, passes my understanding.

But you and I are children of many generations of Christians. The attitude we have toward woman is that which Christ had and gave to us. To refresh that attitude and to insure its consistent action we need once and again to consider Christ and woman. I suppose the most beautiful subject in the world for painting is the Madonna, the infant Christ in the arms of his mother. The thought expressed in that has perhaps done more to lift the position of woman than any other one thought in the whole history of the world. Then when Jesus was twelve years old we have the note of limitation. Wist ye not that I must be about my Father's business? Motherhood is wonderful, but it cannot remain a complete possession of the child. Sooner or later the hour of independence strikes, and the separate entity of the child declares itself.

At the wedding at Cana of Galilee he takes a further step. Woman, what have I to do with thee? There is the warning of his independence is spoken again. But you also notice that his first miracle was an answer and more than an answer to the appeal his mother had just made.

Then at the cross, where the mother did not forsake him when so many others had fled, we hear him saying, Woman, behold thy son. He was commending her to the tender care of the beloved disciple. He always loved his mother and cared for her.

Christ appreciated the faith of woman. Oh, woman, great is thy faith. By reason of that faith the Syro-Phenician woman had her request granted and her daughter healed. It was the loneliness and sorrow of a widowed mother that led to the raising of the young man of Nain from the dead. The grief of Mary and Martha had much to do with the raising of Lazarus. The women were at the tomb of our Lord before Peter and John reached it.

Touch me not, was said by him who had just said "Mary" in a tone which told the weeping woman the form before her was not that of the gardener but the risen redeemer of men. He who had died and risen from the dead was different by reason of the experience through which he had passed.

Even as once he took a dead girl by the hand and lifted her up into life again so he has ever lifted woman and given to her a new life. Man owes everything to Christ; but woman owes still more. And that lifts this human race of ours and gives to us an everlasting future, a life worth immortality and so receiving it.

Herbert B. Cary, presided. E. A. Prentice offered prayer and Hugh Kinder officiated at the piano and rendered a vocal solo effectually.

WANTS INSPIRING NAME FOR NORWICH SANATORIUM

Can the state institutions which are devoted to healing the sick and crippled be permanently and popularly known by cheery and inspiring names?

The State Tuberculosis Commission believes that the five sanatoria under its control should have names that suggest the hopeful wishes of the state's citizens whose money has been spent so generously in building, equipping and dedicating the institutions for winning back to health the stricken sick.

Moved by this sentiment, the commission gave to the children's sanatorium at Niantic the title "The Seaside" as a pleasant salutation and mental approach to a spot where hopes concentered and a masterful struggle for recovery is being made by some sixty crippled kiddies.

The name "Undercliff" attests to the same thought on the part of its founders, the Meriden Anti-Tuberculosis Association, in establishing just outside that city the sanatorium that is now the home for nearly two hundred children.

Three sanatoria for adults, the Hartford, Norwich and Shelton, each housing between 150 and 200 patients, now remain without an euphemistic name.

The commission is appealing to the children of Connecticut to aid them in selecting for these three institutions titles which will ring with attractive cheer and hope and will stand the test of popular use.

A prize of $10.00 will be given to the child who suggests any of the three names which will be chosen by the judges, in case the titles submitted warrant a selection. A statement, not exceeding 50 words, may accompany the selection, explaining and telling exactly why it was submitted.

Because the name "Cedar Mountain" is already in local use to some extent at the Hartford, and the name "Coram" at the Shelton Sanatorium these will not receive consideration in the prize awards.

The competition which was originally scheduled to close April 15, has been extended to May 1. Suggested names should be sent to the office of the State Tuberculosis Commission, Room 61, State Capitol, and should contain the name, address, school and grade of the competitor.

Left Injured Cat to Suffer.

Another case of an automobile driver hitting and severely injuring a small animal and leaving it to suffer, was that of a cat, which was struck by a machine, Thursday morning on Chestnut street, about 9.45. The accident happened opposite the quarters of the city water supply department, and an employe notified District Agent Frederic H. Wyant, of the Connecticut Humane society, who responded to the call in due time and dispatched the cat. The animal's back was crushed and it was with some difficulty that it was located as it had crawled in under some large water pipes.

On June 20, 1782, the white-headed eagle was adopted as the American emblem.

RAINFALL FOR MARCH WAS MUCH BELOW AVERAGE

The rainfall for March was only .95 of an inch this year, which was produced by three storms. This is much below the average of 4.44 for this month which is the record of the water department from 1871 to 1923.

Fairview Reservoir is now at full pond while Stony Brook is two feet below full pond, which is a good mark for this time of the year with the April rains yet to come.

One storm in April has already given .55 of an inch.

ADVISES AMBER LIGHTS FOR SAFETY SIGNALS

Indiscriminate use of red lights on motor vehicles has caused so many accidents in the past few years that agitation is being made by many different safety organizations to limit the use of lights of that color to danger signals only. As part of this movement the use of amber on rear lamps and devices indicating that motor vehicles are coming to a stop or have stopped, is being urged from many quarters.

Having made a careful study of signal lights of all types Alanson E. Stewart, superintendent of the jitney department of the Connecticut public utilities commission, has submitted the following proposal to the Eastern Conference of Motor Vehicle Administrators through the Connecticut motor vehicle department:

"Most pleasure and commercial vehicles are today equipped with a signal lamp visible from the rear of said vehicle which signal lamp displays in red, green or blue the words "Slo" or "Stop".

"The recognized and standard tail lamp for all motor vehicles today displays a red light.

"The signal light is automatically lighted—it being connected with the foot brake mechanism, when foot brake pressure is applied. In my opinion such signal light serves the car following a warning or caution signal telling the operator of this car that the car in front, so displaying such signal, is about to slow down, turn or stop; or in other words, he has removed his foot from the accelerator and does not intend to proceed ahead at the former rate of speed.

"The color yellow or so called amber tinted is used by all recognized and existing transportation facilities such as railroads and street railways for displaying caution signals.

"The purpose of this paper is to bring all motor vehicles under this code and cause all such vehicles, when equipped with a lighted read signal lamp, to display a plain clear yellow or amber tinted light (not less than 4 c. p.) visible from the rear of said vehicle and the showing of any spelled word such as "slo" or "stop" to be conspicuous by its absence.

"The matter of a monitor, in series with said caution signal light and placed on the dash of the car, should also be required. This monitor then tells the operator of said car that his warning or caution signals, visible from the rear, did light, display and issue a warning to the operator of the car following."

One of the largest railroad companies in the country reports that, of several hundred grade crossing gates broken by automobiles last year, most were struck by vehicles on the left side of the road. The inference is that the drivers of the automobiles which did the damage, upon approaching the crossings, mistook the red lamp affixed to the gates for the tail light of a standing automobile, and turned out to the left with the idea of passing, only to collide with the gates. If red had come to be regarded strictly as a danger signal, these drivers undoubtedly would have stopped and many lives would have been saved.

CHURCH EFFICIENCY EXPERT AT CENTRAL BAPTIST

About forty officials and heads of departments in the Central Baptist church attended a meeting held at Bushnell Chapel Friday evening and heard an inspiring talk by Dr. Frederick A. Agar of New York, church efficiency expert.

The meeting was preceded by a supper the menu being as follows:

Escalloped Potatoes
Cold Meats
Pickles Beets
Rolls Coffee
Cake Wafers

Those in charge of the supper were Mrs. Henrietta Tefft, Mrs. William Covey, Mrs. James Parker, Mrs. Jennie Davis. The waitresses were Mrs. Willis Hill and Mrs. Morris Anderson and the Misses Belle Rathbun and Nellie Rathbun.

The purpose of the meeting was to arouse enthusiasm among the church officials and give them instruction relative to proper means of outlining and carrying to a successful close a new church program. Prize essays are to be written by members of the church advancing a church program for the coming 15 years when the 100th anniversary of the founding of the church will be observed.

Following the address of Dr. Agar a question period was enjoyed when members of the department's told of situations as they found them. Dr. Agar giving advice and helpful suggestions for future work.

ORDINATION COUNCIL BY BAPTIST CHURCHES

The ordination council of the New London County Baptist church association, composed of representatives of 20 Baptist churches in New London Friday to examine Edwin E. Sundt, a senior at Crozier Theological seminary, Chester, Pa., for entrance into the Baptist ministry. Mr. Sundt is a member of the church and has made his home in New London for the past eight or nine years. His parents live in Galveston, Tex.

Rev. George H. Strouse of the Waterford Baptist church acted as moderator and there were 40 members in attendance, including the ministers and two delegates from each parish. Luncheon was served at noon, following the examination of Mr. Sundt's credentials by the council.

On Sunday a special service will be held at the First Baptist church at which Mr. Sundt will be formally ordained. A sermon will be preached by President M. S. Evans of the Crozier Theological seminary, of which the candidate-elect is a member of this year's graduating class.

BALTIC DEGREE TEAM WORKED FOR OSGOOD LODGE

The regular meeting of Lodge Hugh H. Osgood lodge, No. 6940, I. O. O. F., M. U., was held Friday evening in Steiner hall on Main St., with Noble Grand Harold Tarbox presiding. There was a large attendance and considerable business was transacted. Brothers John Wood, Thoms Addison and Sterling Nelson received their credentials as delegates to represent the lodge at the state convention to be held in New Haven, April 23d.

The lodge was then turned over to the degree team of Samaritan lodge of Baltic and the initiatory degree was worked on a class of candidates. The work was done in a creditable manner under the direction of Conductor Herman Bradlaw.

Following the meeting a social was enjoyed and smoker held, members of the local lodge entertaining their guests from Baltic in a pleasing manner.

AMERICAN LEGION MAKES PLANS FOR WORK

There was a good attendance at the meeting of Robert O. Fletcher post, No. 4, American Legion, held Friday night at the Legion rooms on Main street. The session was in charge of Commander Herman A. Bruckner and considerable busines was transacted.

Report of various committees were made, several being reports of progress. Harry House for the patriotic committee reported that the 2,000 circulars teaching the proper use and display of the American Flag had been distributed among the schools in the town of Norwich, to the Chamber of Commerce and the Norwich Savings Society. Requests for more of these circulars have been made, he said. The post then authorized the purchase of 2,000 more copies for distribution.

Plans relative to Memorial Day were discussed and it was voted that the post secure grave markers numbering about 50 to be placed on the graves of all World War veterans buried in Norwich cemeteries. These markers, following the policy of the American Legion, will bear the emblem of the legion but will mark all graves of World War veterans whether or not they had been members of the legion.

It was also voted to hold a special meeting on Tuesday evening, April 8th, at the legion rooms when State Commander Anderson will be present and speak on The American Legion, What It Has Done and What It Plans to Do. The meeting is to be open to every World War veteran in this section also to the public and all are expected to attend. The meeting is held in connection with the official visit of State Commander Anderson to legion posts in New London county next week and every post member is expected to bring at least two World War veterans to the meeting. Invitations are to be sent to several of the representative bodies in the city and a general invitation is extended to other Ex-Service men's organizations in the city.

The next few weeks are to be known as American Legion Drive Weeks and following the request of John R. Quinn, National Commander, a membership drive will be started. Invitations and material illustrating the legion's work will be sent to World War veterans requesting it, mailed from the Legion National Headquarters at Indianapolis. It is expected that a number of veterans will take advantage of this offer and tie up with the legion.

Plans are also under way for social times at future meetings to stimulate interest, arrangements to be made by the entertainment committee.

TWO MEN KILLED, SCORE HURT IN KU KLUX KLAN RIOT

Townspeople and Klansmen Clash at Railroad Station at Lilly, Pa.—Six Hundred Robed Figures Were Boarding Special Train When Stream of Water From Fire Hose Was Turned on Them—Moment Later Battle in Darkness Began—State Troopers Rushed to Scene of Disorder—Twenty-Five Alleged Klansmen Held By Police Pending Investigation.

Lilly, Pa., April 6.—Two men were killed, another believed fatally wounded, and a score of others were more or less seriously hurt in rioting Saturday night between townspeople and members of the Ku Klux Klan, a close check-up by state police and deputy sheriffs disclosed today. Four residents of Lilly were being held by state police upon charges of rioting while at Johnstown, twenty-five men said to be klansmen, were being held by Sheriff Logan N. Kellar pending an investigation.

It was later said by the police authorities here that the three wounded men at the hospital here were klansmen brought back on the special train.

Five men who are said to have been participants in the disorders at Lilly were reported to have left that town by automobile truck and headed toward Altoona. Police of Altoona and state police from Hollidaysburg are watching the roads east of Lilly in an effort to apprehend the five.

Not a hundred persons remained aboard the special train when it pulled into the Johnstown station, the majority of the klansmen leaving the coaches at way stations before Johnstown was reached. The 25 who were arrested are being held in the jail here.

According to the local police the cause of the klansmen's visit to Lilly is believed to have been brought about by the firing of shots into the home of the Methodist minister there by two men two weeks ago. The men have been arrested in connection with the shooting and are being held for county court, police stated.

State troopers from the barracks at Greensburg were being rushed to Lilly in answer to a request for assistance made by the district attorney's office of Cambria county. The party of troopers was in charge of Sergeant A. A. Downing.

Klansmen, upon their arrival here, declared that several of their party from this district were missing, but they did not know whether they had been captured by the mob at Lilly or whether, fearing arrest, they had left the train before its arrival here. Reports from Lilly stated that no arrests had been made there.

The rioting occurred when the stream from a fire hose was turned upon the klansmen as they were boarding a special train for Johnstown, 19 miles west of here, after having paraded in the darkness through the town from an adjoining hill where a ceremony attended by some 600 klansmen had been held. Firing began immediately and, when the special train pulled out thirty minutes later several wounded men had been taken aboard while Phillip T. Conrad and Floyd Paul, both of Lilly, lay dead on the street. Eleven of the injured, all declared to be residents of Lilly, were taken to the Altoona hospital, the most seriously hurt being Frank Miasco, whose recovery physicians declared was doubtful. Three of the injured taken to the Johnstown hospital were said to be klansmen.

Sheriff Kellar with a force of deputy sheriffs and a detachment of state police patrolled the town today. Sheriff Kellar returned to Johnstown late in the day, declaring the situation was quiet and that no fear need be feared no further disorders. Members of the state police remained, however, to conduct an investigation into the riot.

Many of the klansmen left the train at stops between Lilly and Johnstown. Electric lights in Lilly had been extinguished earlier in the evening and as the klansmen marched down from Piper's hill, where a ceremony had been staged with the burning of a cross, the way was lighted by pocket flashlights. Several hundreds of the robed figures had already boarded the train after having passed through a line made by the townspeople assembled at the station, when a stream of water from the fire hose was suddenly turned upon them. One of the klansmen was reported to have rushed to the group of young men holding the hose and, wresting it from their grasp, turned it upon them. A moment later the battle in the darkness began.

All but a group of about 100 klansmen had boarded the train when the firing began. The loading of the train continued, as bullets whistled through the air and stones and other missiles were hurled from all directions. Three wounded men, said to be klansmen, from the vicinity of Johnstown, were among those taken aboard the train, which departed as soon as the visiting klansmen had entered the cars. Stops were made at various places and when the special arrived at Johnstown, it was met by Sheriff Kellar and Chief of Police Charles Grimey. Those remaining on the train were searched and 25 men with pistols were arrested, according to Sheriff Kellar. He declared that any charge to be made against them would be preferred after the investigation of the riot had been completed.

There was little evidence here today that fatal rioting had occurred other than the bullet perforated window of a general store near the scene of the trouble. The 3,000 inhabitants were awed by the tragedy and state troopers found a sombre and quiet mining town when they arrived early today.

GOV. PINCHOT DECLINED TO DISCUSS RALLY

Harrisburg, Pa., April 6.—Governor Pinchot tonight declined to discuss the Lilly riot of last night after the Klan meeting there. He is following the situation closely, having kept in touch with state police headquarters and with authorities of Cambria county.

Major Lynn G. Adams, superintendent of state police, said he looked for no additional trouble. Twelve state policemen were sent from Troop A, at Greensburg immediately upon receipt of word of the trouble and they are still in the town.

Reports received by Major Adams indicate that quiet prevails in the town.

MURDER CHARGES AGAINST MEN UNDER ARREST

Johnstown, Pa., April 6.—Immediate prosecution charging riot and murder will be made against those arrested in connection with the fatal rioting at Lilly, last night, D. F. Weimer, district attorney of Cambria county declared tonight. Informations will be filed against them tomorrow, he said, and the facts surrounding the riot will be developed at later hearings.

PASSENGER TRAIN RUNS THROUGH OPEN SWITCH

Millis, Mass., April 6.—Fourteen persons were injured and scores of passengers shaken up when a New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad passenger train, bound from Woonsocket, R. I., to Boston, ran through an open switch on a siding here late today, striking the rear of a string of freight cars. Two of the freight cars were telescoped and the engine of the passenger train partly demolished. Two persons were removed to a Boston hospital but were reported not dangerously injured.

Railroad officials said tonight that an investigation had been started immediately to determine how the switch, which was closed when a train passed the point three hours previously had been opened and locked. They said that the train which left Woonsocket at 2.44 and which was due in Boston at 4.15 was proceeding slowly at the time of the accident and that had not the engineer seen the open switch, a serious accident would have occurred.

The two persons more seriously hurt are Marietta McNeil of Boston, a possible fracture of the arm and mouth injured, and Lep Bistany, also of Boston, jaw dislocated or broken. Both were taken to a Boston hospital. Twelve other passengers reported less serious injuries, among them Emanuel Narinien of Woonsocket, R. I., who suffered a leg injury.

The train was delayed about 45 minutes by the collision, proceeding to Boston with another engine.

Superintendent F. S. Hobbs of the Midland division of the New Haven railroad, will open an inquiry into the cause of the accident tomorrow morning.

SEEK MURDERER OF DARIEN BUSINESS MAN

Darien, Conn., April 6.—State police tonight were in possession of but one clue, a New York automobile registration number in their search for the murderer of Herbert May, manager of Atlantic and Pacific Tea company here, who was shot by an unidentified assailant last night. Chief of Police William R. Pennington, of Norwalk, was informed today by several residents of Roton Point that an automobile had stalled there shortly after the murder and two men in the car acted in a suspicious manner. The number on the markers were taken and given to Chief Pennington, who tonight turned them over to the state police. The New York police have been notified and an investigation is being conducted in that city.

An autopsy was performed on May's body and a .32 calibre bullet extracted from near the heart. An inquest will be held here tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock by Coroner John J. Phelan, of Bridgeport. Mrs. May, wife of the dead storekeeper who has been confined to her bed since the shooting suffering from shock, is expected to testify. The body of her husband was removed today to Danbury where the funeral will be held Tuesday.

A man was arrested in Stamford today and taken to Danbury for identification but was later released as having no connection with the shooting.

MEXICAN "REDS" AGAIN MENACING VERA CRUZ

Washington, April 6.—Headquarters here of the De La Huerta Mexican revolutionary group announced tonight receipt of wireless reports from Frontera that General Sanchez, revolutionary leader, again was meacing Vera Cruz.

Intercepted wireless messages sent out by the federal defending forces the advices said, informed President Obregon that if reinforcements were not sent at once, the federals would be driven from the city.

The advices also said the situation on the southeast front had improved, from the revolutionary viewpoint, with a victory over the Obregon troops in the neighborhood of Ihuatlan and Barra De Tonola.

OBITUARY

Angelo M. Rizzo.

New York, April 6.—Angelo M. Rizzo, who rose from poor immigrant lamplighter in the streets of New York city to a position of power as a banker and politician on the Lower East Side, died today at the age of 75.

Coming to this country from Italy when he was 26 years old, Rizzo first worked as lamplighter and later obtained his first contract for installing gas lamps in the city streets.

Mr. Downs was treasurer of the Griffin hospital and a member of the board of apportionment and taxation from 1893, when the city was incorporated, until January 1, 1923. He leaves a wife and one daughter.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

American Merchants Murdered.

Rome, April 6 (By the A. P.)—Two American merchants were murdered today on the Tirana-Scutari road in Albania, 30 kilometers from Tirana, says a dispatch to the Stefani agency.

The dispatch adds that the Albanian government has taken energetic steps to discover and punish the murderers.

Paris Experiment Failure.

Paris, April 6.—The experiment of the city of Paris in erecting apartment buildings so as to furnish lodgings at a moderate rental has proved a failure. The few contractors who bought plots of city ground for the purpose discovered that even with the advantages offered by the city, they could not build now so as to undersell the houseowners who are currently accused of being shylocks.

BLAMES CONTRIBUTIONS FOR CORRUPT GOVERNMENT

Washington, April 6.—So long as political parties seeking control of the government accept vast contributions from those who are interested in matters of legislation or administration there will be "sinister and corrupt and controlled government," Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, declared in an address here today before the students' law enforcement convention.

"In these days," Senator Borah said, "the government deals with all the vast concerns of business, coal, railroads, ships, oil tariffs, and it is simply intolerable that political parties accept vast contributions from those vitally interested in these matters. It is still worse for the parties to go out and solicit contributions from such individuals.

"These unusual sums are not given merely because of the common interest which partisans have in their parties. Both political parties have for years placed themselves in an indefensible position in these matters. It all leads to that sinister and subtle influence which does more to break down representative government than any specific instance of open bribery. Besides, the open bribe follows inevitably as a result of the former practice.'

Referring to the revelations before senate committees, Senator Borah told his audience that these must not be accepted as an impeachment neither of the American form of government or of the capacity of the people to rule. Rather should they be accepted as a "call to duty to serve and hand on to posterity that inheritance which our forebears gave into our keeping"

"Through constitutional and lawful means," he added, "with a mind for orderly methods under a government of law, but in searching and remorseless fashion, let us make the hour of reckoning a memorable one. The days through which we are passing are the agony, but they may also be made the glory of a truly great and self-governing people.

"War brings waste and extravagance, and then corruption. One of its spawn in corruption in public office—the exchange of honor and place for gain, the heritage of a good name, the esteem of your fellow men, the future happiness and success of your children, all bartered and sold for gold This is one of the inevitable fruits of war. It has been so from Pericles to this hour.

"But the people of this country are sound nevertheless. The government as a government is not corrupt. There are honest and faithful public servants and loyal and patriotic constituents. There are men men and women, thousands and millions of them, just as willing to sacrifice for the honor of their country and just as capable of serving the cause of clean government as were their forebears.'

STANDARD OIL EMPLOYEES WANT WAGE INCREASE

Bayonne, N. J., April 6.—John D. Rockefeller, Jr., will be asked to assist in the settlement of the wage dispute existing between the Standard Oil company and several of its subsidiary companies and upwards of 14,500 employes in this section. Mr. Rockefeller will also be asked to use his influence in having the "working men" appointed on the Standard Oil of New Jersey board of directors.

Resolutions embodying both requests were passed today at a meeting attended by a thousand or more oil workers called together to decide on further plans to bring about a ten per cent. wage increase. A request of that sort was forwarded to President W. C. Teagle of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, by employes of the Bayonne plant. Mr. Teagle's answer, received by the men last week, recited that the company is financially unable to authorize an increase; that the men now are being paid the highest prevailing rate and that the oil industry has reached a critical point not realized by the men.

The refusal of the Standard Oil of New Jersey to grant the request of the men resulted in employes of other companies in and surrounding Jersey City joining forces. At today's meeting delegates were present from each company.

Employes of the Bayway plant at Bayonne will appeal tomorrow for an increase of 10 per cent. and it is understood the resolution passed regarding the "dispute" will not actually be forwarded to Mr. Rockefeller until after this request has been acted upon.

The men will meet again next Sunday, it was announced.

LOST IN 2,000-MILE RACE WITH DEATH

Richmond, Va., April 6.—Loser in a two thousand-mile race with death, John F. Pendleton of Talala, Oklahoma, reached Richmond late today, too late to see his half-sister, Mrs. Tula Cummins, before she died last night, the second victim of a suicide pact into which she had entered with her husband, a local insurance broker and clubman.

Pendleton came half way across the continent, beginning a 48-hour trip when he heard of the tragedy last Wednesday in which Cummins shot and killed himself and Mrs. Cummins fatally wounded herself with the same revolver. He will accompany Walter C. Holmes, a cousin of the dead man, to Washington tomorrow to attend final disposition of the bodies. Complying with the expressed wishes of the couple they will be cremated.

JUDGE J. H. WEBB IN SERIOUS CONDITION

New Haven, April 6.—The condition of Judge James H. Webb of the superior court, has reached a crisis, Dr. George Joslin, his attending physician announced tonight. Dr. Joslin stated that a consultation of physicians was held today and that "nothing encouraging could be said."

Engulfed in Flames When Tank Exploded

Two Workmen Instantly Killed and One Seriously Injured at Lubrite Refining Company's Plant — Twenty-five Cars of Crude Oil Shunted Out of Danger Zone.

Cahokia, Ill., April 6.—Two workmen were instantly killed and one seriously injured in an explosion this morning at the Lubrite Refining Company's plant when a tank used in a distillation process exploded from an undetermined cause.

The tank was hurled more than 100 feet through the air by the force of the explosion.

Two men are dead and another man is in a critical condition suffering from body burns.

More than 150 other men at work near the fourteen tank units of the plant at the time of the explosion were not injured. The three men who were near the tank, were engulfed in the flames which burst from it following the detonation.

Standing near the burning tank were 25 cars of crude oil which were hurriedly shunted out of the danger zone.

One injured man escaped death by dropping to the ground, his clothes blazing and rolling into the roadway, where workmen rushed to his aid.

The fire was extinguished by plant workmen before much damage was done.

H. T. Ashton, vice president of the refining company said tonight that he could offer no explanation of the accident, until inspectors completed their investigations Monday. "It is the first accident at our plant," he said, "and was not due to lack of precaution on our part."

WEST ORANGE GIRL TAKES HER OWN LIFE

West Orange, N. J., April 6.—Dorothy Haney, an orphan, and secretary to Health Officer David Buckley here for five years, was found dead in her room this morning by her aunt, Mrs. F. O. Dunlap, with whom the girl had lived since the death of her parents. County authorities pronounced it a case of suicide by gas.

Beside the girl's body was found a note addressed to Charles Haney, a brother, asking for forgiveness for the act. The note, according to the police, also explained that the girl was in love with a man whose address was given as Jersey City.

According to Mrs. Dunlap, Dorothy returned home from an engagement Saturday night shortly after 11 o'clock and immediately retired to her room. This morning, when the woman went to the room to call the girl for church, she was dead.

A cap on the gas pipe was found removed.

MEDICAL FRAUD EVIDENCE BEFORE ATTORNEY GENERAL

Hartford, April 6.—The first installment of evidence taken before the grand jury in its investigation of medical frauds in Connecticut was turned over to Attorney General Frank E. Healy yesterday by the jury clerk. This installment relates to only seven of the 176 physicians whose licenses to practice medicine and surgery in this state have been received by the public health council, upon recommendation of the grand jury relayed by the eclectic medical examining board, and fills 462 pages of typewritten matter. In addition to the testimony a mass of exhibits has been turned over to the attorney general for his use when the appeals taken by some sixty of the doctors are heard in superior court.

FOUND IN ROAD WITH CRUSHED LEG

Hartford, April 6.—A man who gave his name at one time as John Balkos and at another time as John Beauregard, at about 8 o'clock tonight was found lying near the trolley tracks between Station 29 and Station 30 at South Windsor, with a pool of blood soaking the ground near him and his hat and one of his shoes between the tracks. Dr. H. H. Haylett, of East Hartford, was called and examination of the man showed that the man's right leg had been all but severed at the knee and his upper left leg fractured. The man was rushed to the Hartford hospital, where he died an hour and a half later.

FIFTEEN YEAR OLD GIRL KILLED BY AUTO

Torrington, Conn., April 6.—Josephine Higgins, 15, is dead and Lucy Eleuteri, 15, is in a serious condition in a hospital here, the result of being struck by an automobile driven by Eric Ross, which, according to the driver mounted the sidewalk when the steering knuckle broke and crushed the girls into the doorway of a drug store.

BURGLARS GET $5,000 IN SYRACUSE STORE

Syracuse, N. Y., April 6.—Burglars early today broke into the store of the Essex-Sprague company, in the heart of the retail business district, shattered a two-ton safe and escaped with $5,000 in cash and checks. Police believe the robbery was committed by expert safe blowers.

WEALTHY OIL DEALER SUICIDES BY SHOOTING

NEW YORK'S DEATH RATE SHOWS INCREASE

Albany, April 6.—The death rate in New York state increased from 13.0 per 1,000 population in 1923 to 13.1 per 1,000 population in 1923, according to statistics made public by the bureau of vital statistics. The tables showed there were 141,048 deaths in the state in 1923.

Young crocodiles of different sizes have to have separate nurseries in zoos, otherwise the smaller ones are often attacked and bullied by their larger relatives.

"Dry" Navy Seizes Five Rum Boats

Approximately 1,400 Cases of Assorted Liquors With Estimated Value of $183,000 Seized By Customs Prohibition Navy Off Long Island — Sixteen Alleged Rum Smugglers Captured.

New York, April 6.—Five rum boats and approximately 1,400 cases of assorted liquors estimated to have a total value of $183,000 were seized and 16 alleged rum smugglers were captured last night and today by the new customs prohibition navy operating off Long Island, the prohibition authorities announced today.

The Theodore, a yacht estimated to be worth $25,000, was one of the craft seized by the dry navy, which consists of four fast boats and 40 customs men. Three sloops and a motorboat constituted the other seizures.

EXPERT DAWES COMMITTEE REPORT THIS WEEK

Paris, April 6.—(By The A. P.)—Sunday was just another "working day" for the members of the committees of experts, headed by Brigadier General Charles G. Dawes, the report of which on Germany's economic and financial situation is on the eve of being made public.

The date of the release of the report to the public still is problematical. In optimistic official circles today, Tuesday morning was given as the probable time for the submission of the report to the reparations commission, for which it was formulated. One of the members of the Dawes committee, however, when asked regarding the report, said: "If I were a gambling man, I would bet on Thursday as the time for its release."

The postponements in the delivery of the report to the reparations commission during the past week proved a source of much speculation. It was openly stated that unsurmountable differences had arisen between the British and American experts. The Associated Press, however, was authorized tonight to say:

"The Dawes committee report is complete and has been agreed upon in principle between all the experts."

The drafting sub-committe began a session at 9 o'clock this evening and decided to sit until tomorow morning, if need be, in order to be ready for the plenary session of the Dawes committee, which will take place at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

It was officially announced by the reparations commission tonight that "if the work is not completed Monday during the forenoon official delivery of the report to the commission may be postponed until Wednesday."

NEW YORK PRINTERS GIVEN WAGE INCREASE

New York, April 6.—New York Typographical Union No. 6 today accepted the wage offer of the New York Publishers' association providing an ultimate total wage increase of $5 a week under a contract extending to July 1, 1926.

The agreement calls for a $3 a week increase retroactive from last January 1 and to extend to next July 1; another increase of $1 from July 1, 1924 to January 1, 1925, and an additional increase of $1 from January 1, 1925 to July 1, 1926. The ultimate wages under the contract will be $60 a week for day shifts, $63 for night shifts and $66 for "third" shifts.

The vote in favor was 816, with 262 opposed. Charles P. Howard, international president, presided. Members of the committee which negotiated with the publishers explained that a two and one-half year contract was favored because of the uncertainty of business during a presidential election period.

The committee stated that it "appreciated the keen disappointment throughout the industry at its failure to reduce working hours."

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS PLAN UNIQUE CELEBRATION

Rome, April 6.—The Knights of Columbus have planned a unique celebration for the opening of their welfare work in their building which is located under the very shadows of St. Peters. Both Cardinal Hayes and Cardinal Mundelein will be present. The pope has shown great interest in the work of the Knights among the Italians and when he received in audience Edward L. Hearn, general commander for Europe of the organization, he expressed the wish that he could be present at the opening ceremonies.

The Knights building cannot be reached without crossing the limits of the vatican, and if the pope's desire were fulfilled it would mean passing over the threshold and treading Italian territory. If it is the intention of the pontiff thus to shatter the custom which has been maintained by the popes since 1872, as self-immured "prisoners," this intention cannot be confirmed at the vatican.

WOMEN FORM COMMITTEE FOR POLITICAL ACTION

Washington, April 6.—Another women's political organization—The Women's Committee for Political Action—began operations in the capitol today, and offered what it described as the first political program ever drawn up by women.

Included is public control of natural resources, public ownership of communication and transportation; public control of the nation's money and credit; the raising of government revenue by taxes on large incomes and inheritances, on land values, profits on government banking, and saving from armament reduction; progressive reduction of armament by international agreement, judicial settlement of disputes and a "democratically controlled world organization."

The organization committee described itself as not of one political party.

DRIVER SPED AWAY AFTER HITTING MAN

Norwalk, April 6.—Joseph Burns is in the Norwalk hospital suffering cuts and bruises about the head as the result of being struck by an automobile today. The driver of the machine sped away and was traced to Darien, where the trail was lost. X-rays will be taken to determine the extent of Burns' injuries.

BRIEF TELEGRAMS

The loss of two members of the crew of the schooner Electric Flash, owned in Newfoundland, was reported when the vessel arrived at Gloucester.

More than 1,000 cases are on the superior criminal court docket for the term which is to begin at Worcester May 12 and continue for 14 court days.

Shot through the hip by a policeman from whom he was trying to escape, Thomas Crosby of the Charlestown district is in a critical condition at a Boston hospital.

Representative Hamilton Fish, republican, New York, announced that he had given his friends permission to use his name as a candidate for the New York republican gubernatorial nomination.

William A. Bell, 35 years old, Worcester was almost instantly killed when he was struck down by a heavy automobile truck owned by A. J. Lamoureux, a mason contractor, and driven by Frank Manna.

Although her decree of divorce was vacated by Judge Chester A. Barrows, Mrs. Nina Wilcox Putnam Sanderson, the authoress, will not be prosecuted for presenting false affidavits in connection therewith.

Justices, lawyers and other prominent citizens from all parts of the state attended the services for Chief Justice John Kivel of the New Hampshire superior court at St. Mary's church, Dover.

Sumner P. Hinckley was arrested in Chicago under an indictment warrant issued five weeks ago and charging him in eight counts with the larceny of $2,211 from the E. F. Sturtevant Company.

Four miles of corridors and three and one half acres of window glass are called for in the plans for the new Palmer House, which at a cost of $40,000,000 is to replace Chicago's historic hostelry.

Alban Coffin, aged thirty-eight, employed in the boiler room of the Lawrence Gas Company, was killed while at his work. Officials of the company said they did not know how the accident happened.

The three story brick block, owned by the Eastern Trust & Banking Co., of Bangor, and occupied on the ground floor by the Dexter branch of that institution and the Brewster Drug Store was damaged by fire and water.

Rev. H. W. Hook of Haverhill, Mass. and Rev. W. B. Locke of Lancaster were chosen as clerical delegates to the Methodist Episcopal general conference at Springfield next month, at the New Hampshire conference.

Rhode Island republicans will probably break all precedents for that state by formally indorsing Calvin Coolidge for the republican nomination for president when they meet in state convention at Providence.

Miss Leola Dennison of South Thomaston, died in a Rockland hospital from a revolver wound, believed to have been self-inflicted. Relatives said there was reasons for thinking the wound was not the result of an accident.

The New England Telephone and Telegraph Company has filed a petition with the New Hampshire Public Service Commission requesting permission to increase its rates on four classes of traffic, the commission announced.

Lem Motlow, wealthy distiller of Lynchburg, Tenn., indicted at St. Louis for killing C. T. Pullis, a Pullman conductor, March 17, appeared in court and over the protest of circuit attorney Sidener, was released again on a $40,000 bond, pending trial.

Business at the state public employment office at Boston for the month of March showed an improvement over February but a falling off from March, 1923. During the month employers called for 1218 persons, an increase of 30 per cent. over February.

A further step toward bringing about a ten-cent trolley fare between Boston and Revere Beach was taken when the legislative committees on railroads and metropolitan affairs, sitting jointly, voted to report a bill whereby the state would acquire the Chelsea division of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway and lease it to the Boston Elevated Railway.

BRYAN CANDIDATE FOR DELEGATE-AT-LARGE

Miami, Fla., April 6.—William Jennings Bryan has announced his candidacy for delegate-at-large from Florida to the national democratic convention in New York in June in a statement reiterating his purpose of nominating Dr. A. A. Murphee, president of the University of Florida, for president.

"If the state does not express any choice, or if the state's choice ceases to be a candidate before the nomination is made, I shall present the name of Dr. A. A. Murphree, the statement said.

Mr. Bryan said that although Dr. Murphree is "not a candidate and will not become a candidate, a party, like the nation has the right to call upon its members as soldiers are drafted in time of war."

Mr. Bryan pledged himself to obey any instructions given in the primary, but, unless instructed otherwise, said he will favor a candidate who is both progressive and dry.

FIVE PERSONS HURT IN GAS EXPLOSION

Elliottville, N. Y., April 6.—The home of John Schweikert, a mile north of this village, was wrecked early this morning by the explosion of a gas plant and Schweikert, his wife, three children and a woman guest, were sent to the Salamanca hospital bruised and burned. A son, 15 years old, probably will die. He had but recently been discharged from a hospital, having lost an eye in a hunting accident. The father, a switchman, recently lost a leg and last week broke his arm. The mother's leg was broken in the explosion. The ruins of the house were completely burned.

PARTY LEADERS AGREE TO SPEED UP CONGRESS

Will Make Effort to Clear Decks in Time For Adjournment Before National Conventions in June—Senate Finance Committee Plans to Report Out Tax Revision and Bonus Bill This Week—Democrats Predict Battle on Revenue Bill Provisions — Republicans Are Dubious Over Outlook For the Mellon Income Tax Rates—Action on Soldier Bonus May Precede Tax Measure.

Washington, April 6.—By common agreement among party leaders, congress will began this week to speed up its work in an effort to clear its decks in time for adjournment before the national political conventions assemble in June.

Both the house and senate will resume consideration of the immigration bill with a view to getting it to conference by next week. The stumbling block in each house is whether the two per cent. quotas shall be based on the census of 1890 or 1910.

The senate finance committee plans to report out both the tax revision and bonus bill and one or the other will be taken up as soon as the immigration measure has been disposed of. Some republican leaders favor putting the bonus ahead so it will be known just what provision must be made for taking care of it.

The several investigations which have been productive of so many sensations as to obscure much of the legislative effort of the two houses, will be resumed this week, but under less pressure than has marked their progress to date. An evidence of the lessening of this pressure was furnished yesterday when for the first time in weeks not a single public hearing was conducted by a congressional committee.

Besides the oil, department of justice and land frauds inquiries at the senate end of the capitol, the agriculture committee will open hearings on Muscle Shoals and the interstate commerce committee will resume public consideration of proposed railroad legislation.

At the other end of the capitol four investigations and two public hearings will go forward before public committees. The inquiries include investigation of the charges against Representatives Langley, Kentucky and Zihlman, Maryland, republicans, and investigations of the shipping board; aircraft inquiry, and the bureau of engraving.

The merchant marine committee will resume hearings on section 28 of the merchant marine act and the agriculture committee will resume its task of redrafting the McNary-Haugen bill.

From time to time during the week the house will lay aside the immigration measure for other work. Tomorrow will be unanimous consent calendar day, while on Thursday the Chandler-Bloom election contest from New York will be taken up.

WILL PROPOSE CHANGES IN REVENUE BILL

Washington, April 6.—The reporting of the revenue bill to the senate by the finance committee, in sight for this week was heralded today by a war cry of democrats with forecasts of a battle on practically every major rate schedule.

Senator Simmons, North Carolina's ranking democrat on the finance committee, declared today the minority members would propose changes in about a dozen provisions of the bill outside of the income tax rate schedule.

Democratic members of the finance committee expect to work out definitely tomorrow the substitute income tax rate plan which they will offer for the Mellon rates. On this schedule, the heart of the bill, their main attack will be centered with support assured from some republican insurgents. The exact division of the forces, however, is problematical pending announcement of the plan the democrats will offer, some of their own members being counted doubtful on high surtax rates.

Republicans also are dubious over the outlook for the Mellon rates, already turned down by house majority members, but none has made a move toward a compromise.

Included in the other rate schedules which democrats probably will attack are the automobile and corporation taxes. Senator Jones, democrats, New Mexico, proposed in committee substitution of a graduated scale of rates for the flat corporation tax of 12 1-2 per cent., which the committee voted to make 14 per cent. along with elimination of the special tax on capital stock.

Senator Walsh, Massachusetts, a democratic member of the committee, yesterday introduced an amendment on the automobile taxes which he will press on the floor. It would repeal entirely the five per cent. tax on automobile tires, parts and accessories which the committee in the house agreed to cut in half.

Senator Jones also is planning to propose substitution of an inheritance for the estate tax which would make the levy applicable to recipients of estates rather than directly to the estate of a descendant before it is divided.

Chairman Smoot predicted today the committee would conclude its work on the bill by Tuesday perhaps, by tomorrow, after which it would be reported officially to the senate.

It will not be taken up on the floor however, he added, before next week, members being allowed several days to study its provisions.

Some sentiment also has been expressed in republican ranks for placing the soldier bonus bill ahead of the tax measure on the floor. The bonus will be taken up by the committee immediately upon disposition of the revenue bill.

STUDENTS TO COOPERATE IN LAW OBSERVANCE

Washington, April 6.—Formation of a students citizens committee to cooperate with other volunteer agencies in urging greater observance of the laws, especially the prohibition law was decided upon today at the college and university students' conference on laws and citizenship in session here.

The resolutions of the conference dwelt largely on the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act denying that either was rushed through while numbers of voters were abroad. They urged student discussion and study to uphold these measures and advocated enlistment of college press and alumni, as well as college women, in the campaign.

"Infringement of any part of the Constitution brings disrepute on the federal government," said the resolutions. "The test of our citizenship is whether there is enough voluntary restraint and inner discipline within the body of our citizens to abide by the will of the majority."

After reciting the legal methods for adopting constitutional amendments, the conference report described the history of the prohibition amendment.

"We are convinced," it said, "that the eighteenth amendment is the deliberate and considered expression of the will of the American people, acting in a constitutional manner. Although adequate sums of money and numbers of men have not as yet been provided for the enforcement of the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act, such sums and men are at hand available, and we look with confidence to congress and to President Coolidge to take more appropriate measures to cope with the situation.

ELECTED PRESIDENT OF PHILIPPINE PARTIES

Manila, April 6.—(By the A. P.)—The collectivists and nacionalists parties, formerly fused under the name "Nacionalista Consoledaro," party, has elected Manuel Quezon, president of the Philippine senate, president and Sergio Osmera, one of the coalitionist leaders, vice president. The new party has declared for complete and immediate independence of the Philippine Islands. The collectivists and nacionalistas worked together during the recent session of the legislature, thus controlling that body against the democratas. An independent mission composed of Quezon, Osmena and Representative Recto, the latter a member of the democrata party, is prepared to sail for the United States.

DORMITORY AT HARVARD DAMAGED BY FIRE

Cambridge, Mass., April 6.—Massachusetts hall, the oldest college hall in North America, constructed as a Harvard dormitory in 1720, was damaged by fire which broke out on the third floor today. Early discovery of the blaze, which firemen said was caused by defective wiring, and the prompt work by the fire department, saved the building. The damage was estimated at about $7,000.

KILLED IN PISTOL DUEL WITH POLICE OFFICER

New York, April 6.—After he had shot and killed his 3-year-old son tonight, Richard Lorenzen, 38, a baker, was killed in a pistol duel with a police officer who had been summoned to arrest him for the murder of the child.

Lorenzen, who had been separated from his wife, called on her and the child at the home of a mutual friend in the Bronx and pleaded with her to return to him.

The child was killed before the eyes of his mother, after she had pleaded frantically with Lorenzen not to shoot. Lorenzen, the police said had attempted to kill the boy five minutes before, when he started with him toward the boiler room of the apartment house. Miss Elsie Schrade, daughter of the woman in whose apartment the shooting occurred, snatched the boy from Lorenzen and ran with him toward his mother. Lorenzen fired a shot at the girl and she dropped the child.

Mrs. Lorenzen believed she had succeeded in placating her husband and he started to leave the house when he became aware of the approach of Patrolman James McGuire, who had been called by neighbors. The baker rushed back to the child, and shot him, immediately turning his gun upon the policeman. His shot went wild, and the officer's second bullet brought him down.

ARMY PLANES "HOP OFF" AT SEATTLE

Seattle, Wash., April 6.—(By the A. P.)—Four United States army planes that left Santa Monica, Cal., March 17, on a flight around the world and arrived here March 20, left the states today.

Three departed about 9 a. m., and the other an hour later. At 3.20 p. m., the first three were reported passing over Egg Island, about half way to Prince Rupert, B. C., where the squadron expects to land at Sal Cove at 9 o'clock tonight to rest before the next stage to Sitka, Alaska. Reports from along the British Columbia coast indicated that the fourth flier had made up fifteen minutes of his lost time.

Along the north coast of Vancouver Island, the planes reports forwarded by the Canadian press showed, encountered thick mist and rain, with a southeast breeze at their backs.

The start was a triumph over meteorology and mechanics. The seventeen days' stay here was for installation of pontoons with which the flyers led by Major Frederick L. Martin, hoped to conquer the Pacific ocean over a land and water course of 4,142 miles.

Mechanics from an airplane factory here worked all last night to prepare the planes for today's get-away.

THREE FLIERS ARRIVE IN BRITISH COLUMBIA

Prince Rupert, B. C., April 6.—Three United States army planes on a flight around the world arrived at 6.54 this afternoon.

WILLIMANTIC

NORWICH BULLETIN
Willimantic Office
81 Church St. Telephone 1052

Daniel Sullivan of Union street, imbibed to freely, Saturday night, of liquor and started in to raise a rough house at his home. His wife was ill in bed at the time. A complaint was made and an officer answered the call. Sullivan was apparently in no mood to be taken from his house. He gave the policeman a tough tussle from the house to Supernumerary Officer Coriaty's automobile in which he was taken to the station house. Sullivan was booked for a hearing in police court this (Monday) morning on a charge of intoxication.

The police authorities had a busy night of it Saturday. Several complaints were settled amicably, in cases where the father of the household had taken too much prohibition liquor and proceeded to smash up his family and furniture.

[illegible]ooley, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. [illegible]oon Kelley of Chapman street and an employe of Leonard's Garage, Inc., helped himself to a Hudson speedster owned by the firm which had been left on a side street in the vicinity of the garage, Saturday night and invited a friend to ride with him to a dance in Eagleville. When the theft was discovered, County Detective William E. Jackson was summoned and after some inquiry the machine was located in Eagleville. Kelley was taken from the dance hall to police headquarters. He admitted taking the car and was notified to appear in police court this (Monday) morning. He was not booked on any specific charge, but it is expected that it will be that of taking an automobile without the owner's permission.

Attorney Samuel S. Harvey, prosecutor of the Willimantic police court, has withdrawn as attorney for the defense in the case of City Sheriff Thomas J. Killourey charged with embezzlement, it was made known on Saturday night. The case is scheduled to come up in the Windham County Superior court at the session to be held in this city Tuesday of this week. The defendant's case has been taken up by Attorney William A. King.

With the closing of the week Saturday night, it was found that not a single bid had been made by local contractors for the handling of the city ice, consisting of some 5000 or more tons, now in storage at the municipal plant in Mansfield. This fact, however, does not concern the committee, comprising William A. Buck, chairman and Alderman P. J. Laramee and C. H. Beebe. Some of the ice dealers were interviewed during the week and although some balked at the price of 50 cents a hundred fixed by the committee, others said that within a week or ten days they would be prepared to bid for the city ice. Last year the crop was sold from the houses by the head to Louis Ives, who retailed it about the city for a price designated at not over 45 cents a hundred. Mr. Ives alleges that he lost somewhat over $2,000 on his contract last year. In consideration of Mr. Ives' loss and the fact that the city had expended considerable money this year to rebuild the city ice houses which were destroyed by the last fall the price was fixed at 50 cents but even this is considered low by the dealers. It is claimed that 50 cents would barely cover the cost of distribution. Girouard and LaPalme, ice dealers were giving the proposition careful study last week and it is expected that they will enter a bid within a few days. The committee has refused to consider a plan to dispose of ice at 60 cents a hundred. Although that price would be proportionate to other cities, the committee maintains that the purpose of operating an ice plant is to insure a low cost to the residents of the city and that the price already fixed is a reasonable one to all concerned.

Should the committee fail to receive any bids before its next meeting probably the only course that would be left to take would be for the city to sell its own ice in competition with independent dealers.

Residents of the Hill section along Summit street were startled about eleven o'clock, Saturday night, by a explosion. The sound was heard in various parts of the city where it resembled a pistol shot. The police department were notified that the explosion came from an automobile as which rode a party of men. Police motored to the location and scouted about for some time but saw no signs of the machine in question.

The graduation exercises of the two year school of agriculture of Connecticut Agricultural college was held Saturday forenoon at 11 o'clock at Storrs Congregational church, with a good attendance. The order of exercises follows: Music, college orchestra; invocation, Rev. Marshall Dawson; music by orchestra; address by President R. D. Hetzel of the New Hampshire State College; presentation of diplomas by President Charles L. Beach. Diplomas were awarded to twenty-six members of the class, nineteen in the school agriculture and seven of the veterans' poultry course. The list of graduates follows:

School of agriculture, George Stanley Brown, Plainfield; Harold Roland Burr, Hartford; Rodney Carl Carlson, New Britain; Dwight Baldwin Downs, Stanley Hotchkiss Downs, Bethany; Roger Edward Dudley, Waterbury; John Forsyth, Milford; Richard Paul Glasberg, Middletown; Harold Ibbotson Meriden; Elwood Douglas Jones, Litchfield; Einar Kelvig, Fairfield; Kenneth Roland Little, and Ralph Barber, Talcottville; Ivan Edmund Parkin, LeRoy Charles Schabel, Meriden; Walter Alfred Schmidt, Glastonbury; Paul Bunker Tubby, Greenwich; Alexander Whritenour, Norwalk; Albert Carl Zollin, South Weymouth, Mass.; Veterans' Poultry course, Herman Andreas Anderson, Bethlehem; Louis Theodore Avotte, Waterbury; Ernest Collins, South Coventry; Dennis Daniel Galvin, Mansfield; Carl Oscar Nelson, Westville; Henry George Osterholm, Branford; Walter Schutte, Cheshire.

A $2 set of scales caused trouble which brought three families into police court chambers, Saturday morning. The scales had been borrowed by a woman whose children had damaged them. This particular mother used such vile language in the courtroom that Chief of Police MacArthur was forced to order her out. John and Stella Ligna were the complainants in the case. They borrowed the scales from John Taber and the children accused of causing the damage were named Magna. The case, however, was not fully aired before the court as the parties finally reached an agreement whereby the defendant paid for the damage caused.

The continued case of Martin Shea, charged with non-support of his wife, again continued until Wednesday morning of this week, as the attorney for the defendant failed to put in an appearance.

In the spectacular Eastern Connecticut match Fred Dugas, of Taftville vanquished Bill Dodge of this city at the Wood Alleys, Friday evening, in seven out of eleven strings. Dugas took five out of the first six strings. Here the local man braced and tucked away the next three stanzas. The tenth was a thriller, Dugas winning by three pins. In the last box, Dodge picked up a spare and needed six to win, but he chopped.

Monday night, Roy Fillmore of Norwich, comes here for a league match. Fillmore scored the game here Friday night and participated in an exhibition later in the evening. The final scores were, Dugas 1117 and Dodge 1102.

Funeral services for Arthur N. Jacobs were held at two o'clock Saturday afternoon at St. Paul's church and were attended by a large body of relatives and friends. Rev. F. C. Williams, officiated. There were beautiful floral tributes. Delegations from the Odd Fellows, Natchaug Lodge, No. 33, Knights of Pythias and Willimantic Lodge, No. 1446, Loyal Order of Moose were present. Burial was in Willimantic cemetery, were Rev. Mr. Williams conducted a committal prayer over the grave. The bearers were, William E. Tinker, Ralph E. Scribner, Arthur W. Swanson, Louis B. Wilson, Harry A. Pearl and Charles F. Palmer. Arrangements were in charge of Killourey Brothers.

Miss Lena Allaire, of Broad street, was tendered a miscellaneous shower recently in honor of her approaching marriage, with Arthur Aubin. The bride-to-be was given many pretty gifts, including a beautiful silver fruit stand from Garde Ste. Cecile, of which she is a member. Those present included: Misses Caroline Fauhus, Bernora Aubin, Alice Ouiletto, Isabelle Pepin, Alice Dube, Donaida Delude, Anna Beausoliel, Leona Beausoliel, Louis Coutu, Lucy Theroux, Florina Dubreuil, Jeanne Belanger, Celamie Coutu, Blanche Marcoux, Blanche Beauchemin, Valentine Aubin, and Mrs. E. Allaire.

A continuance until this (Monday) evening at 7 o'clock was granted, in the case of Samuel Pollack 17 of Gurleyville, charged with carnal knowledge and abuse of a 14-year old girl, formerly of that town and now of this city. The case was to have been taken up in the Mansfield town court Friday evening.

All but two of the officers and many members were present at a meeting of Mary Todd Lincoln Tent, No. 11, Daughters of Veterans held in the G. A. R. hall recently. Mrs. Mary Meehan was awarded the mystery box.

A large delegation of San Jose Council, No. 14, Knights of Columbus will receive Holy communion at the eight o'clock mass, Sunday April 13 at St. Joseph's church. A communion breakfast will then be served in the church hall. John M. Ryan, Ernest M. Sollis and James M. Tighe are in charge of arrangements.

The copy of a resolution passed by the Chamber of Commerce board of directors in regard to Postmaster John O'Rourke sets forth that since faithful public servants are entitled not only to appreciation but to an expression of it by every loyal citizen, the members of the Chamber of Commerce and the organization voices the sentiment of the entire public expressed to John O'Rourke thanks and appreciation for his kind and efficient services as postmaster for the past eight years and the members wish him success in all his future undertakings. It was resolved that a copy of the resolutions be sent to Mr. O'Rourke and a copy placed on file.

Colonel J. D. Chaffee and son Howard, who are ill with bronchitis, at their home on Church street are much improved. Mrs. Arthur D. Chaffee of Middletown is helping care for them. Mrs. Charles Thayer of Putnam, who has been with her father since Thursday, returned home Saturday.

TWO NORWICH YOUNG MEN HELD FOR HEARING

(Special to the Bulletin)

Willimantic, April 6—Carl Bradlaw and James Barry, both Norwich young men were awaiting bondsmen at the local police station Sunday, detained to appear in police court this (Monday) morning to answer to charges of breach of the peace. The Rose of New England men visited this city Saturday night and began to create a disturbance on Main street. When ordered to behave they leared at Lieutenant McLean and were taken to the lockup.

MAN FROM STATE HOSPITAL FOUND BY ROADSIDE

(Special to the Bulletin)

Willimantic, April 6—Joseph Kelser, an escaped inmate of the Norwich State Hospital for the insane niked to this city, where he was seen by a resident of Windham Road about 8 o'clock Sunday. The police department was called and Lieutenant McLean found the young man sitting quietly by the roadside. He complained of being tired out. Kelser was held at the police station and later was taken back to Norwich by Messrs. Everest and Moore of the Hospital force. Kelser and two companions, Michael Saunders of Norwalk and Milton Hall of Torrington found their way to freedom, Saturday night, from the asylum. Kelser was headed for his home in Bristol. Hall had taken another direction but Saunders and Kelser came to this city together and when the latter sat down to rest, Saunders kept on going in the direction of Hartford.

The public schools will open the spring term this (Monday) morning, after a week's vacation.

Mrs. Briggs of Lewiston, Maine, has been spending several days with her niece, Mrs. James W. Kidd in West Stafford.

JEWETT CITY

F. H. Gilbert and L. M. Carpenter from Griswold, with F. D. Ballou and H. J. Kendall, from Lisbon, made a recent pilgrimage as representatives to the state convention held in Hartford. The trip was made in Mr. Carpenter's big new Packard. Shortly after leaving Windham, a blowout occurred. Of what account could a simple blow-out possibly be for there strapped in their great holders were two nice new tires? The snow and slush from the recent storm was five or six inches deep, moreover there was a small service station right alongside the disabled machine. The jack was put into operation and one of the spare tires put on forthwith. The jack being removed, down went the new tire flat, telling the story that there was no air in the spare tires. Then came the rough stuff. The hose nipple, supposed to connect with the motor's air pump attachment, didn't seem to exactly fit. There appeared to be a superfluous amount of threads on the engine pump and not enough on the coupling. Floundering around in the slush for an hour or more, the delegates anxious to reach the Capitol city, and knowing that the convention could not proceed without them, tried every known expedient. The attempt was made to hold on the coupling by squeezing it, then by forcing it in and holding it, but all to no avail. Finally one of the party, an old war horse as far as automobile lore goes, suggested that they inquire at the house nearby, and try to borrow a hand pump, as the last resort. In response to a rap at the door, a good natured looking woman came to listen to the last plea of the sorely stricken, cold, wet and hungry quartette. "Yes," said she, "I have an old hand pump, but why bother with that when there at your feet lies the free air hose, which we keep to accommodate?"

Draw the curtain—Good Night. There was some faint remarking, some even say, that the title of "cuss" was overheard, possibly applied to one of the leading members of the delegation who had sat in the machine for more than an hour, gazing at the Free Air sign, painted on the side of the station in letters a foot high, and hadn't seen it. The connection was made in a second or two, the tire was filled, and the journey resumed. Hartford being reached, the delayed and anxious convention hove an audible sigh of relief, and was allowed to proceed.

K. of C. meeting 7.30 tonight in Foresters' hall.—adv.

Lewis M. Carpenter of Jewett City has duly received his appointment as an alternate delegate to the national presidential convention, to be held in Cleveland, O., in June. Never before has any such honor been conferred on a Griswold man. Taken with this appointment Jewett City is on the map, to a creditable extent not equaled by any other town in Connecticut. Mrs. Alice Phillips Prior is the state President of The King's Daughters, and is even now at Charlestown, S. C., to represent Connecticut, her native state, at the National King's Daughters convention. Attorney Arthur M. Brown, retired in January as the most worshipful grand master of Masons in Connecticut.

Mrs. Lillian Larcher Crumb, in 1923 was grand warder of the Connecticut Grand Lodge, O. E. S.

The postponed liquor cases were tried in Judge John T. Berry's Griswold town court Saturday. A half dozen members of the state constabulary, from the Danielson barracks were here in connection with the trial. Not only was the court room packed, but the adjacent area and a part of Soule street were practically closed to navigation.

The cases presented by Prosecuting Attorney Richard J. Dudkowski were:

John Dejedic, who paid a fine of $200 each, on two counts, and costs amounting to $426, for violation of the liquor law. His wife, Anna, paid $25 fine for resisting an officer.

Joe Foley was fined $50 on each of two counts and given a thirty days jail sentence. He appealed.

Dominick Leone also appealed from a sentence of 60 days in the county jail and fines amounting to $100.

Frank Minski paid $25 fine because a gambling device was found at his place. He also paid a fine of $100 and costs for violations of the liquor laws.

Joe Glowaki was bound over to the next term of the court of common pleas for infractions of the Volstead laws.

The defendants were represented by Attorney Thomas M. Shields of Norwich.

Judging from police activity in this section during the latter part of last week, the case of the stolen team and the depot breaks are not dead yet.

Friday, Deputy Sheriff John F. Dolan received two warrants from the Chief of Police of Cambridge, Mass., for the arrest of Fred A. Clark and Frank Livingstone, they being charged with the larceny of a horse and wagon from Frank Calahan, of Cambridge, and sold to Albert Potts of Jewett City, Jan. 14. These two men are now in the county jail at Norwich, having been bound over to the May term of the court of common pleas, by Judge John T. Barry of the Griswold town court.

Judge Barry, knew at that time, (March 12) that the men negotiated the sale, also that John Cohen, now doing time in the "big" on the U. S. S. Southerly, in the Charlestown navy yard, was the go-between. Railroad Detective John McGrath and Federal Officer William Wolf were in town last week, working on the case.

Cohen's mother, Mary Cohen, has now given information relative to railroad tickets reading from Jewett City to Boston, as being in the possession of her son. It is not a generally known fact that Cohen and several of his family lived here for a few weeks in the Guillottee block off Palmer avenue. While here the party were found to be bad actors and Conen was discharged from the Aspinook bleachery. Soon the station breaks followed, and now it is believed that the federal officers have a lead which will land the parties who cut open and rifled a U. S. mail bag, which is a bad job.

Mrs. E. H. Hiscox, picked Sunday on the Reed hillside, eight blossoms of pink trailing arbutus in full bloom. There was plenty of snow under a wall only 200 feet away.

Miss Sally Fanny, field secretary of the Connecticut League of Women Voters is to be at the town hall this (Monday) evening at half past seven to address the women who are talking of organizing a league here. Both women and men are privileged to go and hear her. She is a woman, and well informed on political matters, and also a most attractive speaker.

Dorcas Circle of The King's Daughters is to meet at the home of Mrs. E. H. Hiscox Tuesday evening.

The democratic caucus is to be held Wednesday evening to elect delegates to the state and congressional district conventions, and to appoint a town committee for two years.

NEW LONDON WOMEN EXPECTED TO VOTE FOR JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL TODAY

(Special to the Bulletin)

New London, April 6—Because of the frequency with which the city's fire alarm system has become out of order, a protector board is to be purchased of the Gamewell Fire Alarm company and installed at the central station on Union street. The system has become inefficient many times of late because of storm and high winds causing the wires to come in contact with other wires of high voltage. The protector board will cost $1,027.

The speed boat K-6160, seized by the revenue cutter Seminole as a rum runner, off Watch [illegible] a fortnight ago, was taken to New York Saturday by Henry [illegible] of the New York customs house force. The craft was owned by Alphonse E. Young of Montauk Point, and was forfeited to the government by Young, who was unable to pay a fine of $500 for conviction of receiving and carrying a cargo without filing a manifest or obtaining clearance papers.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Lyman have returned to their home on Ocean avenue having spent several weeks in Washington.

Mrs. W. W. Smith of Pequot avenue is spending a few days in New York.

John W. Trude, a New London carpenter, is to be given a hearing before an inspector of the state automobile department, within a few days, for the purpose of determining whether Prude's license to operate an automobile shall be revoked. Trude was arrested Dec. 3, 1923 charged with operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor. He was convicted in the police court and paid a fine of $100. In operating the machine at the corner of State and Huntington streets the car crashed against a traffic signal of the "lighthouse" type. Complaint was made of Trude's condition and he was taken into custody by Patrolman William Babcock.

Mrs. Dandona, of Waterford, was injured Saturday afternoon when the team she was driving collided with an automobile on Bank street, the wagon being overturned and Mrs. Dandona thrown to the pavement. She was taken to a nearby store until she recovered from the shock and then returned to her home, having suffered numerous scratches and bruises. Mrs. Dandona was driving in a northerly direction and near the corner of Shaw street the wheels of the vehicle locked with an automobile, owned by Rudolph Bohus of Little Boston, which was parked alongside the curb. Both the automobile and the wagon were damaged, the latter vehicle sustaining the greater damage.

James Cann of Passaic, N. J., employed on construction work in Waterford, sustained a fractured knee and an injury to his hand, Saturday, when an automobile truck in which he was riding overturned in Waterford. Cann was brought to the Lawrence hospital where he will be under treatment some time.

The police conducted a raid late Friday night which did not result in the officers finding what they had been informed would be revealed by their visit at [illegible] is located at [illegible] conducted by [illegible] Mrs. Mazie Williams, colored. It is reported that the place was a disorderly house and was frequented by blacks and whites and known commonly as a "black and tan" joint. A squad of patrolmen in charge of Sergeants Patrick Murphy and John Cavanaugh surrounded the house and with the two sergeants inspecting the place, nothing in violation of the law was revealed, for other than Mrs. Williams but one other person, a woman, was found in the place.

Thomas E. Donohue, superintendent of Hillside home, and Mrs. Donohue will leave in June for a six weeks visit in England and Ireland.

Joseph W. Culbreath, of New London, and Miss Florence Carolan of Philadelphia, were married Friday at the parsonage of the Methodist Episcopal church by Rev. Myron E. Genter. Mr. Culbreath is a mariner.

Mrs. John Sciors and infant daughter of Lyme and Mrs. John Boula of Cutler street, patients at Home Memorial hospital, were able to return to their respective homes Saturday.

The new Stanton school, corner of Federal and Union streets will receive pupils Monday. The school will accommodate about 150 students.

The summer residence at 31 Board Walk, Ocean Beach, owned by the late Col. E. H. Hall of Willington, was entered by a thief Friday night or Saturday morning, but so far as could be determined no plunder was obtained as practically all the furnishings of the place excepting the heavier articles were removed from the cottage with its becoming vacant last fall. The break was discovered late Saturday afternoon by Patrolman Walter Rehn when a broken window was observed. After smashing the window the thief unlocked it and made easy entrance.

Dr. John N. Dimon, who recently removed to Thames View, Waterford, is a patient at the private hospital.

Charles H. Perkins, 78, died Friday night at his home, 51 Church street, Groton, after a lingering illness. Mr. Perkins was employed many years by the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad as engineer on the Thames river bridge. He was a member of the Groton Heights Baptist church and of Fairview lodge, I. O. O. F., of Groton. He is survived by his wife, a brother, Ira E. Perking of 45 Ramsdell street, Groton, and a sister, Mrs. Mertie Gifford of New London.

An automobile, owned and operated by Dr. Hugh F. Lena, of Broad street and a machine operated by Miss Charlotte Ganey of 38 Lincoln avenue, collided on Main street, near Richards street, Saturday afternoon. Both automobiles were damaged.

Paul Seeley, 54 Military Road, Groton, will be in the police court Monday morning, charged with violation of the traffic laws. He parked his machine on the east side of Bank street longer than is allowed by law and was ordered into court by Traffic Patrolman John Courtney.

Charles Hewlett, 73, residing at Station 16 Waterford, was taken in charge by Patrolman William Graham, Saturday afternoon, when the officer found Hewlett limping about on State street after the man had walked from his home to New London, a distance of about three miles. Hewlett was returned to his home in the police automobile.

An automobile owned and operated by Mrs. Lucy Rockholtz of Broad street extension, Waterford, collided with a motionless machine owned by Meyer H. Hollandersky, of Broad St., Saturday afternoon, on Green street. The Hollandersky automobile was damaged. Mrs. Rockholtz attempted to park her car and did not apply her brakes with sufficient force to prevent the machine striking the Hollandersky car with great force.

Michael Chapperini of Thames St., Groton; Joseph Fadio of Groton and Mrs. Alex Coromberg of Main street, were patients discharged at LaWrence hospital Saturday.

Thomas Severino of 98 Bayonet St., is a lucky fellow—he as regards himself, as he has three times been accused of selling intoxicating liquor at his home and has not yet been convicted. He was in the police court Saturday, where he was prosecuted for infraction of the liquor law in that he sold wine to James Stoeffel and John Carver, both youths. The boys were found drunk when the police responded to calls from neighbors of Severino, who complained that sailors and civilians were in the neighborhood and disturbing the peace by abusive noises and talk. In court Stoeffel declared that he was at the Severino house and that he got wine there, but he did not know whether it was bought or was given to the party, but he said some one paid 50 cents for it. Carver declared that he was with the party of roisterers but he was certain he was not in the Severino house. The boys told the police when they were taken into custody that they got their drinks at the Severino house. When they testified they were not at all certain as to that. Stoeffel testified that he met a stranger on the street and that he invited him to the Severino house. Carver went along with them. They had three drinks of wine. Carver said he resided at 7 Front street. He denied that he was in the Severino house or that he was intoxicated. Severino denied all that the youths said, though he admitted that he had wine in his home and that he had a permit to make it. He was declared not guilty of liquor law violation.

Carlisle White, 18, was fined $10 in the police court Saturday for operating a public service car without having a license so to do. His costs were remitted and he was placed in the custody of Richard W. Mansfield that he may pay his fine during the coming six months. White has a complaint to answer to later for a law violation so that he is getting dangerously near the line where he will get the punishment he appears to deserve, to teach him that he must conform to law. White took possession of a car owned by Mrs. Sarah Phillips of 64 Bank street and with Edward Belland drove it away. The latter holds an operator's license so White was of the opinion that he was within the law when he drove off. Belland is also to answer to a previous complaint of law violation so he is in the same fix that White is in. Both youths are to come to a hearing in the police court May 5th.

Monday the voters of New London are to decide whether this city shall erect a half million dollar junior high school building. There is a determined effort on the part of the board of school visitors to favor the plan, but there is an equally emphatic opposition to the scheme among a large element in the community, who declare that the school building with its large cost of maintenance is not a necessity in the school system of New London. The vote cast will be a fairly large one, it is anticipated, and it is equally the belief that the matter will be decided by the votes of women. The women vote has become an unknown factor in the voting in New London and how it will be cast Monday is uncertain. An effort to get it to the polls has been made by the proponents of the junior high school plan, so it is evident that these parties anticipate that the women will vote for the school.

It is understood that the city of New London will not endeavor to collect, nor will it claim payment from abutting property owners at Pequot Beach, payment for sewer benefits to their property by the extension of the Parkway sewer outfall. W. Kyle Sheffield, W. Z. White, F. Valentine Chappell, for his mother, and others objected to the assessment by the city for the extension, claiming that the extension was wholly for the benefit of the Pequot Beach property. These parties protested in writing to the city council and now the council has or will, take the back track and not endeavor to collect the assessment laid, thus acknowledging that the city was in error when its board of compensation, composed of Fred C. Burrows, assessor, George Watters and William Gunn, Jr., put the assessment on the properties as stated.

About 25 cadets at the station at Fort Trumbull are to be examined on Monday in classroom work.

Degrees in the Scottish Rites of Masonry will be conferred at Norwich Monday evening, several candidates going from New London to receive them.

Norman Mahan, son of Mrs. Margaret W. Mahan and the late Bryan F. Mahan, and Miss Grace Hale, of Belmont, Mass., daughter of Mrs. William H. Bangs of Leominster, Mass., were married Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the Episcopal church at Belmont.

The police drag-net landed three drunks Saturday night and today, which will be a portion of the grist for the police court tomorrow morning. One of the drunks was Bany Laporte, a soldier stationed at Fort Wright.

Mrs. Rock Zekos of Winthrop street, complained to Probation Officer Richard W. Mansfield today that her husband, who has a strong desire for liquor, obtained a quantity of hooch this forenoon and as a result was compelled to obtain medical attention. The liquor which Sekos is in the habit of purchasing appears to be an exceptionally poor brand for today marked the second instance when Zekos' drinking has resulted in his being a subject for medical treatment. Mrs. Zekos also informed Probation Officer Mansfield where her husband's source of supply was located, which was in a house but two blocks from the police station.

Edward S. Freestone, of 14 Spruce street, received painful injures Saturday morning on High street, when struck by the automobile truck of Antonio Alfero of Stonington, a farmer. Mr. Freestone had reached the middle of the highway in front of the Industrial Trust company as the Alfero truck came up High street, driven not at excessive rate of speed. It was reported that both the pedestrian and driver became confused and the radiator of the truck struck the man throwing him to the ground and under the automobile, the rear left wheel passing over his right arm. He was taken to the store of the P. H. Opie company and then to his home. Dr. Henry L. Johnson was called and found Mr. Freestone had sustained a broken rib, cuts on his right elbow and cuts on his left leg. Police Patrolman George H. Champlin made investigation and Alfiero was served with a summons to appear in the Third District court Friday, April 11. Sunday Mr. Freestone was reported as resting comfortably.

Maybelle Ingram, the 7 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Ingham, of 196 Main street, was knocked down on Broad street Saturday forenoon, at the junction of Union and Broad streets. Accompanied by her cousin, the daughter of Police Sergeant Donald Ferguson, the young girl started to cross the street as the Willys-Knight touring car of Alphonso Johnson, driven by his wife, Alice I. Johnson was proceeding toward Granite street. The Ferguson girl went back to the sidewalk but the Ingham girl proceeding, was struck by the automobile, which was going at a slow rate of sped. She was picked up by Joseph Pickering, and the jitney of Barney Fain approached, he stepped into the jitney with the girl in his arms to find a doctor. At Dr. Frank C. Pagani it was found that her knees were badly skinned and that she was suffering from fright. The child was then taken to the home of her parents.

Fire alarm, No. 33, was sounded on the Westerly fire bell, Saturday night at 6 o'clock for a brush fire on the Bradford road, near McGowan's corners. Fire Chief George Egger and force of men responded with the Rhode Island Ones truck and found a grass and brush fire burning. The firemen prevented the dangerous spread of the fires.

Westerly Masonic club members who attended the Get-Together of the Masonic clubs of Massachusetts in Symphony hall, Boston, were fortunate in being seated at the second table on the stage, there were 1,50 seated at the banquet table, 62 clubs from all over New England being represented with many in the galleries. Disappointment was expressed at the inability of Mayor Kendrick and Police Commissioner Butler's absence. The able toastmaster was Arthur B. Eaton, West Philadelphia, and among guests present were the lieutenant governor and secretary of state of Massachusetts. Mayor Curley, of Boston, spoke on Thomas Jefferson, it being his one hundred and eighty-first anniversary, making "Equality," the well known expression of that statesman, the keynote of his address. Cleverly concealed in three huge bouquets of sweet peas were radio transmitters on which "WJZ" broadcasted and listeners in all over New England could follow the inspiring programme. In attendance, from Westerly were: L. Ward Alger, Albert E. Barber, James H. Blackler, Herbert P. Clark, Walter C. Hiscox, David A. Lowry, Olcott G. Mills, George B. Utter and William C. Smith.

An invitation has been recheived from Rev. and Sir Knight Byron U. Hatfield, pastor of the First Baptist church for Narragansett Commandery, No. 27, Knights Templar, to be present at the church Easter Sunday evening, for the annual Easter observance of the Knights Templar. The invitation has been accepted.

Charles A. Morgan was a business caller in New York city Saturday.

William P. Dodge was the guest over the week end of relatives and friends in Stonington.

A false alarm of fire was sounded Sunday night at 10.45 from box 75, Dayton and Pierce streets. The R. I. No. 1 truck responded in the driving rain storm and arriving at the box found that it had been rung, but that there was no fire. The recall sounded before 11 o'clock.

In a controversy between two women there is much to be said on both sides.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

A powerful touring car driven by Alexander Duhamel of Cottage street was overturned on the Brooklyn road at the Casey place, near The Pines, Sunday, at about the noon hour. Mr. Duhamel, who only recently has taken to operating a car, was badly cut on the wrist and had another minor cut on the neck. Samuel Choquette, of Center street, who was riding with Mr. Choquette, was quite badly shaken up, but not seriously hurt.

Mr. Duhamel explained to a state police officer who investigated the accident that in searching out the foot brake he had unintentionally stepped on the accelerator and forced it down. The car leaped forward and plunged into the wall bordering the Casey property. The crash swung the car around and turned it over on its side. The top and windshield were smashed and the car was otherwise damaged. A wrecker from a garage here later removed the car.

Rum runners who made an effort to evade state police officers who were out on the Chepachet highway, not far from the Children's home in the town of Putnam, Saturday night, inspecting lenses, were chased a mile, as told in the Putnam news this morning. The two men who were in the rum running vehicle were being held at the police station in Putnam Sunday, in default of $2,000 each. They gave their names as H. Proulx and Rudolph Jalbert, both of Southbridge, Mass. The state officers who figured in the capture were from the Danielson barracks.

The following is from the financial page of a Boston paper of Saturday.

"Three years ago the Connecticut Mills had a bank and merchandise debt of $8,000,000. Within one year this indebtedness was practically wiped out. Today there are current assets of $1,801,658, against current liabilities of $166,802. Net quick assets alone are now sufficient to retire the first preferred issue of stock at $100 per share (face value) with a balance of $30 per share for the 10,651 shares of second preferred stock. No new money has been put in the company.

"Much of the improvement in financial condition was accomplished through the sale of Goodyear prior preference stock, which the Connecticut Mills took in part payment for the merchandise sold. This yielded $1,200,000. Liquidation of inventories also cut down a big slice of the debt. The company's mills are turning out cotton tire fabrics at 65 per cent of capacity. The tire fabric business is depressed, but forward business on the company's books is declared sufficient to insure a profit for the current year."

The fourth grade of the Danielson school has again organized a Junior Audubon club, with the assistance of the teacher, Miss Elizabeth R. Woodworth. There are 30 members and they have elected to be known as the Wide Awake Junior Audubon club. Charlotte Bacon is president and George Seaver is secretary.

The object of this club is to learn all about wild birds, and to try and save any from being wantonly killed.

Bird houses are being made by the club members and also bird baths and bird tables. Sidney Marland, Jr., has made a bird table and placed it outside the school room window.

At the Danielson Girls' club, Miss Blanche LaBonte was pleasantly surprised when twenty friends gave her a miscellaneous shower. During the evening games were played and piano selections were rendered by various members. Miss LaBonte was presented many beautiful gifts of linen and glass. A dainty lunch of fruit salad, cake and hot chocolate was served.

The main highway leading into East Killingly from Danielson is in such condition that travel has stopped using it over at least one stretch —opposite the old Whitestone mill property. Up there, traffic is leaving the highway and driving along and in front of an old stone tenement building. That's how bad the main route of travel is. At other places between Elmville and East Killingly the highway is in deplorable condition. Any citizen driving over that highway right now would be willing to concede that East Killingly people are entitled to something better in highway facilities. And so are other residents of the town that have to travel that way. It is likely that 1924 is the year that will mark the building of the most needed stretch of state highway in this town. State aid funds are available for this road, which is the last needed to give every community of this town a good road leading to other parts of the town.

Louis Kerouack, 62, for forty years a resident of Wauregan, is dead at his home in that place. Mr. Kerouack, born in Canada, leaves his wife and five children—Mrs. Arthur Brosseur, Mrs. Telesphore Chicoine, Edward, Henry and Lionel Kerouack.

At Attawaugan Saturday afternoon, funeral services for Francis W. Knox were conducted by Rev. J. W. Carter of the Methodist Episcopal church. Burial was in Grove street cemetery, Putnam. The bearers were James Watson, Frank Watson, Henry Cornell and Wilbur Cornell. Louis E. Kennedy was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Mdme. Joseph Cyr, of Montreal, is in Danielson to remain during the Easter season.

Announcement was made at the masses at St. James' church, Sunday, of a Paschal retreat, beginning Wednesday evening, for the English-speaking members of the congregation. Services also are to be held on Thursday and Friday evenings.

Good success crowned the efforts Saturday of many trout fishermen to get a string.

Miss Katherine T. Thayer of Putnam spent the week end with friends in Danielson.

On the first anniversary of their marriage, a daughter, May Marilyn, was born to Mr. and Mrs. George Macomber of North Main street.

There will be business for the town court to consider this morning following the week end.

A slackening that has been general in the textile field throughout New England is finally brought home to this territory by the curtailment of operations by the Quinebaug mills here and the Wauregan mills.

The Brooklyn mission territory of St. James' parish is active in creating a fund for the acquiring of church property in that community.

Henry C. Bissionette of Fall River was a visitor with friends in Danielson on Sunday.

Members of Rose of Lima council, K. of C., are to receive holy communion in a body at St. James' church next Sunday morning.

Captain F. O. Armington of the Service battery was in New London Sunday on a visit.

Members of K. of C. councils in all parts of eastern Connecticut will come here Sunday next to witness the conferring of the third degree on a large class of candidates of Rose of Lima council.

PUTNAM

Two men booked as H. Proulx and Rudolph Jalbert, both of Southbridge, were captured by state police Saturday night after a chase. When overhauled, the car was found to contain 50 gallons of grain alcohol.

State officers were on the highway east of the Children's Home, halting cars for lens inspection, when the car with Proulx and Jalbert aboard hove in sight. The men refused to stop on signal from the police and a chase of a mile ensued. Proulx and Jalbert were being held at the police station here Sunday, in default of bonds of $2,000 each. They will be presented in court this (Monday) morning. It is believed that the men were en route from Providence to Southbridge when arrested. They are the second pair of Southbridge rum runners to be captured in this territory during the past week.

Charles Satti of Webster, member of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad police, was at the Putnam railroad station at 1.30 o'clock Saturday morning and as the State of Maine express, westbound, pulled in, the officer saw a human hand showing white between the fender of the engine and the baggage car. Making an investigation, the railroad officer, with the assistance of Sergeant Lilard and Patrolman Durand, of the Putnam police, took two young men who were riding blind baggage from their perilous positions on the express and locked them up at the police station. At a session of the city court at 9 o'clock the young men gave their names as James Higgins, 30, and Thomas Duffin, 22, and their home, Brooklyn, N. Y. They said they had been working on a New Hampshire farm, were on their way home and boarded an express at Worcester. Their hands showed no signs of manual labor and they told such conflicting stories that the judge was sceptical. Higgins was fined $5 and costs of $11.14 and Duffin $10 and the same costs. As they had but 30 cents between them, for some days to come their residence will be Brooklyn, Conn., instead of Brooklyn, N. Y.

Counsel for Thomas J. Corcoran, Jr., whose wife, Laura Broder Corcoran, was granted a divorce at the February session of the Windham county superior court, stated Saturday that the appeal to the supreme court had been dropped and that Mr. Corcoran would begin paying alimony in a few days. The judgment rendered by Judge George E. Hinman was for a divorce on the grounds of intolerable cruelty that Mrs. Corcoran be allowed to resume her maiden name, Laura Broder, and that within 60 days the defendant pay the plaintiff $6,000 and for five years thereafter pay $100 a month, or in lieu of the monthly payments the defendant to pay $5,000 within one year. The couple were prominent in Putnam and the divorce proceedings caused a sensation. Her husband is now a textile manufacturer in Monson, Mass., while Mrs. Corcoran is living with her mother in Hartford. So far as known the alimony was the largest ever granted in Windham county court.

Charles Medeo, 21, engaged in the trucking business in Pomfret, and Miss Elsie Gertrude Baker of Dartmouth, Mass., were married Friday evening in Putnam by A. S. Macdonald, J. P.

Clarence Bootha, green keeper at the Putnam Country club, has returned from New York, where he has spent the winter giving instructions in golf.

Mrs. Omer Milot, 3 Freemont street, entertained at bridge whist Friday evening in honor of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Walter Grosvenor of Boston.

Miss Elizabeth Byrne, organist and her sister, Miss Katherine Byrne soprano, gave a recital at the Episcopal church Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

H. W. Davenport of Pomfret, formerly district supervisor of the state highway department, is on his way home from Florida. While in the south he sold his beautiful Pomfret home, but his plans for the future are not known.

MISS MABLE DRABBLE, DIES IN CALIFORNIA

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Danielson, April 6.—A telegram received here Sunday told of the death in California, of Miss Mable Drabble, 46, an army nurse, whose home is in this town. Her death is believed to have been sudden as only a few days ago a letter came her stating that she was in good health. The body is on the way east. Miss Drabbie, who has been an army nurse for a number of years, returned to California in January after a visit here. She was born in Killingly a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Drabble, of Elmville. Nearly a score of years ago she was of the staff of the Day Kimball hospital, in Putnam. Mrs. L. S. Barstow of East Killingly and Mrs. Charles Round, of Boston, are sisters and Irving and Bert, of Providence, Charles, of Auburn, N. Y., and Jesse Drabble of Los Angeles, are brothers.

PLAINFIELD

Plainfield High launched its baseball season successfully, Saturday, defeating the West Warwick team, 11-4. The Plainfield boys showed their superiority over their opponents, holding the lead in all innings except the third, when West Warwick, had a one run margin over the local boys. Bibeault who was on the mound for Plainfield pitched a wonderful game, holding the opposing batters down, almost at will. Allard, his battery mate, caught an almost irreproachable game, taking several difficult chances, and playing a heady game. The rest of the team was: Boyle 1b, Gallup 2b, Demoranville 3b, French ss, Wallace lf, Williams cf, Briggs rf.

Mrs. Georgianna Lawton returned home Friday, from Orlando, Florida, where she has spent the winter months accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. William Bailey. The trip to New York was by boat, thence by train to New London. Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Butterworth meeting Mrs. Lawton there and bringing her to Plainfield. She has been staying with Mr. and Mrs. Butterworth, over the week end, while her home on Main street has been prepared for occupancy.

The subject of the sermon by the pastor, Rev. William C. Prentiss, at the Congregational church Sunday morning was "The Call of the Cross." A duet, "Whispering Hope," was pleasingly rendered as an offertory, by Mrs. Evelyn Hudson Davidson and James Royle. At the evening service, the subject was "What It Means to be a Christian," short discourses being heard from Clarence N. Winsor, Marden T. Prentiss and Alfred Taylor. A solo was rendered by Miss Miriam Chapman.

Miss Margaret Krauss of New Haven, is spending a week at her home here.

Alfred Taylor, of New Bedford, spent the week end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Taylor.

The schools of this town open today (Monday) for the spring term after a vacation of one week.

Plans have been completed for the second annual Windham County Older Boys' Conference, in the First Congregational church here, Saturday April 19. This conference is an outgrowth of the State Conferences held every fall in the different cities of the state, when boys from all over the state congregate, to listen to the best and most interesting speakers possible to obtain, and to gain inspiration to be carried back to their home towns. These state conferences are held three days, with an attendance of about six to eight hundred boys. The Windham County Y. M. C. A. officials have made plans for a similar conference, on a smaller scale, to be held one day, with an estimated attendance of on ehundred and fifty. The first annual conference which was held in Putnam, was an unqualified success, and the "Y" officials and the townspeople are cooperating to make this the same.

The program for this conference will be printed at a later date.

More than 125 were present, Saturday evening at the town hall, when the third degree was conferred upon a class of ten candidates from Danielson, Putnam and Plainfield, by the degree team of the Protection Lodge, No. 19, I. O. O. F. This class received the first degree at the hands of the Israel Putnam Lodge of Putnam, and the second degree was conferred upon them by Quinebaug Lodge of Danielson. The musical entertainment was furnished by Krauss Orchestra. Refreshments were served following the work, by a committee in charge of Clarence Winsor and Fred Lyon, of Protection Lodge.

Tuesday evening, at a meeting of the grange, the men are to present the program postponed last week because of stormy weather. Expectations are that this program will be worth hearing, since their is much rivalry between the men and the women, as to which side will present the better program.

MYSTIC

A number of Mystic women went to Westerly Friday afternoon as guests of Mrs. George Wood of that place. Whist was played during the afternoon and the prize for high score was awarded Mrs. Eva Burdick. The consolation award went to Miss Nellie Chapman. Following the game a Dinty Moore supper was served consisting of corned beef and cabbage, roast pork, turnip, potato, carrots, beets, pie, cake, pickles and coffee. The table was attractively arranged and the place cards were pictures of Dinty Moore. A wonderfully fine time is reported by those who participated in the affair. Those attending were: Mrs. Charles Dodd, Mrs. Ruth Newell, Mrs. Truman Jewell, Mrs. Eva Burdick, Mrs. Sarah Barstow, Mrs. C. F. Congdon and Miss Callie Chapman.

At the annual meeting of Mystic council, R. and E. M., held Friday evening in Masonic Temple, the following officers were elected: Thrice illustrious master, Clark Barnes; illustrious deputy master, John H. Paton; principal conductor of work, George H. Griswold; treasurer, C. C. Dodd; recorder, E. E. Bucklin; captain of the guard, Thomas Braithwaite; conductor of council, C. C. Craig; sentinel, George D. Johnson; trustees, David Seamon, Charles H. Latham, Neil McPhail.

These officers were installed by the retiring master, James Orkney, assisted by Richard Adamson as marshal.

There was a good attendance at the meeting of the Sewing Society of Charity Chapter, No. 61, O. E. S., at the home of Mrs. Leonard Allyn, Friday afternoon. Whist was played during the afternoon. The first prize went to Mrs. M. L. Small, of Groton, and the consolation award to Mrs. Daboll, of Noank. A social hour followed the game and refreshments were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert S. Coit observed their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary Saturday by keeping open house for friends who called during the day.

Mistuxet Lodge No. 17, K. of P., is to meet this evening.

Florine Dow Camp, Royal Neighbors, is to meet this evening.

The funeral of Rev. O. G. Buddington was held Saturday afternoon with prayer at his home on West Mystic Avenue at 12:15 and service at Poquonnoc Baptist church at 1 p. m. The services were in charge of Rev. George R. Atha, of Groton, Rev. E. E. Gates of Hartford, Rev. Henry M. Thompson, of Stonington, and Rev. E. E. Knapp, of Poquonnoc. Burial was in Starr Cemetery.

Mrs. Edgar V. Whiting is spending a few days in New London as the guest of her niece, Mrs. John S. Colegrove.

Word was received in the village Friday of the serious illness from pneumonia of George S. Scott, at his home in New York.

Members of William's Woman Relief Corps are looking forward to the department convention to be held in Waterbury this month, on the 23rd and 24th, those who are eligible to attend being: Mrs. Lucy Burdick, the president of the local corps; Mrs. Catherine Allyn, vice president; Mrs. Marie Francis, corps aid; junior vice president, Miss Ella Buddington and past presidents, Miss Carrie Chapman, Mrs. Lucy Lewis, Mrs. Eleanor Lucy, Mrs. Margaret Eldredge. The membership of the local corps is increasing steadily and much interest is being manifested in the work of the organization.

Mrs. Caroline Latham of New London was in Mystic Friday, attending the funeral of Mrs. John Calvin Sutton.

Harry B. Mackenzie has a framed picture of the First Methodist church in America. The picture was taken on John street, New York. The church was dedicated October 30, 1768. The picture was a gift to Mr. Mackenzie from Mr. and Mrs. Charles Avery of West Roxbury, Mass., who have been in Mystic settling the estate of Mr. Avery's mother, Mrs. Harriet Avery. The picture is well preserved and will be highly prized by Mr. Mackenzie.

J. D. M'MAHON, LEG BROKEN, TAKEN TO NORWICH HOSPIAL

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Westerly, April 6.—John D. McMahon, 51, of 64 Liberty street, suffered a broken right leg and two bad scalp wounds, when struck by the Buick touring car of Charles Goldberg, 42 Hyland avenue, Westerly while returning from a trip to Norwich, between 6 and 7 o'clock Sunday evening. The accident occurred near the place of Dennis Keenan on the North Stonington road, where McMahon, accompanied by Charles F. Jordan of 16 Morgan street, and John F. Keegan of 76 Liberty street, both of whom escaped injury, was walking in the highway towards Westerly. Mr. Goldberg, who was accompanied by his wife and child, reported that he was blinded momentarily by the lights of an approaching automobile and that rain on the windshield prevented a clear vision of the road. Dr. Michael H. Scanlon was called to attend the injured man and directed his removal by automobile to the Backus hospital, Norwich. Pawcatuck Patrolman Francis McMahon and Westerly Patrolman Michael Curtin were called and in their examination the men reported having taken several drinks of cider.

STONINGTON

The borough of Stonington plans to do its duty for the benefit of Thomas Jefferson Memorial foundation which is to purchase the home of the third president of the United States as a permanent memorial. The children of the schools have arranged for an offering and the Stonington committee plans to have a memorial mass meeting in Borough hall Thursday evening. The program follows: Music by Stonington band, Joseph M. Perry, leader; song, America, by 6th, 7th and 8th grades; reading, Declaration of Independence, Miss Carolyn Dericks, S. H. S.; reading, Independence Bell, Miss Dorothy Avery, 8th grade; selection, Stonington band; reading, Monticello, Howard Briggs, 8th grade; reading, E. Pluribus Unum, Miss Jennie Rittenhouse, 7th grade; reading, America the Beautiful, 6th, 7th and 8th grades; address Rev. J. Beveridge Lee, D. D., New London; offering for the benefit of the Thomas Jefferson Memorial foundation; song, The Star Spangled Banner; music, Stonington band.

CHESTNUT HILL

Winthrop D. Davoll played an April fool joke on rats as follows: One of Mr. Davoll's long hen houses occasionally becomes infested with rats which fatten themselves night after night on the egg-producing dry mash in hoppers. Therefore, he has invented a very unique device for catching them. By arranging two trap doors over rat holes farthest from the hen house door, a long stout string is attached to these doors which when pulled before entering the building, closes the exits the rats have for running down to their dens under the foundation.

On the night of April 1st, Mr. Davoll assisted by his brother-in-law, Charles E. Goodrich of White Feather Poultry farms, carrying lanterns, and armed with stout hickory clubs, pulled the string, thereby closing the exits, quickly opened the door, and jumped inside. Then the battle began, rats ran to the right, rats ran to the left, rats ran over them, and under their feet. It took a great many quick motioned whacks, and pounds before the pests were all vanquished. Gathering up the carcasses, the fighters filled two large pails, containing over half a bushel of full grown wharf rats, numbering forty-five. Mr. Davoll thinks there will be more dry mash for his hens now, and that the hens will be glad to have such unpleasant midnight visitors go where they will never return.

REPRESENTATIVE BRITTEN DEFENDS OIL LEASES

Washington, April 6.—Declaring that Secretary Denby "made a most excellent bargain for the government" when he agreed to the leasing of the naval oil reserves to the Doheny and Sinclair interests, Representative Britten, of Illinois, a republican member of the house naval committee, in a formal statement issued here today, assailed Senator Walsh, of Montana, and other democrats who have been attacking the leases.

As a part of their lease to the California reserve, the Doheny interests are constructing oil storage at Pearl Harbar, Halwail, Representative Britten said, adding that this work will make possible a native base there which will make the Pacific coast safe from invasion.

"Senator Walsh of Montana, and his democratic colleagues," said the statement, "are seeking to destroyt heir country's Heligoland and place the United States at the mercy of any great naval power which may attack it from the west. In their effort to create a party issue and promote their personal political ambitions they are trying to sacrifice their country's safety. That is the whole secret of their attack on the oil leases and Pearl Harbor and naval base."

Many a young man who leaves college with the intention of reforming the world, changes his mind and hunts a paying job.

Bran muffins cooked in the Florence Oven are evenly browned all over.

Who has to get up to start your kitchen fire?

A STOVE you have to shake is as old-fashioned as a car you have to crank. The work and the waiting to get a fire ready for business are work and time wasted.

You can quickly prove these facts to your own satisfaction by visiting a nearby store where the Florence Oil Range is sold. This modern stove speeds up kitchen work and takes much of the drudgery out of housework.

The Big Burners
The heat in the Florence burners is close up under the cooking where it is most wanted.

Here is how it works

Just touch a match to the Asbestos Kindler. In a few moments there is an intensely hot blue flame close up under the cooking. A turn of the lever regulates the heat to any degree. You can cook every dish on a Florence, from soup to dessert, quickly and well.

The vapor from kerosene is what burns. It is a gas flame, not a wick flame such as you see in the ordinary oil lamp. Kerosene is a cheap and plentiful fuel. The Florence not only is a great convenience, but it cuts fuel bills sharply. You use it only when actually cooking. And it means a cooler, cleaner kitchen.

A sturdy beauty

Notice the quality of the enamel in a Florence Range. Observe that the oil reservoir is light but very durable. If you want an oven, see how the Florence is modeled on the old Dutch oven, and with our patented heat distributor assures even cooking.

Florence Leveler
Attached to each leg of the stove, this device enables you to set the stove level on an uneven floor.

There are refinements about the Florence that will appeal to you the minute you see them. Just look in at a store and convince yourself.

Florence products are sold by live hardware, department, and furniture stores.

THE REVISED LIGHTING PLANT OFFER.

By the new offer which has been made to Mayor Waters and the court of common council for the municipal gas and electric plant by the Eastern Connecticut Power company, the figures have been revised in accordance with the report which has been made by the gas and electrical commissioners to the state public utilities commission. The previous offer had agreed to such rectification, but the subsequent availability of the report has permitted the change to be made before the council has had a chance to consider the offer.

In connection with the revised offer the company promises to make a 20 per cent reduction in the present rates for electricity, street and sign lighting being excepted.

The proposition from the power company to either sell current to the city or to purchase the plant has unquestionably created much discussion as to the merits of such a plan. What action the council will take, or what action a city meeting would take is not known. It is not a matter that can be dealt with in an offhanded manner. What the citizens want to know, what they are entitled to know and what they should get is a statement setting forth the complete effects of such a change before they are called upon to act.

The gas and electrical commissioners have decided that it was not within their jurisdiction to pass upon such an offer, but the commission is in a position to give advice and in view of its knowledge of the existing municipal lighting plant, its handicaps, its profits and its losses, and the offer that has been made to furnish current or to purchase it is in a position to tell the mayor and council and the citizens the advantages or the disadvantages of the proposition.

If there are advantages to be gained through purchasing energy or if more advantages are to be obtained by sale than are assured by continuance of the plant as it is, subjected to politics and restricted in development, the opportunity is now presented to have them brought forth.

Faced with the offer, Norwich has been brought to the point where it must decide whether it shall be accepted or turned down. Whatever is done should be done in accord with the facts and conditions, not at the flip of a coin.

The power company by its offer has undertaken to show that it will be advantageous for the city to sell, and presents the amount which it figures can be saved each year. As to the matter of purchasing the electrical current by the city instead of producing it there can be little question. If it can be shown that the city will be better off to have its gas and electrical lighting business remain under municipal control instead of returning it to a private corporation it should be done. It is a time for hearing both sides of the matter.

REDUCING FIRETRAPS.

From time to time the country is shocked at the loss of life that is experienced in tenement house fires. Seemingly they ought not to occur and would not if there were proper care exercised, but invariably a factor in connection with the quick spread or the disastrous results is the method of construction.

Buildings are erected without thought of fire prevention, or at least many of them have been, and the result is that when fires are kindled from one cause or another in the basement near a stairway it finds just the draught that is needed to make that staircase a roaring furnace in no time and when that is done the means of exit is removed.

New York is not the only state that has reason to give legislative consideration to the throwing of greater protection about the tenement houses. That need for it exists can hardly be denied. It is revealed in frightful tolls altogether too often, but pause to apply the remedy are discernible in the bills which have been presented to the legislature of the Empire state which would require the elimination of all inflammable stairways and the fireproofing of the walls through which they rise from one floor to another. Provision would also prevent the construction of a stairway from the ground floor to the cellar, while the reconstruction of buildings into one, two or three tenements would be made unlawful unless adequate attention was given to providing against the danger of fire.

This is an effort for certain compulsory fire protective measures. It does not eliminate the need of care on the part of the occupants of the building but it limits construction, or remodeling to protective lines. There must be consideration for those who live therein, and even though they display carelessness concerning fire, the buildings will be less serious firetraps.

There may be and probably will be objections to such outlays as are called for, but it is a move for greater safety that is bound to succeed in the end.

PREVENTING AN INJUSTICE.

The intimated adjustment of the Newcastle consulate controversy has taken place. Once again there is an understanding between this country and Great Britain that overcomes the affair and henceforth a consular office will be located at Newcastle to the relief of steamship lines and shippers.

Much more of a handicap to business has been experienced at that point because of this matter than was warranted. At the time it developed there were claims on the part of the British that the American consul and his assistant were showing partiality to American steamships. Naturally this country was desirous of an investigation. This was made and it was impossible to establish proof of the charges. Regardless of the finding by this country Great Britain stubbornly refused to withdraw the charges against the consular officials. This country could not permit innocent men to carry such a cloud and inasmuch as there was no other course the consulate has been closed and it was expected that it would remain closed until such a time as Great Britain was ready to recede from its position.

Such an insistence was not unreasonable on the part of this government. It was the logical thing inasmuch as the injustice of permitting the records of the consular officers to be blackened by unsubstantiated charges was obvious.

How long the British might have clung to their position, but for the inconvenience to those requiring the services of consular officials at Newcastle, there is no way of telling.

It must be made clear, however, that this country is not disposed to treat its consular representatives unfairly. If they are engaged in improper conduct there can be no question of their removal but when they are charged with accusations which are untrue they are certain to get the deserved support of this government. Probably it is well that there has been an understanding reached between the nations on that score. Irresponsible British charges may be withheld at home in the future until proof can be furnished.

MILITARY TRAINING CAMPS.

Campaigns are underway for recruits for the summer training camps which are to be held this year as usual. It is an appeal that has been answered by many in the past and there is no reason to believe but what it will experience the same manifestation of interest this year. Some variety is being offered in the way of appeal this year through a national prize essay contest open to girls between 13 and 20 on the subject "Why a young man I know should attend a Citizens' military training camp."

Whether this spurs on those young men remains to be seen, but it should awaken interest, and that is evidently its purpose. The training camps are not intended to turn out finished soldiers. The aim is to teach certain fundamentals that would be required in case of military service, but from the camp trainings there cannot fail to accrue each year benefits which are of much value to all the young men. To those to whom such training appeals it is of even greater benefit. To those who have a military career in view it is an unusual opportunity. It ought not to require long to satisfy the mind of such a person whether he desired to continue further in that direction, or to know whether he was best adapted to such a career.

Inasmuch as it has been decided to continue the summer camps and plans are being made for their programmes, it is appropriate that efforts should be directed to interesting as large a number of young Americans as the camps can accommodate. What is worth doing is worth doing well. Inasmuch as the outlay is certain, it is desirable that there should be recruits enough to pay for the outlay and to get the benefits of the training. It is an unusual opportunity and this would seem to be appreciated from the fact that there have been years when certain camps had twice as many applicants as could be accommodated.

Interest may decrease as the time since the war increases, but none is required to continue in military activities and the beneficial camp experiences are obtained without expense to the participants.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

There is still an excellent chance for some good fish stories.

The special city meeting may be for a formal matter but it ought not to be neglected. It concerns a live subject just now.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Sift your soda before you put it into your cake unless you dissolve it in hot water.

Before putting a two-crust pie in the oven, brush over the top of it either with milk or water so that the surface is wet.

To remove paint from glass, dissolve some washing soda in very hot water and wash over the painted spots.

This will help you out in the kitchen: Typewrite a table of weights and measures and tack it on the wall over the kitchen table.

Roses require very cold water to keep them fresh, hence they are best kept in a large vase, as a small quantity of water gets warm much sooner than a large amount.

If your fur collar is dirty and there is nothing else in the house to clean it with, brush it with toilet water. There is enough alcohol in toilet water to make it cleansing and it soon evaporates.

In making mayonnaise dressing stir the beaten eggs into the cold vinegar and when the mixture is boiled the dressing will not curdle. When eggs are added to the hot vinegar this is almost inevitable.

Dark brown paper will absorb grease from your soup pot when you dont want it too rich with fat.

Rice and other milk puddings must be cooked very slowly to be good. It is only in this way that the starch grains have time to swell and thicken the milk thoroughly.

Tiled hearths should be washed with soft soap and rinsed with a little milk.

Never turn boiled puddings out of the pan the moment they are taken from the fire. They are very likely to break if this is done. Let them stand for a few minutes until some of the steam has evaporated, and you will find that they will turn out easily.

GOOD FLOOR POLISH.

A good floor polish may be made by mixing four ounces of beeswax, a piece of resin the size of a hickory nut and one quart of turpentine. Pound the resin and cut up the beeswax. Then melt together. When they are melted take them from the fire and stir in a quart of turpentine. Rub a little of this on the floor with a piece of flannel and then polish with a dry flannel and a brush.

WRINKLES FROM COAT.

To remove wrinkles from a coat, lay the garment out flat on the kitchen table. Sponge the lining lightly with a damp cloth, then put the coat on a hanger and brush the wrinkles with a damp whisk broom. Repeat several times. Leave the coat on the hanger until it is dry, preferably out of doors.

CLEANS RHINESTONES.

Rhinestone buckles are cleaned by moistening prepared chalk with cold water. Dip into this a dry, clean toothbrush and rub the stones until all dirt is removed. Then brush with a dry brush. The stones will look beautifully bright.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY.

Remember that the polishing powder used at the end of the manicure is rather dry, so if the nails have been ill treated polish them some hours later or the next day.

Exercise may not noticeably reduce a fat ankle, but it will make it more shapely. An excellent exercise is to walk on the balls of the feet, preferably in bedroom slippers or in the stocking feet. This incidentally strengthens weak arches as well as weak ankles and makes the calf of the leg shapely.

Any blisters or sores on the lips should be treated at once. They usually arise from some internal derangements, but external applications often help in their removal. So-called fever blisters may be dried up by applying a little powdered alum, listerine or spirits of camphor to the affected part.

The proper way to use glycerin is to mix it with water or other suitable substances as described in this column recently. After the hands have been washed and while they are still wet, a little glycerin may be poured into the palm of one hand and rubbed into a lather. This keeps the skin soft but does not discolor it.

ADAPTED TO ANY TYPE.

So successful has been the simple tailored suit from the first week of appearance in the world of fashion that its creators have been compelled to keep on the alert for new materials. Already the suit of twill, hairline stripes or covert has become a standardized mode and at the moment it is seen in such numbers as to be almost a uniform, especially for the younger women.

However, these suits are not the prerogative of slim youth. They have been cleverly adapted to every type of figure. Even a very large woman may wear one and know that she is correctly and appropriately dressed.

A NEW CHEMISETTE.

A new chemisette which carries out the mode of the day is of white batiste with a set-in front like a mans shirt front of flowered linen. The collar is of the batiste, with small corners of the bright linen. The chemisette is put together with fagoting.

IMPROVED BY VARNISH.

Varnish the inside of the drawers in your bureaus and other pieces of furniture. This will prevent moisture or dampness from entering the wood. Moisture causes drawers to swell, warp, stick and come apart.

NOVEL STRAW FLOWERS.

Some of the sports frocks and blouses in woolen materials which one sees today have an attractive pattern in straw flowers or a classic design carried out in straw. The straw is appliqued and usually varnished and comes in every possible tint.

NEW WOOL FABRIC.

Among the new wool fabrics is one which resembles eiderdown in its softness, though it is of deeper pile. Many of the newer woolen materials have a dull but rich finish.

DICTATES OF FASHION

The pocket is considered now the desirable place to park the very desirable monogram.

Between the long tight sleeve and the open armhole that requires no sleeve there is practically no alternative.

If the skirt of this season is not pleated all the way around it is quite sure to have pleated sections or inserts.

Short coats of flannel in white or gay colors are shown for sport wear, and vestees of this material are revealed beneath the smart tailleurs of dark serge.

Jersey dresses for spring are frequently banded and piped in a darker shade.

A Paris hat made of navy blue felt has white wool ties embroidered over the surface in white wool.

Hand-knitted jumpers and sweaters are to be very popular this season and the new wools take into consideration all the latest shades.

Hand-knitted jumpers and sweaters are to be very popular this season, and the new wools take into consideration all the latest shades.

The printed kerchief of chiffon or silk in every size is emphasized as the necessary adjunct for the spring suit. It is quite a feature in millinery, too.

Among the collars shown today is one of decidedly odd appearance. Worn with a coat, it is a high collar, with mannish four-in-hand tie. With the coat off, however, the collar is seen to be quite detached from the frock which has a rounded neck.

It seems necessary to have a cape to one's costumes these days, though the cape is not necessarily practical. Lace capes lined with tulle hang from many young shoulders, the tulle sometimes being vivid shade.

Buttons have become increasingly noteworthy. They are in all shapes and sizes and seldom does the tailored gown appear today without rows and rows of them—often little, fantastically formed ornaments in singular colors.

Evening shoes are seen now in pastel shades. They are made of very fine kidskin quite as often as of satin and usually decorated with bead motifs.

Fascinating new lingerie is made of sheer white voile with tiny triangles of grass green voile set in at intervals. Between the triangles there are rows of double hemstitching.

BLUE COAT WITH FOX.

A cape of unusual charm is made of heavy crepe Roman in a beautiful shade of powder blue. The coat has a short cape of the silk that fits the shoulders quite snugly and falls without any fullness to a little below the waist line. The collar is a generous one of white fox, and a band of the same luxurious fur edges the cape.

TRIMMINGS FOR HATS.

The addition of a bit of fur gives a delightful touch to the new bangkok hats. It is quite evident to the thoughtful observer that fur knows no season any more. The new cloche shapes of bangkok have bands or ornaments of leopard cat that are extremely decorative. Others have a band of brown suede that is thickly studded with antique nails.

HAT MATCHES BAG.

A hat and bag to match are made of dull black silk completely covered with embroidery of silver braid and round pink buttons. The bag is flat and semi-circular in shape.

NEEDLEWORK NOTES.

In repairing torn gloves, first buttonhole, in small stitches, round the entire edge of the slit, and then draw together the stitches, one by one, down the center. Repairing of this kind is very neat.

When children's stockings become worn at the knees, cut them off about the length of socks and crochet a shell stitch at the top for a finish.

Sew a snap on each bottom corner of your curtains and one on each edge near the top. They can be snapped up each night and saved from rain.

When your linens wear out, the initials or monograms can be cut from them and appliqued on new ones. When cutting them out leave enough of a margin on each side to turn under neatly and firmly.

To make a neat hem in thick materials, stitch a piece of tape on top of the hem, instead of turning in the material on the wrong side. Stitch the outer edge of the tape down and you will have a perfectly flat hem and the row of stitching along each edge of the tape will give a substantial finish to the right side.

IN PAINTED WOOD.

The popularity of painted wood has been responsible for many charming and unexpected pieces of furniture. A most unusual piece seen recently consisted of a commodious box mounted upon legs after the fashion of a table top. This box was painted a soft antique cream with bands of blue and bunches of delicate pink flowers. The inside of the box is fitted out with mirror, brush, comb, shoe horn, etc., all painted to match the outside.

TO REMOVE INK SPOTS.

To remove ink spots from wash goods, melt a piece of tallow, plunge the ink spot in the hot fat, then wash the piece at once and the ink will disappear, unless it is a colored garment which will not wash; then drop melted wax on the spot, let it become hard and remove with a sharp knife. The ink will be soaked up by the wax and if any stain remains from it, place a clean piece of blotting paper over it and press with a hot iron to draw it out.

BRIGHTER HUES USED.

Simplicity is of course the keynote of the youthful modes, but rarely has there been a season when color played such an important part. Gone are the days of faint, insipid pinks and blues, once considered the only possible colors for childhood, and in their place are vivid yellows and orange, strong blues and corals, greens of the greatest intensity, and lacquer red colors which, if carefully chosen, express far more definitely the personality of the tiny wearer than the faint tones heretofore used.

THE COSTUME SUIT.

A formidable rival of the mannish tailored suit appears in the costume suit which this spring is even smarter than ever. Simple and straight in line, with the coat of extreme length, it gains in interest by the type of overblouse or tunic which completes the costume.

In so many instances these are of unmistakable Chinese origin, with long unbelted lines, small stand-up collars and touches of characteristic handwork.

A tunic of this type gives opportunity for introducing color and many are of the bright shades so much in vogue at the moment.

CONCERNING WOMEN.

The Queen of Siam is a colonel in the Boy Scouts of her country.

Forty-five varieties of macaroni are made and eaten by Italian women.

It is estimated that a woman consumes 400 pounds less food a year than a man.

The progressive Chinese women favor medicine as a profession, and already many have taken up the study.

India's first woman delegate to the Methodist General Conference has just been elected, Mrs. Shantibai David, who has engaged in missionary work in Bombay for ten years.

Mrs. Mertie H. Palmer has been elected town clerk of Duxbury, Vt., exactly 105 years after her great-grandfather was elected to the same office, which has been held continuously by members of Mrs. Palmer's family for 73 years.

SHEARS FOR SHREDDING.

For shredding parsley, cutting up meat for salads or stews, or preparing celery or peppers for salads, a pair of shears does a much better job than a knife.

MOUSE HOLE.

An effective way of stopping up a hole where mice enter the kitchen or closet is to fill the aperture with a large cork dipped first in water, then in cayenne pepper.

RECIPES.

Candied Fruit Sandwiches: Chop fine and thoroughly mix one-half cup each of candied cherries, pineapple and other candied fruit; add enough crystallized orange peel chopped fine to flavor. Moisten with the syrup drained from orange marmalade or preserved ginger to the consistency to spread. Use as filling between thin slices of Boston brown bread, having half the slices first spread with creamed butter. If the brown bread is steamed in buttered half-pound baking powder cans, then sliced thin crosswise, there will be little or no waste.

Almond Tea Cakes: Beat the whites of three eggs to a froth and gradually add one-half pound (two cups) of sifted, powdered sugar and continue beating. Then add the grated rind of half a lemon, one and one-half teaspoons of cinnamon and one-half pound of blanched almonds chopped very fine and a few grains of salt. Turn on a board well dredged with pastry flour and powdered sugar and roll to one-fourth inch thickness. Shape with small fancy cutters, brush each lightly with the slightly beaten white of egg and sprinkle with fine chopped unblanched almonds, arrange on buttered baking sheets and bake in a moderate oven. These small cakes may be spread with confectioners' frosting. The white of egg and chopped nut meats need not be used. Serve in a shallow, dainty basket covered with a doily.

CLEMENCEAU HAD TO QUIT UNDER FIRE

Born on a modest farm, Georges Clemenceau toiled and battled his way to leadership in his country—then slander hurled him, without friends or funds, to the bottom of the ladder of renown.

In his teens, a struggling doctor in Paris, he cried, "Long live the Republic," during an Imperial anniversary celebration, and was thrown into prison.

Free again, when 21 years old, but practically exiled, he went to New York. Efforts to support himself as a doctor failed, and he was instructor in a young ladies' seminary two and one-half years.
